 hys commysyon vnto Jerusalem, and to all the cyties of Iuda: that they shoulde folowe the lawes of the heathē, and forbad eyther burnt offeryng, meat offeryng: or peace offeryng to be made in the temple of God, & that there shoulde no Sabboth nor hye feast day be kept, but commaunded that the Sanctuary and the holy people of Israel shulde be despyled. He commaunded also that there shulde be set vpon other alters, ta-ples, and Idols: to offer vpon swynes fleshe, and other vncleane beastes, & men shulde leaue theyr chyldren vncymcysed, to despyle theyr soules with al maner of vncleanness & abhominacions that they myght forget the lawe, & chaunge all the holpe ordynances of God: and that whosoeuer wolde not do accordyng to the commaundemēt of kyng Antiochus: shulde suffer death.
 In lyke maner commaunded he thowoute all hys realme, & set rulers ouer the people, for to co-pell them to do these thynge, commaundyng the cyties of Iuda to do sacryfice vnto Idols.

The fyrste booke

If Then went the people vnto the heathen by heapes, forsoke the lawe of the Lorde, and committed much euell in the lande: yee, and chanced out the secret Israelytes, which had byd the seluages tozners and pzeuue places. The fiftene daye of the moneth Casleu, in the hundred & fyue and fortye yere, set kynge Antiochus an abhominable foot of desolacion vpon the altar of God, and they bylded alters thowout all the cyties of Iuda on euery syde be fore & doore of the houses, and in the stretes, wher they burnt incense, and byd sacrifice. And as for the houses of the lawe of God, they burnt them in the fyre, and rent them in peres. Whiche tyme he was that had a booke of the Testamente of the Lorde founde by hym, yee, whosouer endeuoured hym self to kepe the lawe of the Lorde, the kynge's commaundement was, that they shuld put hym to death. And thow he had auctorite, they executed these thynges every moneth vpon the people of Israel that were founde in the cyties.

G* The fyue and thientye daye of the moneth, whiche tyme as they byd sacrifice vpon the altar (which shode in the sheare of the altar of God) according to the commaundement of kynge Antiochus, they put certayne women to death, whiche had caused theyr chyldren to be circumcysed: Not only that, but they hanged vp & chyl dren by the neckes thowout all theyr houses, and slew the circumcysers of them.

Yet were there many of the people of Israel which determined in the selues, that they wolde not eate vncleane thynges: but chose rather to suffer death, then to be despyled wth vncleane meates: So because they wolde not breake the blessed lawe of God, they were cruellie slayne. And this greute tyrannye increased verpe soze vpon the people of Israel.

The ii. Chapter.

The mourninge of Mithathias and his sonnes for the destruction of the holy cytye. They refuse to do sacrifice vnto Idols. The zeale of Mithathias for the lawe of God. They are slayne and wyl not feight agayne because of the Sabbath daye. Mithathias being commaunded by his sonnes to fflye by the wynde of God, after the example of the fathers.

In those dayes there byd stande vp one Mithathias the sonne of John the sonne of Simeon the pzeast (out of the kyndred of Ioarps) from Jerusalem, and dwelte vpon the mounte of Modin, & had fyue sonnes, Ihon called Goddys, Symeon called Chaspy: Judas, otherwyle called Machabens: Eleaser, otherwyle called Abaron: & Ionathas, whose surname was Apus. These sawe the euell that was done amogge the people of Iuda and Jerusalem. And Mithathias sayde: Wlooo is me, alas that euer I was borne, to se this mysery of my people, and the pe teous destruction of the holy cytye: and thus to lye so styll, it beyng deliuered into the hādes of the enemyes. * Her Sanctuary is come into the power of straungers: her Temple is, as it were a man & hath lost hys good name: her pzeuous ornamentes are carped a waye captiue. Her old men are slayne in the stretes, and her yonge men are fallen thowowe the swerde of the enemyes.

What people is it, that hath not some possession in her kyngdome: Or who hath not gotte some of her spoyle: All her glory is take away. She was a free woman, and now she is become an handmayde.

Beholde our Sanctuary, oure betwyle, and honoure is wasted awaye, & despyled by the Gentyles. What helpeth it vs the to lye: And Mithathias rent his clothes, he & hys sonnes, & put sackcloth vpon them, and mourned very soze.

Then came the men thytter whiche were sente of kynge Antiochus, to compell suche as were fled into the cytye of Modyn, for to do sacrifice, and to burne incense vnto Idolles, and to forsake the lawe of God. So, many of the people of Israel constited and enclyned vnto them but Mithathias and his sonnes remayned faste. Then spake the commysioners of kynge Antiochus, and sayd vnto Mithathias: Thou arte a noble man, of hys reputacyon and greute in this cytye, hauinge fayre chyldre & brethren. Come thou therfore fyrste, & fulfill the kynge's commaundement, lyke as all the heathen haue done, yet and the me of Iuda, & such as remayne at Jerusalem: so shalte thou and thy chyldren be in the kynge's fauour, and enryched wth gold, syluer, and great rewardes.

Mithathias answered, and spake wth a loude voyce. Though all nattyōs obey the kynge Antiochus, & fall awaye euery mā from keepyng the lawe of theyr fathers: though they consent to hys commaundementes, yet wyl I and my sonnes & brethren, not fall from the lawe of oure fathers. God forbyd we shoulde, that were not good for vs, that we shoulde forsake the lawe & ordynances of God, and to agre vnto the commaundement of kynge Antiochus. Therefore we wyl dono such sacrifice, neyther breake the statutes of our lawe, to go another waye. And when he had spoken these wordes, they came one of the Jewes, whiche openly in the syght of all, byd sacrifice vnto the Idolles vpon the altar in the cytye of Modyn, according to the kynge's commaundement.

Whiche Mithathias sawe thys, it grieved him at the herte, so that his raynes spoke wthall, & hys wyathe kyndled for verpe zeale of the lawe. With that he starte vp, and kylled the Jewe besyde the altar: Yee, and slew the kynge's commysioner, that compelled hym to do sacrifice, and destroyed the altar at the same tyme: Suche a zeale had he vnto the lawe of God. * Lyke as Phinehes byd vnto zambry the sonne of Salomy. And Mithathias cryed with a loude voyce thowowe the cytye, sayenge: Whoso is seruente in the lawe, and wyl kepe the couenant, let hym folowe me. * So he and hys sonnes fled into the mountaynes, and lefte all that euer they had in the cytye. Manye other godlye men also departed into the wyldernes wth theyr chyldren, theyr wyues and theyr catell, and remayned there: for the tyranny increased soze vpon the.

Nowe when the kynge's seruantes, and the hooft, whiche was at Jerusalem in the cytye of David harde that certayne men had broken the kynge's kinges commaundement, and were gone they waye to the wildernes into secret places, and there were many departed after them: they folo wed vpon them, to fyghte agaynst them on the Sabboth day & sayd wyl ye yet rebel: Set you hence & do the commaundemente of kyngs An tiochus: and ye shal lyue. They answered: We wyl not go forth, nether wyl we do the kynges commaundement, to desyle the Sabboth daye.

Then beganne they to fyght agaynst them: ne vertheles they gaue them none other answer nether cast they one stone at the, nor made faste they: preyng places, but sayde: We wyl dye all in our innocenye, heauen and earth shal testyfy wyth vs, that ye put vs to death wrongfullye.
Thus they fought agaynst them vnto the Sab both, and slewe both men and catel, their wyues & theyr chyldren to the number of a .v. people.

¶ When Mathathias and hys frendes hearde this, they mourned for them ryght sore & sayde one to another: If so be that we al do as our bre thren haue done, and fyghte not for our lyues & for our lawes agaynst the heathen, the shal they the soner rote vs out of the earth: So they con cluded among the selues at the same tyme, say inge: what soeuer he be that commeth to make battel wyth vs vpon the Sabboth day, we wyl fyghte agaynst him and not dye all: as our bre thren that were murdered so heynouslye. Vpon this came the Synagog of the Jewes vnto the stronge men of Israel, all such as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for per secucion, came to helpe them, and to stande by them: In somuch that they gathered an host of men, & slewe the wicked doers in theyr gelousye and the vngodly men in theyr wyath. Some of the wycked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

¶ Thus Mathathias and hys frendes went a bout: and destroyed the alters, and circumsyde the chyldren, that had not yet receaued cyrcum cission: as many as they found within the costes of Israel, & folowed myghtely vpon the chyldre of pryde, and this acte prospered in theyr hādes In so much that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentyles and the kynges, and gaue not ouer their dominion vnto wicked doers.

¶ After this, when the tyme dreyne on faste, that Mathathias shuld dye he sayd vnto his sonnes Now is pryde and persecucion increased, now is the tyme of destruccyon and wyathful dysple sure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruente in the lawe, and leoparde your lyues for the Testa ment of the fathers: cal to remembraunce what actes our fathers dyd in theyr tyme, so shal ye re ceave great honour and an euerlastyng name.

* Remember Abrahā, was not he founde faythfull in temptacyon, & it was reckened vn to him for righteousnes: Joseph in tyme of his trouble kepte the commaundemente, and was made a lord in Egypte. * Whiche our father was so feruent for the honour of God, that he ob tayne the couenaunt of an euerlastyng prest hode. * Josua for fullylling the worde of God was made the captayne of Israel. * Caleb bare recoyd befoze the congregacion & receaued an he tytage, * Dauid also in his mercifull kyndnes, obtayned the throne of an euerlastyng kyngdome * Elias beyng gelous and feruent in the lawe was taken vp into heauen. Mananias, Azarias and Misael remayned stedfaste in fayth, & were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner * Da niel being vngilty, was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

¶ And thus ye maye consydre thoz o weate all ages since the world beganne, that whosoer put theyr trust in God, were not ouercome. * Ye are not yet then the wordes of an vngodly man * For hys gloze is but donge & woymes: to day is he set vp, & to morowe he is gone: for he is tur ned into erth, & his memorial is come to naught Wherfore, (O my sonnes) take good hertynesse to you, and quite your selues lyke men in lawe for ye do the thynges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde your God: ye shal obtaine great honoure therein.

¶ And beholde: I knowe that your brother Symonis is a man of wyle dome: so that ye geue care vnto hym alwaye, he shal be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hath neuer be ne myghty & strong from his youth vp, let him be your captaine & orde the battel of the people thus shal ye bringe vnto you all those that fa uour the lawe, & se that ye avenge the wrong of your people & recompence the heathen agayne and applye your selues whole to the commaun dement of the law. So he gaue the hys blessing and was layde by hys fathers: and dyed in the C. xlii. yere at Modin, wher his sonnes bu ryed hym in hys fathers sepulchre: and all Isra el made greates lamentacyon for hym.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Judas made ruler ouer the Jewes: he had with hym Apollonius & Heron the princes of Siria. The confidens of Judas toward God, Judas determyned to fyght agaynst Antiochus whom Antio chus had made captaine ouer his host. The name of Antiochus ¶ When stode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers stede, and al his brethren helped hym and so dyd al they that helde wyth hys father, and fought with cheerfulness for Israel. So Ju das gat hys people great honoure, he put on a brestplate as a Gyante, and arayd hym selfe wyth his harnesse, and defended the host wyth hys swearde. In hys actes he was lyke a Lyon and as a Lyons whelp roaringe at hys praye

* he was an enemye to the wicked, and hunted them out: and bent vp those that vexed his peo ple: So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym and all the workers of vngodlynes were put to trouble: such lucke and prosperyte was in hys hande. Thys greued dyuers kynges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed thoz owe his actes, and he gat hym selfe a greates name for ever.

¶ He went thoz we the cities of Juda, destroy inge the vngodly out of them, turninge a way wyath from Israel, and receauing such as were oppressed, & the fame of hym went vnto the vt termost parte of the erth. Then Apollonius (a prynce of Cyrys) gathered a myghty great host of heathen, and out of Samaria, to fyght a gaynst Israel. Which whē Judas perceaued he hym and a greete multytude with hym, the remnant fled, and he toke their substance. Judas also toke Appollonius owne wearde, & fought with it all hys lyfe longe.

Now when Seron (another prince of Siria) hearde say: that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacion and church of the faythful he sayde: I wyll get me a name & prayse thowout the realme: for I wyll go fyghte with Judas and they that are with hym, as many as haue despised the kinges commaundement. So he made him ready, and there went with hym a greete myghty host of the vngodly, to stand by hym & to be aduenged of the children of Israel. And when they came nye vnto Bethzon, Judas wet forth agaynst the with a smal company. And whē his people sawe such a greete host before them they sayde to Judas: Howe are we able (being so fewe) to fyghte agaynst so greete a multitude and so stronge, seinge we be so werpe, and haue fasted all thys daye?

* But Judas sayde: It is a smal matter for many to be overcome with fewe: yee, there is no differēce to the God of heauen, to helpe by a great multytude or by a smal company: * for wyctory of the battell standeth not in the multitude of the host, but the strength cometh from heauen. Behold, they come agaynst vs with a presumptuous and proude multytude, to destroy vs: our wyues, & our children, and to robbe vs.
But we wyll fyghte for our lyues, & our lawes and the Lord hym selfe shall destroye them before our face, therfore be not ye afrayed of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes, he lepte sodanelye vpon them. Thus was Seron smytten and hys host put to flyght, and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethzon vnto the playne felde: where there were slaine eyght hundred men of them, and the resydue fled into the lande of the Philistines. Then all the heathen on every syde were afrayed of Judas and his brethren: so that a rumour of hym came vnto the kynges eares, for all the Gentyles coulde tell of the warres of Judas.

So when kyng Antiochus hearde these tydynges, he was angry in his mynde, wherfor he sent forth, and gathered an host of hys whole realme, very stronge armyes, and opened his treasury and gaue hys host a peres wages in hand commaundynge them to be readye at all tymes.

Nevertheless, when he sawe, that there was not mony ynough in his treasures, and p^rthorogh the discorde & persecucion, which he made in the land (to put downe a lawes he had bene of olde tymes) his customes & tributes of the land were mynyshed: he feared he was not able for to heare the costes & charges any longer, nor to haue such gyftes, to geue so liberally as he dyd afore, more then the kynges were before hym.

Wherefore he was heuy in hys mynde, and thought: to go into Persydes, for to take tributes of the lande, & so to gather much mony. So he left Lissias anoble man of a kinges bloude to ouerse the kynges busineses, from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte, and to kepe wel his sonne Antiochus, till he came again.

Whereouer, he gaue him halfe of hys host & Elephantes, committed vnto him every thinge of his mynde, concernyng those which dwell in Juda and Jerusalem, that he shuld send out an army agaynst them, to destroy and rote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem: to put out their memoypall from that place, to set straungers for to enhabite all their quarters and parte theyr lande amonge them. Thus the kyng toke the other parte of the host, and departed from Antioch (a cite of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the C. xliiij. yere, and went thowse the hye countreys.

* And Lissias chose vnto him Ptolomy the sonne of Doryminus, Archanoz and Gorgas myghtie men, and the kinges frendes. Thē he sente with .xl. thousande fote men, and .viij. th. horse men, for to go into the lande of Juda and to destroye it, as the kyng commaunded. So they went forth with all theyr power, and came to Emaus into the playne felde. When the mar-chautes harde the rumoure of them, they, and theyr seruantes, toke verie muche syluer, and golde, for to by the children of Israel to be their bonde men. There came vnto them also yet momen of warre on every syde, oute of Siria and frome the Philistines.

Nowe when Judas and hys brethren sawe that trouble increased, and that the host drew nye vnto theyr borders consyderynge the kynges wordes whiche he commaunded vnto the people: namely that they shulde utterly waite and destroye them: They sayde one to another, Let vs redresse the decaye of oure people, let vs fyghte for oure folke and for oure Sanctuarie.
Then the congregacion were sone readye gathered to fyghte, to praye and to make supplica-cion vnto God for mercy and grace.

* As for Jerusalem, it lay voyde and was as it had bene a wyldernes. There wente no man in or out at it, and the Sanctuarie was troden downe. The aleautes kepte the castell, there was the habitation of the heathen. The myrrh of Jacob was taken away, the pyper & the harpe was gone from amonge them.

The Israelites gathered them together and came to Bethphage before Jerusalem, for in Beth-phage was the place where they prayed afore tyme in Israel. So they fasted that daye, and put sackeclothes vpon them, and caste ashes vpon theyr heades, rent theyr clothes, and layd forth the bookes of the lawe (whereout the heathen sought the likenes of theyr ymagines) & brought the prestes ornaments, the fyrstfringes & the tithe. They set ther also a fastayners which had fulfilled theyr dayes before God, and cryed with aloude voyce, towarde heauen: saying.

What shall we do with these? and whether shall we carpe them awaye? For thy Sanctuarie is troden downe and despyled, thy prestes are come to heynesse and dishonoure: and be-holde, the heathen are come together for to de-stroye vs, Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyne agaynst vs: howe maye we stand before them

foze them, excepte thou (O God) be our helpe!

They blew oute the trompet also wyth a lowde voyce. Then Judas ordeyned captaynes ouer the people: ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fifty, and ouer ten. But as for such as buylded them houses, marped wpues, plantid them vyneyardes, and those þ were fearful he comanded them euery manne to go home again, accordyng to the lawe. So the hoste remoued, & pitched vpon þ southsyde of Emmaus.

And Judas sayde: Arme youre selues, be strong (O my chyldren) make you redy against to morowe in the morning, that ye maye fyght with these people, which are agreed together to destroye vs and our Sanctuarie. Better is it for vs to dye in battayle, then to see our people & our sanctuarie in such a miserable case. * Reuerthelesse, as thy wyll is in heauen, so be it.

The. liii. Chapter.

¶ Judas goeth agaynst Gorgias whiche lyeth in wayte. He putteth Gorgias and his hoste to flyght. Lysias inuadeth Jewry, but Judas dyspysch hym oute. Judas purifyeth the temple & dedicateth the altar.

When toke Gorgias fyue thousande men of fote, and a thousande of the beste horsmenne, and remoued by nyghte, to come nye where the Jewes hoste laye, and so to slaye them sodenlye. Nowe the men that kepte the castell, were the concupers of them. Then arose Judas to smyte the chefe and principall of þ kynge's hoste at Emmaus, for the army was not yet come together. In the meane season came Gorgias by nyghte into Judas tentes: & when he founde no man there, he soughte them in the Mountaines, and thought they had ben fled awaye, because of hym. But when it was daye, Judas throwed hym selfe in the felde wyth thre thousande men only, which had nether harnesse nor swerdes to theyr myndes.

But on the other syde, they sawe that the heathen were myghtie and well harnessed, and theyr horsmen aboute them, and all these well experie in feate of warre. Then sayde Judas to the men that were with hym: Feare ye not the multitude of them, be not afrayde of theyr vyolente runnyng: remember, howe oure fathers wer deliuered * in the red see, when Pharaos folowed vpon them with a great hoste.

¶ Euen so let vs also crye nowe toward heauen: and the Lorde shall haue mercy vpon vs, & remember the couenaunte of oure fathers: yea, and destroye this hoste befoze your face this day. And all the heathen shal know, that it is God hym selfe, which deliuereth and saureth Israel.

¶ Then the heathen lyfte vp theyr eyes: and when they sawe that they wer comyng against them, they went out of their tentes into the battayle: and they that were with Judas, blew vp the trompettes. * So they buckled together, & the heathen were dyscomfyted and fled ouer the playne felde: but the hymnoste of them were slayne. For they folowed vpon them vnto Aslaremoth, and into þ felde of Idumea toward Azot and Jannia: so that there were slayne of them vpon a thre thousande men. So Judas turned agayne with his hoste, and sayde vnto the people: Be not gredy of þ spoyle, we haue yet a battayle to fyghte, for Gorgias and his hoste are here by vs in þ mountaines, but stand ye fast against your enemies and ouercome the: then maye ye safely take the spoyle.

¶ As Judas was speakyng these wordes: beholde, there appered one parte of them vpon the mount. But when Gorgias saw that they of his partye were fled, and the tentes bzent vp for by the smoke they might vnderstand what was done) they perceyuing this, were very soze afrayed: and when they sawe also that Judas and his hoste were in þ felde redy to stryke battayle, they fled euerychone into the lande of the heathen.

¶ So Judas turned agayne to spoyle the tentes, where they gat much golde and syluer, precyous stones, purple and greate riches. Thus they went home, and songe a psalme of thankesgeuyng, and praised God in heauen: * for he is gracypus, and his mercye endureth for euer. And so Israel had a great victory in þ daye.

¶ Nowe all the heathen that escaped, came and tolde Lysias euerye thyng as it happened. Wherefore Lysias was soze afrayed, & greued in his mynd, because Israel had not gotten such myffortune, as he would they shulde, nether as the kynge commaunded. The nexte yere folowing, gathered Lysias thre score thousand chosen men of foote, and fyue thousande horsmen to fyght against them.

¶ So they came into Jewry, and pitched their tentes at Bethozon, wher Judas came against them with x. thousand men. And when he saw so great and myghtye an hoste, he made his prayer, and saide: Blessed be thou (O sauyour of Israel) * whiche dydest destroye the vyolent power of the Spauit, in the hande of thy seruaut Dauid, * and gauest the hooft of the heathen into the hand of Ionathas (the sonne of Saul) and of his weapon bearer.

¶ But this hoste nowe into the hande of thy people of Israel, and let them be confounded in theyr multitude and horsmen. Make them afrayed, and dyscomfote the boldnesse of theyr strengthe þ they maye be moued thowowe theyr destruccion. Cast them downe thowow þ swerd of thy lours, then shal all they that knowe thy name, prayse the with thankesgeuyng.

¶ So they stroke the battayle, and there wer slayn of Lysias host, fyue thousand men. Then Lysias sepyng the dyscomfytynge of his menne, and the manlinesse of the Jewes, how they wer redy, eyther to lye or dye lyke men: he wente vnto Antioche, and chose oute men of warre: þ when they wer gathered together, they might come agayne into Jewry. Then sayde Judas & his bzetren, beholde, oure enemies are dyscomfytid: Let vs nowe go vp, to clesse & to repaire the Sanctuarie.

shrubbes growyng in the courtes, lyke as in a woode or vpon mountaynes: yea, and that the preastes Celles were broken doune: They rent theyr clothes, made great lamentacion, cast ashes vpon theyr heades, fell downe flatte to the ground, made a great noyse with the trompettes, and cryed toward heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghte agaynst those whiche were in the castell tyll they had censed the Sanctuarie. So he chose preestes that were vndefiled, such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they censed the Sanctuarie: and bare oute the defyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so muche as the alter of burnt offeringes was vnhalowed, he tooke aduysemente, what he myght do withall so he thoughte it was best to destroye it (lesse it shulde happen to do them any shame) for the heathen had defyled it, and therfore they brake it downe. As for the stones, they layed them vpon the mountayn by the house in a conuenient place: tyll there came a prophete, to shewe what shulde be done with them.

* So they tooke whole stones accordyng to the lawe, and builded a new aulter such one as was before, and made vpon the Sanctuarie with in and without, and halowed the house and the courtes. They made newe ornaments, and brought the candelstycke, the aulter of incense, and the table into the temple. The incense laied they vpon the aulter, and lyghted the lampes whiche were vpon the candelstycke, that they myght burne in the temple. They set the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vpon the vayle & set vpon the temple, as it was afore.

11. Reg. x. a.

* And vpon the fyue and twenty day of the nyynth moneth, whiche is called the moneth of Cassieu, in the hundred and epyght & fortye yere they rose vp by tymes in the morning for to do sacrifice (accordyng to the lawe) vpon the newe burnt offering aulter that they had made: after the tyme and season the heathen had defyled it. The same day was it set vp again wyth songes, pipes, harpes, and cymbales.

11. Pa. viii. b.

¶ And all the people fell vpon their faces, worshipping & thanking the God of heauen which had geuen them the victorie. * So they kepte the dedicacyon of the aulter epyght dayes offering burnt sacrifices and thanke offeringes wyth gladnesse. They deckt the temple also wyth crownes and shylde of golde, and halowed the portes and celles, and hanged doores vpon the. Thus there was very greate gladnesse among the people, because the blasphemie of the heathen was put away. So Judas and his brethren wyth the whole congregacyon of Israel, ordeyned, * that the tyme of dedicacyon of the aulter shoulde be kepte in his season from yere to yere, by the space of epyght dayes, from the fyue and twenty daye of the moneth Cassieu wyth myght and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vpon the mounte Syon with hye walles and strong towers round about: lest the Gentyles shuld come and treade it downe, as they dyd afore. Therefore Judas set men of warre in it, to kepe it, and made it stronge, for to defende. * Bethsura: the people might haue a refuge agaynst the Edomites.

The. v. Chapter.

¶ Judas vanquished the heathen that go about to destroye Israel, and is holpen of his brethren Symon and Jonathan. He cometh with the cytie of Ephron because they denyed hym passage thither.

It happened also that when the heathen rounde about heard, howe that the aulter and the Sanctuarie were set vp in theyr olde estate: it displeased them verie sore, wherfore they thoughte to destroye the generacyon of Jacob that was among them: In so muche that they beganne to slaye and to persecute certain of the people. * Then Judas fought agaynst the children of Elau in Idumea, & agaynst those whiche were at Arabathane (for they dwelte rounde about the Israelites) where he slew and spoiled a greate multitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vnfaithfulnesse of the children of Beniamin, how they were a snare & a stoppe vnto the people, & how they layde waite for the in the hye way. Wherfore he shut vp them into towers, and came vnto them, destroyed them utterly and burnt vpon theyr towers, wyth all that were in them.

Afterward, wente he agaynst the children of Ammon, whereof he founde a myghty power and a greate multitude of people, with Tymothy theyr capitayne. So he stroke manie battayles wyth them, whiche were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them, he wanne Gazer the cytie, with the townes belonging therto, & so turned agayne into Jewrye. The heathen also in Galaad gathered them together agaynst the Israelites that were in theyr quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castell of Datheman and sente letters to Judas & his brethren, sayng: The heathen are gathered agaynst vs on euery syde, to destroye vs, & now they make them ready for to come, & laye siege to the castell, where vnto we are fled, & Tymothy is capitayne of theyr hoste: come therfore and deliuer vs out of theyr handes: for there is a greate multitude of vs slayne alreadye. Yea, & oure brethren that were at Tubyn, are slayn & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and their wyues, theyr children, and theyr goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a readyng, behold, there came other messengers from Galyle wyth rente clothes: whiche tolde euen the same tydings, and sayde: that they of Ptolomais, of Tyzus and of Sydon were gathered agaynst them, and that all Galyle was fylled with enemyes to destroye Israel. * When Judas and the people hearde this, they came together (a great congregacion) to deuise what they myghte do for theyr brethren, that were in trouble, and beseged of theyr enemies. And Judas sayde vnto Symon his brother: chose the oute certayne men, & go deliuer thy brethren in Galyle: As for me and my brother Jonathan, we will go into Galaad thym. So he lefte Josephus thus the sonne of zacharye, and Azaryas to be Capitaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnant of the hoste in Jewrye, and commaunded them sayng: Take the ouersyghte of this people, and se that ye make no warre agaynst the heathen, vntyll the tyme we come again. And vnto Symeon he gaue thre thousande men for to go into Galyle, but Judas hymself had eight thousande in Galaadrythyn.

Then went Symeon into Galyle, & stroke dyuers battayles with the heathen: whome he dyscomfited, and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Bsalompas. And there were slayne of the heathen almoste thre thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, and carped awaye the Israelites that were in Galile and Arbatis wylth theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, and brought them into Jewrye wylth greate gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and his brother Jonathas went ouer Jordan, and traunpled. iiii. dayes iourney in the wyldernesse where the Rebuthyes met them, and receyued them lounynglye, and tolde them euery thyng that had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadrythyn, and howe that many of them were beseged in Barasa, Boso, Almys, Casphoz, Mageth and Carnaim (all these are strong walled & mightie great cities) and that they were kept in ower cyties of Galaad also: & to morowe they are appoynted to byng theyr hoste vnto these cyties, to take them, & to wyne the in one daye.

So Judas and his hoste turned in all the hasten in the wyldernesse toward Boso, & wan the cytie, slewe all the males wylth the sword, toke all theyr goodes, and set fyre vpon the cytie. And in the nyght they tooke theyr iourney fro thence, and came to the castell. And by tymes in the morning when they looked vp, behold, there was an innumerable people bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to ouercome them.

When Judas sawe that the battaile began and that the noyse therof wente vp, and range into heauen, and that there was so great a crye in the cytie: he sayde vnto his hoste: syght this daye for your brethren. And so came behynde theyr enemyes in the companyes, and blew vp the trompettes, & cryed in their praiser to God.

But as soone as Tymothys hoste perceyued that Machabeus was there, they fled from hym, & the other slewe them downe ryght soze: so that there was kylled of them the same daye, almoste eynghthe thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, layde seerge vnto it, and wanne it: slewe all the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpon it: From thence wente he and tooke Casbon, Mageth, Boso, and the other cyties in Galaad.

After this gathered Tymothy another hoste, whiche pytched theyr tentes befoze Raphon beyonde the water. Judas also sent to espye the hoste, and they brought hym worde agayne, sayng: All the heathen that be rounde aboute vs, are gathered vnto hym, and his hoste is very great. Pee, they haue hyzed the Araby ans to helpe them, & haue pytched their tentes beyonde the water and are redy to come and fighe agaynst the. So Judas went on to mete them.

And Tymothy sayde vnto the captaynes of his hoste: when Judas and his hoste come nye the ryuer: yf ye go ouer fyfte, we shall not be hable to withstand hym, for why? he wyl be to stronge for vs. But yf he dare not come ouer so that he pytche his tente beyonde the water: then wyl we go ouer, for we shal be stronge ynough agaynst hym. Now as sone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appoynted certayne scribes of the people, and commaunded them, sayng: see that ye leaue none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer, but let euery man come to the battaile. So he wente fyfte ouer vnto them, and his people after hym.

And all the heathen were dyscomfited befoze hym, and let theyr weapons fall, and ranne into the temple that was at Carnym. Whiche cytie Judas wanne, and burnt the temple with all that wer in it: So was Carnaim subdued, & myght not withstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelytes that wer in Galaadrythyn, from the leaste vnto the mooste, with their wyues and theyr chyldren (a very great hoste) for to come into the lande of Israel.

* So they came vnto Ephron, whiche was a myghtye great and stronge cytie, and lay in theyr waye. For they could not go by it, nether of the ryght hande nor of the lefte, but must go thowowe it. Neuerthelesse they that were in the cytie wolde not let them goo thowowe, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes sayng: Let vs passe thowowe your lande, that we maye go into oure owne countree, there shal no bodie do you harme, we wyl but onelye go thowowe on foote. But they wolde not let them in.

And Judas beseged the cytie all that daye and all that night, and so wanne it, where they slewe as many as were males, and destroyed the cytie and spoyled it, and wente thowowe all the cytie ouer them that were slaine. Then went they ouer Jordaine into the plain felde befoze Bethsam. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behynde, and gaue the people good exhortacyon all the waye thowow, tyll they were come into the land of Juda. Thus they went vp vnto the mount Syon, where they offered wirth and thankesgeuing: because there wer none of them slain, but came home again peaceably.

Nowe what tyme as Judas & Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad, and simeon theyr brother in Galyle befoze Bsalompas: Then Josephus the sonne of zachary & Azaryas the captaynes, hearynge of the actes that were done & of the battayles that were strycken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and go syght agaynst the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue theyr hoste a commaunde-ment and went toward Jamnys. Then came Gorgias and his men out of the ctye, to fygght against them: Josephus also and Alarpas were chased vnto the borders of Jewry, & there were slayne that day of the people of Israel, two. Men: so that there was a greete mysery among the people: and all because they were not obedyent vnto Judas and his brethren, but thoughte they shuld quyte them selues manfully. Neuer thelesse they came not of f sede of these men, by whome Israell was helped. But the men that were with Judas, were greately commended in the sight of al Israel, & all the heathen where soeuer they name was hearde vpon, & the people came vnto them, bydding them welcome.

After this went Judas forth with his brethren, and fought against the chyldren of Esau in the lande that lyeth toward the south where he wanne the ctye of Chyon, & the towne that lyeth besyde it: and as for the walles and towne rounde about it, he brent them vp.

Then remoued he to go into the lande of the Philystines, & went thorow Samaria. At the same tyme were there many prestes slain in the battail, whiche wylfully and without aduysment went out for to fight, to get them honour. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philystines land, * he brake doune theyr aulter, brent the Images of theyr ydolles, spoiled the ctyes and came again into the lande of Juda.

The. vi Chapter.

Antiochus willing to take the ctye of Elymas for a prey is dyuen awaye of the ctyezens. He falleth into sykenes and dyeth. His sonne Antiochus is made kynge. The besyge of the towne of Syon. Eupator cometh into Jewry with a greete armye. The boldnesse of Eleazar.

Joseph. ca. xiii. lib. vii. anti.

And when kynge Antiochus traunapled thorow the hye countreyes, he hearde that Elymas in Persya was a noble and plenteous ctye in syluer and gold, and that there was in it a very ryche temple: where as were clothes cote armoures and myldes of golde, whiche Alexander the sonne of Philip, kynge of Macedona (that raygned fyrste in Grekelande) had lefte behynde hym. Wherefore he wente aboute to take the ctye and to spoile it, but he was not hable: for the citezens were warned of it, and fought with hym. And he fled & departed with great heynesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Whereouer, there came one whiche brought hym tidynge in Persyde, * & his hostes which were in the lande of Juda, were dyuen awaye, and howe that Lysias wente forth fyrste wyth a greete power, and was dyuen awaye of the Jewes: howe that they had wonne the vycroze and gotten greete goodes out of the hostes that perished, how they had broken doune the abhominacyon * whiche he set vp vpon the aulter at Jerusalem, and fensed the Sanctuary with hye walles, lyke as it was afore: yee, and Bethsura his ctye also.

So it chaunced, that when the kynge had heard these wordes, he was afraied and greued very sore. Wherefore he layde hym doune vpon hys bed, and fell sycke for very sorowe: and all because it had not happened as he had deuyled. And there continued he long, for his greife was euer more and more, so that he sawe he must needs dye. Wherefore he sente for his frendes, and sayde vnto them: the slepe is gone from myne eyes, for the very sorowe and veracyon of hert that I haue. For when I consyder in my mynde the greete aduersyte that I am come vnto, and the floudes of heynesse whiche I am come in, where as afore tyme I was so mery, & so greatly set by (by reason of my power.) Agayne, consydering the euell that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all the ryche of gold and syluer that were in it, and sente to fetch awaye the inhabytours of Jewrye wthoute anye reason why: I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold, I must dye with great sorow in a straunge lande. Then called he for one Philyp a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all his realme, and gaue hym the crowne, hys roobe and hys rypng: that he shulde take his sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and byng hym vp, tyll he myght raygne hym selfe. * So the kynge Antiochus dyed there, in the hundred and fortye and nyne yere. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was dead, he ordained Antiochus his sonne (* whom he had brought vp,) to raygne in his fathers stead and called hym Eupator, nowe they that were in the castell (at Jerusalem) kepte in the Jewes rounde about the Sanctuary, and sought euer styll to doo them harme for the strengthenyng of the heathen.

1. Mac. x. c. and. lvi. Joseph. ca. xiii. lib. vii. anti.

Wherefore, Judas thought to destroye them and called all the people together, & they might laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the hundred and fyfthe yere, & beseged them, layng forth theyr ordynance and instrumentes of warre. Then certain of them were beseged, went forth (vnto whome some vngodly men of Israell ioyned them selues also) & went vnto the kynge, sayng: How longe wyl it be, or thou punyssh and aduenge oure brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruyce to walke in hys statutes, and to obey hys commaundementes: Wherefore our people fell from vs, and where soeuer they found any of vs, they slewe them: and spoiled oure inherytaunce and they haue not onely medled w vs, but with all our countreyes: and beholde, this daye are they besegying the castell at Jerusalem, * and haue made vp the strong holde in Bethsura. And if thou dost not preuent them ryght sone, they wyl do more then these, and thou shalt not be able to overcome them.

1. Mac. x. c. and. lvi.

* When the kynge hearde thys, he was verye angrye, and called all his frendes, the captaynes of his fotemen, and of all hys horsemen together. He byred men of warre also out of other realmes & out of the Isles of the see, whiche came vnto hym. And the nombze of hys hostes was an hundred thousande foote men, & thientye thousande horsemen, & two and therty Elephantes wel exercysed in battayl. * These came thorow chose Judea vnto Bethsura, & beleaged it a longe season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynste it. But the Jewes came out and bente them, and foughte lyke men. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem, and remoued the hoste toward Bethzaccan ouer agaynste the kynges armie.

So the Kyng arose before the daye, and broughte the power of his hoste into the waye to Bethzaccan, where the hostes made them redye to the battaile, blowyng the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyghte, thei weied them the sap of red grapes & molberes, and deuyded the Elephantes among the hoste: so that by euery Elephant there stode a thousande menne wel harnessed, and helmettes of stele vpon theyr heades. Yee, vnto euery one of the Elephantes also were ordeined fye hundred horsemen of the best, whiche waited on the Elephant, goyng wher soeuer he went, and departed not from hym. Euery Elephant was couered with a stronge towre of wood, where vpon were two and thyrty valeaunt men with weapons to fyghte, and wythin was a man of Jude to rule the beaste.

As for the remnaunte of the horsemen, he set vpon both the sydes in two partes wyth trompettes, to prouoke his hoste, and to styre vp such as were slowe in the army. And when the sunne shone vpon theyr byldes of golde and stele, the mountaynes glystered agayne at them, & were as bright as the cresettes of fyre. The kynges hoste also was deuyded, one parte vpon the hie mountaynes the other lowe beneth: so they wet on takyng good hede: and keepyng theyr order. And all they that dwelt in ylande, were afrayed at the noyse of theyr hoste, when the multitude wente forth, and when their weapons smote together, for his hoste was both great and myghty. Judas also and his hoste entred into the battaile, and slewe fyre hundred menne of the kynges armie. Nowe when Cleasas the sonne of Saura, dyd see one of the Elephantes decked wyth the kynges badg, and was a more goodly beaste then the other: he thoughte the kyng shulde be vpon hym, and leoparde hym selfe to despyce his people, and to get hym a perpetual name. Wherefore he ranne wyth a corage vnto the Elephant in the myddest of the hoste, smytyng them downe of both sydes, and slewe many aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephantes fete, and gat hym vnder hym, and slewe him then fell the Elephant downe vpon hym, and there he died. Judas also and his men seyng the power of the kyng and the myghty violence of his hoste departed from them. And his kynges armie went vp agaynst them toward Jerusalem and pitched theyr tentes in Jewry beside mount Syon. Moreover, the kyng tooke truce wyth them that were in Bethsura.

But when they came oute of the cytie (because they had no vyttayles within & the land was vntyllid) the kyng tooke Bethsura, & set men to kepe it, and turned his hoste to the place of the Sanctuarye, and laide siege to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordynance handbowes, fyre darters, rackettes to cast stones, scorppons to shote arrowes, and lynes. The Jewes also made ordynance agaynst theirs and fought a longe season.

But in the cytie there wer no vyttayles, for it was the seuenth yere of the warres & those heathen that remained in Jewry, had eaten vp all their store. And in the Sanctuarye wer fewe me left, for the hungr came so vpon them, & they wer scattered abrode euery man to his owne place.

So when Lysias heard of this (whiche is 1. Ma. vi. 1.) Antiochus the kyng whyle he was yet liuyng had ordeined to byng vp Antiochus his sonne that he myght be kyng) was come agayne oute of Persya, and Medea, wyth the kynges hoste and thoughte to obtayne the kyngdome: he gat hym to the kyng in all the haste, and to the capptaines of the hoste, and sayde we decrease daylye, and oure vyttayles are but small: Agayne the place that we laye siege vnto is very strong and it were oure parte to see for the realme. Let vs agree wyth these men, and take truce wyth them, and with all theyr people, & graunt them to lyue after theyr lawe, as they dyd afore. For they be greued, and do all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue despyled theyr lawe. So the kyng and the prynces were contente, and sente vnto them to make peace, and they receyued it. Nowe when the kyng & the prynces had made an othe vnto them, they came oute of the castell and the kyng wente vp to mount Syon. But whiche he sawe that the place was wel defended he brake his oth that he had made, and commaunded to destroye the wall rounde about. Then departed he in all the haste, and returned vnto Antioch, where he founde Philyp hauyng dominyon of the cytie. So he fought agaynst hym, and tooke the cytie again in his handes.

The vii. Chapter.

Demetrius raygned after he had kyled Antiochus, and Lysias. He troubleth the chyliden of Israel chozow the counsaile of certayn wyched persones. The prayer of the prynces agaynst Nychanor. Judas killeth Nychanor, after he had made his prayer.

For the hundred and one and fiftye yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the cytie of Rome with a small company of men, vnto a cytie of the sea coaste and there he bare rule. And it chaunced that whiche he came to Antioch the cytie of his progenytours, his hoste tooke Antiochus and Lysias, to byng them vnto hym. But when it was told hym, he sayd: let me not se theyr faces: So the hoste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of his kyngdome, there came vnto hym wyched and vngodly men of Israel whose captayn was Alcimus, that wold haue bene made hie prelate: These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kyng, sayyng: Judas and his brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dyuen vs oute of oure owne lande. Wherefore sende nowe some man (to whome thou geuest credence) that he maye go and see all the destruction, whiche he hath done vnto vs and to the the kynges land, and let hym be punished with all his frendes and fauourers.

When the kyng chole Bachydes a frende of hys, whiche was a man of greate power in the realme (beyond the great water) and saythful vnto the kyng, and sente hym to see the destruction that Judas had done. And as for that wicked Alcimus, he made hym hys preeft, and commaunded hym to be auenged of the chyldren of Israel. So they stode vp, & came with a great hoste into the lande of Juda, sendyng messengers to Judas and hys brethren, and speakyng vnto theim with peaceable wordes: but vnder dyscepte. * Therefore Judas and his people beleued not theyr sayng, for they sawe that they were come with a great hoste.

After this came the Scribes together vnto Alcimus and Bachydes, trustyng the beste vnto them. And fyrste the Assideans requyred peace of them, sayng: Alcimus þ preeft is come of the seide of Aaron, howe can he dyscepe vs? So they gaue them louyng wordes, and swoze vnto them, and sayde: We wyl do you no harme neyther poure frendes: and they beleued them. But the very same daye toke they .iii. scoze me of them, and slewe them accordyng to the wordes that were wrytten. * They haue cast þ flesh of thy sayntes, and shed theyr bloude rounde about Ierusalem, and there was no man þ wold burie them. So there came a greate feare and drede among the people, sayng: there is neither truth nor ryghteousnesse in them, for they haue broken the appoyntemente and othe that they made. And Bachydes remoued his hoste from Ierusalem, and pytched his tente at Betzeka: where he sent forth & tooke many of them that had forsaken him. He slewe many of the people also and cast them into a great pyt. Then committed he the land vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre with hym to helpe him. And Bachides hym selfe went vnto the kyng. And thus Alcimus defended his hygh preeft hode, and all such as vexed Israel resorted vnto hym: In somuch that they obtayned the lande of Juda, and dyd muche euell vnto the Israelytes.

Nowe when Judas saue all the myschefe that Alcimus and his company had done (yea, moze then the heathen them selues) vnto the Israelytes. He wente forth rounde aboute all the borders of Jewry, and punished those vnfaithfull rennegates, so that they came nomoze out into the countre. So when Alcimus, saue that Judas and his people had gotten þ vpper hand and that he was not hable to abyde them, he went again to the kyng and said al the worst of theim þ he coude. Then the kyng sent Nychanor one of his chiefe pzinces (whiche beare euell wyll to Israel) and commaunded hym, that he shulde vtterly destroye the people.

Upon this he came vnto Ierusalem with a great hoste, and sent vnto Judas and his brethren with frendly wordes (but vnder disceit) sayng: there shal be no warre betwixt me and you: I wyl come with fewe men, to see how ye do, with frendshyppe. Upon this he came vnto

Judas, and they saluted one another peaceably but the enemyes were appoynted to take Judas by violence. Neuerthelesse, it was told Judas, that he came vnto hym but vnder dysceite wherfore, he gat hym away from hym, & wolde se his face nomoze. When Nychanor perceyued that his counsell was betrayed, he wente oute to fyghte agaynst Judas, besyde Capbarlaimala: where there wer slain of Nychanors host fyue thousande men: and the residue fled vnto the castell of Daupd.

After this came Nychanor vp vnto mounte Syon: and the Preeftes wyth the elders of the people went forth to salute hym peaceably and to shewe hym the burnt sacrifices that were offered for the kyng. But he laughed them and the people to scozne, mocked them, despyled the offerynges, and spake disdainefullye: yee, and swoze in his wrath, sayng. * If Judas and his hoste be not deliuered now into my handes, as sone as euer I come agayne (& fare well) I shal burne vp this house. With that, went he oute in a greate anger. Then the Preeftes came in, and stode before the aulter of the temple, wepyng and sayng.

* For so much as thou (O Lorde) haste chosen this house, that thy name myghte be called vpon therein, and that it shuld be * an house of prayer and petcyon for thy people. We aduenged of this man and hys hoste, and let theim be slain w the sword, remeber þ blasphemys of them, & suffer the not, to contynue any longer.

When Nychanor was gone from Ierusalem he pytched his tente at Bethoron, and there an hoste met hym out of Sirya. And Judas came to Adarsa with thre thousande men, and made his prayer vnto god, sayng: O Lord, * because the messengers of kyng Sennacherib blasphemed the, the Angell wente forth, and slewe an hundred foure scoze and fyue thousand of them. Euen so destroye þ this hoste before vs to day, that our people maye knowe how that he hath blasphemed thy Sanctuary, and punyssh hym accordyng to his malicynousnes.

And the hostes stroke the felde, the thyrtyene day of the moneth, * Adar, and Nychanors host was discomfited, & and he hym selfe was fyrste slayne in the battayle. When Nychanors men of warre saue that he was kyled, they caste awaye theyr weapons and fled, but the Jewes folowed vpon them an whole daies iourney fro Adazar vnto Gazara, blowyng with the trompettes and makyng tokens after them. So the Jewes came forth of all þ townes there about and blewe out theyr hornes vpon theim, & turned agaynst them. Thus were they all slayne, and not one of them lefte.

Then they toke theyr substance for a pray & and snot of Nychanors heade and hys ryght hand (* which he held vp so proude) & brought it with them, and hanged it vpon afoze Ierusalem. Wherfore the people were exceedynglye reioysed, and passed ouer that daye in great gladnes. And Judas ordeined, that the same day (name lyke the thyrtyene daye of the moneth Adar) shulde should be kept in myght euery yere. Thus the lande of Iuda was in rest a lytle whyle.

The. viii. Chapter.

Judas considering the power and godlye polycpe of the Romans maketh peace with them. The rescript of the Romans sente vnto Jewes.

Judas heard also the fame of the Romaynes, that they were mightie and valiaunt men, & agreeable to al thynges y^e are required of them, and make peace with al men, which come vnto them, and how they were doughtie men of strength. Wherof that, it was told hym of their battayles, and noble actes which they did in Galacia, how they had conquered them, and brought them vnder tribute: and what great thynges they had done in spayne: howe that wth theyr wil dom and sober behauour they had wonne the mynes of siluer and golde that are there, and obtained all the land, with other places farre from them howe they had discomfited and slaine downe the kynges that came vpon them, from the vttermost part of the earthe, and howe other people gaue them tribute euery yere. Howe they had slayn and ouercome Philip and Perles kynges of Cethim, and other mo (in battail) which had brought theyr ordynauce agaynst them, how they dyscomfited great Antiochus kyng of Asia (that would nedes fyght with the) hauyng an. C. and. xx. elephantes, with horsme, charettes, and a very great host: how they toke hym selfe aliue, & ordayned hym (with such as heild raigue after him) to pay them a greate tribute. *Pee, and to fynd them good suerties & pledge besides all this, how they had taken from him India, Media, and Lidia (his best landes) and geuen them to kyng Eumenus. Agayne, howe they perceauynge that the Grekes were comyng to bere them: sent agaynst them a cappytaine of an host, whiche gaue them battayle slew many of them, led away their wyues and children captiue, spoyled them, tooke possession of theyr lande, destroyed theyr strong holdes and subdued the to be their bondmen, vnto this daye. Moreouer, howe that as for other kyngdomes and isles whiche sometyme withstoode them, they destroyed them, and brought them vnder theyr domynion. But helped euer their owne frendes, and those that were confederate with them, and conquered kyngdomes, bothe farre and nye, & that whosoener heard of theyr renoune was afrayed of them: for whom they would helpe to their kingdomes, those raigned and whom it liked not them to raigne, they put him downe. And howe they were come to great premyence: hauyng no kyng among them, neither any man clothed in purple, to be magnifyed there through, but had ordeined them selues a parlamente, wherin there sat. iiii. C. and. xx. Senators dayly vpon the counsel, to dispatch euer the busines of the people and to kepe good order. And howe that euery yere they chose a Mayre to haue y^e gouernauce of al their land to whom euery man was obedyente, and there was neither enel wil nor discencion among the. Then Judas chose Eupolemus the sonne of Jhon, the sonne of Jacob, and Jason the sonne of Eleazar, and sent them vnto Rومية for to make frendshipp and a bonde of loue with them that they myght take from them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes saw that the Grekes would subdue the kyngdom of Israel. So they went vnto Rome (a very greate iourney) and came into the parlamente, and saied: Judas Machabeus with his brethren and the people of the Jewes hath sent vs vnto you, to make a bond of frendshipp and peace with you, and ye to note vs as your louers and frendes. And the matter pleased the Romaynes ryght well wherfore it was written vp of the whiche the Romaynes made a writynge in tables of brasse and sent it to Jerusalem: that they myght haue by them a memoial of the same peace, & bonde of rendshipp after this maner. God saue the Romaynes and the people of the Jewes booth, by sea and by land and kepe the swearde and enemy from them for euermore. If ther come first any warre vpon the Romaynes or any of their frendes throughout al their dominion, the people of the Jewes shall helpe them (as the tyme requyret) and that with all theyr heartes. Al so they shall nether geue nor sende vnto theyr enemyes vitayles, weapons, mony, nor thynges: but fulfyll thys charge at the Romaynes pleasure, and take nothing from them therfore. Again yf the people of the Jewes happen fyrt to haue warre the Romayns shall stand by the with a good wyll, accordyng as the tyme wyll suffer. Neither shall they geue vnto the Jewes enemyes, vitayles, weapons, mony nor thynges. Thus at the Romayns contente to do, and shall fulfyll theyr charge without any disceate. Accordyng to these articles, the Romaynes made the bonde wth the Jewes. Howe after these articles (sayed they) yf any of the parties wyll put to them, or take any thyng from them they shall do it wth the consente of booth: and whatsoeuer they adde vnto them, or take from them, it shall stande fast. And as touchyng the euell that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wyrtten vnto hym sayng: wherfore laiest thou thy heavy pocke vpon the Jewes our frendes and louers? If they make any complaynt of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyghte with the by sea and by lande.

The. ix. Chapter.

After the death of Nicanor Demetrius sendeth his army agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathan is put in the head of his brother. The stryfe betwene Jonathan and Bacchides. Alcimus is taken wth the palse, and opeth. Bacchides returneth agayne vnto the kyng. He cometh vpon Jonathan by the counsell of certain wyched persones, and is ouercome. The cruete of Jonathan wth Bacchides.

In the meane season when Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his host was slaine in the feld, he proceeded further to send Bacchides and Alcimus agayne into Jewrye, and those that were in the ryght wyng of his host wth hym. So they wente forth by the waye that leadeth vnto Galgala, and pyched theyr tentes befoze Mesaloth whiche is in Arbellis and wanne the cytee and fewe muche people.

The first booke

In the fyrst moneth of the C. and ii. yere, they brought their hoost to Jerusalem, and rose vp, & came to Betea, wyth. xx. M. fotemen and. ii. M. horsemen. Now Judas had pitched his tent at Laia, with. iii. M. chosen men. And when thei sawe the multitude of the other army that it was so great, they wer soe afraid, and many conueied the selues out of the hoost, In somuch that there abode no mo of the but. viii. C. men. When Judas sawe that his hoost failed him, & that he must nedes fyght: it brake his hert, that he had no tyme to gather them together: where fore the mā was in extreme trouble. Neuer the les, he saied vnto them: that remained with him Up, let vs go against oure enemies, peradventure we shalbe able to fyghte with them. But thei woulde haue stopped him, sayng: we shal not be able, therfore let vs nowe saue our liues & turne again to our brethren, and then wil we fighte againste them, for we are here but fewe:

B And Judas saied: God forbid that we shuld fle from them. Wherefore, yf oure tyme be come let vs die manfully for our brethren, and let vs not staine our honour. Then the hoost remoued out of the tentes, and stood agaynst them. The horsemen are deuided in two partes, the syngers casters and archers wente before the hoost and all the myghtie men were foremost in the feelde. Bachides himselfe was in the ryghte wyng of the battail, and the hoost drew nye in two partes, and blew the trompettes. They of Judas side blew the trompettes also, & the erth shoke at the noyse of the hoostes, & they stroke a feeld from the morow tyll nyght. And when Judas sawe that Bachides host was strongest of the rightside, he toke with him al the hardy men, & brake the right wyng of their order, and folowed vpon them vnto the mounte Azot.

Now when thei whych wer of the left wing sawe that the righte syde was dyscomfite they persecuted Judas and them that wer with him. Then was there a soe battail, for many were slain and wounded of both parties. Judas also him self was killed, and the remnaunt fled. So Jonathas and Simon toke Judas their brother and buryed him in hys fathers sepulchre in the cite of Modin. And al the people of Israel made great lamentacion for him, and mourned long sayng: Alas that this worthy should be slayn which deliuered the people of Israel. As for other thinges pertaining to the battailes of Judas, the noble actes he did and of his worthynes: thei ar not writen for thei were very many.

C * And after the death of Judas, wicked men came vp in all the coastes of Israel, & ther arose all suche as worke vngodlines. In those dayes was there a great derth in the land, and all the countre gaue ouer them selues and theyrs vnto Bachides. So Bachides chose wicked men, & made them lordes in the lande. These sought oute and made searche for Judas frendes, and brought them vnto Bachides: whiche aduen ged him selfe vpon them wyth greate dyspyte. And there came so greate trouble in Israel, as was not sens that tyme y no prophet was sene ther

Then came all Judas frendes together and saied vnto Jonathas: for so muche as thy brother Judas is dead, ther is none lyke hym to go forth against our enemyes, against Bachides and suche as are aduersaries vnto oure people. Wherefore, this day we chose the for hym, to be our prince & captain to order our battayl. And Jonathas toke the gouernaunce vpon hym at the same tyme and ruled in stead of his brother Judas. When Bachides gat knowledge there of, he fought for to sle hym. But Jonathas and Simon hys brother, perceiuyng that, fled into the wyldernes of Checua wyth all theyr companye, and pitched theyr tentes by the water poole of Alphar.

D Which when Bachides vnderstod, he came ouer Iordaine with all his hoost vpon the Sabboth day. Now had Jonathas sent his brother Jhon (a captain of the people) to pray his frendes the Nabuthites, that thei woulde lend them their ordinaunce, for they had much. So the children of Jambry came out of Madaba, & tooke Jhon and al that he had, and went their waye with al. Then came word vnto Jonathas and Simon his brother, that the children of Jambry made a great maryage, and brought the byrde from Madaba with great pompe: for she was daughter to one of the noblest princes of Canaan. Wherefore they remembred the bloude of Jhon their brother, and wet vp, and hid theim selues vnder the shadowe of the mountayne.

So thei lift vp their eyes, & looked, and beheld ther was much a do, and great repayre: for the bydgrome came forth, and his frendes and his brethren met them with companies, instrumentes of musyk, and many weapons. Then Jonathas and thei that were with hym, rose oute of theyr lurking places against them, and slewe many of them. As for the remnaunt, thei fled in to the mountaynes, & thei toke al their substance. Thus the maryage was turned to mourning, & the noyse of their melody into lamentacyon. And so when thei had aduenged the bloude of their brother, they turned agayne vnto Iordane.

Bachides hearing this, came vnto the very border of Iordane with a great power vpon the Sabboth day. And Jonathas sayd vnto his company, let vs get vp, and fight agaynst our enemyes: for it standeth not with vs to day as in tyme past: Beholde our enemyes are in our waye the water of Iordane vpon the one side of vs, with banckes, fennes and woodes of the other syde, so that there is no place for vs to departe vnto. * Wherefore cry now vnto heauen, that ye maye be deliuered from the power of your enemyes. So they stroke the battayl. And Jonathas stretched out hys handes to smyte Bachides, but he fled backward. Then Jonathas & thei that were with hym, leapt into Iordane & swimmied ouer Iordane vnto him & ther were slain of Bachides side that daye a. M. men.

Therfore Bachides with hys hoost turned agayne to Jerusalem, and buylt vp the castels and strong holdes that were in Jerycho, Jerycho, Emaus, Bethozon, Bethell, Chamnata phara, and Topo, with high walles, with portes and with lockes: and set men to kepe them, that they myght vse theyr malice vpon Israel. He walled vp the citee Bethsurath, Gazarah and the castell and prouided them with men and vytayles. He tooke also the chiefe mennes sonnes in the countre for pledges, and put them in the castell at Jerusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the .C. and. liii. yere in the second moneth, Alcimus commaunded, that the walles of the inmost sanctuarie shoulde be destroyed, and the buildynges of the prophetes also. And when he beganne to destroye them, the thynges that he went about, were hindred, for he was smitten with a palsy, and his mouth shut, so that he coulde nomore speake nor commaunde any of his house: concernyng his busynesse. Thus died Alcimus in great mysery at the same time. And when Bachides sawe that Alcimus was deade, he tourned agayne to the kynge, and so the lande was in rest two yeres. Then all the vngodly men helde a counsell, sayinge: Beholde, Jonathas and his companye are at ease, and dwell without care. Wherefore let vs bypnyng Bachides hyther, and he shal take them all in one nyghte.

So they wente and gaue Bachides thys counsell which arose to come with a great host & sent letters pruely to his adherentes, which were in Jewrye, to take Jonathas & those that were with hym: but they might not, for the other had gotte knowledge of theyr deuill. And Jonathas tooke .l. men of the countre (whiche were the ryng leaders of them) and slew them. Then Jonathas and Symon with theyr company departed vnto the cyte Bethbessen which lyeth in the wyldernes, and repayred the decay thereof, and made it stronge. When Bachides knewe thys, he gathered all his host, and sent worde to them that wer of Jewrye. Then came he and layd siege to Bethbessen, and fought agaynst it a longe season, and made instrumentes of warre. Nowe Jonathas left his brother Simon in the citee, & went forth hym selfe into the countre, and came with a certayne nomber & slew Odaras and his brethren and the chyl dren of Basaron in theyr tentes: so that he beganne to be stronge, and to increase in power.

As for Simon and his company, they went out of the cyte, and bzent vp the instrumentes of warre, and foughte agaynst Bachides, and disconfited hym. And Bachides was sore vexed, because his counsell & traual was in vayne. Wherefore he was wroth at the wycked men (he gaue hym counsell to come into theyr land) and slew manye of them. Then purposed he with his company to go a waye into his owne countrey: whereof when Jonathas had knowledge he sente ambassadours vnto hym, for to make peace with hym, and that he shoulde deliuer him his prysoners agayn. To the whiche Bachides consented gladly, and did accordyng to his desyre: yee, and made an othe, that he shoulde neuer do hym harme all the dayes of his lyfe. So he restored vnto hym all the prysoners that he had taken out of the land of Iuda, and then turned and went his way into his owne lande, neither proceeded he anye further to come vnto the borders of Iuda. Thus Israel hadde nomore warre. And Jonathas dwelte at Machemas, and began there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men oute of Israel.

The .x. Chapter.

Demetrius desyret to haue peace with Jonathas. Alexander moueth warre agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is slayne. The frendshipp of Ptolomeus and Alexander

In the .C. and. lx. yere came Alexander the sonne of noble Antiochus ^{Joseph. ca. 11. 11. 11.} and tooke Ptolomeus, whose citee ^{Joseph. ca. 11. 11. 11.} receiued him, and ther he raygned. When Demetrius heard thereof, he gathered an exceeding greete hoste and wente forth agaynst hym to fyghte. Wherefore Demetrius sente letters vnto Jonathas, with lounge wordes, and prayled hym greatly. For he saied: we wyl fyrst make peace with hym, before he bynde hym selfe with Alexander agaynst vs: elles he shal remember the euell that we haue done agaynst hym, his brother & his people. And so he gaue Jonathas leaue to gather an host, to make weapons, and to be confederate with him, & commaunded the pledges that wer in the castell to be deliuered vnto him. Then came Jonathas to Jerusalem, and red the letters in the audyence of all the people, and of them that were in the castell. And therefore wer they sore afrayed, because they heard that the kynge had given hym lycence to gather an hoste. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathas, whiche restored them to their elders. Jonathas also dwelt at Jerusalem, and began to buyld vp, and to repayre the cyte: commaundyng the worke men to wall it, and the mounte Syon rounde aboute with free stone, to bee a stronge holde, and so they dyd. As for the heathen that were in the castelles whiche Bachides had made vp, they fledde: so that euery man lefte the place, and wente into his owne countrey. Only at Bethsura remayned certayne of the Jewes, whiche had forsaken the lawe and commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Nowe when kynge Alexander hearde of the promises that Demetrius had made vnto Jonathas, and when it was tolde hym of the batayles and noble actes, whiche he and his brethren had done, and of the great trauailes that they had taken, he saied: where shall we fynde suche a man? Wel, we wyl make him our frend and be confederate with hym. Upon thys he wrote a letter vnto hym, with these wordes: Kynge Alexander saluteth his brother Jonathas. We haue heard of the, that thou art a valiaunte man, and mete to be our frende: wherefore, this daye we ordayne the to be the hye preeste of the people, and to bee called the kynges frende. (Upon thys, he sente hym a purple clothyng, and a croune of golde) that thou mayest consider what is for oure profyte, and kepe frendshyppe toward vs.

So in the vii. moneth of the C. and. lx. yere vpon the solempne feast day of the tabernacles Jonathan put þ holp rayment vpon hym. The gathered he an host, & made many weapons. Which when Demetrius heard, he was marue lous for, and sayed: Alas, what haue we done that Alexander hath preuented vs in getting the friendship of the Jewes for his owne defence ¶ Yet wyl I wyte loupngly vnto them also, yee, and promyse theim dygnities and rewardes, that thei may be of my syde. Wherupon he wrote vnto them these wordes, King Demetrius sendeth greetng vnto y people of the Jewes. Wher as ye haue kept your couenaut toward vs, and continued in oure frendshipp, not enclinyng to our enemyes, we were glad, when we hearde therof. Wherfore, remaine still, and be faithful to vs: and we shal wel recompense you for the thinges that ye haue done on our party. We shal release you of many charges, and geue you rewardes. And nowe I discharge you and all the Jewes from tributes: For geue you the customes of salte, and release you of the croune taxes, of the thirde part of the sede, and halfe of the frute of trees which is myne owne dewtye. This I leaue for you frome this day forth, so that thei shal not be taken of the land of Iuda, nor of the cities whych are added therunto out of Samaria and Galilee, from this day forth for euermore. Jerusalem also with al thynges belongng thereto, shal be holpe and fre, yee, the tithes and tributes shal pertain vnto you. As for the power of the castell which is at Jerusalem, I remyt and geue it vnto the prest that he may set in it such men, as he shal chole to kepe it. I frely deliuer all the Jewes that are prysoners throughout all my realme, so that euerye one of them shal be free from payng any trybute, yee, euen of theyr catell. Al the solempne feastes, sabothes, new mones, the dayes apointed the. iii. dayes befoze and after the feaste, shal be free for all the Jewes in my realme, so that in them no man shal haue power to do any thyng or to moue any busines agaynst any of them in any maner of cause. Ther shal. xxx. M. also of the Jewes be writen vp in the kynges host, and haue their wages paid as al other me of warre of the kynges should haue, & of them shal be ordeined certein to kepe the kynges strong holdes yee, and some of them shal be set ouer the kynges busines, that thei may faythfullye deale wpth the same. The Jewes also shal haue princes of their owne, & walk in their owne lawes as the kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

¶ And the thye citees that are fallen vnto Jewry frome the countre of Samaria and Galilee, shal be take as Jewry, and be vnder one: nether be subiect to any strange Lord, but to the hye prest. As for Ptolomais and the lande perteyning thereto, I geue it vnto the sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessary expences of the holpe thynges. Moreouer, I wyl geue euery yere. xv. M. Sicles of syluer oute of the kynges cheker (whiche peretyneth vnto me) to the worke of the temple: yee, & loke what remaineth (which they that had oure matters in hande in tymes past haue not payed,) the same shal they geue vnto theym also. And besydes all this, the fyue thousande Syckles whych they tooke peryl of the rentes of the Sanctuarie, shal belong vnto the prestes that do scrupce.

* But when Jonathan and the people heard these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them nether receiued theym: for they remembred the greate wyckednes that he had done vnto Israell, and howe soze he had vexed theim. Wherfore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a prynce that had dealte frendlye wpth theym, & so they stode by hym alwaye. * Then gathered kinge Alexander a greate hoste, & brought his armye agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges strooke battayle together, but Demetrius booste kedde, and Alexander folowed after, and fell vpon them. A myghtie sooze felde was it, contynuyng tyl the sunne went downe and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

¶ And Alexander sente Ambassadours vnto Ptolomy the kinge of Egypte with these wordes, sayng: For so muche as I am come agayn to my realme, and am sette in the thron of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynyon ouercommed Demetrius, conquered the lande and strecken felde with hym, so that we haue discomfited booth hym and his host, and syt in the thron of his kingdom: Let vs now make frendshippe together, geue me thy daughter to wife, so shal I be thy sonne in lawe, and both geue the rewardes, and her greate dignite. Ptolomy the kyng gaue answer, sayng: happy be the daye wherein thou arte come agayne vnto the lande of thy progenytours, and sit in the thron of thy kyngdom. As nowe wyl I fulfill thy wytyng: but mete me at Ptolomais that we maye se one another, and that I maye mary my daughter vnto the: accordyng to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomais in the hundred. lxi. yere, wher kyng Alexander mette hym, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, and married them at Ptolomais wpth great worshippe, lyke as the maner of kynges is to be. ¶ Then wrote kyng Alexander vnto Jonathan, that he should come and mete hym. So he wente honozablye vnto Ptolomais, and there he met the two kynges, and gaue theym greate presentes of golde and syluer, and founde fauour in theyr spych. And ther there came together agaynst Jonathas certain wycked men and vngacious personnes of Israell, makynge complayntes of him, but the kynge regarded them not. As for Jonathas, the king commaunded to take of hys garmentes, and to clothe hym in purple, and so thei dyd. Then the king appoynted hym to spt by hym, and sayed vnto his prynees: Go with hym into the myd-dest of the cytee, and make a proclamation, that no man complain agaynst hym of any matter & that no mā trouble hym for any manner of cause.

So it happened, that whē his accusers sawe the woꝝshyppe whiche was proclaimed of him and that he was clothed in purple, they fled euerychon. And the king made much of hym, wꝛot hym amonge hys cheyfe frendes, made hym a duke, and partaker of hys domynyon. * Thus Jonathas wente agayne to Jerusalem wyth peace and gladnes. In the hundred thre score & fyue yere came Demetrius the sonne of Demetrius from Creta into his fathers lande: wher-of when Alexander heard tell, he was ryght sory, and returned vnto Antioch. And Demetrius chose * Appolonius, (whiche had the gouernaunce of Celociria) to be hys capityne.

So he gathered a greate hoost, and came vnto Jamnia, and sent worde vnto Jonathas the hye prest, sayng: Darest thou wythstande vs thy selfe alone? As for me I am but laughed to scorne and shamed, because thou proudeste thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaynes. Now therefore yf thou trustest in thyne owne strengthe, come downe to vs into the playne felde, and there let vs proue oure strengthe together thou shalte fynde that I haue valeaunt menne of warre wyth me, and shalte knowe whome I am, and the other that stande by me.

Whiche saye: that poure foote is not able to stande before our face, for thy fathers haue ben twyse chased into theyꝝ owne lande. And now howe wyll thou be able to abyde so greate an hoost of horsemen & fotemen in the felde where as is nether rocke, stone, nor place to flee vnto?

When Jonathas hearde the wordes of Ap-pollonius, he was moued in his mynd: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Jerusalem, and Simon his brother met hym for to helpe hym. And they pitched theyꝝ tentes at Joppa, but the citee kepte hym forth, for Joppa was an hold of Appollonius then Jonathas laid siege to it, and they that ware in the citee, for very feare let hym in, and so Jonathas wan Joppa. Appollonius hearyng of thys, toke iii thousand horsemen, wyth a greate hoost of fote and wente as though he would go to Azotus and came immediatly into the playne felde: he cause he had so manye horsemen, and putte his trust in them. So Jonathas soloed vpon hym to Azotus, and there they stroke the battayle.
Nowe had Appollonius left a thousand horsemen behynde them pꝛeuelye in the tentes. And when Jonathas knewe that suche wayte was laid behynde them they wente rounde aboute the enemyes hoost, and shot darteres at the people frome the moꝝnyng to the euenyng. As for Jonathas people, they kepte theyꝝ order as he had commaunded theym, and the enemyes hoostes were euer labouryng. Then brought Symon forth hys hoost, and set them agaynst the foote men. For the horsemen were wery al redy. So he discomfited them, and they fledde. And they that were scatered in the felde, gat them to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon their ydol, that they might ther saue their liues. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus and all the cy-tees rounde aboute it, and tooke theyꝝ goodes and bzente vp the temple of Dagon, wyth all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and bzente wel nye eyght thousand men. So Jonathas remoued the hoost frome thence, and broughte theym to Ascalon: where the men of the cytee came forth, and met hym wyth greate woꝝshyppe. After thys went Jonathas and his hoost agayne to Jerusalem, wyth greate substaunce of good. And when king Alexander hearde these thynges, he thought to do Jonathas more woꝝshyppe and sente hym a colar of golde, as the vse is to bee geuen vnto such as are of the kynges nexte bloud. He gaue hym also the cytee of Accaron (with the landes belongyng thereto) in posselpon.

The xi. Chapter.

The discepcion betwixt Ptolomeus and Alexander hys sonne in lawe. The death of Alexander. Demetrius reigneth after the death of Ptolomeus. Spon is besieged of Jonathas. Demetrius seyng that woman respyced hym, sendeth hys army agayne. Criphon moueth Antiochus agaynst Demetrius. Demetrius is deliuered by the socoure of Jonathas. After hys deliuerance he breaketh hys couenaunte that he had made.

And the kynge of Egypte gathered an hooste (lyke the lande that lyeth vpon the sea coze) and many shippes * and went about through dysceyt to obtayn the kyngdom of Alexander, & to toyne it vnto hys owne realme. Vpon thys he tooke his iourney into Siria, and was let into the cytees, and men came forth to mete hym: for king Alexander had commaunded the so to do, because he was his father in law. Now

The fyfthe booke

To that I geue the my daughter that Alexander hath, and thou shalt reigne in thy fathers king dome. I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter, for he goeth about to slay me. And thus he flaudred Alexander, because he would haue had his realme.

Thus he toke his daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius, and forsook Alexander, so that his malice was openly knowne. And Ptolomy came to Antioch, where he set two crownes vpon his owne head: the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kyng Alexander in Sicilia, for they that dwelt in those places, had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander hearde of this, he came to warre agaynst hym. So kyng Ptolomy brought forth his host and met hym with a myghtie power and chased hym awaye. The fled Alexander in to Araby, ther to be defended, and kyng Ptolomys honour increased. And zabdiel the Arabian smote of Alexanders head, and sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kyng Ptolomy hym selfe: and they whome he had set in the strong holdes, wer slayne of those that were within the cytees. And Demetrius reigned in the hundred and leuen & sixtie yere.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Jewry, to lay siege vnto the castel which was at Jerusalem, and so they made many instrumentes of warre agaynst it. Then went there certayne vngodly persons (whych hated theyr owne people) vnto kyng Demetrius: & told hym that Jonathas besieged the castel. So whē he heard it, he was angry, and ymmediatly came vnto Ptolomais, and wrote vnto Jonathas, that he shoulde lay no siege to the castel but come and speake with hym in all the haste. Neerthelesse when Jonathas hearde this, he commaunded to besage it. He chose also certain of the elders and prestes of Israel, and put him selfe in the parell, and toke with hym gold syluer, clothynge, & diuerse presentes, & went to Ptolomais vnto the king, and found him gracious. And though certayn vngodly men of his owne people made complayntes vpon hym, yet the kyng entreated hym as his predecessours had done before: and promoted hym in the syght of all his frendes: confirmed him in the hye prest hood with all the worship that he had afore, and made hym his chiefe frend. Jonathas also desired the kyng, that he would make Jewry free with the thre head citees of Samaria and the landes pertayning therto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promyse hym. iii. C. talentes. Whereunto the kyng consented, and gaue Jonathas writing of the same, containing these wordes: Kyng Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto his brother Jonathas and to the people of the Jewes. We send you here a coppe of the letter which we did write vnto our elder Lasthenus, concerning you, that ye shoulde knowe it.

King Demetrius sendeth greeting vnto Lasthenus his elder. For the faythfulnes that our frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs, and for the louyng kindnes which they beare to:

wardes vs: we are determined to do them good. Wherefore, we ordaine al the coastes of Jewry with.iii. citees, Lidda, and Ramatha, (whych are added vnto Jewry from Samaria) and al the landes perteynyng therunto, to be frely separated for such as do sacrifyce in Jerusalem: both concerning the paimentes which the king toke perely aforetyme, and the frutes also of the earth and trees. As for other tythes and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them ther of from this tyme forth. In like maner we graunt vnto them all the customes of salte and crowne taxes, whych were brought vnto vs. And this freedom shall they haue firme and stedfast, from this tyme forth for euermore. Therefore let ye make a coppy of these our letters and deliuer it vnto Jonathas: that it maye be kept vpon the holy mount in a conuenient place.

After this when Demetrius the kyng sawe that his lande was in realte, and that no resistance was made hym: he sent awaye all his host, euery man to his owne place, excepte an army of straungers, whom he broughte frome the isles of the Heathen, wherefore all his fathers host had euell wyl at hym. Nowe was there one Cripthon (that had ben of Alexanders part afore) whych when he sawe that all the host murmured agaynst Demetrius he wente to Eumaelus the Arabian (that brought vnto Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and layd forth vpon hym, to deliuer hym this young Antiochus: that he myghte reygne in his fathers stead. He told hym also, what greete euell Demetrius had done, and how his men of warre loued him not and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kyng Demetrius to dyue them out whych were in the castel at Jerusalem, and in the other refuges for they dyd Israel great harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathas, sayng: I wyl not onely dooe these thynges for the and thy people, but at tyme conuenient I wyl do both the and thy people great worship. But now thou shalt haue a pleasure, if thou wylt sende me men to helpe me: for all myne army is gone frome. So Jonathas sent hym. iii. C. stronge men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the kyng: wherefore the kyng was verie glad at theyr comynge. But they that wer of the cytee (euen an. C. and xx. M. men) gathered them together: and would haue slayne the kyng, whych he fledde into his courte, and the citizens kepte the stretes of the cytee, and beganne to fyghte.

Then the kyng called for the Jewes helpe, which came to him altogether, and wēt abrode through the citee, & slew the same day an. C. M. men set fyre vpon the cite, gat many spoiles in that day, & deliuered the king. So when the citizens sawe that the Jewes had gotten the wyl of the citee, & that they selues disapointed of theyr purpose, they made their supplicacion vnto the kyng, sayng: Graunt vs peace, & let the Jewes cease from troubling vs & the cite, & vpon this they cast away their weapens. Thus they made peace, and the Jewes gat great worship in the syght lyght of the kyng, and in the syght of al þe were in hys realme, and were spoken of throughtout the kyngdome, and so they came agayne to Jerusalem wyth greate goodes.

So the king Demetrius sat in the throne of hys kyngdom, and had peace in hys lande. Nevertheless, he dissembled in al that ever he spak and wythdrew hym selfe from Jonathas, ne ther rewarded hym accordyng to the benefytes whiche he had doone for hym, but troubled him verye sore. After thys came Triphon agayne wyth younge Antiochus, whiche reigned and was crowned kyng. Then there gathered vnto hym all the men of warre, whome Demetrius had putte a waye: these foughte against Demetrius whiche fledde and turned hys backe. So Triphon toke the Elephantes, and wanne Antioche. And younge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas, sayng: I confyrme the in thy presthod and make the ruler of four countrees, that thou mayest be a frende of the kynges.

Upon thys he sent hym golden vessels to be serued in, and gaue hym leaue to dyne in gold to be clothed in purple, and to weare a colar of golde. He made hys brother Symon also capytayne, frome the coastes of Tyrus vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke his iourney, and wente throught the citeres beyonde the water of Iordane, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered vnto him for to help him. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the citee receiued hym honourably, and from thence went he vnto Gaza, but they would not let hym in: wherfore he layd sege vnto it, burnyng vp and spoilyng the places that were aboute the citee.

And the cityzens of Gaza submytted theim selues vnto Jonathas, which made peace with them, but tooke of their sonnes to pledge, sente them to Jerusalem, and went throught the coultre vnto Damascus. Nowe when Jonathas hearde that Demetrius prynces were come in to Cades (whiche is in Galilee) wyth a great host, purposyng to put Demetrius oute from medlynge in the realme, he came agaynst them, and lefte Simon his brother in the land which came to Bethsura, and layed siege to it a long season, and dyscomfyted them. So they despyred to haue peace wyth hym, whiche he graunted them, and afterwarde putte theym oute frome thence, toke the cite and set men to kepe it. And Jonathas wyth hys hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betymes in the moynynge gat them to the playne felde of Azor.

And beholde the hostes of the heathen met them in the felde, and layed watche for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathas came agaynst them, the other (whiche were layed to watch) rose out of theyr places and fought and they that were of Jonathas syde, fledde every man, and there was not one of them left except Mathathias the sonne of Absolomus and Judas the sonne of Calphy the capytayne of the host. Then Jonathas rente hys clothes, laied earth vpon his heade: made hys prayer and turned agayne to theym in the felde, where they fought together, and put them to flyght. Now when hys owne men, that were fled sawe thys they turned agayne vnto hym and helpe hym to folowe vpon all theyr enemyes vnto their tentes at Cades. So there were slayne of the heathen the same daye three thousande men, and Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The. xii. Chapter.

Jonathas sendeth ambassadours to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renewe theyr couenaunt of frendshyp. Jonathas puttech to flyght the prynces of Demetrius. Triphon taketh Jonathas by discreete.

Jonathas seynge that the tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sente them vnto Rome for to stablish and to renewe the frendshyppe wyth them. He sente letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they wente vnto Rome, and entred into the counsaile, and sayde Jonathas the hye preeste and the people of the Jewes sente vs vnto you, for to renewe the olde frendshyppe and bonde of loue. Upon thys the Romaynes gaue them fre pasportes, that men should lede them home into the lande of Iuda peaciably. And thys is the copy of the letters þe Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hye preest with the elders, prestes and the other people of the Jewes, send gretyng vnto the Spartians their brethzen. They wer letters sent long ago vnto Onias the hye preest, from Arius, which than reigned among you, that ye are oure brethzen, as the writynge made thereupon specyfeth. And Onias entreated the ambassadour that was sente, honourably, and receyued the letters: wherin ther was mencyon made of the bonde of loue and frendshyppe. But as for vs, we nede no suche writynge: for why? we haue the holy booke of scripture in our handes to our comfort. Neuertheles we had rather send vnto you, for the renewyng of the brotherhode and frendshyp: lest we shoulde be straunge vnto you: for it is long sens the tyme that ye sent worde vnto vs. Wherfore, in þe sacrifices that we offer and other ceremonies vpon the hye solempne dayes and other, we alway remember you without seasing (like as reason is, & as it becometh vs to thinke vpon our brethzen) yee, & are right glad of your prosperous honour. And though we haue had greate troubles and warres, so that the kinges about vs haue fought agaynst vs: yet would we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of our louers & frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heauen, so that we are deliuered, and our enemyes subdued. Wherfor we chose Rumenyng the sonne of Antiochus, and Antipater the sonne of Jason, and sent them vnto the Romaynes, for to renewe the olde bonde of frendshyppe and loue wyth them. We commaunded theym also to come vnto you, and to salute you, and to deliuer you our letters, concernyng the renouacyon of our brotherhode. And now ye shall do righte well to geue vs an answer therunto.

tyng vnto Onias the hye preest. It is found in wyrtynge, that the Spartians and Jewes are brethren, and come out of the generacion of Abraham. And now forsomuch as thys is come to our knowledge, ye shal do well, to wyrtynge vnto vs of youre prosperitie. As for vs, we haue wyrtten our mynd vnto you. Our catel & gooddes are yours, and yours ours. These thinges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

Whē Jonathas hard, that Demetrius princes wer come forth to fyght agaynst him, with a greater hoost then afore, he went from Jerusalem, and met them in the land of Hemath, for he gaue them not space to come into hys owne countree. And he sente spyes vnto theyr tentes which came agayn and told hym, that thei wer apoynted to come vpon hym in the nyght season. Wherefore, whē the sunne was gone downe Jonathas commaunded his men to watche all the nyght, and to be readye wyth weapons for to fyght and sent watchmen round aboute the hooste. But when the aduersaries hearde that Jonathas was ready with his men to the battayle, they feared, and wer afrayed in their herres, and kindled fyres in their tentes, brake vp and gat them awaye. Neuerthelesse, Jonathas and hys compaigne knewe it not tyll the morning, for they sawe the fyres burnyng.

Then Jonathas folowed vpon theym, but he might not ouertake them, for thei wer gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathas departed vnto the Arabians (whiche wer called zabadei) slewe theym, and tooke theyr goodes. He proceeded further also, & came vnto Damascus, and went through al the countree. But Symon hys brother toke hys iourneye and came to Alcalon and to the nexte strong holdes, departing vnto Joppa: and wanne it. For he harde that thei woulde stande of Demetrius parte, wherefore he set menne of warre in the cytee, to kepe it. After this came Jonathas home again and called the elders of the people together and deuyded wyth them for to buyld vp the strong holdes in Jewry, and the walles of Jerusalem to set vp an hye wall betwyxte the castell and the citee, for to seperate it frome the cytee, that it myght be alone and that men shoulde netheer by nor sell in it. Upon thys they came together for to buyld vp the cytee, and for so muche as the wal vpon the broke of the west syde (called Caphetath) was fallen downe, thei repayzed it. And Symon set vp Adiabab in Sephelah and made it strong setting portes and lockes vpon it. Nowe when* Triphon purposed to repgne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slay the kyng Antiochus: he was afrayed that Jonathas woulde not suffer hym, but fyght agaynst hym. Wherefore, he wente aboute to take Jonathas and to kyll him. So he departed, and came vnto Bethsau. Then went Jonathas forth agaynst hym: to the battayle with xl. M. chosen men, & came vnto Bethsan also. But when Triphon sawe that Jonathas came wyth so great hoost to destroy hym, he was afrayed: and therfore he receued hym honourably, commended hym vnto al hys frendes, and gaue him rewarde, and commaunded hys men of warre to be as obedyente vnto hym as to hym selfe. And sayed vnto Jonathas: why haste thou caused thys people to take suche trauaile, seying there is no warre betwyxte vs? Therfore send them home agayne, and chose certayne men to waite vpon the, and come thou wyth me to Ptolomais: for I wyl geue it the, wyth the other stronge holdes, men of warre and their offycers: As for me I muste depart, thys is only the cause of my commyng. Jonathas beleued hym, and dyd as he sayed, puttyng awaye hys hooste, whiche wente into the lande of Juda. He kepte but thre thousande by hym, wherof he sent two thousand into Galyle, and one thousande wente wyth hym selfe.

Nowe aslone as Jonathas entred into Ptolomais, the cytezing spared the gates of the cyte, and toke hym, & slewe al them wyth the sweard, that came in wyth hym. The sent Tryphon an hoost of fotemen and horsmen into Galylee and into the great playne, to destroy Jonathas compaign. But whē they knewe that Jonathas was taken, and al they slayne that waitted vpon hym, they toke counsaile together, & came forth redy to the battayl. So when thei which folowed vpon theym, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned backe agayne. As for the other they went into the land of Juda peaciably and bewayled Jonathas, and theim that were with him right sore. And Israel made great lamentacion. Then al the heathen that wer rounde about them sought to destroye theim. For they sayde: nowe haue they no captayne, nor anye man to helpe them. Therfore, let vs ouertake them, and rote out their name from among me.

The .xi. Chapter.

After Jonathas was taken Symon is chosen captayne of whiche Triphon takyng hys chyldren and monye for the redemption of Jonathas killeth hym and hys chyldren. The graue of Jonathas. Triphon killeth Antiochus, and possesseth the realme. Demetrius taketh truce wyth Symon. Symon winneth Gaz, he possesseth the towre of Sion, he maketh his sonne Iohn captayne Nowe when Symon heard that Tryphon gathered a great hoost to come into the land of Juda, and to destroy it: and sawe that the people was in greate fearfulness and care: he came vp to Jerusalem, and gathered the people together, and gaue them exhortacion sayng: Ye know what greate battayles I and my brethren and my fathers house haue foughte for the lawe and the Sanctuarie, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: throughe occasyon whereof, *all my brethren are slayne for Israels sake, and I am lefte aloone. And nowe let me not spare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren: but wyl aduenge my people and the Sanctuarie, oure chyldren and oure wyues: for all the heathen are gathered together to destroy vs of very malice.

At these wordes the heartes of the people were kyndled together, so they cryed wyth a loud voyce, sayng: Thou shalt be our captayne in steade of Judas and Jonathas thy brethren ordre thou oure battayle, and whatsover thou commaundest vs, we shall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, making hast to finish all the walles of Jerusalem, whiche he made stronge rounde aboute. Then sent he Jonathas the sonne of Abshalomes wth a freshe hoste vnto Joppa, whiche droue them oute that were in the castell, and remayned there hym selfe. Tryphon also remoued froe Ptolomaïs with a great armie, to come into the lande of Iuda, and Jonathas wth hym in warde. And Symon pitched his tentes at Addus befoze the playne feld.

But when Tryphon knewe that Symon stode by in trade of hys brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynst hym, he sent messengers vnto hym sayng: Where as we haue kepte Jonathas thy brother, it is for money þe is owynge in the kynges accompt concerning the busynesse that he had in hande. Wherefoze, sende nowe an hundred talentes of syluer, and his two sonnes for suretye, that when he is letten forth, he shall not forsake vs, and we shall sende hym again. Neuerthelesse, Symon knewe that he dissimbled in his wordes, yet commaunded he the money and chyliden to be deliuered vnto hym, lest he shulde be the greater enemye agaynst the people of Israel, and say: because he sent hym not the money & the chyliden, therefore is Jonathas dead.

So Symon sente hym the chyliden and an hundred talentes, but he dyssembled, and wolde not let Jonathas go. Afterward came Tripho into the lande to destroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeth vnto Ador. But where soeuer they went, thither went Simon and hys hoste also. Nowe they that were in the castell sente messengers vnto Tryphon, that he shulde make haste to come by þe wylder nes, and to sende them bytailes. And Tryphon made redye all hys horsemen to come the same nyght. Neuerthelesse it was a very great snow so that he came not in Gaaladithi. And when he drew nye Baschamo, he slewe Jonathas and his sonnes there, & then turned for to goo home into his owne lande.

Then sent Symon to set his brothers dead coarke, and buryed it in Modin his fathers cytie. So all Israell bewayled hym with greate lamentacyō, and mourned for hym very longe. And Symon made vpon the sepulchre of his father and his brethren, a buyldyng hys to looke vnto, of fre stone behynd and befoze, and set vpon leuen pylers, one agaynst another (for hys father, hys mother, & foure brethren) & set greate pylers rounde aboute wth armes vpon them for a perpetuall memozye, and carued shypes besyde the armes that they myght be sene of men saylyng in þe see. This sepulchre which he made at Modin, standeth yet vnto this day.

Nowe as Tryphon went forth to walke with the yong kyng Antiochus, he slewe hym trayterously, and ragged in hys steade, crowned hym selfe kyng of Asia, and dyd much euell in the lande. Symon also buylde vpon the castles in Jewrye, making them stronge wth hys to ers, great walles, portes, and lockes, and layde vpon byt aples in the stronge holdes. And Symon chose certayne men, and sent them to kyng Demetrius, to desyre hym, that he wold discharge the lande from all bondage, for Tryphon had spoyled it very sore. Whereupon Demetrius þe kyng answered hym, and wrote vnto hym after this maner.

Demetrius the kyng sendeth gretynge vnto Symon the hys preake his frende, wth the elders & people of the Jewes. The golde crowne and precyous stone that ye sente vnto vs, haue we receyued, and are ready to make a stedfastte peace wth you: pee, and lo wyte vnto our officers, for to release you, concernynge the thynges whercin we made you fre, and the appointment þe we make wth you, shall be firme & stable. The stronge holdes which ye haue buylde shall be youre owne. As for anye ouer spghte or faute comaynted vnto this daye, we forgiue it and the crowne tax that ye ought vs also. And where as was any other trybute in Jerusalem it shall be nowe no trybute: & loke who are mete among you to be in our court, let them be wyrtten vpon, that there maye be peace betwyte vs.

Thus the yoke of the heathen was taken frome Israell in the hundredth and seuententhy yere. And the people of the Jewes beganne to wyte in theyr letters and actes on this maner.

* In the fyrste yere of Symon the hys preake, i. mac. xlii. and princy of the Jewes.

In those dayes wente Symon vnto Gaza and beleeged it rounde aboute, where he set vpon dynaūce of war. And wanne a towre, which he toke. So they gat into the towre, leapt into þe cytie, which was in a great feare: In so much that the people of the cytie rente theyr clothes, and clymed vpon vpon the walles with theyr wyues, and chyliden, besechynge Symon to be at one with them, sayng.

O rewarde vs not after oure wyckednesse but be gracious vnto vs, and we shall do the seruyce. Then Simon for very pitye wolde fyghe nomore agaynst them, but put them oute of the cytie, and caused the houses (wherin þe ymagines were) to be clensted, and so entred the cytie with psalmes of prayse, geuyng thanks vnto the Lorde. So when he had cast all abhominacyōs oute of the cytie, he set suche men in it as kept þe lawe of God and made the cytie stronge & buylde a dwellynge place for hym selfe.

Nowe, when they in the castell at Jerusalem were kepte so straitely, þe they coulde not come forth into the countrie, and myght nether hys nor sell, they were very hungrye, and many of them famished to death: In so muche that they besought Simon to be at one with them, which he graunted them. So he put them oute from thence, and clensted the castell from fylthynesse. And vpon the thye and twentye daye of the seconde moneth in the. C. lxi. yere they entred in to it wth thankesgeuyng and braunches of palme trees, with harpes, Crondes, Symbales, and lutes, syngynge psalmes and songes of prayse vnto God, for that the greate enemy of

And Symon ordeyned that the same daye shulde be kepte euery yere in gladnesse, & made strong the hyll of the Temple that was besyde the castell, where he dwelte hym selfe with hys companye. Symon also perceiuyng that John hys sonne was a myghty man of armes made hym Captayn of all the hostes, and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. Symon being captayn there is greates quietnes in Israell. The couenaunt of frendshipp with the Romans, & with the people of Sparta is renewed.

In the. Cxxii. yere gathered kynge Demetrius hys hoste, and departed vnto Media, to get him helpe for to fyghte agaynst Tryphon. Nowe when Arsaces the kynge of Persia & Medea hearde, that Demetrius was entred in his borders he sent one of his princes to take hym alyue: and to bring hym vnto hym. So he went & slew Demetrius hoste, toke hym selfe brought hym to Arsaces whiche kept hym inward. And all the lande of Iuda was in rest so longe as Symon lyued, for he sought & welth of hys people, therfore, were they glad to haue him for their ruler, & to do him worship alway.

Symon wanne the cite of Joppa also for an haven toun, and made it an entraunce into the ples of the see. He enlarged the borders of hys people, and conquered them moze land. He gathered by many of theyr people & were prisoners: he had & dominyon of Gaza, Bethlura and the castell, which he clenched from splithines and there was noman that resysted hym. So & euery man tyllid hys ground in peace, the land of Iuda, and the trees gaue theyr frute and encrease. The elders sat all in iudgement & toke theyr deuyce for the welth of the lande, & yonge men put on worship & harnesse vpon them. He prouyded bytapes for the ctyes, & made goodlye stronge holdes of them, so & the same of hys worshippe was spoken of vnto the ende of the worlde. * For he made peace thorowoute the lande, & Israell was full of myght and ioye.

Euery man sat vnder hys vyne and fygge trees, and ther was noman to fray them away. There was none in the lande to fyghte agaynst them, for then the kynges were overcome. He helped those & wer in aduersyte among his people, he was diligent to se the lawe kept, as for such as wer vngodly & wycked he toke them awaye. He set vp the Sanctuarye, and encreased the holpe vessels of the Temple.

When the Romayns & the Spertians had gotten worde, & Jonathas was deed they were ryght sorre. But when they hearde & Symon his brother was made hys preest in his steade & howe he had wonne the lande agayne with the ctyes in it: they wrote vnto hym in tables of brasse, to renue the frendshipp, & bonde of loue which they had made afore with Judas & Jonathas his brethren. Whiche wyrtynnes were red before the congregacyon at Jerusalem.

And this is the coppe of the letters that the Spartians sent. The Senators & cyteizing of Sparta sende gretynge vnto Symon the great Preaste, wyth the elders, Preastes, & the other people of & Jewes theyr brethren. When your ambassidours that were sente vnto our people certified vs of your worshippe, honour & prosperous welth, we were glad of theyr comming and haue written the errand which they spake before the counsaile of & people, namely & Rumenius & sonne of Antiochus, & Antipater & sonne of Jalon the Jewes ambassidours are come vnto vs, for to renue the olde frendshipp wyth vs. Upon this the people consented, & the men shulde be honourably intreated, & that the copy of theyr errande shulde be wyrtten in & special bookes of the people, for a perpetual memoire vnto the Spartians: yet, & that we shuld send a copy of the same vnto Symon the great preest. After this dyd Symon sende Rumenius vnto Rome, wth a golden chylde of a thousand pound weyght, to confyrme the frendshipp wyth them: which when & Romans vnderstode, they sayde what thanckes shall we recompence agayn vnto Symon and his chyliden: For he hath stablyshed his brethren, & overcome the enemyes of Israell. Wherefore they graunted hym to bee free. And all this wrote the Jewes in tables of brasse, & nailed it vnto & pylers vpon & mount Syon. The copy of the wyrtynge is this.

The fyghte & twentye daye of the monethe * Elul in the hundred. lxxii. yere, in the thyrtye yere of Symon the hys Preaste, in the greates congregacyon of the preestes, rulers of & people and elders of & countrie at Asaram, wer these wordes openly declared.

For so much as there was muche warre in our land, therfore Symon & sonne of Mathathias (come of & chyliden of Jareb) and his brethren put them selues in pael, & resysted & enemyes of theyr people: & theyr Sanctuarye and law might be mayntayned, & dyd theyr people greates worshippe: Jonathas in like maner, after & he had gouerned his people & ben their hys preast: dyed, & lyeth buried besyde hys elders.

After & woulde theyr enemyes haue troden theyr holy thynges vnder foote, destroyed their lande, & utterly wasted their Sanctuary: The Symon withstoode them, & fought for his people, spent muche of his owne monye, weapened the valeaunt men of his people, gaue them wages, made strong the cities of Iuda, with Bethlura & lyeth vpon the borders of Jewry (wher the ordynance of theyr enemyes laye sometime) and set the Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, which lyeth vpon & see, & Gaza & bordyeth vnto Azotus, (wher the enemyes dwelt afore) and there he set Jewes to kepe it: & whatsoeuer was mete for & subduynge of the aduersaries, & layd he therein. Nowe wher the people saw the noble actes of Symon, and what worshippe he was purposed to do for them his godly behauioure, & faithfulness which he kept vnto them, & howe he sought by alwayes the welth of hys people, because he dyd all theyr therfore they chose hym to be theyr prince, & hys preast.

great. And in his tyme they prospered well by hym, so þat the heathen were taken out of the land: & they also which were in the cite of David at Jerusalem in the castel (where they went out and despyled all thynges that were about þe Sanctuary, and byd great harme vnto clenynesse) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and cite, and set by the walles of Jerusalem.

And kynge Demetrius confirmed hym in hys hye preasthode, made hym his frende, & byd hym great worship. For he heard that the Romans called the Jewes thei frendes, loners & brethren, howe honourably they receyued Symons ambassadours: how the Jewes and preastes consented that he shulde be thei prince and hye preaste perpetually (tyll God rased vp þe true prophet) & that he shulde be thei captayn to care for the Sanctuary, & to set officers vpon the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer the weapons, ouer the houses of defence, to make pounisyon for the holy thynges, & to be obeyed of euery man, & all the writynges of the lande to be made in hys name: þat he shulde be clothed in purple & golde, and þat he shulde be lawfull for none of the people nor preestes to breake any of these thynges, to withstande hys wordes, nor to call any congregacion in the lande without hym, that he shulde be clothed in purple, and weare a colar of golde. And yf there were anye which disobeyed or brake this ordynance þe shulde be punished.

So all the people consented to allowe Symon and to do accordyng vnto these wordes: Symon also hym selfe toke vpon hym, & was contente to bee the hye preaste, the captayne, and prince of the Jewes and preastes, & to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make this writyng in tables of brasse, and fasten it to the compasse of the Sanctuary in an open place, & laye by a copp of the same in the treasure, that Symon and his posterite myght haue it.

¶ The xv. Chapter.

¶ Antiochus maketh a couenaunt of frendshipp with Symon & Tryphon is persecuted. The Romans writ letters vnto kynges and nacyes in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refusing the helpe that Symon sent hym, breaketh his couenaunt.

Moreouer kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters from the Isles of the sea, vnto Symon þe hye preast and prince of the Jewes, and to all the people, containyng these wordes: Antiochus the kynge sendeth greetynge vnto Symon the hye preaste, and to the people of the Jewes. For so much as certain wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of our progenytours: I am purposed to chalenge the realme again, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherefore I haue gathered a greate hoste and made shippes of warre, that I may go thowt the country, & be aduenged of them which haue destroyed oure lande, & wasted manie ctyes in my realme. And therfore, now I make the free also from all the tributes, whereof all kynges my progenytours haue discharged the and from other customes (wherfrom they haue released the) what so euer they be: yee, I geue þe leave to smyte many of thine owne within thy lande. As for Jerusalem, I wyl that it be holy and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence, which thou haste buylded, and keeste in thyne handes, shalbe thine. Wher as any thing is or shalbe owynge vnto the kynge, I forgeue it the, from this tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obtayned our kyngdom, we shal do the, thy people, & the temple greate worship so that your honoure shalbe knowne thowt the whole worlde.

In the Cxxiii. yere wente Antiochus into Symons fathers lande, and all þe men of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe wer left with Tryphon. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon him, but he fled vnto Doza, which lieth by the see syde: for he sawe that there was myscheif comyng vnto hym, and that his hoste had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza with an. C. & twenty thousande men of armes vpon foote, & eyght thousande horsemen. So he compassed the ctye rounde aboute, and the shippes came by the see. Thus they vered þe ctye by lande and water, in so muche þat they sufferd noman to go in or oute.

In the meane season came * Numenius (and they that had bene with hym) from the ctye of Rome, hauyng letters wyrtten vnto the kynges and prouinces, wherein were containyd these wordes: Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth greetynge vnto Ptolome the kynge. The ambassadours of the Jewes oure frendes being sent from Symon the hye preast, and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to renue the olde frendshipp and bonde of loue, brought a chylde of golde weyng a thousande ponde, whiche we were contente to receyue of them. Wherefore we thoughte it good to wyrtte vnto the kinges and prouinces, to do them no harme nor to take parte agaynst theim, thei ctyes, nor countreyes, neyther to mapntayne thei enemyes agaynst them. Yf there be any wycked persones therfore fled from thei countreye vnto you, deliuer them vnto Symon þe hye preast that he maye punish theim accordyng to thei owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romans also vnto Demetrius the kynge, to Attalus, Araba, Arsaces, and to all the regyons, as Samlannes, to them of Sparta, Delo, Mido, Sidon, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Licia, Alicarnassu and to the Rhodes, to Kalesis, Coo, Sida, Arado, Corina, Gnida, to Cipres, & Ciren. And of euery letter they sente a coppe to Symon the hye preaste and to the people of the Jewes. So Antiochus the kynge broughte hys hoste vnto Doza the second tyme to take it: where he made dyuers ordynance of warre, and kepte Tryphon in, that he shulde not come forth. Then set Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe hym with golde, syluer, and other plenteous gere: neuertheles, he wolde not receiue them, but brake all þe couenaunt which he made w Symon afore, & thowt hymselfe fro him he sente

He sent Athenobius also a frende of his vnto Symon, for to reason wpyth hym, saying: Ye wythholde from me Joppa and Gaza (wyth the castell that is at Jerusalem) whiche are cytyes of my realme, whose borders ye haue destroyed and done greute euell in the lande, haupnge the dominacyon in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherefore now we delyuer y cytyes whiche ye haue taken, wyth the trybutes of the places that ye haue rule vpon wythout the borders of Jewry. O zels geue me fyue hundred talentes of syluer: yee, & for the harme that ye haue done in the cyties, and for the trybutes of the same other fyue hundred talentes. If no, we shal come and fyghte agaynstte you.

C So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe the greute worshippe and honoure of Symon in golde, syluer and so great plenty of oznamentes, he maruailed, and tolde Symon as the kyng commaunded hym: Then answered Symon & sayd vnto hym: * As for vs, we haue nether taken other mens landes, nor witholden them, but only our fathers herptage, whiche our enemyes had vnrpyghteously in possession a certain tyme. This herptage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in processe of tyme. And where as thou complayned concernyng Joppa & Gaza, they dyd greute harme to oure people and in our lande, yet wyll we geue an hundred talentes for them.

Nevertheless, Athenobius answered hym not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfullpe vnto the kyng and tolde hym al these wordes, & the greute dygnyte of Symon, wyth all that he had sene, and the kyng was very angry. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by wypppe vnto Ditholadia. Then the kyng made Cendebeus capytayn of the see coast, & gaue hym an hoste of foemen & horsemen, commaunding hym to remoue the hoste toward Jewrye, and to buylde vp the cytie of Cedron, to make vp the portes, and to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng hym selfe: he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, and began to vex the people, to treade downe Jewrye, to take the people prysoners, to slay them and * to buylde vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and other men of warre: y they myght come forth and go thowoe the stretes of Jewry, lyke as y kyng had commaunded.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus hoste is put to flight of the sonnes of Symon. Ptolomeus the sonne of Abobus kylleth Symon and his two sonnes at a banquet. John kylleth the chalyce in wayte for his lyfe.

Then came Jhon vp from * Gaza and tolde Symon his father, what Cendebeus had done among theyr people. Vpon thys called Symon two of his eldest sonnes, Judas & John and sayde vnto the: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer from our yowth vp vnto thys daye foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to delyuer Israell oft tymes. And now for so much as I am olde, be ye in stead of me & my brethren, to go forth and fyght for oure people and the helpe of God be with you. So he chose twentye thousande fyghtyng men of the country wyth horsemen also, which went forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Wady.

In the mornynge they arose, and wente into the playne felde: and behold a myghty greute hoste came agaynst them both of footemen and horsemen. Howe was there a water brooke betwixte them, & John remoued y hoste toward them. And when he sawe that the people was afrayed to go ouer the water brooke he went ouer fyrst hym self, & the men seing this, folowed him.

Then Jhon let his horsemen and footemen in order, the one by the other, for theyr enemyes horsemen were verie manye. But when they blew vp y prestes trompettes: Cendebeus fled with his hoste, wherof many were slayne, and the remnaunte gat them to theyr stronge holde Judas also Johns brother was wounded at y same tyme. And Jhon folowed syl vpon the enemyes, tyl he came to Cedron * whiche he builded. The enemyes fled also vnto the towers that were in the felde of Azotus, and those did John burne vp. Thus were there slayne two thousande men of the, and Jhon turned agayne peacably to Jewrye.

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus made captayne, whiche because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde, (for he had marped the daughter of Symon the hye preest) waxed proude in his mynde, and thought to conquare the lande, ymagynyng shew agaynst Symon and his sonnes to destroy them. Howe as Symon was goynge aboute thowoe the cyties, that were in the country of Jewrye, and carryng for them he came doune to Jericho with Nathathias and Judas his sonnes, in the. Cxxvii. yere in the. xi. moneth called * Saba. Then Ptolomy the sonne of Abobus receaued them (but with disceate) into a strong house of his, called Doch, whiche he had buylde where he made them a banquet.

So when Symon and his sonnes were merry and had dronken well, Ptolomy stode vp wyth his men (whom he had hyd there) and toke their weapons, entred into the banquet house, & slew Symon wyth his two sonnes, and certayne of his seruantes. Suche greute vnfaithfulness dyd Ptolomy in Israel, & recompenced euell for good. Then wrote thys Ptolomy the same vnto the kyng Antiochus, requyringe hym that he shoulde sende hym an hoste to helpe hym: and so shoulde he delyuer hym the lande, wyth the cyties and trybutes of the same. He sente other menne also vnto Gaza, for to take Jhon, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to hym, and he shoulde geue them syluer, gold and rewardes. And to Jerusalem he sente other to take it, and the Sanctuarie.

Then ranne there one before, and told Jhon in Gaza, that his father and his brethren were slayne, and how that Ptolomy had sent to slay hym also. When Jhon hearde thys he was sore abashed, and layde handes of them that were come come to deffoey hym, and fiewe theim, for he knewe that they wente aboute to kyl hym. As for other thynges concernyng Jhon: of his warres, of his noble actes (wherein he behaned hym selfe manfully) of his buyldyng of walles which he made, & other of his dedes. They are wyrtten in the cronicles of his preefthode, from the tyme forth he was made his preeft after his father.

The ende of the fyrste booke of the Machabees.

The seconde booke of the Machabees.

The fyrste Chapter.

An Epytyle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem, sente unto them that dwelt in Egypt: wherein they exhorte the to geve thanke for the death of Antiochus. Of the fyre that was hyd in the pytte. The prayer of Nehemias.

The brethren of the Jewes which be at Jerusalem, & in the lande of Jewry, wryth unto those brethren of the Jewes that at the roweoute Egypte: good fortune, health, and peace.

God be gracious unto you and thinke vpon his couenaunt that he made wth Abraham, Isahar, and Jacob his faythfull seruautes: * and geue you al suche an herte, that ye may loue and serue hym per, and performe his wyl wth an whole herte and of a wyllyng mynde. He open your hertes in his lawe and in his commaundementes, sende you peace, heare youre prayers, be at one with you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. This is here oure prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raygned, in the C. lxx. yere, we Jewes wrote vnto you in the trouble & violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after the Jason departed oute of the holpe lande and kyngdome, they bzent vp the portes and shed innocent bloude. Then made we oure prayer vnto the Lorde, and were heard: we offered, and lyghted the candels, setting for the cakes and breade: * And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth Cassu.

In the C. lxxviii. yere, the people that was at Jerusalem & in Jewry, the counsaill & Judas hym selfe sent his whollsom salutation vnto Aristobolus kyng of Iudomais master, whiche came of the generacion of the annoiuted preeftes and to the Jewes that were in Egypt: In so much as God hath deliuered vs from great paelles we thanke hym hyghly. In that we respysted so myghtie a kyng. And why? he brought me out of Persis by heapes, to fyght agaynst vs & the holy cytie. For as he was in Persis (namely, the captayn wth the great hoste) he perished in the temple of Naneas, being dysceyued thowow the deupce of Naneas preeftes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there, Antiochus & his frendes came thether, to receyue muche money for a dowry. So whē Naneas preeftes had laid forth the money, he entred w a small company into the compasse of the Temple, & so they shut the temple.

Now when Antiochus entred by openyng the preeftes (intraunce of the temple, the preeftes stoned the captin to death, he wed them in peces & wer wth hym, smote of theyr heades, and threwe them out: In al thynges God be praised, which hath deliuered the wycked into our handes.

Whers as we are nowe purposed to kepe the purifycacion of the Temple vpon the fyue & twenty daye of the moneth Cassu, we thought necessary to certifie you therof, the alsomightie * kepe the tabernacles, feast daye, & the daye of the fyre, whiche was geuen vs, whē Nehemias offered, after that he had set vp the Temple and the aulter. For what tyme as oure fathers wer led awaye vnto Persis, the preeftes (which the sought the honoure of God) tooke the fyre preeuely from the aulter & hyd it in a valley, where as was a dyce pytte, & therein they kepte it, so the place was vnknewen vnto euery man.

Nowe after many yeaeres when it pleased God, the Nehemias shulde be sent from the king of Persia, he sent the chylders chylde of those preeftes (which had hid the fyre) to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they found no fyre but thicke water. Then commaunded he the to dyaue it vp and to bzyng it hym, & the offerpnynges wthall. Nowe when the sacrifices were laid on & ordred the preeftes Nehemias commaunded to sprynkle them & the wood wth water. When this was done, & the tyme comie the sunne shone, which afore was hyd in the cloude: there was a great fyre kyndled. In so much that euery man marualed. Nowe all the preeftes prayed, while the sacrificy was a makynge. Jonas has prayed for the other gaue answere.

And Nehemias prayer was after this manner, O Lorde God maker of all thynges, the fearfull & stronge, thou righteous & merciful, that art only a gracious kyng, only lyberall, onely iust Almyghtie and euerlasting, thou that deliuerest Israel from all trouble, that hast chosen the fathers, and halowed them, receyue the offerpnyng for the whole people of Israel, preserve thyne owne porcyon, & halowe it, gather those together, that are scatered abroad from vs: deliuct them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon them which are dyspyssed and abhorred, that the heathen may know & se how that thou art our God: Punyshe them that oppresse, & proudly put vs to dishonoure. Set thy people agayn in thy holy place: lyke as Moses hath spoken.

And the preeftes songe psalmes of thankesgeyng, so longe as the sacrificy endured. Nowe when the sacrificy was bzent, Nehemias commaunded the greates stones to be sprynkled wth the resydue of the water: * Whiche when it was done, there was kyndled a flame of them also: but it was consumed, thowow the lyghte, that shyned from the aulter. So when this matter was knowen, it was tolde the kyng of Persia, that in the place where the preeftes which were led awaye, had hyd the fyre, there appeared red water in the steele of fyre: & that Nehemias and his company, had purifyed the sacrifices withall. Then the kyng consydering & pondering þe matter diligently, made hym a temple to proue þe thyng þe was done. And whē he found it so in dede, he gaue þe prestes many giftes and dyuers rewardes: yee, he tooke them with his owne hand and gaue them. And Nehemias called the same place Nephthar, which is as muche to say, as a clensing: but many mē call it Nephthi.

The.ii. Chapter.

¶ Howe Jeremy had the tabernacle, the Arke, and the aulter in the hyl. Of the fyur booke of Jason contained in one.

It is found also in the wytynges of Jeremy the Prophet, that he commaunded them whiche were carped awaye to take fyre, * as it is sayde afore. * He commaunded them also, that they shoulde not forget the lawe and commaundementes of the Lord, and that they shuld not erre in theyr myndes, when they se ymages of syluer and gold, wth their ornamentes. These and suche other thynges commaunded he them, and exhorted them, that they shulde not let the lawe of God goo oute of theyr hertes.

Nehemias.

¶ It is wytten also: howe the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle & the arke with them: & he went forth vnto the mountain, where Moyses clymed vp, & sawe the heritage of God. And when Jeremy came there, he founde an open caue, where in he layd the tabernacle, the Arke, & the aulter of incence, & so stopped þe whole. Ther came certain mē together also folowynge hym to marke the place, but they coulde not fynde it. Whiche when Jeremy perceyued, he reproveth them, sayynge: As for that place, it shalbe unknowen, vntyll the tyme that God gather his people together agayne, & receyue them vnto mercy. Then shall God shewe them these thynges, & the maiestye of the Lord shal appere: & the cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moyses: & lyke as when Salomon desyred, þe place myght be sanctified, and it was shewed hym.

* And lyke as whē Moyses prayed vnto þe Lord the fyre came downe from heuen, & consumed þe burnt offerynge: Euen so, prayed Salomon also, & the fyre came downe from heuen, and consumed the burnt offerynge. And Moyses sayd: because þe synne offerynge was not eaten, therfore is it consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kept the dedicacyon (or halowynge). viii. dayes.

¶ In the annotacyons & wytynges of Jeremy, wer these thynges put also: & how he made a lyberarye, and howe he gathered oute of all countreyes the booke of þe prophetes, of Dauid the Epistles of the kynges and of the presentes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he learned by experience of warre & such thynges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them altogether, and so we haue the by vs. If ye nowe desyre to haue the same, sende some bodie to fetch them vnto you. Where as we then are aboute to celebrate the purifycacyon, we haue wytten vnto you. Therfore, ye shall doo well, if ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, þe God (which desyreth his people, and gaue them all the heritage kyngedome, breasthode, & Sanctuary, * þe promysed them in the lawe) shall shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together frame vnder the beaue into his holy place: for he hath saued vs fro great perels, & hath clenched þe place.

¶ As concernynge Judas Machabeus and his brethren, the purifycacyon of the great temple the dedicacyon of the aulter: yea, & of the warres þe concerne noble Antiochus, and Eutaporus his sonne, of the thynges þe came downe from heauen vpon those whiche manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but fewe, yet defended they the whole lande, done away the enemyes hoste, recovered agayne the temple þe was spoken of thowoute all the worlde, deliuered the cytye, doyng theyr beste, that the lawe of þe Lord which was put downe, myghte with all tranquillite be restored agayne vnto the Lord, that was so merciful vnto them. As touchynge Jason also of Cyren, we haue vnder taken compendiously to byrning into one booke the thynges that wer comprehended of hym in fyue. For we consyderynge the multytude of þe booke, and howe harde it shulde be for them þe wolde medle wyth storyes and actes (and that because of so dyuers matters) haue vnder taken so to comprehend the storyes: that such as are dysposed to reade, myghte haue pleasure and pastyme therein: and that they whiche are diligent in suche thynges, myghte þe better thynke vpon them: yee, and that whosoener read them myghte haue profyte thereby.

¶ Neuerthelesse, we our selues that haue medled with this matter for the shortenyng of it: haue taken no small labour, but greates diligence, watchynge and trauayle. I ye as they that make a fealt: wold faine do other mē pleasure: Euen so we also (for manye mens sakes) are very well content to take the labour wher as we maye shortly comprehend, the thynges that other men haue truly wytten.

¶ For he that buyldeth an house a newe, must proude for many thynges, to the whole buyldynge, but he that paynteth it after ward seketh but onely what is comly, mete and conuenient to garnyshe it wythall. Euen so doo we in lyke maner. And why? he that begynneth to wyte a story for the fyrst, muste with his vnderstanding gather the matter together, set his wordes in order and diligently seke oute of euery parte: But he that afterwarde wyll shorten it, vseth fewe wordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largeste. Let this be suffyciente for a prologe, now we wyll we begynne to shewe the matter, for it is but a foolyshe thyng to make a longe prologe, & to be shorte in þe story it selfe.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ Of the honours done vnto the temple by the kynges of the Gentyles. Symon uttereth what treasure is in the temple. Heliodorus is sente to take them awaye. He is streghen of God and healed at the prayer of Onias.

What

What tyme as the holy cytie was inhabited in al peace & welth & when the lawes were yet very well kept (for so was it ordeined by Onias the hye preast and other godly men that wer enemies to wickednesse) It came then to that euen the kynges and prynces them selues dyd the place greate worshyppe, and garnished the temple with greate gyftes. In somuche that Seleucus kyng of Asya of hys owne rentes, beate all the coastes belonging to the seruyce of the offerpnyes. Then Symon of the trybe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worke some mischefe in the cytie, but the hye preaste resysted hym.

Neuerthelesse, when he might not overcome Onias, he gat hym to Appolonius the sonne of Therfa (which then was chiefe Lorde in Celocyrta and Phenyces) and tolde hym that the treasury in Jerusalem was ful of innumerable money, and howe the comengoodes (whyche belonged not vnto the offerpnyes) were creakyng great also: yee, & howe it were possible for all these myght come vnder the kynges power.

Nowe when Appolonius had shewed the kyng of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kyng called for Heliodorus hys steward, and sente hym wyth a commaundement, to bryng hym the same monie. Immedyately Heliodorus toke his iourney, but vnder a colour as though he wolde go thowowe Celocyrta and Phenyces to vset the cyties, but hys purpose was to fulfill the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was lounge receyued of the hye preaste into the cytie: he tolde what was determyned concernyng the money, and shewed the cause of hys comynge, he asked also yf it were so in dede. Then the hye preast tolde hym that there was suche money layde vp for the vpholdyng of widdowes and fatherlesse chyldren and howe that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus. Tobias a noble man, and that of al the money (whyche the wycked Symon had bewaped) There were. iiii. C. talentes of syluer and two. C. of gold: yee, and that it wer vnposible for those mens meanyng to be dysceyued that had laide vp theyr money in the place and temple (whyche is had in worshyppe thowowe the whole worlde) for the mayntenaunce & honour of the same. Wherunto Heliodorus answered, that the kyng had comaunded hym in any wise to bryng hym in the money.

So at the dape appoynted, Heliodorus entered into the temple to ordeyn this matter. But there was no small feare thowowout the whole cytie. The preastes fell downe befoze the aulter in their vestimentes, & called vnto heauen vpon hym which had made a lawe concerning stuffe geuen to kepe, that they shulde be safely preserued for suche as comyt them vnto keepyng. Then who so had looked the hye preaste in the face it wolde haue greued his hert. For his countenaunce and the chaungyng of his coloure, declared the inward sorowe of hys mynde. The man was al in heuyness, & his body in feare, wher by they that looked vpon hym, myght perceyue the greife of his herte, the other people came out of theyr houses by heapes vnto the comen place, because the place was lyke to come into confusion. The women came together thowow the stretes, wher they clothed aboute theyr brestes.

The byrgins also that were kept in, ranne to Onias, some in shawles, other some looked out of the wyndowes: yee, they al held vp theyr handes toward heauen, and prayed. A myserable thyng was it to looke vpon the comen people, and the hye preaste beyng in suche trouble. But they belonged to Almighty God & the good des whyche were comytted vnto them, myghte be kept whole, for those that had deliuered the vnto theyr keepyng. Neuerthelesse, the thyng which Heliodorus was determyned to do, he performed in the same place, he hym selfe personally beyng aboute the treasury wyth hys men of warre. But the spiryte of almighty God shewed hymself openly, so that al they which presumed to obeye Heliodorus, felt thowowe the power of God into a greate fearfulness and drede.

Moreouer, there appeared two fayre & bewtiful yonge men in goodly aray, which stode by hym scourged him on both the sydes, & gaue hym many stryppes wythout ceassyng. * With that fell Heliodorus sodenly vnto the ground. So they toke hym vp (beyng compassed aboute wyth greate darchenesse) and bare hym out vpon a bere. Thus he came wyth so many runners and men of warre into the sayde treasury, was borne oute, where as no man myght helpe hym: and so the power of God was manifest and knowen. He laye styll domme also by the power of God destitute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayed the Lorde that had shewed his power vpon hys place and temple, whyche a lytle afore was full of feare and trouble: & that thowowe the reuelacyon of the Almightye Lorde it was fylled wyth ioye and gladnesse.

Then certayn of Heliodorus frendes praised Onias, that in all hast he wolde cal vpon God to graunt hym his lyfe, which was geuyng vp the ghooste. So the hye preaste consyderyng the matter, and leaste the kyng shulde suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euell: he offered an healtbofferyng for hym. Nowe when the hye preast had obtayned hys petycon, the same yonge men in the same clothynge appeared and stode besyde Heliodorus, sayng: Thanke Onias the hye preaste, for his sake hath the Lorde graunted the thy lyfe: therefore seyng that God hath scourged the, geue hym praise & thankes, and shewe euery man hys myghte and power. And when they had spoken these wordes, they appered nomore.

So Heliodorus offered vnto God, made greate vowes vnto hym, whyche had graunted hym hys lyfe, thanked Onias, toke hys hoste and and went agayne to the kyng. Then testified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had sene with hys eyes. And when the kyng asked Heliodorus who were mete to bee sente yet once agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde: pf thou haste anye enemye or aduersary vnto thy realme, sende hym thether, and thou shalt haue hym punished, pf he escape with his lyfe: for in that place (no doubt) there is a speciall power and workyng of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen, visyteth and defendeth that place, and all that come to do it harme, he punisheth and plageth them. Thys is now the matter concernyng Heliodorus, and the keepyng of the treasure at Jerusalem.

The.iii.Chapiter.

¶ Symon reporteth euell of Onypas. Jason deuyfing the offyce of the hye preste corruptetly the kyng with rewardes. The wycked intente of Jason.

A his Symon nowe* (of whome we st. mac. iii. a.
T spake afore) beyng a bewrayer of money and of his owne natural coun-tre, reported the worst of Onias as though he had moued Heliodo-rus vnto this, and as though he had ben a bringer vp of euil. Thus was he not ashamed to call hym an enemye of the realme: that was so faithful an ouerser and defender of the cytie & of his people: pee, & so feruent in hys lawe of God: But when the malyce of Symon encreased so farre, that thoro his frendes there wer certain men-slaughters comitted: Onias consydered the perell that myght come thoro we thys stryfe, and howe that Appolonius (namely hys chefe Lorde in Celocirta and Phenices) was al set vpon ti-ranny, and Symons malice increased the same he gat hym to the kyng not as an accuser of the cityzens, but as one that by hym selfe intended the comen welthe of the whole multytude.

25 For he sawe it was not possible to lye in peace, neither Symon to leaue off from hys foolishnes, excepte the kyng dyd loke therto. But after the deathe of Selucus, when Antiochus (which is called the noble) toke the kyngdome Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hys priest. For he came vnto the kyng, and promysed hym .iij. C. & .lx. talentes of syluer, & of the other rentes, lxxx. talentes: Besydes thys he promysed hym yet an. C. and .l. If he myght haue þe scole of schyldren, and þe he myght call them of Ierusalem Antiochians. Which when they had graunted, and he had gotten the superioryte, he beganne immediatly to drawe his kynsmen to the custome of the heathen, put downe the thynges that þe Jewes had set vp of loue, by John þe father of Eupolemius which was sent ambassadoure vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendship and loue. He put downe all the Jewes and lyberties of the Jewes & set vp the wycked statutes. He durst make a fyrghyngscole vnder the castel, and set fayer ponge men to learne the maners of whores and brothels.

Thus was now the beginnyng of the heathenly & straunge conuersacyon, brought in thorow the vngracious & unheard wyckednes of Iason, which should not be called a priest, but an vngodly persone. In somuche that the prestes were now nomoze occupped about the ser-uyce of the aulter, but despyed the temple: regarded not the offerynges: pee, gaue they? dily-gence to learne to fyght, to wraistle, to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone, not lettynge by the honour of they? fathers, but lyked the gla-ry of the Grekes best of all: for the whiche they stroue perelously, & were greedy to folowe their statutes: pee, they? luste was in all thynges to be lyke them, whiche afoze were they? enemyes & destroyers. Howbeit, to do wyckedly against the lawe of God, shall not escape unpunished, but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the * Olimpiades sportes were plaide at Tyzus (The kyng hymselfe beyng presente) this vnggracious Jason sent wicked men, bearing from them of Ierusalē (which nowe were called Antiochians). iiii. C. drachmas of syluer for an offerynge to Hercules.
These had they that carped them despyzed them vnder suche a fashion, as though they shuld not be offered but bestowed to other vses. Neuer-thelesse he that sent them, sent them to þ intent that they shulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were presente, they were geuen as to þ making of Gyppes. And Appolonius þ sonne of Nestus was sent into Egypt because of the noble men of king Ptolomy Phi-lometoz. Nowe when Antiochus perceyued, þ he was put oute from medlyng in the realme, he soughte hys owne profyte, departed frome thence came to Joppa: and then to Ierusalem, where he was honourably receyued of Jason, & of the cytie, & was brought in with torchlyght and wyth greate prayse, and so he turned hys hoste vnto Whenyces.

After. iiii. yere Jason sente Menelaus, the fozsaide Symons brother, * to beare the money vnto the kyng, and to byyng hym answere of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kyng for magnifyinge of hys power) turned the presthode vnto hym self, lai-yng bp. iiii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten the comaundementes from the kyng (he came hawaynge nothyng that becommeth a preaste) but bearyng the stomache of a cruell tyraunte, and the wyathe of a wyld brute beaste. * Then Jason (whiche had dyscey-ued hys owne brother) seynge he hym selfe was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonytes, & Menelaus gat the dominyon. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the kyng, he dyd nothyng therein, when Sostyratus the Ruler of the castell requyred it of hym. For Sostyratus was the man that gathered the customes, wherfore they were both called before the kyng. Thus was Menelaus put oute of the preasthode, and Lysymachus his brother came in his stead. Sostyratus also was made lord of the Tyraus.

It happened in the meane season, that the Charlians & Malacians made insurrey on because they were geuen foꝝ a present vnto kynge Antiochus

king Antiochus concubine. The came the king in all the hast, to styll them agayne, and to pacyfy the matter, leauyng Andronicus ther to be his debite as one mete therfore. Nowe Menelaus supposing that he had gotten a right conuenient time, stole certain vessels of golde out of the temple, and gaue them to Andronicus for a present: and some he solde at Tyrus and in the cities therby. Which when Onias knewe of a suretye, he reprovod hym: but he kept hym in a sanctuary beside Daphnis, that lyeth by Antioch. Wherfore Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, and praised hym that he would slay Onias. So when he cam to Onias, he counsailed him craftly to come out of the sanctuary geuynge hym his hand with an oth (howe be it he suspect hym) and then he slewe Onias withoute anye regarde of ryghteousnes. For the whych cause not onely Jewes but other nacjons also toke indignacyon, and were dyspleased for the vnrightheous death of so goodly aman.

And when the kyng was come againe from Cilicia, the Jewes and certayn of the Grekes went vnto hym, complaynyng for the vnrightheous death of Onias. Per, Antiochus him self was sozry in hys mynde for Onias, so that it pited hym, and he wept, remembryng hys sobernes and manerly behauour. Wherfore he was so kyndled in hys mynde, that he commaunded Andronicus to bee strypped oute of his purple clothynge, and so to be led throughout the cite: yee, and the vngracious man to be slayn in the same place: wher he commytted this wickednes vpon Onias. Thus the Lorde rewarded hym hys punysshmente, as he had deserued. Nowe when Lisimachus had done many wyked dedes in the temple thzough the counsaile of Menelaus, and the voyce came abrod: the multitude gathered them together agaynst Lysimachus for he had caried out nowe muche golde.

So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lisimachus armed. iii. M. vntwiftres to defende hym: a certayne tyzaunt beyng the captayn, which was growen both in age and woodnes. But when the people vnderstod the purpose of Lysimachus, some gat stones, some good strong clubbes, and some cast ashes vpon Lisimachus. Thus there were manye of them wounded, some beyng slayne, and all the other chased away. But as for the wyked church robber hym selfe, thei killed him beside the treasury. Of these matters therfore ther was kept a court agaynst Menelaus. Now when the kyng came to Tyrus, they made a complaynte vnto hym of Menelaus, concerninge this busynesse & the ambassadours wer. iii. But Menelaus wnt and promysed Ptolomy, to geue hym much money, yf he woulde perswade the kyng. So Ptolomy wente to the kyng into a court (wher he was set to cole hym) and bzought hym oute of that mynde. In so much that he discharged Menelaus from the accusacions, that not wythstaundyng was cause of all myschefe, and those poore men, whiche yf they had tolde theyr cause: yee, before the Seischians, they shoulde haue bene iudged innocent, them he condempned to deathe: Thus wer thei sone punyshed, whych folowed vpon the matter for the cite, for the people, & for the holy vessel. Wherfore, they of Tyrus toke indignacion, and buried the honourablye. And so thzough the consciensness of them that were in power, Menelaus remaned stil in auctoritee increasynge in malice, to the hurt of the citezys.

The. v. Chapter.

Of the signes and tokens sene in Jerusalem. Of the ende and offence of Jason, The pursute of Antiochus agaynst the Jewes, The spoilyng of the temple.

The same tyme Antiochus made hym redye to go agayn into Egypt. Then were ther sene at Jerusalem xl dayes long, horsemen, runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whiche had rayment of golde, and speares. There wer sene also whole hostes of men weapened, and horses runnyng in an order howe they came together, howe they helde forth their sheldes, howe the harnesssed men drew oute theyr sweardes, and shot theyr darteres. The spere of the golden weapons was sene and of all maner of armure. Wherfore, every man praised, that those tokens myghte turne to good. Nowe when there was gone forth a false rumoure, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a thousand me and came sodenly vpon the cyte. The cytezens came vnto the walles, at the last was the cyte taken, and Menelaus fledde into the castel.

As for Jason, he spared not hys owne cyte: yzys in slaughter, nether considered he what greate euell it were, to destroye the prosperitee of hys owne kynsmen: but dyd as one that had gotten the vyctory of hys enemyes, and not of hys fryndes. For all thys gat he not the superioritye, but at the last receiued confusyon for his malyce, * and fledde agayne lyke a vagabound into the lande of the Ammonytes. 1. mach. 11.11

Finally for a rewarde of hys wyckendes he was accused before Artabha, the kyng of the Arabians. In so much that he was fayne to flee from cytee to cytee, beyng dispised of every mā as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abhominable personne. And at the last (as an open enemy of hys owne naturall countree and of the cyte: yzys) he was dyuen into Egypte.

Thus he that afore put manye oute of theyr owne natyue lande, perished frome home hym selfe. He went to Lacedemon, thynkynge there to haue gotten succour by reaso of kinred. And he that afore had cast many one out vnburyed was thzowne out hym self, no man mournyng for him, nor puttyng hym in hys graue: so that he nether enioyed the buryal of a stranger, nether was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

Now when this was done, the kyng suspect that the Jewes woulde haue fallen from hym: wherfore he came in a greate dyspleasure out of Egypt, * and toke the cytee by vyolence. He commaunded hys men of warre also, yf they shoulde kyll and none spare, but slaye downe suche as wythstode them, or clymed vp vpon the houses. Thus was ther a great slaughter of young men, olde men, women, chyldren, and byrgins.

In the dayes were there slayne. lxxx. M. fourtye thousande put in pyson, and no lesse solde. Yet was he not content with this, but durst go into the most holy temple (Menelaus that traitour to the lawes and to hys owne natural coustre, beyng hys guyde) and with his wyked handes take the holy vessell, whych the other kynge & cytees had geuen thether for the garnysyng and honoure of the place, thein tooke he in hys handes vnworthely, and despyled them.

Judic. v. a D So madde was Antiochus, that he consydered not, howe that God was a lytle wythe for the synnes of thein that dwelte in the cytee for the whiche such confusion came vpon that place. 1. Mac. iii. b * And why? yf it had not happened the to haue bene lapped in manye synnes, thys Antiochus (as sone as he had come) had sodenly ben punyshed, and shute out for hys presumption, * lyke as Heliodorus was, whom Seleucus the king sent to robbe the treasure. Neuer thelesse, God hath not cholen the people for the places sake, but the place for the peoples sake: and therfore is y place become partaker of the peoples trouble, but afterward shal it enioy the welth of the. And lyke as it is now forsaken in the wyath of almyghthy God, so when the great God is reconcyled, it shal be set vp in hys worshippe agayn.

So when Antiochus had taken a. M. & viii. C. talentes out of the temple, he gat him to Antioch in al the hast, thynkyng in hys pryde, that he myght make men sayle vpon the dype lande and to go vpon the see, suche an hys mynde had he. He lette debytes ther, to vere the people: At Jerusalem left he Philip a Whyrigia, in maners moze cruel then him selfe that sette hym there: At Garisin he left Andronicus and Menelaus whych were moze greuous to the citezys then other. * Nowe as he was thus set in malysce agaynst the Jewes, he sente Appolonys an hated prynce, with. xxii. M. commaundyng hym to slay those that wer of perfecte age, and to sell the women, maydens, and chyldren. When he came to Jerusalem, he sayned peace, and kepte hym styll vntyll the Saboth day. And then he commaunded hys me to take the to the weapons (for the Jewes kept holys day) and so he slewe all them that were gone forth to the open place, runnyng here and there through the cyte wyth hys men weaponed & murdered a great number. * But Judas Machabeus whych was the tenth, fled into the wyldernesse, led hys lyfe there wyth hys compaigne amonge wyld beasts: and vpon the mountaynes, dwelling ther and eatyng grasse, least they shoulde be partakers of the fylthynes.

The. vi. Chapyte.

1. Macha. i. c. The Jewes are compelled to leave the lawe of God. The temple is despyled. The readers: acconspired that they shall not abhorre the aduersyte wherewith the Lorde afflicted them. The greuous payne of Eleazarus.

At longe after thys, sent the kyng a messenger of Antioch, for to compell the Jewes, to alter the ordynances of the fathers, and the lawe of God, to defile the temple that was at Jerusalem, and to call it the temple of Jupp ter Olimpius: that they shoulde be in Gazarim as those whych dwell at the place of Jupiter: the herberous. Thys wyked sedicion of the vngodlye was heauye vnto all the people: for the temple was full of voluptuousnes, bybbyng and bolling of the heathen, of ribaudes and harlottes together. The women went into the holy place, and bare in that was not lawfull. The autler also was ful of vnlawfull thinges, which the lawe forbiddeth to laye vpon it. The Saboths were not kepte, the other solempne festes of the lande were not regarded. To bee plaine, there durste no man bee aknowne that he was a Jewe. In the day of the kinges byrth they were compelled perforce to offer, and whiche the feast of Bacchus was kepte, they were constrained to were garlandes of pype, and so to go aboute to the honoure of Bacchus.

Mozeouer through the counsaile of Ptolomy, there wente oute a commaundement in the nexte cytees of the heathen, that they shoulde in treate the Jewes in like maner: namely, to compell them for to do sacrificce after the lawes of the Gentiles: and who so would not, to put the to death. A piteous thynge was it to se. There were two women accused to haue circumcised their sonnes, whom when they had led round about the cite (the babes hangyng at theyr byestes) they cast them downe headlinges ouer the walles. Some that were crepte in denes and had kept the Saboth, were accused vnto Whylip, and bzent in the fyre: because that for fear of God they kepte the commaundement so stilly, and would not defend them selues. Nowe I beseech all those whych reade thys booke, that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersyte: and iudge the thinges (that are hapened) for no destruction, but for a chastenyng of our people. And why? The God suffereth not synners log to folow the; o wne mynde, but hostlye punysheth them, * it is a token of hys great louyng kyndnes. For thys grace haue we of God moze then other people, that he suffereth not vs longe to synne vnpunysched lyke as other nacyns, that when the daye of iudgement cometh, he make punyshe them in the fulnesse of theyr synnes. Yf we synne, he correcteth vs, but he neuer wythdroweth hys mercy from vs: and though he punyshe wyth aduersitee, yet doth neuer forsake hys people. But let thys that we haue spoken now wyth fewe wordes be for a warnyng and exhortacyon of the heathen.

Nowe wyl we come to the declarayng of the matter. Eleazar one of the principal scribes, an aged man and of a wel fauoured countenance, was constrained to gape with an open mouth, * and to eate swines flesch. But he desyring rather to dye gloriously then to liue wyth shame offered hym selfe wyllingly to the martyrdom. Nowe whiche sawe that he must nedes go to it he toke it paciently: for he was at a poynt with hym selfe, that he would consente to do no vnlawfull thynge for anye pleasure of lyfe. They that stode by beyng moued with pite (but not a right) for y old frendship of the man, toke hym a lyde aside princely and praised him that he would let such fleſhe be brought hym as were lawfull to eat, & then to make a countenance, as though he had eaten of the fleſhe of the ſacrifice lyke as the kynge commaunded, ſo ſo he might be deliuered from death, and ſo ſo the old frendſhip of the man, they ſpe woe hym thys kynndneſſe.

But he beganne to conſyder hys dyſcret and honourable age, hys noble and worſhyppfull ſtocke, and howe that fro hys yowth vpon he had bene of an honeſt and good conuerſacion, yee, howe conſtantly he had kept the ordynances and lawes commaunded by God, wherfore he gaue them thys aunſwer and ſayed: Yet had I rather fyſt belayed in my graue. * For it becometh not myne age (ſayed he) in any wyſe to dyſſemble, whereby manye younge perſonnes myght thyncke, that Eleazar beyng lxxx. yere olde and .x. were nowe gone to a ſtraunge lyfe and ſo through myne ypocriſy (for a lytle time of a tranſporyt lyfe) they myght be dyſceaued by this meanes alſo ſhould I deſpyle myne age, and make it abhomyable. For though I were now deliuered from the tormentes of men, yet ſhould not I eſcape the hand of almyghty God neither alpye nor dead, wherfore I wyl dye manfully and do as it becometh mine age. Wherby I maye paradyenture leane an example of ſtedfaſtneſſe for ſuche as be younge, yf I wyth a redy mynde and manfully dye an honeſt death, for the moost worthy and holy lawes.

When he had ſated theſe wordes, immediatly he was drawen to torment. Nowe they that led hym and were mylde a litle afore, beganne to take diſpleaſure, becauſe of the wordes that he ſayed, for they thoughte he had ſpoken then of an hie minde. But when he was in hys martyrdom, he mourned and ſayd Thou (O Lord) which haſt the holy knowledge: knoweſt openly, that wher as I might be deliuered from death I ſuffer theſe ſore paines of my body: but in my mind I am wel content to ſuffer them becauſe I feere the. Thus this man died leuynge the moztial of his death for an exaple, not only vnto yowng men, but vnto al ſpoule, to be ſtedfaſt & malp

The punyſhment of the ſeuē brethren and of theyr mother

It happened alſo that ther wer. vii. brethren (with their mother) take and compelled by the kynge* againſt the lawe, to eat ſwynes fleſhe, namelye wyth ſcourges and leathern whippes. And one of them which was the cheſt ſayed: What ſekeſt thou and what requyzeſt thou of vs? As for vs, we are readye rather to ſuffer death, then to offende the lawes of God & the fathers. Then was the kynge angrye, and had heat cauldrons and braſen pottes. Whych when they wer made hote, immediatly he commaunded the tounge of hym that ſpake fyſt to be cut out, to pull the ſkynne ouer hys heade, to pare of the edges of his handes and fete: yee, and that in the ſyghte of hys mother and the other of hys brethren. Now when he was clene mard, he commaunded a fyze to be made & ſo while there was any breath in hym to be fryed in the cauldron: In the whych when he had bene long payned: the other brethren wyth theyr mother exhorted hym to dye manfullye, ſaynge: The Lord God ſhal regard the truth, and comfort vs, lyke as Moſes teſtyfeth* and declareth in Deu. xxxii. hys longe, ſayng: and he wyl haue compaſſion on hys ſeruauntes.

So when the fyſt was dead after thys manner, they broughte the ſeconde, to haue hym in derpſon, pulled the ſkynne with the heate ouer hys head, and asked hym, yf he would eat ſwynes fleſhe, or he were payned in the other members alſo throughout hys body. But he anſwered boldlye, and ſayed: I wyl not do it. And ſo was he tormentyd lyke as the fyſt, and whē he was euen at the geuyng vp of the ghoſt he ſayed: Thou moost vngracious perſonne putteſt vs nowe to death, but the kynge of the worlde ſhal rayſe vs vp (whych he dye for hys lawes) in the reſurreccyon of euerlaſtynge lyfe.

After hym was the thyrde had in diſſion & when he was requyred, he putte out his tounge and that ryght ſone, holdyng forth his handes manfullye, and ſpake wyth a ſtedfaſt ſapeth: Theſe haue I of heauen, but nowe for the lawe of God I deſpyle them: for my truſte is that I ſhall receyue them, of him agayne. In ſo much that the kynge and they whych wer wyth him marueled at the younge mans boldneſſe, that he nothyng regarded the paines.

Now when he was dead alſo, they vered the fourth wyth the tormentes in lyke maner. So when he was nowe at hys death, he ſayed: It is better that we beyng putte to death of menne, haue our hope and truſt in God, for he ſhal rayſe vs vp agayne. * As for the, thou ſhalte haue no reſurreccyon to lyfe.

And when they had ſpoken to the fyfth they tormentyd hym. Then looked he vnto the kynge and ſayed thou haſt power among men for: thou art a mortal man alſo thy ſelf, to do what thou wilt, but thincke not, that God hath forſaken our generacion. Abide the tary ſtil a while, and thou ſhalt ſee the great power of God, howe he will punyſhe the and thy ſeede.

After him they broughte the. vi. which being at the poynt of death ſayed: We not dyſceaued (O kynge) for thys we ſuffer for our owne ſakes, becauſe we haue offended our God, & there fore maruelous thynges are ſhewed vpon vs. But thyncke not thou, whiche takeſt in hande to ſtrype agaynſt God, that thou ſhalte eſcape unpunyſhed.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) ſawe her ſeuē ſonnes dye in one dape, and ſuffered it patiently, becauſe of the hope that ſhe had in God yee, ſhe exhorted euerye one of them in reſpecial and that boldly and ſtedfaſtly with perfect wyl dome, wakyng vpper wyppſ thoughte with a manly ſtomacke, and ſayed vnto them: I can not tel how ye came in my wombe: for I neither gaue you brethren nor ſoule, no nor lyfe. It is not I poynded the members of your bodies together but the maker of the worlde, whyche fashioned the byrth of man, and began all thynges. Euen he also of hys owne mercy shal geue you bryth & lyfe agayne lyke as ye nowe regard not your owne selues for hys lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Antiochus that she had despised hym, therefore he let her go wth her repro-ues, and beganne to exhort the yongest sonne (whyche yet was left) not onely wth wordes but swoze vnto hym wth an oth that he shuld make hym a riche and welthy man (yf he wold forsake the lawes of hys fathers) yee, and that he shulde geue hym, whatsoeuer were necessary for hym. But when the yong man woulde not be moued, for al these thynges, he called his mother, & counsailed her to saue her sonnes lyfe And when he had exhorted her wth many wor-des, she promysed hym that she shoulde speake vnto her sonne. So she tourned her vnto hym: (laughynge the cruell tyrante to scozne) and spake wth a bolde voyce. O my sonne, haue pittie vpon me, that bare the nyne monethes in my wombe, that gaue the sucke, noysched the and brought the vp vnto this age. I beseech the my sonne looke vpon heauen and earth and all that is therein, & consider y^e God made them and mannes generacyon of naughte: so shalte thou not feare this hangman, but suffer death steadfastly, like as thy brythren haue done: that I maye receiue the agayne in the same mercy wth thy brythren.

Leuit. xlii
Deut. xliii

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes the yong man sayde whom loke ye for. Wherfore do ye tary? I wyl not obey the kynge's comaundemente, * but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moyses. As for thou that ymaginest all myseche agaynst the Jewes thou shalt not escape the hande of God, for we suffer these thyn-ges, because of our synnes.

And though God be angrie wth vs a lytle whyle (for our chastyng and reformatyon) yet shall he be at one agayne wth his seruauntes. But thou (O shameful and most abhomy-nable person.) Wyl not thy selfe through wayne hope, in beyng so malycious vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou hast not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whyche is almygh-tye, and seeth all thynges. My brythren that haue suffered a lytle payne are nowe vnder the couenante of euerlastynge life: but through the iudgemente of God, thou shalt be punysched ryghteously for thy pryde.

As for me lyke as my brythren haue done I offer my soule and my body for y^e lawes of oure fathers, callynge vpon God, that he wyl soone be merciful vnto oure people: yee, & wth paine and punyschmente * to make the graunte, that he only is God. In me now and in my brythre y^e wrath of all myghty God is at an end, which ryghteously is fallen vpon our people.

Then the kyng beyng kindled in anger was more cruel vpon hym then vpon al the other, & toke indignacion, that he was so lyghtly regarded. So this yong man dyed vndefyled, and put hys trust styl in the Lord, Last of al after y^e sonnes, was the mother put to deathe also. Let this nowe be ynough spoken, concernynge the offerynges, and extreme cruelties.

The viii Chappter.

Judas gathereth together hys host. Riccanor is sente agayne Judas. Judas exhorteth hys souldiers to constantnes. Ricca-nor is ouercome. The Jewes geue thanches after they haue put theyr enemyes to flight, dymyng the spoiles vnto the fatherles and vnto the wyddowes. Riccanor flyeth vnto Antiochus.

When Judas Machabeus, and they that were wth hym, went priuely into the townes, called theyr kynsol-kes and frendes together, toke vnto the all suche as contynued yet in the fayth & lawe of the Jewes, & brought forth vi. thous. men. So they called vpon the Lord, that he woulde haue an eye vnto hys people, whyche was troden doune of euery man: to be gracious vnto the temple that was defiled of the vngod-ly: to haue compassyon vpon the destruction of the cytie, whyche was shortly lyke to be layde waste, to heare the voyce of the bloude y^e cryed vnto hym: to remember y^e moste vnrightheous deathes of yong innocēt chyldezen, y^e blasphemes also done vnto his name & to punyssh them.

* Nowe when Machabeus had gathered this myltitude together, he was to myghty for the heathen (for the wrath of y^e Lord was turned into mercy) he fell vpon the townes and Cyties vnwares, bzent them, tooke the moste commodious places, and slewe many of the enemies. But specially he made suche chales by ryghte, in so muche that his manlynes was spoken of, euery where.

So when Whyllyppe sawe y^e the man increased by lytle and lytle, and that the matter prospered wth hym for the mooste parte: he wrote vnto Ptolomy whych was a captayne in Celo-cicia and Phenices, to helpe hym in the kynges busines. Then sent he Riccanor Patrocle a special frend of his in all the hast and gaue hym of the comon sorte of the heathen no lesse then. xx. thous. armed men, to rote out the whole generacion of the Jewes, haupng to help him one Gorias a man of warre, whych in matters concernyng battailes, had gre at experience. Riccanor ordeined also the tribute which the Romans shoulde haue had, to be geuen vnto the kyng out of the captiuite of the Jewes, namely. ii. tal-entes. And immediatly he sent to the citers of the seacoast, requirynge the for to by Jewes to be their seruauntes and bondmen, promysinge to sel them. lxxx. for one talent: but he considered not the wrath of almyghtie God, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of this he tolde the Je-wes that wer wth him of Riccanors commynge Nowe were there summe of them fearfull, not trustynge vnto the ryghteousnes of God, and fled theyr way.

But the other that remained, came together and besoughte the Lord, to deliuer them from that wyked Riccanor, which hadde solde them or euer he came nye them, and though he woulde not dooe it for theyr sakes, yet for the coue-nante that he made wth their fathers and because

because thei called vpon his holy and glorious name. And so Machabeus called hys men together, namely about. vi. M. exhortyng them not to agre, vnto their enemyes: neither to be afrayed for the multitude of theyr aduersaries commynge agaynst them vncyphreously: but to fight maly, considering the repzoze that thei had done to the holy place without cause, howe thei had despyssed and oppressed the cytee: pee, & destroyed the lawes of the fathers. * For they (saied he) trust in theyr weapons and boldnes but our confydence is in the almyghty Lorde which in the wyndyng of an eye may both destroy them that com agaynst vs, & al the world.

He exhorted the also to call to remembraunce vnto the helpe, that God shewyd vnto theyr fathers as when there perished an. C. and. lxxv. M. of Sennacheribs people: And of the battaile y thei had in Babilon agaynst y Galacians: how all the Macedonians that came to helpe them, stode in feare: and howe they beyng but onelye vi. M. slew an. C. and. xx. M. through the help that was geue them from heauen, wherby thei also had receiued many benefites.

Through these wordes y men toke good hertes vnto them, ready to dye for the law and the coultre. So he set vpon euery compaigne a captayn one of hys owne brethren: Simon, Ioseph and Ionathas, geuyng eche one. xv. C. men. He caused Edozas also to reade the holpe booke vnto them & to geue them a token of the helpe of god.

* Then he him self beyng captayn in the fore fronte of the battaile, buckled with Mycarioz. And God was their helpe, in so much that thei slew aboue. ix. M. men and compelled the more part of Micanors hoost to fle, thei wer so wounded and feble. Thus they tooke the mony from those that came to bye theym, and solored vpon them on euerlyde. But when the tyme came vpon them they turned, for it was the Saboth and therfore they solored nomore vpon the. So they toke their weapons and spoiles and kept the Saboth, geuyng thanks vnto the Lorde whych had deliuered them that day, and shewed them his mercy. After the Saboth, thei distributed the spoiles to the sicke, and to the fatherles, and to wyddowes, and the residue had they them selues with theirs. When thys was done, and thei all had made a generall prayer: they besought the mercyfull Lorde to be at one wyth hys seruauntes.

Of those also that were wyth Timotheus and Bachydes, whych foughte agaynst them they slew. xx. M. wanne hys and stronge holdes, and deuyded mo spoiles: euer geyng an equall porcyon vnto the sycke, to the fatherles to wyddowes, and to aged personnes.

And when they had diligently gathered their weapons together, thei layed them all in conueynient places, and the remnaunte of the spoiles brought they to Jerusalem. Thei slew also whi larches that wyked personne which was with Timotheus, and had vexed many Jewes. And when they helde the thankesgeuyng at Jerusalem for the victoery, they brett those that had set fyre vpon the portes of y temple: namely Calisthenes, which was fled into an house: and so thei gat a worthy rewarde for theyr wikednes. As for the most vngacious Micanor, which had brought a. M. marchauntes, to bye the Jewes he was through the helpe of the Lorde brought doune ene of them whom he regarded not, in so much that he put of his glorious raimente fled by see, and came alone to Antioch, with greateshame & dishonour whiche he gat through the destruction of his host. Thus he that promysed the Romaines to pay them their tribute, when he toke Jerusalem: Beganne now to say plainly, that God was the defender of the Jewes, and therfore not possyble to wounde them, because they solored the lawes whych God had made.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ Antiochus wylling to spoyle Persopolys, is dryuen to flyght As he persecuteth the Jewes, he is scythen of the Lorde. The sayned repentaunce of Antiochus he dyeth.

¶ The same time, cam* Antiochus agayne with dishonour out of Persis. For when he came to Persopolis, and undertoke to robbe the temple: and to subdue the citee, the people ranne together and defended them selues, in so much that he and hys were faine to fly with shame. And so after that flight, it hapened that Antiochus came agayn with dishonour. But when he came to Egbathana, he gat knowlege what was happened vnto Micanor and Timotheus. Now, as he was anauncyng hym self in his wrath, he thought he was able to aduenge the iniury that was done to them, vpon the Jewes and therfore commaunded to make ready hys charet, hastnyng on his iourneye, wythoute ceassyng, the iudgemente of God prouokynge hym because he had spoken so proudey that he would come to Jerusalem, and make it a graue of the Jewes. But the Lorde God of Israel, that seeth all thynges, smote hym wyth an vnspoylable plage, whiche no man coulde heale. For as sone as he had spoken these wordes, ther came vpon him an horrible payn of his bowelles, and a sore grefe of the armes.

And that was but right: for he had martyred other mens bowels with diuerse and straunge tormentes, howe be it he woulde in no wyse cease from his malyce. Pee, he was yet the prouder and more malycious agaynst the Jewes. But whyle he was commaundyng to make hast in the matter, it hapened that he fell downe violentlye from the charete so that it broused hys bodye, and dyd hym greates payne.

And so he that thought he might commaund the floudes of the sea (so proude was he beyonde the condicion of man) and to wey the hys mountaines in a pater of balace, was now brought doune to the ground, and carped vpon an hostyltetter, knowledgyng the manytest power of God vpon hym: so that the wyked bodye of hys was full of wormes whych in hys payne fell quicke out of hys flesh: In so much y hys hoost was greued wyth the smell and stynte of hym.

Thus

Actus. xli. d

The seconde booke

Thus he that a lytle afore thoughte he mighte reach to the starres of heauen, hym myghte no man now abyde nor beare for the vehemence of stycke. Therfore, he beyng broughte frome hys great pryde, beganne to come to the knowledge of hym selfe: for the punishmente of God warned hym, and his payn increased moze and moze. And when he hym selfe myght not abide hys owne stycke, he sayed these wordes: It is reason to be obedient vnto God, and that a man desire not to be like vnto him. This wycked person prayed also vnto the Lord, of whō he should haue optayned no mercye. And as for the cytee that he came vnto so hastily, to bryng it downe to the grounde, and to make it a graue for dead men: now he despyeth to delouer it free.

And as touchyng the Jewes, whom he had iudged not worthy to be buried, but would haue cast them oute for to be deuoured of the foules and wild beastes, sayng: that he would haue destroyed both olde and young: Now he promyleth, to make them like the citezens of Athens. And where as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promise to garnish it with great giftes, to encrease the holy ornaments, and of hys owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belongyng to the offerynges: yee, and that he would also become a Jewe hym selfe to go through euerye place of the worlde, and to preache the worde of God.

But when hys paines would not cease (for the righteous iudgement of God was come vpon hym) out of a very dyspayre he wrote vnto the Jewes, a letter of intercession, conteynyng these wordes. The kyng and prince Antiochus wiseth vnto the vertuous citezens of the Jewes, much health and good prosperite. Yf ye and your chyldren fare well, and yf all thynges go after your mynde: we geue greates thanks. In my sickenes also I do remember you louyngly for as I came out of Persia, & was taken with a sore disease: I thought it necessary to care for the commō welth. Nether dispaire I in my self but haue a good hope to escape this sickenesse.

But consideryng that my father led an host sometyme in the hier places, and shewed who shoulde reigne after hym, that (yf there happened any contrauersy, or any heard thyng were declared) thei in the land myghte knowe they cheste lord, that thei shoulde be no insurreccion: Again, when I ponder by my self, how that al the myghtie men, and neighbours round about are layng wayte, and loke but for oportunitie to do harme: I haue ordeined that my sone Antiochus shal reigne after me, whom I oft comēded to many of you, when I was in the hier kin domes, and haue written vnto hym as foloweth hereafter. Therfore, I pray you and require you to remember the benefices that I haue done vnto you generally, and in especial (and that euery man wilbe faithfull to me and to my sone) For I hope that he shalbe of sober and louing behauiour, and yf ye folow my deuice, he shalbe indifferente vnto you. * Thus y murderer and blasphemour of God was sore smytten: and lyke as he had intreated other men, so he died a miserable death in a straung cowntre vpon a mountaine. And his body did Philip (y went with hym) carry away: which carryng the sone of Antiochus went into Egypte to Ptolomy Philometor.

The .x. Chapter.

Judas Maccabees taketh the cytee and the temple. He becometh to shewe the actes of Eupator. The Jewes fight agaynst the Idumeans, Timotheus innuadeth Jerusaleme, with whom Judas ioyntly battayle. Some men apere in the ayre to the helpe of the Jewes, & mothers is slayne.

Machabeus nowe and hys companye (through the helpe of the Lord) went to the temple and y cite again, destroyed the alters and chapels that y he then had buylded through the stretes: clenched y temple & made an other alter of brickstone, and after .ii. yeres thei offered sacrificies, set forth y incense, the lightes and the wbead. When that was done thei fel downe flat vpon the grounde and besought the Lord, that thei might come nomoze into such trouble: but yf they sined any moze agaynst him, he hym selfe to chasten them wyth mercye, and not to come in the bandes of those aleauntes and blasphemous men. Nowe vpo the same daye that the straungers polluted the temple, it happened that on the very same day it was clenched again namely the .xxii. day of y moneth called Cassiu, thei kept egypte dayes in gladnes like as in the feast of the tabernacles remembryng, that not long afore thei held the feast of the tabernacles vpon the mounteines and in denes like beastes. And to the same token thei bare grene bowes, bzaunches & palmes, befoze hym that had geuen them good fortune to clense his place. Thei agreed also together, and made a statute y euery yere those dayes shoulde be solemnly kept of all the people of the Jewes. Nowe Antiochus then (y was called y noble) died: it is sufficiently tolde. Nowe wyl we speake of Eupator the sone of that wycked Antiochus: howe it happened wyth hym: & so wyth fewe wordes to comprehend the aduersyte that chaunced in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngedome, he made one Lysias which had bene captaine of the host in Phenices and Syria) ruler ouer the matters of y realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron, being a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to syt in iudgement for such wrong as was done vnto the) undertoke to deale peaceably wyth them. For the whych cause he was accused of the frenches befoze Eupator, & when he was suspecte to be a traytour (because he had left Eypres y Philometor had comyncted vnto him, and because he departed fro noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned hym selfe and dyed.

Nowe when Eozgys was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers and undertoke oft tymes, to warre with the Jewes. Mozeouer the Idumeans that held the strong holdes, receiued those y wer dyspuren from Jerusaleme & toke in hand to warre also. * But thei that wer with Machabeus besought & prayed vnto the Lord y he would be theyr helper, & so they fell vpon y strong holdes of the Idumeans, & wan many places.

The. xi. Chapter.

Lisias goeth aboute to overcome the Jewes. Succour is sent from heauen vnto the Jewes. The letter of Lisias vnto the Je-wes. The letter of hyng Antiochus vnto Lisias. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romans to the Jewes.

Now long after this, Lisias þ kynge of Syria & a kynsman of his, (whiche had the gouernance of his matters) toke soze displeasure for the thynges þ had happened, & when he had gathered. lxx.
M. men of fote w all the hoste of þ horsmen, he came agaynst þ Jewes, thynkyng to wyne þ cy-tie, to make it an habitation of þ heathen: & the temple wold he haue to be an house of lucre, lyke as þ other gods houses of the heathen are, & to sell the prestes offyce enery pere. Not conside-

* trustyng in the multitud of fotemen, in thous-des of horsmen, & in his foure scoze Elephantes.

So he came into Jedy & then to Bethsura when Machabeus & his company knewe þ the strong holdes wer taken, * they fel to thep pra-ier w wepyng & teares befoze þ Lorde. And all þ people in lyke maner besought him, þ he wold sed a good angel to deliuer Israel. Machabeus him selfe was þ fyrst þ made him redy to þ batieoparde them selues, & to helpe thep brethren.

And when they were goyng forth of Jerusalem ed in thep myndes, in so much þ they wer ready, not only to fyght w men, but w þ most cruel thus. Now the kynges letter contayned these wordes: kyng Antiochus sendeth greetyng vnto his brother Lysias. For so muche as our father is now dead, our wyl is, þe they whiche are in our realme, liue wout any insurreccion, & euery man to bee diligent in hys owne matters. We vnderstand also þe Jewes wolde not consent to our father, for to be brought vnto þe custome of the Gentyles, but stypse to kepe theyr owne statutes, for þe which cause they require of vs also, to let them remain still by theyr owne lawes.

¶ Therfore our mynd is þe this people shal be thers. Thou shalte do vs a pleasure therefore, yf þe send vnto them & agre with them, þe whē they are certifyed of our mynd, they may be of good chere, and looke to theyr owne welth. And this was the letter, þe the kyng wrote vnto þe Jewes kyng Antiochus sendeth greetyng vnto the coucell, & the other people of the Jewes: If ye fare well: we haue oure desyre: as for vs, we are in good helth. Menelaus came & tolde vs howe þe your desyre was to come doune to your people which ar with vs. Therfore, those þe wyl come we geue them fre liberty, vnto the .xxx. daye of the moneth of Apryl, þe they may vse þe meates of the Jewes & theyr owne lawes, lyke as afore-and none of the by any maner of waies to haue harne for thynges done in ygnorauce. Menelaus whom we haue sente vnto you, shal comen with you at large: fare ye well. In the .xl. viii.

yere, the .xv. daye of the moneth of Apryl.

¶ The Romans also sent a letter contaynyng these wordes: Quintus Menius & Titus Manilius embassadors of the Romans, sende gre-etyng vnto the people of þe Jewes. Looke what Lysias þe kynges kynsman ha the graunted you we graunt the same also. But as concernyng þe thynges which he referred vnto the kyng sende hether some wþ speche, & ponder þe matter diligēt ly among your selues, þe we may cast the best to your profite, for we must depart now vnto Antioch. And therefore wyrt shortly agayne, þe we may know your mind. Fare wel. In þe .xl. viii. yere, the .xv. daye of the moneth of Apryl.

The .xii. Chapter.

¶ Timotheus troubleth the Jewes. The wyched dede of the Jepites against the Jewes. Judas is aduenged of the. He setteth fire on the gate of Iamnia. The persute of the Jewes against Tymothy. Timotheus is taken and let goo vnhurt. Judas pursueth Gorgias. Judas offerynge sacrifice for the deade sheweth the hops of the resurrection.

¶ When these covenantes were made: A-Lysias went vnto þe kyng, and the Jewes tyld theyr grounde. But Timotheus, Appolonius the sone of Gemei, Jerome & Demophon þe proud Rychanoz, the captain of Cypres, & they þe play in those places, wold not let the lue in rest & peace. They of Joppa also diden such a dam-ful dede. They prayed þe Jewes þe dwelt among them, to go wþ theyr wyues & chyldren into the shyppes which they had prepared & did wþ them as though they had ought them none euil. Wyl for so much then as ther was gone forth a general proclamacio thow þe cyprie because of peace they consented thereto, & suspect nothig, but whē they were gone forth into þe depe, they drowned no lesse then .ii. C. of them. When Judas knewe of this cruelty he wed vnto his people, he commaunded those þe were wþ hym to make them redy, exhortig them to cal vpon God þe righteous Judge: went forth against those murderers of his brethren, set fyre in þe haven by nyght, brett by þe ships, & those þe escaped from þe fire, he slew wþ the sword. And whē he had done this, he departed as though he wolde come again, & roote out al the of Joppa. But whē he had gottē word þe the Iammites wer mided to do in lyke maner vnto þe Jewes which dwelt among the, he came vpon the Iammites by nyght, & set fyre on þe hauen wþ the ships, so þe light of þe fyre was sene at Jerusalem, vpon a .ii. C. & .xl. furlonges.

¶ Now whē they wer gone from thence .ix. furlonge, in theyr iourney toward Tymotheus. v M. men of fote, & .v. C. horsemen of þe Arabians fought wþ him. So when þe battail was earnest & prospered wþ Judas thow þe helpe of God: þe residue of þe Arabians being ouercome, besought Judas to be at one wþ them, & promysed to geue hym certaine pastures, & to do hi good in other thynges. Judas thynkyng þe they shulde in dede be profitable concerning many thynges, promised them peace: wherupon they shoke handes, & so they departed to theyr tentes. Judas wente also vnto a cypre, whiche was very fast kept wþ byrdges, fered rounde about þe walles, & diuers hides of people dwelling therein, called Caspin.
They þe wer wþ in it, put such trust in þe strength of þe walles, & in store of vyttayles: þe they were þe slacker in theyr doinges, cursyng & reuyllynge Judas wþ blasphemies, & speaking such wordes as it becōmeth not. But Machabeus calling vpon the great pryncce of the world (which wout any battail rāmes, or ordinaunce of warre, dyd cast doune the walles of Jerycho, in the tyme of Josue) fell māfully vpon the walles, toke þe citie) thow þe helpe of þe lord) made an exceedig great slaughter: In so much þe a lake of two fur-lōges brode which lay therby semed to flowe wþ bloud of þe slain. Then departed they fro thence
vii. C. & .l. furlonges, & came to Taraca vnto þe Jewes þe are called Tubiani. But as for Ty-motheus, they could not get hym there, for (not one matter dyspatched) he was departed frome thence, & had leftte certayn men in a very strong holde. But Dosithens, & Sosipater which wer captaynes

captaynes with Machabees, & the those of Ty-motheus had left in the house of defence, even .x.
men. And Machabees prepared him to the men of Ty. men of Ty were about hym, let them in orde by companies, & went forth against Tymothe-us, whiche had to hym an. C. xx. men of fote two thousande and fyue hundred horsemen.

When Tymotheus had knowlage of Judas comynge, he sent of women, chyliden, & the other baggage vnto a castell called Carnion (for it could not be won, & was hard to come vnto, the waies of the same places wer so narrow) & whē Judas company came fyrst in sight, & enemies were smytten with feare, thow so the presence of God: whiche seeth al thinges: In so much that they fling one here, another there, were rather dys-comfyred of theyr owne people, & wounded w the strokes of theyr owne swerdes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpon the pany-ng those vngodly, & slew. xxx. men of the Tymotheus also hym selfe fell into the handes of Dositheus, & Solipater, whome he besoughte w many prayers, to let hym go with his lyfe, because he had many of the Jewes fathers & bethren in prisō, whiche (if they put him to death) might be disapointed. So whē he had promysed faithfully to deliuer them agayne accordyng to the condicyon made, they let hym go withou harme for the belth of the bethren. And when Judas had slayne xxv. men, he went from Carnion.

Nowe after that he had chased awaye, & slayne his enemies, he remoued his host toward Ephraim a strong citie, wherein dwelt many diuers people of the heathen, & the strong yong men kept the wal-les defendyng them myghtely. In this citie was much ordinaunce & prouisiō of darters. But whē Judas & his company had called vpon almyghty God (whiche w his power breaketh the strength of enemies) they wan the citie, & slew. xxv. men. of the y were w. From thence went they to the cy-tie of Scythians, whiche lyeth. vi. C. furlōges from Jerusalem. But when the Jewes whiche wer in the citie testified: that the cytyzens delte lounghly with them: yee, & intreated the kindly in the time of theyr aduersite, Judas & his company gaue the thanks, deliuerynge them to be frendly to the vnto them, & so they came to Jerusalem, the hye feast of the weakes beyng at hand. And after the feast of pentecost they went forth against Gorgias the gouernour of Idumia, w. iii. C. men of fote and
iii. C. horsemen. Whiche when they met together it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slaine. And Dositheus one of the Machabees a mighty horseman toke holde of Gorgias, & wolde haue take him quicke. But an horseman of Thracia fel vpon him & smote of his arme so that Gorgias escaped & fled into Moza, when they now were of Gorgias syde, had fought long & wer wery Judas called vpon the Lord, that he wold be theyr helper, & captain of the felde: & with that he began a manly voice to take vp a songe of praise, & a crye. In so much that he made his enemies afraied & Gorgias men of war toke their flight. So Judas gathered his host, & came into the cytie of Dulal. And when the .vii. day came vpon the, they clensed the selues (as the custome was) & kepte the sabboth in the same place. And vpon the daye folowynge, Judas & his company came to take vp the bodies of them that were slayne, & to burye them in their fathers graues. Now vnder the coates of certayne Jewes whiche were slaine, they founde Jewels that they had taken out of the temple & from the ydols of the Janiters: whiche thing is forbidden the Jewes by the lawe. The euery man saw, that this was the cause wherfor they wer slain

And so euery man gaue thanks vnto the Lord for his ryghteous iudgement, whiche had opened the thing that was hyd. They fell downe also vnto their prayers, & besoughte God, that the faute whiche was made, myght be put out of remembraunce. Besides that, Judas exhorted the people earnestly, to kepe them selues from suche sinne: for so muche as they sawe before theyr eyes, that these men were slayne for the same offence. So he gathered of euery one a certayne, in so muche that he brought together two. M. dragmars of syluer, whiche he sent vnto Jerusalem that ther might a sacrifice be offered for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd well & right: for he had some consideracyon & ponderynge of the lyfe that is after this tyme. For yf he had not thought that they, whiche wer slain, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous and vaine, to make any vow or sacrifice for the that were dead. But for so muche as he saw, that they whiche dye in the fauoure & belefe of God, are in good rest & ioie, he thought it to be good & honorable for a reconsilyng, to do the same for those whiche wer slain, that the offence might be forgiven

The. xiii. Chapter.

The comynge of Eupator into Jewrye. The death of Menelaus: Machabees goynge to fight against Eupator: moueth his souldiers vnto prayer. He byllyeth fourentene thousande men in the tentres of Antiochus. Rhodocus the betrayer of the Jewes is taken. Antiochus retayneth frendshyppe with the Jewes.

In the C. lxx. yere gat Judas know-lage, that Antiochus Eupator was co-mynge with a great power into Jew-rye, and Lysias the steward & ruler of hys matters wth hym haupng an. C. & x. men of fote. v. C. horsemen. xxi. Elephantes, and. iii. C. charrets Menelaus also ioynd hym selfe with the (but wth great dysceit) & spake fayre to the kynge, not for any good of the countrye, but because he thought to haue bene made some great man of auctoryte. But the king of kinges moued Antiochus mynde agaynst this vngodly person, & Lysias informed the kynge that this Menelaus was the cause of all mischefe: so that the kynge commaunded to take him, & (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place. There was also in the same place a tower of. L. cubytes hye, heaped w ashes: but aboue, it was so made, that men myght loke doune on euery syde. Wherunto the kynge commaunded that shamefull persone to be caste among the ashes, as one that was cause of all vngodlynesse And reaso it was that the vntowly shuld dye such a death, & not to be buried: for he had done much myschefe vnto the altar of God (whose fyre & ashes were holy) therfore was it ryght, that he hym selfe also shulde be destroyed with ashes.

But

The seconde booke

But the kyng was wood in his mind, & came to shewe hym selfe moze cruell vnto the Jewes then his father was. Whiche when Judas perceived, *he commaunded þ people to call vpon þ Lord night & day that he wold now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alway. For they were afrayed to be put from the lawe, from the natural country & from the holy temple: & not to suffer the people (which a lytle while afore began to recouer) to be subdued agayne of þ blasphemous nacyōs. So when they had done this together, & besought the Lord for mercie, with weeping & fastyng. iii. dayes long flat vpon the ground. Judas exhorted them, to make the selues ready. But he & the elders together deuised to go forth fyrst w the people, afore the kyng brought his hoste into Jewry, and afore he beleged the cytie, & commyt the matter vnto God.

Wherfore, he ascribed the power of al thynges vnto God y maker of þ world exhortig his people to fyght manfully (per. cuen vnto death for the lawes, the temple, the cytie, the owne natyue country, & to defend þ cytizens: & let his host befoze Modi. He gaue them also þ were w him a token of þ vpyctory of God, chosing out þ manlyest yonge men, went by nyght into þ kinges pauplyon, slewe of þ hoste. xiiii. M. men. * & y greatest Elephates w those þ sat vpon them.

Dhus when they had brought a great feare & rumour emong þ tentes of the enemyes, & all thynges went prosperously w them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God being the helper & defender. Nowe when the kyng perceived the manlinesse of the Jewes, he went about to take þ strong places by craft, & remoued his hoste * vnto Bethsura, which was a wel kepte house of defence of the Jewes: but they wer chased away, hurt & dyscomfyted. And Judas sent vnto them þ wer in it suche thynges as wer necessary. In the Jewes hoste also there was one Rhodocus which tolde the enemyes the secretes: but they sought hym oute, & when they had gotten hym they put hym in pryson. After this dyd the kyng comen with them þ wer in Bethsura, tooke truce with them, departed & stroke battayle with Judas, whiche ouercame hym.

E But when he vnderstoode, that Hyppippe (whome he had lefte to be ouerseer of his busyness at Antioch) beganne to rebell agaynst hym he was astonyed in his mynde: so that he yelded hym selfe to the Jewes, and made them an othe to do whatso euer they thought ryghte.

Nowe when he was reconcyled with them: he offered, made much of þ temple, gaue grete gyftes vnto it, embzased Machabeus, making hym captayne and gouernoure from Ptolomays vnto the Gerrenes. Neuerthelesse, when he came Ptolomays, the people of the cytie were not content with the bonde of frendshyppe: for they were afrayed, that he wolde breake the couenant. Then wente Lysias vp into the seate and enfourmed the people, shewed them þ cause why: and pacyfied them. So he came agayne vnto Antioch. This is nowe the matter concerning the kynges iourney, and his returne.

The. xliiii. Chapter.

By the mocyon of the Lorde, Demetrius sendeth Nicanor to kill the Jewes. Nicanor maketh a compacte with the Jewes: which he yet breaketh through the mocyon of the kyng. Nicanor commaundeth Razia to be taken. The boldnes of Razia.

After thre yerres was Judas enfourmed howe that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come by w a grete power and shippes, thoro the bank of Tropolus, to take certayne comodious places and countreys, agaynst Antiochus and his captayne Lysias. Nowe Alcimus (whiche had bene hys preast, and wylfully despyled hym selfe in the tyme of the mixtynge) seyng þ by no meanes he coulde be helped, nor haue any moze entraunce to the altar: he came to kyng Demetrius in the. C. & li. yere, presentynge vnto hym a crowne of gold, a palme & an Olive tree: which (as men thought) belonged to the temple, and þ daye he helde his tonge. But when he had gotten oportynite for his madnes, Demetrius called hym to counsaile, and asked hym, what thynges or counsailes the Jewes leane vnto. He answered: The Jewes that be called asyde (whose captayne is Judas Machabeus) mayntayne warres, make insurreccyons, and wyl not let the realme be in peace.

For I being despyued of my fathers honour (I meane the hys preasthode) am come herher: partely because I was faythful vnto the kyng and partely because I sought the profyte of the cytizens. And why all our people, thoro the wyckednesse of them, are not a lytle troubled. Wherfore, I beseeche the (O kyng) consyder all these thynges diligently, & the make some prouisyon for the lande and the people, accordyng to the kyndnes that thou haste offered vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the vpper hand, it is not possyble that men can lyue in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupng euell wyl at Judas, let þ kyng Demetrius on fyre agaynst hym: * which immediatly sent Nicanor (ruler of þ Elephates) a captayne into Jewry, commaundyng hym to take Judas hym selfe alyue, but to slay them that were with hym, and to make Alcimus hys preaste of the great Temple.

Then the heathen which fled out of Jewry from Judas, came to Nicanor by strokes, thynkyng the harme and decaye of the Jewes to be thei welfare. Nowe when þ Jewes hearde of Nicanors cūming, and the gathering together of the heathen, they sprynckled them selues w earth * and besought him which made them his people, and euer defended his owne porcyon w euident tokens, that he wold preserue thei styl. So at the commaundement of the captayne, they remoued from thence, and came to a toune called Dessasan. And Simon Judas brother sel in hande wth Nicanor, but thoro the sodaine comyng of the enemyes, he was afrayed.

Neuerthelesse, Nicanor hearyng the manynesse of them that were with Judas, & the bold stomakes that they had to fyghte for thei natural countrey, durste not proue the matter w bloudshedding. Wherfore, he sent Theodocius Theodocius, and Mathias befoze, to geue and to take peace. So when they had take long aduise-ment therupon and the captayne shewed it vnto þe multytud, they wer agreed in one mind to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sytte vpon these matters quyetly among them selues, the scooles also were brought & set forth. Neuertheles, Judas commaunded certayne men of armes to wayte in conuenient places, leaste there shulde sodaynely aryse any euell thezowe the enemyes. And so they communed reasonable together.

¶ Which letters when Nicanor had sene, he was at his wyttes end, and soze greued, that he shulde bryake þe thynges wherein they had agreed specially seying Machabeus was the man þe neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myghte not withstande the kyng he sought oportynyte to fulfill his comaundement. Notwithstandyng when Machabeus sawe that Nicanor he ganne to be charliche vnto hym, and þe intreated hym moze roughlye then he was wonte, he perceiued þe suche vnkynndnes came not of good and therfoze he gathered a fewe of his men, and withdreyde hym selfe from Nicanor. Whiche when he knew that Machabeus had manfully preuented hym, he came into þe great and moke holy temple: & commaunded þe prestes (whiche were doyng theyr vsual offerynges) to delyuer hym þe man. And when they swaie þe they coulde not tell where the man was whome he soughte he stretched out his hande, * and made an othe, sayng: If ye wyll not delyuer me Judas captiue I shall remoue this Temple of God into a playne felde, I shall bryake downe the aulter, and consecrate thys temple vnto Baccus. After these woordes he departed.

¶ Then the prestes lyfte vp theyr handes to ward heauen, and besought him that was euer the defender of theyr people, saynge: Thou O Lorde of all, which haste nede of nothyng, woldest that the temple of thy habitacyon shuld be among vs. Therfoze nowe O most holy Lorde kepe this house euer vndefyled * whiche lately was cleynd. Now was there accusyd vnto Nicanor, one Razis an alderman of Jerusalem a louer of the holy cytie, and a man of god reporte: which for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. This man oftetymes, when the Jewes wer mynded to kepe them selues vndefyled, defended and deliuered them, beyng content stedfastly to spend his bodye and his lyfe for his people.

So Nicanor wylllyng to declare the hate þe he bare to the Jewes, sent. v. C. men of ware to take him: for he thought, if he gat hym, he shuld bryng the Jewes in great decay. Now when þe people began to rushe in at his house, to bryake the doores, and to set fyre on it: he beyng now taken, wold haue defended hym self w his sword chosyng rather to dye manfullye, then to yelde hymself to those wycked doers: & because of his noble stocke, he had rather to haue ben put to þe extreme cruelty. Notwithstanding, what time as he mysted of his stroke for hast, and þe multytude fell in vpolently betwyxte the doores, he ran boldly to þe wal, and cast hym selfe doune manfully among þe heape of them, whiche gaue sone place to his fall, so that he fell vpon his bellye. Neuerthelesse, whyle there was yet bryeth with in hym, he was kyndled in his mynde, & whyle his bloude gushed oute exceedingly (for he was verpe soze wounded, he ran thozow the myddest of the people and gat hym to þe toppe of a rocke. So when his bloude was gone, he took out his owne bowels with both his handes, and threwe them vpon the people, callyng vpon the Lorde of lyfe and spyrte to rewarde hym this agayne and so he dyed.

The. xv Chapter.

¶ Nowe when Nicanor knew that Judas was in the countre of Samaria, he thoughte with all his power to stryke a felde with hym, vpon a Sabboth daye. Neuerthelesse the Jewes that were compelled to go wyth hym, sayed: O do not so cruelly and vnkynndly, but halow the Sabboth daye, and woorthyp hym, that seeth all thynges for all thys, yet sayed the vngacious person * Is ther a myghtie one in heauen, þe commaunded the Sabboth daye to kepte? And when they sayed yee, the luyng God, the myghty Lorde in heauē * commaunded the seuenth day to be kept he sayed: And I am myghtie vpon earth, to commaunde theim for to arme them selues, and to perfourme the kynges busynes. Notwithstandyng, he myght not haue his purpose.

Nicanor had deuised with great prid to overcome Judas, and to bryng away the vycioze: But Machabeus had euer fast confydence and a perfect hope in God, that he would helpe him and exhorted his people, not to be afrayd at the comyng of the heathen: but alway to remember the helpe þe had ben shewed vnto them from heauen: yee, & to be sure now also, þe Almighty God

God wolde gene them þ' vyctory. He spake vnto the out of the lawe & prophetes, puttyng the in remembrance of þ' battayles þ' they had strycken afore and made the to be of a good courage

W So when they hertes were pluct vp, he shewed them the disceyfulnesse of the heathen and howe they wolde kepe no couenaunte nor othe. Thus they weaponed them: not wth the armour of chyldre & speare, but wth wholsome wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also wherthorowe he made the all glad, which was thys: he thought þ' he sawe Onias (which had bene hys preaste, a vertuous and a louyng man sad, and of honest conuersacion, well spoken, & one that had bene exercysed in godlynesse from a chyldre) holdyng vp his handes toward heauen, and praysyng for his people. After this they appered vnto hym another man which was aged honourable & gloruous. And Onias sayde Thys is a louer of the brythren, and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth muche for the people and for all the holpe cytie: Jeremy þ' Prophet of God. He thought also that Jeremy helde out his ryght hand, and gaue vnto Judas a swerd of gold, sayyng: Take this holy swerd a gyfte from God, wherwith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israel.

C And so they were well comforted thorothe the wordes of Judas, & toke courage vnto them so that the yonge men wer determyned in their myndes to fyghte, and to byde styll ye at it: In somuche that the thynges which they tooke in hande, they boldnesse shewed the same, because the holpe cytie and the temple were in perel: for the which they tooke more care then for they wyues, chyldren, brythren and kynnsfolkes.

Agayne they that were in the cytie, were most carefull for those which were to fyght. Nowe when they were all in a hope that the Iudgemente of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes drew nye, the hoste beyng sette in arape, the Elephantes & horsemen every one standing in his place: Machabeus consyderyng the comyng of the myltitude, the ordynaunce of theyr weapons, the cruelnesse of the beastes, and helde vp his handes toward heauen, callynge

W vpon the Lorde that doth wonders, * which getteth not the vyctory after the myltitude of þ' weapons and power of the hoste (but to them þ' please hym) accordyng to his owne wyll. Therfore in his prayer he sayde these wordes.

O Lorde, * thou that dydest sende thyne Aungel in the tyme of Ezekiah kyng of Iuda, & in the host of Sennacherib slewest an. C. lxxx and. v. W. sende nowe also thy good aungel before vs (O Lorde of heuens) in the fearfulness and drede of thy myghty arme, & they which come agaynst thy holpe people to blaspheme them, maye bee strayed. So he made an ende of his wordes. Then Ricanoz and they þ' were with hym, drew nye wth shawmes, and songes: but Judas and his compaigne with prayer and callynge vpon God.

Wth they handes they smote, but with they hertes they prayed vnto the Lorde, & slew no lesse then foure & thyrty thousande men: for thorothe the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Nowe when they left of, and were turning agayne wth ioye, they vnderstode that Ricanoz hym selfe was slayne with the other. Then they gaue a greete shoute and a crye, praysyng the Almyghty Lorde wth a loude voyce. And Judas (which was euer ready to spende hys bodye and lyfe for hys cytyzens) commaunded to smyte of Ricanoz head, with his arme and hande, and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called all þ' people, and the prestes to the aulter with those that were in the castell, and shewed them Ricanoz head, and his wycked hande which he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the temple of God. He caused the tonge also of the vngodly Ricanoz to be cut in lytle peces, & to be caste vnto the foules: and the cruell mans hande to be hanged vpon before the temple.

So every man gaue thanks vnto the Lorde sayyng: blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vndefyled.

As for Ricanoz heade, he hanged it vpon the hye castell, for an eydent and plain token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed all together, to kepe that daye holpe, namelye the thyrtyene daye of the moneth Adar which in the Syrians language is called the nexte day before Mardocheus day. Thus was Ricanoz slaine and from that tyme forth the the Jewes had the cytie in possession. And here wyl I now make an ende.

Scityls: the people whych sat in darknesse and in the shadowe of death, sawe great lpght: and to them whych sat in the regyon and shadow of death, is the lpght sprong vp.

From that tyme Iesus beganne to * preach, and to saue: * repente, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. I * As Iesus walked by the see of Galile, he sawe two bzetzen: Symon whych was called Peter, and Andrew hys brother, castynge a nette into the see (for they were fyshers) and he sayeth vnto them: foloe me, and I will make you * (to become) * fyshers of men. And they streyght waye left the nettes, and folloed hym.

And when he was gone forth fro thence, he sawe other two bzetzen, James the sonne of zebede, and Iohn hys brother, in the shyppe wth zebede theyr father, mendyng theyr nettes, and he called them. And they immediatlye * left the shyp and theyr father, and folloed hym. I

And Iesus wet about al Galile, teachyng in theyr synagoges, and preachyng the Gospell of the kyngdome, & healyng all maner of sycke-nes, and all maner of dyscase amonge the people. And hys fame spred abrode throughtout al Syria. And they brought vnto hym al sycke people that were taken wth dyuerse dyscasses and gry-pynges, and them that were possessed wth deu-ils: and those whych were lunatyke, and those that had the palsey: and he healed them. * And there folloed hym greate multytudes of people, from Galile, and from the ten cyties and fro Jerusalem, and from Jewrye, and from the regyons that lye beyonde Iordane.

The .v. Chapter.

In this Chapter and in the two nexte folowyng is contyned the moste excellent and louyng sermon of Christ in the mounte: whiche sermon is the very keye that openeth the vnderstandyng into the lawe. In this fyfth Chapter, specyally he preacheth of the cyght beatitudes or blessed-nes: Of manlaughtre, wrath and anger, of aduourtye, of swearyng, of suffryng wrong and of loue, euen toward a mannes enemyes.

When he sawe the people, he went vp into a mountayne, and when he was set, hys dyscyples cam to hym and after that he had opened hys mouthe, he taught them, sayng:

* Blessed are the poore in spryte for theyr is the kyngdome of heauen. * Blessed are they that mourne: for they shall receaue comfote. Blessed are the meke: for they shall receaue the enherytaunce of the earth. Blessed are they whyche * longer and theyr after ryghteousnes: for they shall be satysfied. Blessed are the mercyfull: for they shall obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in hearte: for they shall se God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. Blessed are they whyche suffre persecution for ryghteousnes sake: for theyr is the kyngdome of heauen. * Blessed are ye when me-ceule you, and persecute you, and shall falselye saye all maner of euell sayng agaynst you for my sake. * Reioyse and be glad, for great is your re-warde in heauen. I For so persecuted they the prophetes, whyche were before you.

* Ye are the salte of the earth: * But pf the salt haue lost the saltnes, what shall be seasoned therwpyth? It is thence forth good for nothyng but to be cast out, and to be troden doune of men.

Ye are the lpght of the worlde. A cytie that is set on an hyll can not be hyd, * nether do men lpght a candell, and put it vnder a bushell, but on a candelstpycke, and it geueth lpghte vnto all that are in the house. Let poure lpght so shyne before men, * that they maye see poure good workes and glorify your father whych is in heauen. I * Thynke not that I am come to destroye the lawe, or the prophetes: no I am not come to de-stroye, but * to fulfyll. For truelye I saye vnto you: * tyll heauen and earth passe, one iotte or one tytle of the lawe shall not escape tyll all bee fulfyllled.

Whosoener therfore breaketh * one of these least commaundementes, and teacheth men so, he shall be called the least in the kyngdome of heauen. But whosoener doth, and teacheth the same shall be called great in the kyngdome of heauen. I * For I saye vnto you: excepte poure ryghteousnesse excede the ryghteousnesse of the Scrybes and pharyses, ye can not entre into the kyngdome of heauen.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of the olde tyme. * Thou shalt not kyl: whosoener kylleth, shall be in daunger of iudgement. But I saye vnto you: that whosoener is angrye wth hys brother (vnaduyedly) shall be in daunger of iudgement. And whosoener saye vnto his brother Racha, shall be in daunger of a coucell. But whosoener sayeth thou foole, shall be in daunger of hell fyre. Therfore pf thou offrest thy gyft at the alter, and there remembreste that thy brother hath ought agaynst the: leaue there thyne offryng before the alter * and go thy way first and be reconcyled to thy brother, and then come and offre thy gyft. I

* Agre ye wth thyne aduersarye quychely whyles thou arte in the waye wth hym, lest at any tyme the aduersarye delpyer the to the iudge and the iudge delpyer the to the mynyster, and then thou be cast into prison. Verely, I saye vnto the, thou shalt not come out thence, tyll thou haue payed the vtmoste farthyng.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of olde tyme. * Thou shalt not commyt aduourty.
But I say vnto you: * that whosoener loketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath com-mytted aduourty with her already in his herte.

* Pf thy ryght eye hynder the, plucke hym out and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the that one of thy members perishe, then that thy whole body should be caste into hell. And pf thy ryght hande hynder the, cutte hym of, and caste hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perishe then that all thy bodye should be cast into hell. I It is sayde whosoeuer putterh a waye hys wyfe, * let hym geue her a letter of deuozement. * But I saye vnto you: that whosoener doth put away his wyfe (excepte it be for fornycation) causeth her to breake matrimonye. And whosoener marryeth her that is deuozed commytteth aduourtye.

As iii Agayn

The Gospell

Agayne, ye haue herde howe it was sayde to them of old tyme: *thou shalt not forswear thy selfe, but shalt perfourme vnto the Lorde those thynges that thou swearest. *But I saye vnto you: sweare not at all, nether by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by the earth, for it is his fote-stole, nether by Ierusalem, for it is the cytie of the greate kynge: nether shalt thou sweare by thy head because thou canst not make one heer white or blacke. But your communicacio shall be: yea, yea, naye, naye. For whatsoeuer is added more then these, it commeth of euell.

Ye haue herde that it is said: * an eye for an eye: and a toth for a toth. But I saye vnto you, that ye resyste not euell. But * whosoever geue the a blowe on the ryght cheke, turne to hym the other also. And if any manne wyl sue the at the lawe, & take away thy coate, let hym haue thy cloke also. And whosoever wyl copel the to go a myle, go wyth hym twayne. Geue to hym that asketh the, and from hym that woulde bozowe, turne not thou awaye.

Ye haue herde that it is sayde, * thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure, and hate thyne enemye. But I say vnto you: loue your enemyes. Blesse * them that curse you. * Do good to them that hate you. Praye for them whych hurte you and persecute you, for ye may be the chyldren of your father whych is in heauen, for he maketh his sunne to aryse on the euell, & on the good, and sendeth rayne on the iust and on the vniuste. For * if ye loue them whych loue you: what rewarde haue ye? Do not the publicans also euen so? And if ye make muche of your brethren onely, what synfuler thyng do ye? Do not also the publicans like wise? * ye shall therefore be perfecte as your father which is in heauen is perfecte.

The. vi. Chapter.

Of almes, prayer, and fastyng. He forbyddeth the carefull sekynge of worldly thynges.

Ake hede for ye geue not your almes in the sight of men, to the intent for ye would be sene of the. Or els you haue no rewarde with your father which is in heauen. Therefore when thou giest thyne almes, let not trompettes be blowen before the, as the hypocrites do in the synagoges and in the stretes: for to be prayled of men. Merely I say vnto you: they haue theyr rewarde. But when thou wylt geue almes, let not thy lefte hande knowe what thy ryght hande doeth, that thyne almes may be in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

And when thou prayest: thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they vse to stande prayyng in the synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, that they maye be sene of men. Merely, I saye vnto you: they haue theyr rewarde. But when thou prayest: entre into thy chambze, and when thou hast shut thy doze praye to thy father which is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

But when ye praye: vnable not muche, as the heathen do: for they thynke it wyl come to passe that they shall be herd for they much babylnges sake. Be not ye therefore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges ye haue nede of before ye aske of hym, after this maner therefore praye ye.

 Our father which art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Let thy kynngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, as well in earth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye oure dayly bread. And forgive vs oure dettes as we forgive oure debtors. And leade vs not into temptacion, but deliuer vs from euell. For thynne is the kynngdome and the power, and the glorie for euer. Amen. Therefore * if ye forgive other men theyr trespasses, your heauenly father shall forgive you. But if ye wyl not forgive men theyr trespasses, neither shall your father forgive you your trespasses.

 Moreover: when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure theyr faces, that it maye appeare vnto men, howe that they fast. Merely, I say vnto you, they haue their rewarde. But thou when thou fastest, anoynt thyne head and washe thy face that it appeare not vnto men, howe that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, which is in secrete, and thy father which seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

Lay not vp for your selues treasure vpon earth where the rust & moth doth corrupt, and where theues bryake through and steale. * But lay vp for you treasures in heauen, wher neither rust nor moth doth corrupt, & wher theues do not bryake thorow nor steale. For where your treasure is, there wyl your herte be also.

 The lyght of the body is the eye. Therefore if thyne eye be synge, all thy bodye shall be full of lyght. But if thyne eye be wycked, all thy body shall be full of darknesse. Therefore, if the lyght that is in the, be darknes, howe great is the darknes? * No man can serue two masters. For either he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els leane to the one, & despise the other: ye can not serue God and Mammon. Therefore I saye vnto you: * be not carefull for your lyfe, what ye shall eat or drynke, nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the lyfe more worth then meat: and the body more of value, then raiment? Beholde, the foules of the ayre: for they sowe not, neither do they reape, nor cary into the barnes: and your heauenly father feedeth them. Are ye not muche better then they?

 Which of you (by takyng careful thought) can adde one cubyte vnto his stature? And why care ye for raiment? Consyder the lilys of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not, neither do they spynne. And yet I saye vnto you, for euen Salomon in all his royaltie was not arrayed lyke one of these. Therefore, if God so clothe the grasse of the felde (which though it stande to daye is to morowe cast into the fornasse) shall he not much more do for same for you, o ye of lytle faith? Therefore take no thought, sayyng: what shall we eat, or what shall we drynke, or wherwith shall we be clothed? After all these thynges doo the gentyles seeke. For your heauenly father knoweth knoweth, that ye haue nede of al these thynges. But rather seke ye fyrst the kyngdome of God and the ryghteousnesse therof, and al these thynges shalbe ministred vnto you. Care not then for the morow, for the morow shall care for it selfe: suffyciente vnto the daye, is the trauayle therof.

The. vii. Chapter.

He forbyddeth foolys and easy iudgement, teyppeth ppoctys, exhorteth vnto prayer, warneth to beware of false prophetes: and wylleth the hearers of his worde to be doers of the same.

Lygde not, that ye be not iudged (condempne not & ye shall not be condempned.) * For as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged: And wth what measure ye mete, with y^e same shall other men measure to you. * Why seest thou a moate in thy brothers eye but cōspdest not the beame y^e is in thyne owne eye? Or howe sayest thou to thy brother: (brother) suffre me, I wyl plucke out a moate out of thyne eye, and beholde, a beame is in thyne owne eye. Thou ypocrite, firste cast out the beame oute of thyne owne eye, & then shalt thou se clearlye to plucke out the moate out of thy brothers eye.

Geue not ye that whych is holy vnto dogges nether cast ye your pearles before swyne, leaste they treade them vnder theyr fete, and the other turne agaynst you, and all to rent you.

Aske and it shalbe geuen you: * Seke and ye shall fynde: Knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For whosoener asketh, receaueth, & whosoener seeketh, fyndeth: and to hym that knocketh, it shalbe opened. Is there any man amonge you whych (yf hys sonne aske bread) wyl offer hym a stone? Or yf he aske fyre, wyl he profer hym a serpent? Yf ye then (when ye are euell) can geue your chyldren good gyftes, howe muche more shall your father whych is in heauen, geue good thynges, yf ye aske of hym?

Therefore, * whatsoeuer ye woulde that men should do to you: do ye euen so to them also. For this is the lawe and the prophetes.

* Entre in at the strypte gate: for wyde is y^e gate, and broad is the waye that leadeth to destruction: and many there be whych go in therat. But strypte is the gate, and narrowe is the waye, whych leadeth vnto lyfe, and fewe there be that fynde it. * Beware of false prophetes whych come to you in shepes clothynge, but inwardlye they are rauenyng wolues. Ye shall knowe them by theyr workes.

* Do men gather grapes of thornes? or fygges of thystles? Eue so euery good tre byryngeth forth good frutes. But a corrupt tre, byryngeth forth euell frutes. * A good tre can not byrynge forth bad frute: nether can a bad tre byrynge forth good frutes. * Euery tree y^e byryngeth not forth good frute, is hewe doune, and cast into the fyre. Wherefore, by theyr frutes ye shall knowe them.

Not euery one y^e sayth vnto me, * Lorde, Lorde, shall entre into the kyngdome of heauen: but he that doth the wyl of my father, whiche is in heauen. * (He shall entre into the kyngdome of heauen.) * Wa-ny wyl saye to me in y^e daye: Lorde, Lorde, haue we not prophced thoro^{gh} thy name? * And thou rowe thy name haue caste out deuils: And done many myracles thoro^{gh} thy name? And then wyl I knowlage vnto them: I neuer knewe you: * Departe from me, ye that worke iniquyte.

For whosoener heareth of me these wordes, & doeth the same, I wyl lyken hym vnto a wyse man, whiche buylt hys house vpon a rocke & a shouer of rayne descended, and y^e floudes came and the wyndes blew, and bet vpon that house and it fell not, because it was grounde on the rocke. And euerpe one that heareth of me these wordes, & doeth the^e not, shalbe lykened vnto a foolyshe mā, whych buylt his house vpon sand and a shouer of rayne descended, and y^e floudes came, & the wyndes blew and beat vpon that house, and it fell, and great was the fall of it.

And it came to passe, y^e when Iesus had ended these saynges, y^e people were astonnyed at hys doctryne. * For he taughte them as one hauyng power, and not as the Scrybes (of them and the Pharys.)

The. viii. Chapter.

Christ cleuseth the leper, and healeth the captaynes seruants, and many other diseases, helpeth Peters mother in lawe, stylleth the see, and the wynde, and dryueth the deuils out of the possessed into the swyne.

When he was come doune from the mountayne muche people folowed hym. And beholde, * there came a leper, and woithypped hym sayyng: * Mayster, yf thou wylte thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus put forth hys hande, and touched hym sayyng: I wyl, be thou cleane, and immediatly his leproly was cleded. And Iesus sayeth vnto hym: se thou tel no mā * but go and shew thy selfe to the p^{ri}este, and offere thy gyfte (that Moyses commaunded to be offred) for a wytnes vnto them.

* And when Iesus was entred into Capernaum, there came vnto hym a Centurion, and besought hym, sayyng: * Master my seruant lyeth at home sycke of the palsy, and is greuously payned. And Iesus sayth, when I come vnto hym, I wyl heale hym. The Centurion answered, and saide: * Syr, I am not worthy, that thou shuldest come vnder my roofo: but * speake the worde onely, and my seruante shalbe healed. For I also my selfe am a man subiecte to the authorite of another, and haue souldyers vnder me, & I saye vnto this man: go, & he goeth: and to another come, and he cometh, and to my seruant do this, and he doeth it. When Iesus herde these wordes, he marueled: and sayde to them that folowed hym: Verely, I saye vnto you: I haue not founde so greatesaythe in Israel. I saye vnto you: that many shal come from the East, and West, and shall rest wth Abraham and Isahac and Jacob in the kyngdome of heauen: but the chyldren of y^e kyngdome shalbe cast oute into vtter darknesse: there shall be wepyng and gnashyng of teeth. And Iesus sayde vnto the Centurion: go thy waye, and as thou beleuest, so be it vnto the. And his seruante was

C When Iesus sawe muche people aboute hym he commaunded that they shoulde go vnto the other syde of the water. And a certayne scribe (when he was come) sayd vnto hym: * Master, I wyl folow the whither soeuer thou goest. And Iesus sayth vnto hym: the foxes haue holes, and the byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not where to rest hys head. And another of the nombre of his dyscyples sayde vnto hym: * Master suffer me fyyste to go & bury my father. But Iesus sayd vnto hym: folow me, and let the dead bury their dead.

Mat. xiii. b.

† And when he entred into a shyppe, hys dyscyples folowed hym. And beholde, * there arose a great tempest in the see, in so much that the shyppe was couered wyth waues, but he was a slepe. And his dyscyples came to hym and awoke hym sayyng: Master, saue vs, we perishe. And he sayeth vnto them: why are ye fearful, O ye of lytle fayth? Then he arose * and rebuked the wyndes, and the see, and there folowed a greates calme. But the men maruyled, sayyng: what maner of man is this, that both wyndes and see obey hym?

* And when he was come to the other syde, into the countree of the Gergesyes, there mette hym two possessed of deuylles, whych came out of the graues, and were out of meASURE feare, so that no man myghte go by that waye. And beholde, they cryed out sayyng: * O Iesu thou sonne of God, what haue we to do wyth the? Arthou come hyther to torment vs before our tyme? And there was a good waye of from them * a heerd of many swyne, fedyng. So the deuylles besought hym, sayyng: yf thou cast vs oute, suffer vs to go oure waye into the heerd of swyne. And he sayd vnto them: go poure wapes. Then wente they oute, and departed into the heerd of swyne. And beholde, the whole heerd of swyne was caried headlong into the see, and perished in the waters. Then they that kept them, fled & wente theyr wayes into the cytie, and told euery thyng, what had fortunied vnto the possessed of the deuylles. And beholde, the whole cytie came oute to mete Iesus, and when they sawe hym, * they besought hym that he woulde departe out of theyr coastes.

C The. ix. Chapter. †

He healeth the palsy, calleth Mattheue from the ca-some, answereth for hys dyscyples, healeth the woman of the bloudy flux: helpeth Jaicus daughter, geueth two bynde men theyr sight, maketh a dymme man to speake and dryueth out a deuyl.

H Entred also into a shyp, & passed ouer, and came into his owne citty, and behold, * they brought to him a man sycke of the palsy, lying in a bed. And when Iesus saw the sayth of the, he sayd vnto the sicke of the palsy: sonne, be of good cheere, thy synnes be forgiven the. And behold, certayn of the scribes said within them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus saw their thoughtes, he sayd: Wherefore thinke ye euell in youre heartes? Whether is easier to saye, thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye, arise & walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power to forgive synnes in earth. Then sayeth he vnto the sicke of the palsy: * arise, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thyne house. And he arose, and departed to his house. But the people that saw it, maruyled, and glorified God, whych had geuen suche power vnto men. †

† And as Iesus passed forth from thence he saw a man (named Mattheue) sittynge at the recreate of custome, and he sayth vnto hym, folow me. And he arose and folowed him. And it came to passe as Iesus sat at meat in his house: beholde, many publicans also and synners that cam, sat doun wyth Iesus and hys dyscyples.

And when the Pharyses sawe it, they sayde vnto his disciples: why eateth your master wyth publicans and synners? But when Iesus heard that, he sayde vnto them: They that be stronge nede not the physicion, but they that are sycke.
Go ye rather and learne what that meaneth. * I wyl haue mercey and not sacrifice. For I am not come to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentaunce. † Then came the dyscyples of Jhon vnto hym, sayyng: * why do we and the Pharises fast, for the moste parte: but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayd vnto them: can the hydegromes chyldren mourne as long as the hydegrome is wyth them? But the dayes wyl come, when the hydegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. Roman putteth a pece of newe cloth in an olde garment. For then taketh he away the pece from the garment, and the rent is made worse. Nether do men put new wyne into olde bottels: els the bottels breake, & the wyne runneth oute, and the bottels perishe.
But they put new wyne into newe bottels, and both are saved together. †

† Whyle he thus spake vnto them, * beholde, C there came a certayne ruler, and woxypped hym, sayyng: my daughter is euen nowe dys-eased, but come and laye thy hande vpon her, and she shal lyue. And Iesus arose, and folowed hym and (so dyd) hys dyscyples. * And beholde, a woman whiche was diseased w an ysue of bloude twelue yeres, came behynde hym and touched the hemme of hys vesture. For she sayd wythin her selfe: yf I maye touche, but euen his vesture onely, I shalbe safe. But Iesus turned hym and when he sawe her, he sayde: daughter be of good comforte, thy faythe hath made the safe.
And the woman was made whole euen at that tyme. † * And when Iesus came into the rulers

less house, and sawe the minstrels, and the people making a noise, he saied vnto them: get you hence, for the mayde is not dedde * but slepeth. And thei laughed hym to scozne. But when the people wer putte forth, he went in, and toke her by the hande, * (and saied damosell, arise,) and the damosell arose. And this noyse went abrode into all that lande. And when Iesus departed thence swooblynde menne folowed hym cryng and sayng: O thou soone of David haue mercy on vs. And whē he was come into the house, the blinde came to hym. And Iesus saith vnto them: Beleeue ye, that I am able to dooe this? Thei saied vnto hym: Lorde, wee beleue. Then touched he their eyes, sayng: * Accordyng to your faith bee it vnto you. And their eyes wer opened. And Iesus charged theim sayng: See that no manne knowe of it. But thei, when thei wer departed, spred abrode his name in all that lande.

As thei went out, beholde, * thei brought to hym a domme manne possessed of a deuell. And when the deuell was cast out the domme spake. And the people mernaied, sayng: it was neuer so sene in Israell. But the pharises saied: * he casteth out deuels, throught the prince of deuels.

And Iesus went aboute all citees and townes teachyng in their sinagoges, and preachyng the glad tidynges of the kyngdome, and healyng euery sickenes and euery disceale among the people. But when he sawe the people: * he was moued with compassion on theim, because thei wer destitute, and scattered abrode, euen as shepe ha-uyng no shepeherde. Then saith he vnto his disciples, the * heruest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are fewe. Praise ye therefore the Lord of the heruest, that he will sende labourers into his haruest.

The x. Chapter.

Christe sendeth out his twelue Apostles to preache in Jewrie, geueth them charge, teacheth theim, and conforteth theim against persecution and trouble.

And when his * twelue disciples wer called vnto hym, he gaue them power against vncleane spirites, to cast them out, and to heale all maner of sickenes and all maner of disceale.

The names of the twelue Apostles are these. The first, Simon whiche is called Peter & Andrew his brother: James the soonne of zebede, & Iohn his brother: Philip & Bartholomew: Thomas and Mathew, whiche had been a Publicā. James the soone of Alphe, and Lebbeus (whose surname was Taddaeus) Simō of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot, whiche also betrayed hym.

* Iesus sente forth these twelue in nombre, whom he commaunded, sayng: Goo not into y^e waye of the Gentiles, and into the citee of the Samaritans entre ye not. But goo rather to y^e lost shepe of the house of Israell. Go and preach sayng: The kyngdome of heauen is at hande. Heale the sicke, cleanse the lepers, raise the dedde, cast out deuels. * Frely ye haue receiued: geue frely. * Possesse not golde nor syluer nor brasse in your purses, nor yet scrippe to wardes your iorney: neither t^{wo} cotes, neither shoes, nor yet a rod: * For y^e woorkman is worthy of his meate.

But to whatsoeuer citee or townie ye shall come enquire who is worthy in it, and there abyde till ye goo thence. * And when ye come into a house salute the same. And if the house bee worthy, let your peace come vpon it, but if it bee not worthy let your peace returne to you again.

And whosoener shall not receiue you, nor will heare your preache: when ye departe out of that house or that citee * shake of the dust of your fete. Verely I saie vnto you: it shall bee easier for the lande of Sodoma and Gomoza in the daye of iudgement, then for that citee. * Behold I sende you forth, as shepe among woulues. Be ye therefore wise as serpentes and innocent as doves. * But beware of menne for thei shall deliuer you vp to the counsailes, & shall scourge you in their sinagoges. And ye shall bee brought to the hedde rulers, and kynges, for my sake, in witnes to theim and to the Gentiles.

But * when thei deliuer you vp, take ye no thought, how or what ye shall speake: * For it shall be geuen you, euen in that same houre what ye shall speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the spirite of your father whiche speaketh in you. * The brother shall deliuer vp the brother to death, and the father the soonne. And the children shall aryse agaynst their fathers and mothers, and shall putte them to death: and ye shall bee hated of al menne for my names sake. * But he that endureth to the ende, shall bee saved.

But * when they persecute you in this citee fflye ye into another. For verely I saie vnto you ye shall not goo through all the citees of Israell till the soonne of manne bee come. * The disciple is not aboue the master: nor the seruaunte aboue his Lorde. It is ynough for the dysciple, that he bee as his master is, and that the seruaunte bee as his Lorde is. If thei haue called the Lorde of the house, Belzebub: how muche moze shall thei call theim of his householdes? Feare them not therefore. * For there is no thyng close that shall not bee opened: and no thyng hyd, that shall not bee knowen.

What I tell you in darkenes, that speake ye in lighte. And what ye heare in the eare, that preache ye on the house toppes. * And feare ye not them whiche kyll the body but are not able to kyll the soule. But rather feare hym, whiche is able to destroy bothe soule and body into hel: Are not t^{wo} litle sparowes sold for a farthyng? And one of theim shall not light on the grounde without your father. Yea, euen all the heares of your hedde are nombred. Feare ye not therefore: ye are of moze value then many sparowes. * E- uery one therefore that shall knowelage me before menne, hym will I knowelage also before my father whiche is in heauen. But whosoener shall denye me before menne, hym will I also denye before my father, whiche is heauen.

Thynke not that I am come to sende peace into the earthe. I came not to sende peace, but a swerde. For I am come to sette a manne at variance * agaynst his father, and the daughter agaynst her mother, and the daughter in lawe agaynst her mother in lawe. And a mannes foes dayes: that thei might accuse hym. And he sayed vnto them: whiche of you will it bee, that shall haue * a shepe, and if it fall into a pitte on the saboth daye, will he not take it and lifte it out? how muche more then is a manne better then a shepe? Wherefore it is lefull to dooe a good deede on the saboth dayes. Thei saith he to the manne stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth. And it was restored vnto health like as y other.

* Then the pharises wente out, and helde a counsaill against hym, how thei might destroy hym. But when Iesus knewe it he departed thence, and muche people folowed hym, and he healed them all, and charged them that thei should not make hym known: that it might bee fulfilled whiche was spoken by Elsaye the prophete, whiche saith: * Beholde, my chyld, whom I haue chosen, my beloued, in whom my soule delighteth. I will putte my spirite vpon hym, and he shall shewe iudgement to the Gentiles. He shall not strue ner crye, nether shall any manne heare his voice in the stretes, a bzofed rede shall he not breake, and smokyng flaxe shall he not quenche, tyll he sende forth the iudgemente vnto victorie, and in his name shall the Gentiles truste.

Then was brought to hym a blinde & domme mane, that was vered with a deuell, and he healed hym, in so muche, that the blinde and domme bothe spake and sawe. And all the people were amazed, and saide: Is not this the sonne of Dauid? But when the pharises heard it, thei saide this feloe dyspueth the deuelles no nother wyle out, but by the helpe of Belzebul the chief of the deuilles. But when Iesus knewe their thoughtes he saide vnto them: Every kyngdome deuilled against it self, shal bee brought to noughte. And every citee or house deuilled agaynst it self shall not stande. And if Satan cast out Satan, then is he deuyled agaynst hymself. How shall then his kyngdome endure? Also, if I by the help of Belzebul caste out deuilles, by whose helpe dooe your chyldren caste them oute? Therefore thei shal bee your iudges. But if I caste out the deuilles by the spirite of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you.

Ozels how * can one entre into a strongmanes house, and spoyle his iewels, excepte he firste bynde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house? He that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not with me, scattereth abroad. Wherefore, I saye vnto you, all maner of synne and blasphemy shal bee forgiven vnto menne * but the blasphemy agaynst the spirite, shall not bee forgiven vnto menne. * And whosoever speaketh a woorde agaynst the sonne of manne, it shal bee forgiven hym. But whosoever speaketh agaynst the holy ghooste, it shall not be forgiven hym, nether in this worlde, nether in y worlde to come. * Either make the tree good and his frute good: ozels make the tre euill, and his frute euill. * For the tree is known by his frute. O generation of vipers, how can ye speake good thynges, whē ye your selues are euill? For out of the aboundance of the harte, the mouth speaketh. A good manne out of the good treasure of y harte, bynggeth forth good thynges. And an euill manne, out of y euill treasure bynggeth forth euill thynges. But I saye vnto you, of every ydell woorde that manne shall haue spoken thei shall geue accountes in the daye of iudgemente. * For out of thy woordes thou shalt bee iustified: and out of thy woordes thou shalt bee condemned.

Then certain of the scribes and of the pharises asked hym, sayng: * Master, wee will see a signe of thee. But he answered and saide to them * The euill & aduonturous generacion * seeketh a sygne & there shall no sygne bee geuen to them but the signe of the prophete Jonas. * For as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the whales belly, so shall the sonne of manne bee thre daies and thre nyghtes in the harte of the earth: The menne of Ninive shall rise in the iudgemente with this nacion, and condempne it, because thei amended at the preachyng of Jonas. Beholde here is one greater then Jonas. * The quene of the South shall rise in the iudgemente with this generacyon, and shall condempne it: for she came from the vtmmost partes of y worlde to heare the wysedō of Salomon. And beholde in this place is one greater then Salomon.

When the vncleane spirite is gone out of a manne, he walketh throughout drye places seeking rest, & findeth none. Then he saith: I will retourne into my house, from whence I came out. And when he is come, he fyndeth it emptye and swepte, and garnished. Then gooeth he and taketh vnto hym seuen other spirites worse then hymself, and so entred he in, and dwelleth there. And the ende of that manne is worse then the begynnyng. Euen so shall it bee also, vnto this froward generacion. While he yet talked to the people: behold, his mother & his brethren stode without desirynge to speake with hym. The one saide vnto hym: beholde, * thy mother and thy brethren stande without, desirynge to speake with thee. But he answered, and saide vnto hym that had tolde hym: Who is my mother? or who are my brethren? And he stretched forth his hande toward his disciples and sayed, * beholde, my mother and my brethren. For whosoever dooth the wylle of my father whiche is in heauen, the same is my brother, sister, and mother.

In the same daye went Iesus out of the house, * & sat by the sea syde, and muche people were gathered together vnto hym, so greatly y he went, and sat in a ship, and all the people stode on the shore. And he spake many thynges to them by similitudes, sayng: Behold, y sower wet forth to sow. And whē he sowed, some seedes fell by the waies side and y fowles came & deuoured them vp. Some fell vpon stony places, where thei had not muche earth, and anon thei sprong vp, because thei had no depeneth of earth: and when the sunne was

But whosoever hath not: from hym shalbee taken awaie euen that also whiche he hath. Therfore speake I to them by similitudes: for thei seyn, see not: & hearyng thei heare not: nether dooe thei vnderstand. And in them is fulfilled the prophesie of Esaias, whiche saith: * with the eares ye shall heare, and shall not vnderstande: and seynge ye shall see, and shall not perceiue. * Heare ye therefore the similitude of the sower. When one beareth the woorde of the kyngdome and vnderstandeth it not, then cometh the euill manne & taketh awaie that whiche was sowne in his heart: this is he whiche was sowne by the waie syde. But he that receiued the seede whiche was caste into stonye places, thesame is he that beareth the woorde, and anone with ioye receiueith it, yet hath he no roote in hymself, but dureth for a season: for when tribulacion or persecution happeneth because of the woorde, by and by he falleth. He also that receiueith seede into the thornes, is he that beareth the woorde, and the care of this worlde: and the dysaptfulnes of ryches choke vp the woorde, and so is he made vnfutefull. But he that receiueith seede into good grounde is he that beareth the woorde, and vnderstandeth it: whiche also beareth frute, and haryngeth forth, some an hundred folde, some sixty folde, some thirty folde.

Mat. xiii. c

D Another similitude putte he forth vnto them sayng: * The kyngdome of heauen is lykened vnto a manne, whiche sowed good seede in his felde. But whyle menne slepte, his enemye came, and sowed tares among the wheate, and went his waye. But when the blade was sprong vp and had brought forth frute, there appeared the tares also. So the seruauntes of the housholde came, and said vnto hym. Sir diddeste not thou sowe good seede in thy felde? from whence then hath it tares? He said vnto them, the enuious manne hath dooen this. The seruauntes said vnto hym: wilt thou then that wee goo, & weede theim vp? But he said: naye, lest whyle ye gather vp the tares ye plucke vp also the wheate with theim, let bothe growe together vntill the haruest, and in tyme of haruest, I will saie to the repers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to bee brente: but gather the wheate into my barne. * Another parable putte he forth vnto them, sayng: * The kyngdome of heauen is like to a grayne of mustarde seede, whiche a manne sowe and sowed in his felde, whiche is the lesse of all the sedes. But whyle it is growen, it is the greatest among herbes, and is a tre so that the byrdes of the ayre come, and make their nestes in the bzaunches thereof.

Another similitude spake he vnto them: The * kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto leuen, whiche a woman taketh and bydeth in three peckes of meale, tyll all bee leuened. * All these thynges spake Iesus vnto the people by similitudes and without a parable spake he nothyng vnto them that it mighte bee fulfilled, whiche was spoken by the prophete, that saith: * I wyll open my mouth in parables: I will speake forth thynges whiche haue been kepte secrete from the begynnyng of the worlde. * When the people were sente awaye, then came Iesus into the house. * And his disciples came vnto hym, sayng: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the felde. He answered, and sayed vnto them.

He that soweth the good seede is the sonne of manne. The felde is the worlde. And the chyliden of the kyngdome they are the good seed: the tares are the chyliden of the wycked, the enemye that soweth theim, is the deuill. The haruest is the ende of the worlde: the repers bee the angels. Euen as the tares therefore are gathered and brent in the fyre: so shall it bee in the ende of this worlde. * The sonne of manne shall sende forth his angels, and thei shall gather out of his kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them whiche dooe iniquitee: and shall caste theim into a furnes of fyre. There shalbee wailing & gnashyng of teeth. * Then shall the righteous shyne as the sunne in the kyngdome of their father. Whosoever hath eares to heare, lette hym heare. * I

Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a treasure hid in the felde the whiche a manne hath founde and hyd: and for ioye thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth the felde

Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a marchaunt manne sekynge goodly pearles, whiche (when he founde one pzeious pearle) wente and soule all that he had, and bought it. Again the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was caste into the sea and gathered of all kynde of (of fishes) whiche when it was full, mene dyed to lande, and satte doune and gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad awaie. So shall it bee at the ende of the worlde. The angels shall come & seuer the bad from among the good, & shall cast the into a furnace of fyre: there shalbe wailing & gnashyng of teeth. Iesus saith vnto the haue ye vnderstand all these thynges? Thei said vnto hym: yea Lord. Then said he vnto them. Therfore for every scrbe whiche is taught vnto the kyng dome of heauen, is like vnto a manne that is an housholder, whiche byngeth out of his treasure thynges newe and olde. R

And it came to passe that when Iesus had finished these simyltudes, * he departed thence: And when he came into his owne countrey, he taughte theim in theire sinagoges, in so muche, that thei were astounded and saied: whence cometh this wysedome and powers vnto hym: is not this y Carpenteres soone? Is not his mother called Mary: and his brethren, James and Ioseph and Simon and Judas? And are not all his sisters with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges. And thei were offended at hym. Iesus saied vnto theim: * A prophete is not without honoure, saue in his owne countree, and in his owne house. And he did not many miracles ther because of their vnbelefe.

The. xliii. Chapter.

¶ That tyme * Herode the Tetrarche hearde of the fame of Iesu, and saied vnto his seruantes: this is Ihon the baptist. he is risen from the dedde, and therefore are miracles wroughte by hym.

For Herode had taken Ihon and bounde hym, and putte hym in prysone because of Herodias, his brother Philippes wife. For Ihon saied vnto hym: * it is not lawfull for thee to haue her. And when he would haue putte hym to deathe, he feared the people, * because thei coupted hym as a prophete. But when Herodes birth daye was kepte, the daughter of Herodias daunsed before theim, and pleased Herode. * Wherefore he promised with an othe, that he would geue her what soeuer she would aske. And she beeyng instructed of her mother before, saied: geue me here Ihon baptistes hedde in a platter. And the kyng was sorpy. Neuertheles, for the othes sake, and them whiche sat also at the table, he commaunded it to be geuen her: and sente tormentoures, and beheaded Ihon in the prysone, and his hedde was broughte in a platter, and geuen to the damosell, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples came and toke vp his bodye, and buried it: wente, and tolde Iesus.

¶ When Iesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shippe vnto a deserte place, out of the waie. And when the people had hearde thereof, thei folowed hym on fote and lefte the citees. And Iesus wente forth, and sawe muche people, and was moued with mercie towarde theim, and he healed of them those that were sicke. And when the euen dreyne on, his disciples came to him, sayyng this is a deserte place, and the houre is now past lette the people departe, that thei maye goo into the townes, and buye theim vitaylles. But Iesus saied vnto theim. Thei haue no nede to goo awaye. Geue ye theim to eate. They saied vnto hym, we haue here but fyue loaves and twoo fishes. He saied byyng them bether to me. And he commaunded the people to sit doune on the grasse, and he tooke the fyue loaves and the twoo fishes and lift vp his eyes towarde heauen and blessed. And when he had broken them, he gaue the loaves to his disciples, and his disciples gaue them to the people. And thei did all eate, and were suffised. And thei gathered vp (of the fragmentes that remayned) twelue baskettes full. And they that did eate, were aboute fyue thousand menne besyde women and chyliden.

* And streight waie Iesus made his disciples to get vp into a shippe, and to go before hym vnto the other syde while he sent the people a waie. And when the people were sent a waie, he went vp into a mountaigne to praye alone. And when nyght was come, he was there hymself alone. But the ship was now in the middes of the sea, and was tost with waues, for it was a contrary wynde. And in the fourth wathe of the nyghte, Iesus went vnto them walking on the sea. And when the disciples sawe hym walkyng on the sea thei wer troubled, sayyng: it is some spirite, and thei cried out for fear. But streight waie, Iesus spake vnto them, sayyng: be of good cheare, it is I: bee not afrayed. Peter answered hym, & saied Lorde, if it bee thou, byd me come vnto thee on the water. And he saied: come. And when Peter was come doune out of the shippe, he walked on the water, to goo to Iesus. But when he sawe a mighty wynde, he was afrayed. And when he began to synke, he cried, sayyng: Lorde saue me. And immediatly Iesus stretched forth his hande and caughte hym, and saied vnto hym. O thou of litle faith, wherefore diddest thou doubt? D

* And when thei wer come into the shippe, the wynde ceased. Then thei that were in the shippe came and worshipped hym, sayyng: of a truthe thou art the sonne of God. And when thei wer gone ouer, thei came into plande of Genesareth. And when the menne of the place had knowlage of hym, thei sent out messengers into all the countree round aboute the coste, & brought vnto hym all that wer sicke, and besoughte hym, that they mighte touche the hemme of his vesture onelye. And as many as touched it were made safe.

The. xlv. Chapter.

¶ Christe excuseth his disciples, and rebuketh the scribes and pharises for transgressyng Godes commaundement through their owne tradicions. The thyng that goeth into the mouthe defileth not the manne. He deliuereth the womā of Cananes daughter, healeth the multitude and with seven loaves and a fewe litle fishes, febeth foure thousande menne, besyde women and chyliden.

¶ Then came to Iesus scribes and pharises (whiche wer come from Iherusalem) sayyng: why dooe thy disciples transgresse the tradicion of the elders? For thei washe not their handes when thei eate bzed. But he answered & saied vnto theim: why dooe ye transgresse the commaundemente of God because of your owne tradicion? For God commaundeth, sayyng: * Honour father & mother, and he ycurseth father or mother: lett hym dye the deathe. But ye saie: euery one shal saie to his father and mother: * What gift soeuer shoulde haue come of me thesame is turned vnto thy profite: and so shal he not honoure his father or his mother. And

Mat. xxi. g
Mar. xii. g
Mar. vii. b

And thus haue ye made the commaundemente of God of none effecte, because of youre owne tradicions. Ppocrites, full well did Esay prophcy of you sayng: This people draweth nie vnto me with their mouthe, and honoureth me with lippes, howbeit, their heartes are farre from me: but in vain dooe thei serue me, teachyng the doctrynes and preceptes of menne.

B And he called the people to hym, and saied vnto theim, heare and vnderstande. That whiche goeth into the mouth, defileth not y manne: but that whiche commeth out of the mouth, defileth the manne. Then came his disciples, & saied vnto him: knowest thou not, that the pharises wer offended at this sayng? But he answered and saied: Euery plante whiche my heauenly father hath not planted, shal bee plucked vp by the rootes. Let theim alone, thei bee the blynde leaders of the blynde. If y blinde leade the blinde, bothe shal fall into the ditch. Then answered Peter and saied vnto hym: declare vnto vs this parable. Jesus saied: are ye also yet without vnderstandyng? dooe not ye yet vnderstande, y what soeuer entereth into the mouthe, gooeth into the bely, and is cast out into the draught: But those thynges whiche proceed out of the mouth, come forth fro the heart, & thei defile the manne. For out of the hearte proceed euill thoughtes, murders, breakyng of wedlocke, whordoms, theftes, false witnesse, blasphemies. These are the thynges whiche defile a manne. But to take meate w vnto waschen handes, defileth not a manne.

C And Jesus went thence, and departed into the costes of Tyre and Sidon, and beholde a woman of Canaan (whiche came out of the same costes) cryed vnto hym sayng: haue mercie on me. O Lord, thou sonne of Dauid: My daughter is piteously vexed with a deuell. But he answered her nothyng at all, and his disciples came & besoughte hym, sayng: sende her awaie, for she crieth after vs: But he answered, & saied: I am not sente: but vnto the loit shepe of the house of Israell. Then came she, & worshipped hym, sayng: Lord, helpe me. He answered and saied: it is not mete, to take the chylzens bzeade, and to cast it to dogges. She answered & saied: truth Lord for the dogges eate of the crommes, whiche fall from their masters table. The Jesus answered & saied vnto her: O woman, greate is thy faith be it vnto thee, eue as thou wilt. And her daughter was made whole euen at that same tyme.

Luk. xix. b.

D And Jesus went awaie from thence, and came nie vnto the sea of Galile, and wente vp into a mountaigne, and satte doune there. And muche people came vnto hym, byngyng with theim thole that were lame, blynde, deafe, maymed, & other many: and cast theim doune at Jesus fete.

Mat. xxi. b.

Mar. viii. a

And he healed theim: in so muche, that the people wondered, when thei sawe y domme speake the maymed to bee whole, the lame to walke, & the blynde to see. And thei glorified the God of Israell. * Then Jesus called his disciples vnto him, and saied: I haue compassion on the people because thei contynue with me now thre daies, and haue nothyng to eate: and I will not let thei departe fastyng, lest they miscary by the waye. And hys dyscyples sayed vnto hym: Whence should wee gette so muche bzeade in the wyldernes as to suffice so greate a multytude? And Jesus sayeth vnto theim: how many loaves haue ye? And they saie: *seuen, and a fewe litle fyshes. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde: and toke the seuen loaves, and the fyshes: and after that he had geuen thanks he brake theim, and gaue to hys disciples, and the disciples gaue theim to the people. And they did all eate, and were sufficed. And they toke vp (of the broken meate that was lefte) seuen baskettes full. And yet thei that did eate were foure thousande menne, besyde women and chyliden. And he sente a waye the people, and toke wypppe and came into the partes of Magdala.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The pharises require a token. Jesus warneth his disciples of the pharises doctryne. The confession of Peter. The keyes of heauen. The faithfull must beare the crosse after Chyste.

The pharyses also wyth the Saduces, came and tēpted hym, and desired hym, that he would shew them a sygne from heauē. He answered and saied vnto them: whe it begynneth to drawe towarde *euen, ye saie: it wyl bee fayre wether, for the skye ys read. And in the moynyng: It wyl bee foule wether to daye, for the skye ys gloumyng red. O ye ppocrites, ye can deserue the outward apperaunce of the skye: but can ye not diserue the sygnes of the tymes? * The frowarde and aduouterous nacyon requyrez * a sygne, and there shal no sygne bee geuen vnto it, but the sygne of the Prophet Jonas. * And he left them, and departed.

And when hys dyscyples were come to the other syde of the water, they had forgottē to take bzeade wyth them. Then Jesus sayed vnto them * Take hede and beware of the leuen of the pharyses and of the Saduces. And they thought in them selues, sayng: wee haue taken no bzeade wyth vs. Whyche when Jesus vnderstode he sayed vnto them: O ye of lytle faith, why take ye thought wythin your selues, because ye haue broughte no bzeade? Dooe ye not yet perceyue, nether remembre those fyue loaves, when there wer * fyue thousande menne, & how many baskettes toke ye vp? * Nether the seuen loaves when there were foure thousande menne, and how many baskettes toke ye vp: how happeneth it that ye dooe not vnderstand, that I speake it not vnto you concerning bzeade, that ye should beware of the leauen of the pharyses, and of the Saduces? Then vnderstode they, how that he had not them beware of the leuen of bzeade: but of y doctryne of the pharyses, and of the Saduces.

And when Jesus came into the costes of the cite whiche is called Cesarea Philippi, he asked his disciples sayng: * who dooe menne saye y the soone of manne am? They sayed: some saye y thou art yhon the baptist, some helyas, some Jeremias, oz one of the nobze of the prophetes. He saiethe vnto them: but who saie ye that I am

Simon

Simon Peter answered and saide: * Thou arte Christ the sonne of the lyving God. And Jesus answered and saide vnto hym: happy arte thou Simon the sonne of Jonas, for flesh and blood hath not opened that vnto the, * but my father which is in heauē. And I say vnto the that thou art Peter: and vpon this * rocke I wyll buylde my congregaciō. And the gates of hel shall not preuaile against it. And I wyll geue vnto the, the keyes of the kyngdō of heauen: And * whatsoeuer thou byndest in earthe, shall be bounde in heauen: and whatsoeuer thou locest in earthe shall be loosed in heauen also. ¶

Then charged he his disciples, y they shoulde tell no man, that he was Jesus Christe. * From that tyme forth began Jesus to shewe vnto hys disciples, how that he must go vnto Ierusalem, and suffer many thynges of the elders, and hye preastes, and scribes, and must be kylled and be rayled again the thyrde daye. And when Peter had take hym asyde, he began to rebuke hym sayyng. master, fauer thy self, this shall not happen vnto the: but he turned hym about, & saied vnto Peter: go after me Satan, thou hindrest me: for thou sauourest not the thynges that be of God, but those that be of men.

Then saide Jesus vnto his disciples: ¶ If any man will foloe me, let hym forsake hym self and take vp his crosse, & foloe me. * For who so wyl saue his life, shall lose it. Againe who so doeth lose his life for my sake, shall fynd it. For what doth it proffyte a man, yf he wyne al the whole worlde, and lose his owne soule? Or what shall a man geue to redeme his soule again wythall? For the sonne of man shall come in the glorie of his father, with his angels: and * then shall he reuerde euery man accordyng to his dedes: Verely I saye vnto you, * there be standynge here, whiche shall not tast of death, tyl they se y sonne of man come in his kyngdome.

The transfiguration of Christ. He healeth the lunatyke, and payeth tribute.

After sixe dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James & Iohn hys brother, and byngeth them vp into an hye mountayne out of the waye, & was transfigured befoze them * and hys face dyd shyne as the sonne, and his clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And beholde, ther appeared vnto them Moyses and Elias talkyng with hym. Then answered Peter, and saide vnto Jesus: Lorde, here is good beyng for vs. ¶ If thou wilt, let vs make here thre tabernacles: one for the, and one for Moyses, & one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, beholde, a bryght cloude shadowed them. And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude whiche said: this is my beloued sonne in whome I delyte * heare hym. And when the disciples hearde these thynges, they fell on theyr faces and were sore afrayed. And Jesus came & touched them and saide: aryse and be not afrayd. And when they had lyft vp their eyes they sawe no man, saue Jesus onely.

* And when they came doun from the mountaigne, Jesus charged them sayyng: shewe the vision to no manne, vntill the sonne of manne bee risen again from the dedde. ¶ And his disciples asked hym, sayyng: Why the saie the scribes, that Elias must firste come? Jesus answered, and saied vnto them: * Elias truly shall firste come, and restore all thynges. But I saie vnto you, that * Elias is come already and they knew hym not: but haue dooen vnto hym what soeuer they lusted. In lyke wise shall also the sonne of manne suffre of them. Then the disciples understode, y he spake vnto them of Iohn Baptist. And when they wer come to the people there came to hym a certain man knelyng doun to hym, and sayyng: Master haue mercy on my sonne, for he is lunatike and sore vexed, for oft tymes he falleth into y fire, and oft into the water. * And I broughte hym to thy disciples, and they coude not heale hym. Jesus answered and saied: O faithles and croked nacion, how long shall I bee with you: how long shall I suffre you? Byng hym hether. And Jesus rebuked the deuell, and he departed out of hym. And the childe was healed euen that same tyme. ¶

* Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly, and saied: why coude not wee cast hym out? Jesus saied vnto them: Because of your vnbelefe. For verely I saie vnto you: * If ye haue faith as a grayne of musterde seede, ye shall saie vnto this mountaigne: remoue hence to yonder place, and it shall remoue: nether shall any thyng bee vnpowable vnto you. Howbeit this kinde goeth not out, but by praler and fastyng. Whyle they wer occupied in Galile, Jesus saied vnto them: * it will come to passe that the sonne of manne shall bee betrayed into the handes of menne, and they shall kill hym and the thyrde daye shall he rise againe. And they wer excedyng sorre. ¶ And when they wer come to the citee of Capernaum, they that vse to receiue tribute money, came to Peter, and saied: Dooeth your master paie tribute? he saiethe: yea. And when he was come in to the house, Jesus preuented hym sayyng: what thyntest thou Simon: of whom dooe the kynges of the earth take tribute or tolle, of their children, or of straungers? Peter saiethe vnto hym: of straungers. Jesus saiethe vnto hym: Then are the children free: Notwithstandyng, least wee should offend them, goo thou to the sea, and cast an angle, and take the fishe that firste cometh vp: and when thou hast opened his mouth thou shalt finde a pece of twenty pence: that take and geue it vnto them for me and thee. ¶

He teacheth his disciples to bee humble and humble: to auoyde occasions of euill, and one to forgiue anothers offence.

¶ The same tyme came the disciples vnto Jesus, sayyng: * Who is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen? Jesus called a childe vnto hym, and set hym in the midst of them, and saied. Verely I saie vnto you: * except ye turne, & become as children, ye shall not enter into the kyngdome of heauen. Whosoever therfore humblyeth bleth hymself as this chylde, the same is the greatest in the kyngdō of heauen. And who so recei-ueth suche a chylde in my name, receiue me.

* But whoso dooth offende one of these litle ones which beleueth in me: it wer better for hym that a millstone wer hāged aboute his necke, and that he wer drownded in the depth of the sea. Wo vnto the worlde because of offences. * Necessarie it is that offences come. But wo vnto the māne by whom the offence cometh.

Wherefore * if thy hande or thy fote hynder thee, cut hym of and cast it fro thee. It is better for thee to enter into life halt or maymed, rather then thou shouldeste (haupng twoo handes or twoo fete) bee cast into euerlastyng fire. And if thine eye offēde thee, plucke it out, & cast it from thee. It is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather thē (haupng twoo eyes) to bee cast into hell fire. Take hede that ye despise not one of these litle ones. For I saie vnto you, that in heauen their angelels doce alwaies beholde the face of my father whiche is in heauen. For soonne of māne is come to saue that whiche was lost. How thynke ye? If a manne haue an hundred shepe, and one of them bee gone astraye dooth he not leaue ninty & nine in the mountai-nes, and goeth & seketh it that was gone astraye And if it happen that he fynde it, verely I saie vnto you: he reioiceth moze of that shepe then of the nynty and nyne whiche went not astraye. Euen so it is not the will of your father in heauen that one of these litle ones should perithe.

Moreover: if thy brother trespass agāst thee, go and tell him his faute betwene him and thee alone. If he heare thee, thou hast wōne thy brother: But if he heare thee not, then take yet with thee one or twoo, that * in the mouth of twoo or thre witnesses, curry matter made bee stablished. If he heare not them, tell it vnto the congregation. If he heare not the congregation let hym bee vnto thee as an heathen manne, & as a publican. Verely I saie vnto you: what soever ye bynde on earth, shal bee bounde in heauen. And whatsoeuer ye lose on earth, shal bee losed in heauē. Again I saie vnto you, that if twoo of you agree in earth vpon any maner of thyng, whatsoeuer they desire: they shall haue it of my father whiche is in heauen, for where twoo or thre are gathered together in my name, there am I in the middes of them.

Then came Peter to hym, and saied: Lorde, how ofte shall I forgue my brother, if he synne agāst me: till seuen tymes? Iesus saith vnto hym: I saie not vnto thee vntill seuen tymes: but scūety tymes seuen tymes. For therfore is the kyngdom of heauen likened vnto a certa-ine manne that was a kyng, whiche would take accountes of his seruautes. And when he had begonne to reken, one was broughte vnto hym whiche oughte hym tenne thousande talentes, but for asmucho as he was not able to paye, his Lorde commaunded hym to bee solde, and his wife and childzē, and all that he had: & payment to bee made. The seruaunte fell downe, and besoughte hym sayng: Sir haue pacience with me, and I wyll paye the all. Then had the lorde pitie on the seruaunt and losed hym and forgaue hym the debte.

So the same seruaunt went out, & founde one of his feloes whiche oughte hym an hundred pēce and he layd handes on hym, and toke hym by the throte, sayng: paye that thou oweste. And his feloe fel downe, and besought hym, sayng: haue pacience with me, and I wyll paye the all. And he would not, but wente & cast hym into pzeson, till he shuld paye his debte. So whē his feloes sawe what was done, they were very sorpy and came & told vnto their lorde al that had happened. The his Lorde called hym and saied vnto him: O thou vngacious seruaunte, I forgaue the all that debte, whē thou desyrest me: shouldest not thou also haue had compassion on thy feloe, euen as I had pitie on the? And his Lorde was wroth, and delyuered hym to the saylers, till he shuld paye all that was due vnto hym. So * like wyll shall my heavenly father do also vnto you yf ye from your bertes, forgue not (euery one his brother) their trespasses. For

The xix. Chapter.

Christ geueth answer concerning marriage, and teacheth not to be carefull, nor to loue worldly ryches.

And it came to passe * that whē Jesus had finyshed the saynges, he gat him from Galile, and came in to the coastes of Jedyse, beyonde Jordane, and muche people folo-wed hym, and he healed them there.

The pharyses also came vnto hym temptyng hym, and saynge vnto hym: Is it lawfull for a man to make a deuozement wth his wyfe for any maner of cause? He answered and saied vnto them: haue ye not red, howe that he which made man at first begynnynge * made thei man and woman, and saide: for this cause shal a man leaue father and mother, and shall cleaue vnto his wife and they twayne shal be one fleth, wherfore now they are not twayne but one fleth. Let no man therfore put asunder, that which God hath cou-bled together. They saied vnto him: why did Moses then commaunde to geue a testimonial of de-uozement to put her away? He saied vnto them Moses (because of the hardnes of your hartes)
* suffred you to put away your wyues: But fro the begynnynge it was not so, & I saie vnto you: whosoever putteth away his wife (except it be for fornicacion) and marryeth another, breaketh wedlocke. And whoso marryeth her which is deuozed, doth commit aduoutry.

His disciples saied vnto hym: if the matter bee so betwene man and wyfe, then is it not good to marry. He saide vnto them: all men cannot comprehende this sayng * saue they to whome it is geuē: for there are some chaste which are so bozne out of their mothers wombe. And there are some chaste, which he made chaste of men. And there bee chaste, which haue made them selues chaste for the kyngdome of heauens sake. He that can comprehēde it, let him cōprehēde it. * Then wer there brought vnto hym yonge childzē, that he shulde put his put his handes on them and praye. And the dysciples rebuked them. But Iesus said vnto the suffre the chyliden and forbyd them not to come vnto me, for of such is the kyngdome of heauen And when he had put his handes on them, he departed thence.

And beholde, one came, and saide vnto hym: good master, what good thyng shal I do, that I may haue eternal life? He said vnto hym: why callest thou me good? there is none good but God, and that is God. But if thou wilt entre into lyfe, kepe the commaundementes. He sayeth vnto hym: Which? Iesus said: Thou shalt not commyt manslaughter. Thou shalt not comyt aduoutry. Thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnes: honoure father and mother: and thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy self The yong man sayth vnto hym: All these thynges haue I kept from my yowth vp: what lacke I yet? Iesus sayd vnto hym: if thou wilt be perfekte, go and sell all that thou hast, and geue to the poore, & thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come and folow me. But when the yong mā herde that sayng, he wente awaye sorry. For he had great possessions.

Then Iesus sayd vnto his discipples: verely I say vnto you: it shal be hard for y^e ryche to entre into the kyngdō of heauen. And agayn I say vnto you: it is easyer for a camell to go through the eye of a nedle, then for the ryche to entre into the kyngdome of God. When the discipples herd this, they were excedynglye amased, sayng: who then can be saued? But Iesus beheld them and sayd vnto them: wyth men this is vnpossyble: but wyth God all thynges are possyble.

Then answered Peter and sayde vnto hym: Beholde, we haue forsaken all and folowed the, what shal we haue therfore? Iesus sayde vnto them: Verely I say vnto you, y^e when the sonne of man shal syt in the seat of his maiesty, y^e shall folowed me, in the regeneracion: shall sytte also vpon the xii. seates, and iudge the xii. trybes of Israel. And euery one y^e forsaketh house, or brethren, or systers, or father or mother, or wife or chyliden, or landes for my names sake, shall receaue an hundred folde, and shall inherete euer-lastyng lyfe. But many that are first, shal be last, and the last shal be fyrst.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ Christ teacheth by a similitude that God is better vnto to no man. He teacheth his discipples to be lowly, and geueth two blynde men theyr sight.

IN the kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto a man that is an housholder, which wēt out early in y^e moornyng to hyre labourers into his vyngard.
And when the agreement was made wyth the labourers, for a peny a daye, he sent the into his vyngard. And he went oute aboute the thyrde houre, & sawe other standyng ydell in the market place, & sayd vnto the: go ye also into y^e vyngarde, and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I will geue you. And they wente theyr waye. Agayne he wente out aboute the syxte and nyynth houre, and byd lyke wyse. And aboute y^e eleuenth houre he went out, and found other standyng ydell, & sayd vnto them: why stande ye here all the daye ydell? They saye vnto hym: because no mā hath hyred vs. He sayeth vnto them: go ye also into the vyngarde, and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I shall ye receaue. So, when euen was come the lord of the vyngard sayth vnto his steward: call the labourers, and geue the the y^e hyre, begynnynge at the last vntyll the fyrste. And when they byd come that came aboute the eleuenth houre they receaued euery man a peny. But when the fyrst came also, they supposd that they shoulde haue receaued more, and they likewise receaued euery man a peny. And whē they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst the good man of the house, sayng: These last haue wrought but one houre and thou hast made them equall vnto vs which haue borne the burthen and heate of the daye.

But he answered vnto one of them and sayde frende, I do the no wrong: dydest thou not agree wyth me for a peny? Take that thyne is and go thy waye: I will geue vnto this last, eue as vnto the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as my lysteth wyth myne owne goodes? Is thine eye euel because I am good? So the last shal be y^e fyrst and the fyrst shal be last. For many be called, but fewe be chosen.

¶ And Iesus goyng vp to Ierusalem, toke the twelue discipples asyde in the way, and sayd vnto them: Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shal be betrayed vnto the chefe prestes and vnto the scribes, and they shal condempne hym to death, and shal deliuer hym to the Gentils, to be mocked, and to be scourged and to be crucified: and the thyrde daye he shal ryse agayne. Then came to hym the mother of Iehudes chyliden, with her sonnes, worshyppyng hym & desyryng a certayne thyng of hym.
And he sayeth vnto her: what wylt thou? She sayd vnto hym: Graunt, y^e these my two sonnes may syt, the one on thy ryght hande, & the other on the left, in thy kyngdom. But Iesus answered & sayde: ye wote not what ye aske. Are ye able to drynke of the cup that I shall drynke of, & to be baptyzed wth the baptyme y^e I am baptyzed wyth? They saye vnto hym: we are. He sayd vnto the: ye shall drynke in dede of my cup: & be ba-ptyzed wyth the baptyme y^e I am baptyzed wyth.
But to syt on my ryght hande, and on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shal chaunce vnto the
that it is prepared for of my father.

¶ And when the ten herd this, they disdayned at the two brethren. But Iesus called the vnto hym, and sayd: ye knowe that the prynces of y^e

It shal not be so amonge you. But whosoever be your seruaunt: euen as y^e sonne of man came not to be ministered vnto, but to minister, and to geue his life a redemption for many.

sonne of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And þe people rebuked them, because they shoulde holde theyr peace. But they cryed the more, saynge: haue mercy on vs, O Lorde, thou sonne of Dauid. And Iesus stode styll, and called them, and said: what wyl ye þat I shall do vnto you? They saie vnto hym: Lorde, that our eyes maye be opened. So Iesus had compassion on them, and touched theyr eyes, and immediatly theyr eyes receaued syght. And they folowed hym.

When the chiefe prestes and scribes sawe the wonders that he dyd, and the childre cryng in the temple (and sayng: Hosanna to the sonne of Dauid) they dysdayned, and sayd vnto hym: hearest thou what these saye? But Iesus sayth vn to the: why not? haue ye neuer read? * Out of the mouth of babes and suckelinges thou haste ordeyned praise. And he left them, and wente oute of the cytie vnto Bethanay, and had hys abyding there. ✠ In the mornynge as he returned into the cytie again, he hongred: and whē he had spyed a fygge tree in the way, he came to it, and found nothyng theron, but leaues only, and said vnto it: Neuer frute growe on þence forwarde. And anonē the fygge tree wythered away. And when hys discyples sawe it, they marueled, sayng: Howe soone is the fygge tree wythered away? Iesus answered, and sayde vnto them: Verely I saye vnto you: * Yf ye haue sayth and doubte not, ye shall not onely do thys that is happened vnto the fygge tree: but also yf ye shal saye vnto thys mountayne: remoue, and caste thy selfe into the see, it shalbe done. * And all thynges whatsoeuer ye aske in prayer (yf ye beleue) ye shall receaue them.

✠ And when he was come into the temple the chiefe prestes and the elders of the people came vnto hym (as he was teachyng) and sayd: * By what auctorite doest thou these thynges? and who gaue the thys power? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I also wyl aske of you a certayne thyng, which yf ye tell me, I in lyke wyse wyl tell you by what auctorite I do these thynges. The baptyme of Ihon: whence was it: from heauen or of men? And they thought among the selues, sayng: Yf we saye from heauen, he wyl saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue hym? But yf we shal saye of men, then feare we the people. ✠ For all men holde Ihon as a prophete. And they answered vnto Iesus, and sayde: we can not tel. And he sayd vnto them: nether tel I you, by what auctorite I do these thynges. ✠ What saye ye to thys? ✠ A man had two sonnes, and came to the fygge tree, and sayde: sonne, go and worke to daye in my vynyarde. He answered and sayde: I wyl not, but afterwarde, he repented, and went. Then came he to the seconde, & sayd lyke wyse. And he answered, & sayd: I wyl go, and wente not. Whether of the twayne dyd the wyl of the father? And they saie vnto hym: the fyrst. Iesus sayeth vnto them: verely I saye vnto you, the publicans and harlottes go into the kyngdō of God before you. For Ihon came vnto you by the waye of ryghteousnes, & ye beleued hym not: but publicans and harlottes beleued hym. And ye (whē ye had sene it) were not moued afterwarde wth repentaunce, that ye myght haue beleued hym. ✠

✠ Herken another synilitude. ✠ Ther was a certain mā an housholder, which plantēd a vyne parde, & hedged it round about, & made a wyne presse in it, & built a tower, & let it out to husbandmen, & wet into a strafige cōtre. And when the tyme of þe frute dreyne nere, he sent hys seruantes to the husbandmē, þat they myght receaue the frutes of it. And þe husbandmē caught hys seruantes, & beat one, kyllēd another, & stoned another. Agayne he sent other seruantes, mo then þe fyrst, and they dyd vnto the likewise. But last of al, he sent vnto the his owne sonne, sayng: they wyl stand in awe of my sonne. But whē þe husbandmē sawe þe sonne, they said among the selues: * This is þe heyre: come, let vs kyll hym, & let vs enioye his enheritaunce. And they caught hym, & thrust hym out of þe vynyarde, & slewe hym. When the lord therfore of þe vynyarde cometh, what wyl he do vnto those husbandmē? They sayde vnto hym: For as much as they be cruel, he wyl cruelly destroye the, and wyl let out his vynyarde vnto other husbandmen, whych shal deliuer hym the frute the frute in due seasons. Iesus sayth vnto them: Whyd ye neuer read in the scripatures? * The stone whych the buylders refused, the same is become the head of the corner: this is the Lordes doyng and it is maruelous in oure eyes. Therfore saye I vnto you: the kyngdome of God shalbe taken from you, and geuen to a nacyon whych shall bypnyng forth the frutes thereof. And * whosoener fallett on thys stone, shalbe broken in peces: but on * whomsoener it fallett it shall all to grynne hym. And when the chefe prestes and pharysles had herd his parables, they perceyued þe he spake of them. * And they went about to laye handes on hym: but they feared þe people, because they toke hym as a prophet. And Iesus answered and spake vnto the again by parables and said.

The. xxi. Chapter. ✠

The mariage of the kynges sonne. Tribute to be geuen to the Emperoure. Christ confuteth the opinion of the Saduces, concernyng the resurrection, & answereth þe Scrybe vnto his question.

The kyngdome of heauē is like vnto * a mā that was a kyng, which made a maryage for hys sonne & sent forth his seruauntes, to call the that were bydden to the wedding, & they would not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruauntes, sayng: Tel them whych are bydde: behold, I haue prepared my dynner, myne oren & my satynges are kyled, & all thynges are ready, come vnto þe maryage. But they made lyght of it, and went they wayes: one to hys ferme place, another for hys marchaundys, & the remnaunt toke his seruauntes, and intrated them shamefully & slew them. But when the kyng herd therof, he was wroth and sent forth hys men of warre and destroyed those murtherers and bzent vp theyr cyprie.

Then sayd he to his seruauntes: the maryage in dede is prepared. But they whych wer bydde wer not worthy. So ye therfore out into the bye wayes: and as many as ye fynde, byd them to þe mariage. And the seruauntes went out into the bye wayes, and gathered cogether all as many as they could fynde, both good and bad, and the wedding was furnyshed wyth gesses. Then the kyng came in to see the gesses, and whē he spied there a man, whych had not on a wedding garment, he sayd vnto hym: frend, how camest thou in wyther, not havyng a wedding garment? And he was enen spechlesse. Then sayd the kyng to þe bymysters: take and bynd hym hande and foote, and cast him into vtter darkenesse: there shalbe wepyng and gnawynge of teth. For many be called, but fewe are chosen. ✠

* Then went the pharysles, and toke counsell how they myght tangle hym in his wordes. And they set out vnto hym their disciples wyth Herodes seruauntes, sayng: * Master, we know that thou art true, and taughte the waye of God truly, nether carest thou for any man, for thou regardest not the outward appareance of men. Tell vs therfore: how thynkest thou? Is it lawfull that tribute bee geuen vnto Cesar or not? But Iesus perceayng theyr wickednes, sayde:

Why tempt ye me, ye hypocrites? Shewe me the tribute mony. And they toke hym a peny. And he sayd to them: whose is thys ymage and super scripceyon? They saye vnto hym: Cesars. Then sayd he vnto them: * Ecce therfore vnto Cesar the thynges whych are Cesars, and vnto God, those thynges that are Goddes. ✠ When they had herd these wordes, they marueyled, and left hym, and wente they waye. ✠ The same daye came to hym the Saduces (whych say that ther is no resurrection) and asked hym, sayng: Master, Moyses sayde: that * if a man dye, havyng no chyld, hys brother shuld mary hys wyfe, and rayse vp sēde vnto hys brother. Ther wer with vs seue bzet bzēn, & the fyrst maryed a wyfe, and deceased wythout pssue, and left hys wyfe vnto his bzether. Likewise, the second and the thyrde, vnto the seuenth. Last of all the woman dyed also. Therfore, in the resurrection, whose wyfe shal she be of the seue? For they al had her. Iesus answered and sayd vnto the: ye do erre, not knowyng the scripatures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection, they nether mary nor are maryed, but are as the Angels in heauen.

But as touchyng the resurrection of the dead: haue ye not rede that which is spoken vnto you of God, whych sayeth: * I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: God is not a God of dead, but of lyuyng. And when the people herd this they wer astonnyed at his doctrine. ✠ But when the pharysles had herd, that he had put the Saduces to silence they cam together, and one of them (which was a doctoure of lawe) asked hym a question, temptyng hym, and sayng: Master, whych is the great commaundment in the lawe? Iesus sayd vnto hym: Thou shalt * loue the Lord thy God wyth all thy herte, and with al thy soule, and w all thy mynde. Thys is the fyrst and great commaundement. And the seconde is lyke vnto it. * Thou shalt loue thyne neighbour as thy self. In these two commaundementes hange all the lawe and prophetes.

Whyle the pharysles wer gathered together Iesus asked them sayng: What thynke ye of Christ? whose sonne is he? They said vnto hym the sonne of Dauid. He sayd vnto them: * howe then doeth Dauid in spyrte call hym Lord, sayng: The Lord said vnto my Lord: * syt thou on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stole: If Dauid then call hym Lord, howe is he then his sonne? And no man was able to answer hym any thyng, neyther durste any man (from that tyme forth) aske hym any mo questions. ✠

The. xliii. Chapter.

Christ sheweth his disciples y destruction of the temple, y ende of the world, and the tokens of the latter dayes, & warneth them to waite, for the world shall suddenly perthe.

¶ Jesus wente out and departed from the temple: and * his disciples came to hym, for to shew hym y buyldynges of the temple. Jesus saied vnto them: Se ye not all these thynges? Verely I saie vnto you: there shall not bee here lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not bee destroyed. And as he satte vpon mount Oliuete, his disciples came vnto hym secretly, sayng: tel vs: when shall these thynges bee: and what shal bee the token of thy comynge and of the ende of the worlde? And Jesus answered, & saied vnto them: take hede, that no man deceiue you. For many shal come in my name, sayng: I am Christe: & shal deceiue many. Ye shal heare of warres & tdynges of warres: bee not troubled. For all these (these thynges) must come to passe, but the ende is not yet. * Nacion shal rise against nacion, and realme against realme: and there shal bee pestilence, andonger and earthquakes in all places. All these are the begynnynge of sorowes.

* Then shall they putte you to trouble, and shal kyll you & ye shal bee hated of all nacions for my names sake. And then shall many be offended, & shall betraye one another, & shal hate one another. And many false prophetes shall aryse, and shall deceiue many. * And iniquitee shall haue y vpperhand, the loue of many shal abate. * But he that endureth to the ende, the same shal be safe.

* And this Gospel of the kyngdom shal be preached in all the worlde, for a wytnes vnto all nations, and then shal the ende come.

* When ye therfore shal see the abhomyngacio[n] of desolacion (that was spokē of by Daniel the prophet) stand in the holy place, whoso readeth it let hym vnderstand. Then let them whiche be in Ieruzalem, flye into the mountaynes. And let hym whych is on the house toppe, not come downe to set any thyng oute of his house. Neither let hym whych is in the felde, retorne backe to fetch his clothes. Who shal be in those dayes to them þe are wyth chyld, & to the that gene sucke. But praye ye, that your flyght be not in the wynter, nether on the Saboth daye. For then shal be great tribulaciōs: such as was not sence the begynnyng of the worlde to this tyme, nor shal be. Per & except those dayes should be shortened, ther shuld no fleshe be saued, but for the chosens sake those dayes shal be shortened.

* Then ys any man saye vnto you: lo, here is Christ, or there: beleue it not. For there shal arise false Christes, & false prophetes: and shal do we greate myracles, & wonders. In so mucht (that ys it wer possyble) the very elect shoulde be deceaued: behold, I haue told you before. Wherfore, ys they saye vnto you: beholde, he is in the deserte, go not ye forthe: beholde, he is in the secrete places, beleue it not. For as þe flyghtenyng cometh out of the east, & appeareth into þe west: so shal the comyng of the sonne of man be.

* For wher soeuer a dead karkas is, enē there wyl the Eagles also be gathered together. Immediately after the tribulacions of those dayes shal the Sonne be darkened, and þe Moone shal not geue her lyght, and the starres shal fall fro heauen, and the power of heauen shal be moued. And then shal appeare the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shal all the kynredes of the earth mourne, and they shal see the sonne of man comyng in the cloudes of heauen, with power and greate gloze, & he shal send his Angels with the greate voyce of a trompet, and they shal gather together his chosens, from the byghest partes of heauē, vntyll þe endes thereof.

* Learne a symilitude of the fygge tree: whē his brynches is yet tender, & the leaues syngge ye knowe that sommer is nye. So lyke wyse ye, when ye se all these thynges, be ye sure that it is nere, euen at the doores. Verely I saye vnto you: this generaciō shal not passe, tyll all these thynges be fulfilled. * Heauen and earth shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. But of þe daye and houre knoweth no man, no not the angels of heauen, but my father only.

* But as the dayes of Noe were, so shal also the comyng of þe sonne of mā be. For as in the dayes (that went before the flood) they dyd eate and drynke, marrye, & were marryed, enē vntyll the day that Noe entred into the ship, & knewe not tyll the floude came and toke the all awaye. So shal also the comyng of the sonne of man be. Then shal two be in the felde, the one receaued & the other refused: two wemen shal be gryndyng at the myll, the one receaued and the other refused.

sed. on (Two in a bed, the one shal be receaued, and the other refused) * Watche therfore, for ye know not what houre your Lorde wyl come. Of this yet he sure that ys the good man of the house knewe what houre the these would come: he woulde surely watche, and not suffer his house to be brokē vp. Therfore, be ye also ready, for in suche an houre as ye thynke not, wyl the sonne of man come. Who is a faythfull and wyse seruaunt, whome his Lorde hath made ruler ouer his household, to geue them meat in season. Blessed is that seruaunt, whom his Lorde (when he cometh) shal fynde so doyng: Verely I saye vnto you, that he shal make hym ruler ouer all his goodes. But and ys that euell seruaunt saye in his herte my Lorde wyl be long a comyng (and so begynne to smyte his feloes, pec, and to eate and drynke wyth the dronken) the same seruaunt his Lorde shal come in a daye when he loketh not for hym, and in an houre that he is not ware of, and shal hewe hym in peces, and geue hym his porcion wyth hypocrytes: there shal be wepyng and gnashyng of teth.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The ten virgyns. The talentes deliuered to the seruantes, and of the generall iudgement.

Then shal the kyngdome of heauen be lyke vnto ten virgyns, whiche toke their lampes, and went to mete the bydgrom (and the byde) But fyue of them were folyse, and fyue were wyse. They that wer folyse, tok theyr lampes but toke none oyle wyth the. But the wyse toke oyle wyth them in theyr vessels, wyth the lampes also. Whyle the bydgrome tarped, they all slombzed and slepte. And euen at mydnyghte, there was a crye made: beholde, the bydgrome cometh: go oute to mete hym. Then all those virgyns arose, and prepared theyr lampes. So the folyse sayd vnto the wyse: geue vs of your oyle: for our lampes are gone out. But the wyse answered, sayng: not so lest ther be not ynough for vs and you, but go ye rather to them that sel and buye for your selues. And whyle they went to buye, the bydgrom came: and they that wer ready, wente in wyth hym to the maryage, and the gate was shut vp. Afterward came also the other virgyns, sayng: * Lorde, Lorde, open to vs. But he answered and sayde: verely I saye vnto you: I knowe you not. * Watche therfore for ye knowe nether the daye, nor yet the houre wherin the sonne of man shal come.

* Lyke wyse as a certayne man ready to take his iorney into a straunge countre, called his seruantes, and deliuered vnto them his goodes. And vnto one he gaue fyue talentes, to another two, and to another one: to euery mā after his habyltye, and straight waye departed.

Then he that had receaued the fyue talentes, went, & occupied wyth the same, & wanne other fyue talentes. Lyke wyse also he that receaued two, gayned other two. But he that receaued þe one, went & dygged in the earth, and hyd his lordes money. After a long season the lord of those seruantes came, and rekened wyth them. And so he that had receaued fyue talentes came and and brought other fyue talentes, sayng: Syr, I deliueredst vnto me fyue talentes: behold I haue gayned wyth them fyue talentes mo. His lord sayd vnto hym: wel thou good and faythfull seruant. Thou hast bene faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: entre thou into the ioye of thy lord. He also that had receaued two talentes, came and sayd: Syr, thou deliueredst vnto me two talentes: behold I haue wonne two other talentes wyth the: his lord sayd vnto hym: wel good and faythfull seruant. Thou hast ben faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges: Entre thou into the ioye of thy lord.

E Then he whych hath receaued the one talent, cam, and sayd: Syr, I knewe the, that thou arte an harde man, reappng where thou hast not sowed, and gatherng where thou haste not strawed, & therfore was I afrayed, and wote and hdd thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou haste that thyne is. His lord answered and sayd vnto him: thou euil and slouthfull seruaunt, thou knewest, that I reape where I sowed not, & gather wher I haue not strawed, thou oughtest therefore to haue deliuered my money to the exchaungers, & then at my cominge thou shouldest haue receaued myne o'one wyth vantage. Take therfore the talent from hym, and geue it vnto hym whych hath ten talentes. * For vnto euery one that he shalbe geuen, & he shal haue aboundance: But he that hath not, from hym shalbe taken awaye euen that whych he hath. And cast the vnprofytable seruaunt into vter darknes, & ther shalbe weeping and gnashyng of teth.

When the sonne of man cometh in hys gloze, and all the holy angels wyth hym, then shall he sit vpon the seate of hys gloze, and before hym shalbe gathered all nations. * And he shal separate them one from another, as a shep-herd deuydeth the shepe from the goates: and he shal set the shepe on his right hande, but the goates on the left. Then shall the kyng saye to them that shalbe on hys ryght hande. Come ye blessed of my father, inheret the kyngdome, * prepared for you fro the begynnyng of the worlde. * For I was an hongred, and ye gaue me meat. I was thyrstye, & ye gaue me drynke. I was herbour-lesse, and ye toke me in. Naked, & ye clothed me. * Sycke, and ye vylited me. * I was in prelson, & ye came vnto me. Then shall the ryghteous an-
* were hym sayng: Lorde when sawe we the an-hongred, & fed the: or thyrstye, & gaue the drynke? When sawe we the herbourlesse, and toke the in? or naked, and clothed the? or when sawe we the sycke, or in prelson, and came vnto the? And the kyng shall answer, and saye vnto them, verely I saye vnto you, in as muche as ye haue done it vnto one of the lest of these my brythen, ye haue done it vnto me.

Then shall he saye also vnto them, that shal-be on the left hande: * departe from me ye cursed * into enerlastyng fyre: whyche is prepared for the deuyl and his angels. For I was an hongred and ye gaue me no meat. I was thyrstye, and ye gaue me no drynke. I was herbourlesse, and ye toke me not in. I was naked & ye clothed me not I was sycke and in prelson, & ye vylited me not.

Then shall they also answer hym sayng: Lorde when sawe we the an hongred, or a thyrstye, or har-bourlesse, or naked, or sycke, or in prelson, and did not mynister vnto the? Then shall he answer the, sayng: Verely, I say vnto you, in as much * as ye dyd it not to one of the lest of these, ye did it not to me. And these shal go into enerlastyng payne, the righteous into life eternall.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

Mary Magdalene anoynteth Christ. They eat the Pas-ter lamb, Christ prayeth in the garden. Judas betrayeth hym. Peter smytheth of Malchus eare. Christ is accused by false wytnesses. Peter denyeth hym.

And it came to passe, whē Jesus had fi-nyshed all these saynges, he sayd vnto hys dyscyples. * Ye knowe that after two dayes shalbe Easter and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered ouer to be crucified. * Then assembled together the chiefe prea-stes and the scribes and the elders of the people, vnto the palace of the hie preast (which was called Cayphas) and held a counsell that they might take Jesus by subteltie and kyll hym. But they sayd: not on the holie daye, least there be an up-roure among the people.

When Jesus was in Bethany, in the house of Symeon the leper, ther came vnto hym a woman: * hauinge an alabastrer boxe of precyous oyntmente, and poured it on hys head, as he sat at the bozde. But when his dyscyples sawe it, they had indignacion sayng: Whereto serueth this waste? This oyntmente myght haue bene well solde, and geuen to the pooze. When Jesus vnderstode that, he sayde vnto them: why trouble ye the womā? For she hath wrought a good worke vpon me. * For ye haue pooze alwayes wyth you: But me shal ye not haue alwayes.
And in that she hath cast this oyntment on my body, she dyd it to bury me. Verely, I saye vnto you wheresoener this Gospell shalbe preached in the worlde, there shal also this that she hath done be tolde, for a memoryall of her.

Then one of the twelve (which was called Judas Iscariot) wēt vnto the chiefe preastes, and sayd vnto the: what wyl ye geue me, and I wyl deliuer hym vnto you? And they appoynted vnto him thyrty peces of syluer. And fro that time forth he sought oportynitee to betraye hym.

The first daye of fete bread, the dyscyples came to Jesus, sayng vnto hym, where wylte thou that we prepare for the to eate the pascouer?
And he sayde: go into the cytie, to suche a man, & saye vnto hym, the master sayeth: my time is at hande, I wyl kepe myne Easter by the, wyth my disciples: And the disciples dyd as Jesus had ap-poynted them, & they made ready the pascouer.

When the eue was come, he sat downe wyth the twelve. And as they dyd eate, he sayde: Ve-rely, I saye vnto you, that * one of you shal betraye me. And they were excedyng sore wofull and began euery one of them to saye vnto hym: Lorde, is it I? he answered and sayde: he that dyppeyth hys hande wyth me in the dyshe, the same shall betraye me. * The sonne of man true. Cyp goeth, as it is wyrtten of hym: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It had bene good for that man, yf he had not bene borne. Then Judas whyche betrayed hym answered and sayd: master, is it I? He sayd vnto hym: thou haste sayd. When they were eatyng Jesus toke bread, and when he had geuen thankes, he brake it, and gaue it to the discyples, and sayd: * Take, eate, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, and gaue it them, sayyng: Drynke ye al of this, for this is my bloud (whyche is of the newe testamente) that is shed for many, for the remysynge of synnes. But I say vnto you: I wyll not drynke hence forth of this frute of the vyne tree, vntyll the daye when I shall drynke it newe with you in my fathers kyngdome.

* And when they had sayd grace, they wente out vnto mount Oliuete. Then sayeth Jesus vnto the: all ye shalbe offended because of me this nyght. For it is wyrtten: * I wyll smyte the shep-herde, and the shepe of the flocke shalbe scattered abroad. But after I am rysen agayn, I wyll go before you into Galile. Peter answered, & sayde vnto hym: * though al men be offended because of the, yet wyl I not be offended. Jesus sayd vnto hym: Verely, I saye vnto the, yf in this same nyght, before the cocke crowe, thou shalte denye me thysse. Peter sayd vnto hym: Yee, though I shoulde dye with the, yet wyl I not denye the: Lyke wyse also sayd all the discyples.

* Then came Jesus with them vnto a farme place (whyche is called Gethsemane) & sayd vnto the discyples: syt ye here whyle I go & praye vnder. And he toke with hym Peter & the two sonnes of zebede, & began to waxe sorrowful and heuy. Then sayd Jesus vnto the: * My soule is heuy, eue vnto the death. Tary ye here & watche with me. And he wente a lytell farther, and fell flat on hys face, & prayed, sayyng: O my father, yf it be possyble, * let this cuppe passe from me: neuerthelesse, not as I wyll, but as thou wylte. And he came vnto the discyples and founde the slepe, and sayeth vnto Peter: What coulde ye not watch with me one houre: watche & praye, that ye entre not into temptation. * The spyte is wyllyng, but the fleshe is weake.

* He went away once agayn and prayed, sayyng: O my father, yf this cuppe maye not passe away from me, except I drynke of it, thy wyl be fulfilled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayn. For they eyes wer heuy. And he left the and wente agayn, and prayed the thyrde tyme, sayyng the same wordes. Then cometh he to the discyples, and sayeth vnto them. Slepe on nowe and take youre rest. Beholde, the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse, let vs be goyng: beholde, he is at hande, that doeth betraye me. * Whyle he yet spake: lo, Judas one of the nombe of the twelue, came, and with hym a greate myltitude, with sweardes and staves, sent from the chiefe prestes and elders of the people. But he that betrayed hym, gaue them a token, sayyng: Whomsoeuer I kysse that same is he, hold hym faste. And forthwith he came to Jesus, and sayd: Haple Master, and kysed hym. And Jesus sayd vnto hym: frende, wherfore arte thou come? Then came they, and layed handes on Jesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them whyche were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, & drew his sweard and stroke a seruaunte of the hye prestes, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: put vp thy swearde into hys sheath. * For all they that take the swearde: shal perishe with the sweard. Thyntest thou that I can not now praye to my father, & he shall geue me (euen nowe) more then twelue Legions of Angels? But how then shall the scriptures be fulfilled: for * thus muste it be. In that same houre sayde Jesus to the myltitude: * Ye be come out as it were vnto a thefe, with sweardes and staves, for to take me. I sat daylye with you teachyng in the temple, and ye toke me not. * But all this is done, that the scriptures of the prophetes myght be fulfilled. * Then al the discyples forsoke hym, and fled. And they toke Jesus, & led him to Cayphas the hye preste where the scribes and the elders wer assembled. But Peter folowed hym a farre of vnto the hye prestes palace, and went in, and sate with the seruauntes, to se the ende.

* The chiefe prestes and the elders, and all the counsell, sought false wytnes against Jesus (for to put hym to death) but found none: yee, when many false wytnesses came, yet found they none. At the last came two false wytnesses, and they sayde: This feloe sayde: * I am able to destroye the temple of God, & to buylde it agayne in thre dayes. * And the chiefe preste arose, and sayd vnto hym: Answerest thou nothyng? Why do these beare wytnes agaynst the? But Jesus helde his peace. * And the chiefe preste answered and sayde vnto hym: I charge the by the luyng God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christe the sonne of God. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: thou hast sayd. Neuerthelesse, I saye vnto you: * Here after shall ye se the sonne of man syttyng on the right hande of power, and comyng in the cloudes of the skye.

* Then the hye preste rent his clothes, sayyng: he hath spoken blasphemie: what nede we of any mo wytnesses? Beholde, nowe ye haue herd his blasphemie, what thynke ye? They answered, & sayd: he is worthy to dye. * Then dyd they spyt in hys face, and buffeted hym with fyfkes. And other smote hym on hys face, with the palme of the handes, sayyng: Tell vs thou Christ, who is he that smote the?

Peter sat without in the palace. And a damsel came to hym, sayyng: Thou also wast with Jesus of Galile: but he denyed before the al, sayyng I wote not what thou sayest. Whē he was gone out into the porche, another wenche sawe hym, and sayd vnto them that were there: This feloe was also with Jesus of Nazareth. And agayn he denyed with an othe (sayyng:) I do not knowe the man. And after a while, came vnto him thei (that rode by) & sayd vnto Peter: * surely thou art euen one of them, for thy speache betrayeth the. Then began he to curse and to sweare, that he knewe not the man. And immediatly * the cocke crewe. And Peter remembred the word of Iesu, whyche sayde vnto hym, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thysse: and he wente out, and wept bitterly.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Christ is deliuered vnto pylate. Judas hangeth hym selfe. Christ is crucified amonge theues. He dyeth and is buried, watchmen kepe the graue.

When the moorning was come al the chiefe preastes and the elders of the people, helde a counsell agaynst Iesu, to put hym to death, & brought hym bounde * and deliuered hym vn to Poncius Pylate the debyte.

Then Judas (whyche had betrayed hym) se- ping that he was condemned, repented hym selfe and brought agayne the thirtie plates of syluer to the chiefe preastes and elders, saynge: I haue synned, betraying the innocent blood. And they sayde: what is that to vs? Se thou to that. And he cast doune the syluer plates in the temple, and departed * and went and hanged hym selfe.

And the chiefe preastes toke the syluer plates and sayd: it is not lawfull for to put them into treasure, because it is the pryce of bloude. And they toke counsel: and bought wth them a potters felde, to burye straungers in. Wherfore the felde is called * (Baceldema, that is) the feld of bloud vntill thys daye. Then was fulfilled, & whych was spoken by Jeremy the Prophete, saynge: * and they toke thirtie syluer plates, the pryce of hym that was valued, whome they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and gaue them for potters feld, as the Lorde appoynted me.

* Iesu stode before the debyte, and the debite asked hym, saynge: arte thou the kyng of the Jewes? Iesu sayeth vnto hym: Thou sayeste. And when he was accused of the chiefe preastes & elders, he answered nothyng. Then sayeth Pylate vnto hym: hearest thou not, how many witnesses they laye agaynst the: * and he answered hym to neuer a word: in so much that the debite marvelled greatly.

* At that feaste, the debyte was wont to deliuer vnto the people a prisoner, whome they would desyre. He had then a notable prisoner, called Barrabas. Therfore when they were gathered together, Pylate sayd: * whether wyl ye that I gene loote vnto you? Barrabas, or Iesu, whyche is called Christ? For he knewe that for enuy they had deliuered hym.

When he was set doune to gene iudgemente hys wyfe sent vnto hym saynge: haue thou nothyng to do wth that iuste man. For I haue suffred many thynges thys daye in my slepe because of hym. * But the chiefe preastes & elders perswaded the people, that they shuld aske Barrabas, and destroye Iesu. The debyte answered, and sayde vnto them: whether of twayne wyl ye, that I let loose vnto you? They sayde: * Barrabas. Pylate sayd vnto the: * what shal I do then wth Iesu whyche is called Christ?

They all sayd vnto hym: Let hym be crucified. The debyte sayde: What euell hath he done? But they cryed the more, saynge: Let hym be crucified. When Pylate sawe that he could preuaile nothyng, but & more busynesse was made he toke water and washed hys handes before the people, saynge: I am innocente of the bloude of thys iuste personne, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayde: * Hys bloude be on vs and oure chyldren. * Then let he Barrabas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesu, and deliuered hym to be crucified.

* Then the souldiers of the debyte toke Iesu in the common hall, and gathered vnto hym all the companye. And they strypped hym, & put on hym a purple robe, & platted a crowne of thornes, and put vpon his head, & a rede in his ryght hand: & bowed the knee before hym, and mocked hym sayng: haile kyng of the Jewes. And whē they had spyt vpon hym, they toke the rede, and smote hym on the head.

And after that they had mocked hym, they tooke the robe of hym agayne, and put hys owne rayment on hym, and led hym away to crucifye hym. And as they came out, * they found a man of Cyren (named Symon) hym they compelled to beare his crosse. * And they cam vnto a place which is called Golgotha (that is to say: a place of dead mens scoules) and gaue hym vyner to drynke, myngled wth gall. And whē he had tasted therof, he would not drynke.

When they had crucified hym, they parted hys garmentes, and caste lottes: that it myghte be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet: * They departed my garmentes amonge them, and vpon my vesture dyd they caste lottes. And they sat and watched hym there, & set vpon hys head, the cause of hys death wyrtten: This is Iesu the kyng of the Jewes. * Then were there two theues crucified wth hym, one on the right hande and another on the lyfte.

* They passed by reuled hym, waggynge theyr heades, and sayng: thou that destroyedest the temple of God, and byddest builde it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. * If thou be the sonne of God, come doune from the crosse. Lyke wyse also the hye preastes, mockynge hym wth the scribes and elders sayde: he saued other, hym selfe can he not saue. If he be the kyng of Israel let hym nowe come doune from the crosse, and we wyl beleue him. * He trusted in God, let him deliuer hym nowe, if he wyl haue hym, for he sayde: I am the sonne of God. The theues also which were crucified wth hym, cast the same in hys tethe. * From the fyrte houre was there darkness ouer al the lande vnto the nynt houre. And aboute the nynt houre, Iesu cryed wth a loude voyce, saynge: Eli, Eli, lama sabachani. That is to saye: * My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me? Some of them that stode there, when they herde that, sayde: This man calleth for Helias. And streyght waye * one of them ranne, and toke a sponge, and when he had fylled it full of vyner, he put it on a rede, and gaue hym to drynke. Other sayde: let be, let vs se whether se whether Elias will come and deliuer hym. Jesus, when he had cried again with a loude voice yelded vp the ghoste. And behold, the vaile of the temple did rent into two partes, from y^e top to the bottome, and the earth did quake, and the stones rent, and graues did open: and many bodies of sainctes whiche slepte, arose, and wente out of the graues, after his resurrection, & came into the holy cite, & appeared vnto many. Whē the Centurion and they that were with hym watching Jesus, sawe the earthquake, & those thynges whiche happened, they feared greatly, sayng: Truly, this was the sonne of God.

* And many women were there (beholdyng hym afarre of) whiche folowed Jesus frō Galile, ministeryng vnto hym. Among whiche was Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and Ioses, and the mother of zebedees children. When the euen was come * there came a riche manne of Arimathea named Ioseph, whiche also was Jesus disciple. He wēt vnto Pilate and begged the body of Jesus: Then Pilate commaunded the body to bee deliuered. And when Ioseph had taken the body, he wrapped it in a cleane linnen cloth, and laied it in his new tombe whiche he had hewen out, euen in the rocke, and rolled a grente stone to the doze of the sepulchre & departed. And there was * Mary Magdalen & the other Mary, sitting ouer against the sepulchre. The next daie that folowed the daie of preparyng, the hie prestes and pharises came together vnto Pilate, sayng: Sir wee remēbre that this deceiuer saied while he was yet aliue. After thre dayes I will rise again. Commaunde therfore that the sepulchre bee made sure vntill the third daye, lest his disciples come, & steale hym awate & saie vnto the people: he is risen from the dedde and the last erreure shal bee wourse then the first. Pilate saied vnto them: Ye haue the watche, go your waie, make it as sure as ye cā. So they wēt and made the sepulchre sure with watchemen, and sealed the stone. ¶

The xxviii. Chapter.

The resurrection of Christ. The hie prestes geue the souldours money to saie that Christ was stolen out of his graue. Christe appeareth to his disciples, and sendeth them forth to preache and to baptise.

In an euening of the Sabothes whiche dawneth the first daie of the Sabothes, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And behold, there was a grente earthquake for the angell of the Lorde descended from heauen, and came and rolled backe the stone from the doze, and satte vpon it. His countenaunce was lyghtenyng, and his rayment white as snowe. And for feare of hym the keepers were astonnyed, and became as dedde menne.

The angell answered, and saied vnto the women, feare ye not. For I knowe, that ye see Jesus whiche was crucified: he is not here: he is risen as he saied. Come see y^e place where that the Lorde was laied: and goo quickly, tell his disciples, that he is risen again from the dedde. And behold, he goeth before you into Galile, there ye shall see hym. Lo I haue tolde you. ¶

* And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with feare and greate ioye, and did rūne to bring his disciples woorde. And as they wēt to tell his disciples: behold, Jesus mette them, sayng: All halle. And they came and helde hym by the fete and worshipped hym. Then saied Jesus vnto them: bee not afrayed. Goo tell my brethren that they goo into Galyle, and there shall they see me. When they were gone, behold some of the keepers came into the cite, and shewed vnto the hie prestes, all the thynges that had happened. And they gathered them together with the elders, and tooke counsayll, and gaue large money vnto the souldours, sayng: Saye ye, y^e hys disciples came by nyghte and stole hym awaye whyle ye slepte. And yf thys come to the rulers eares, wee wyll perswade hym, and saue you harmeles. So they toke the money, and did as they were taught. And thys sayng is noyld among the Jewes vnto this daye. ¶

* Then the eleuen disciples wente awaye in to Galile, into a mountaigne, where as Jesus had appoynted them. And when they sawe hym they worshipped hym. But some doubted. And Jesus came, and spake vnto them, sayng: * All power is geuen vnto me in heauen, and in earth. * Gospe therefore, and teache all nacions, baptisying then in the name of the father, and of the sonne, and of the holy ghoste: Teachyng them to obserue all thynges, whatsoeuer I haue commaunded you. And lo, * I am with you alwaye euen vntill the ende of the worlde. ¶

saincte Marke.

The first Chapter.

The office of Iohn the Baptiste. The baptyme of Christe, his sayng, his preachyng, and the calling of Peter, Andrieu, James and Iohn. Christe healeth the manne with the vncleane spirite, helpeth Peters mother in lawe, and cleaseth the leper.

In the begynnyng of the Gospell of Iesu Christe the sonne of God, as it is written in the Prophetes: * Beholde I sende my messenger before thy face, whiche shall prepare thy waye before thee. The voice of a crier in the wyldernesse: * Prepare the waye of the Lorde and make his pathes straight. * Iohn did baptise in the wyldernesse, and preached the baptyme of * repentaunce, for the remission of synnes. And all the lande of Jewry and they of Iherusalem wente out vnto hym, and were baptised of hym in the ryuer of Iordan confessyng theyr synnes. * Iohn was clothed with camels herte, and with agayrdell of a skynne aboute his loynes. And he dyd eate locustes and wyld honey, and preached, sayng: * He that is stronger than he, then

then I, cometh after me, whose shooe latched I am not worthy to stoupe doune, and vnloose. I haue baptised you with water: but he shall baptise you with the holy ghoſte. ¶

And it came to passe in thole daies, that Iesus came from Nazareth, of Galile, * and was baptised of Ihon in Iornane. And as ſone as he was come vp out of the water: * he ſaw heauen open, and the ſprite deſcendynge vpon hym like a doue: And there came a voyce from heauen. * ¶ Thou art my deare ſonne in whom I deſite. And immediatly * the ſprite droue hym into wylderneſſe: and he was there in the wylderneſſe fourty dayes, and was tempted of Satthan, and was with wilde beaſtes. * And the angels miniſtered vnto hym. After that Ihon was taken * Iesus came into Galile * preachynge the Goſpell, of the kyngdome of God, and ſayng: the tyme is come, and the kyngdome of God is at hande: * repente and beleue the Goſpell.

¶ As he walked by the ſea of Galile, he ſawe Symon and Andzeus his brother, caſtynge nettes into the ſea, for they were fiſhers. And Iesus ſaid vnto them: foloe me, and I will make you to become fiſhers of menne. And ſtraight waye they forſoke their nettes and folowed hym. And when he had gone a litle further thence, he ſawe James the ſonne of zebede, and Ihon his brother, whiche alſo were in the ſhippe, mending their nettes. And anone he called them. And they leſte their father zebede in the ſhippe with the hyred ſeruauntes, and folowed hym.

¶ And thei came into capernaum: and ſtraight waye on the Saboth dayes, he entered into the ſynagoge, and taught, and they were aſtoniſhed at his learnynge. * For he thought them as one that had aucthorite, and not as the ſcribes. And ¶ there was in their ſynagoge a manne vexed with an vncleane ſprite, and he cryed ſayng: Alas, what haue wee to dooe with thee thou Iesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to deſtroye vs? I knowe thee what thou art, euen that holy one of God. And Iesus rebuked hym, ſayng: holde thy peace, and come oute of the manne. And whē the vncleane ſprite had torne hym, and cryed with a loude voyce, he came out of him. And thei were all amaſed, in ſo muche that thei demaunded one of another among them ſelues ſayng: What thyng is this? What newe doctryne is this? For with aucthorite commaunded he the foule ſpirites, and thei obeyed hym. And immediatly his fame ſped a brode throughtout al the region, borderynge on Galile.

¶ And forthwith when they were come oute of the ſynagoge, * they entered into the houſe of Symon and Andzeus, with James and Ihon. But Symons mother in lawe laye ſicke of a feuer. And anone they tell hym of her. And he came, and toke her by the hande: and liſt her vp and immediatly the feuer forſoke her, and ſhe mynſtered vnto them. And at euen when the ſunne was doune, they brought vnto him al that were diſeaſed, and thei that were vexed with deuils. And all the citee was gathered together at the doore, and he healed many that wer ſicke of diuerſe diſeaſes, and * caſt oute many deuils, and ſuffered not the deuils to ſpeake, becauſe they knewe hym. And in the moynynge verie early, Iesus (when he was riſen vp) departed, and wente out into a ſolitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and thei that were with hym, folowed after hym. And when thei had founde hym they ſaid vnto hym: all menne ſeke for thee. And he ſaid vnto them: lette vs goo into the next townes, that I maye preach there alſo: for therfore am I come. And he preached in their ſynagoges, in all Galyle, and caſte the deuilles oute.

* And there came a leper to hym, beſechynge hym, and knelyng doune, and ſayng vnto hym if thou wylte, thou canſte make me cleane. And Iesus had compaſſion on hym, & put forth his hande, touched hym, and ſaith vnto hym: I wil bee thou cleane. And as ſone as he had ſpoken, immediately the leproſye departed from hym, and he ſente hym awaye forthwith, and ſaith vnto hym: * See thou ſaye nothyng to any manne: but gette thee hence, ſhewe thy ſelf to the preeſte and offer for thy clenſynge, thoſe thynges whiche Moſes commaunded, for a witneſſe vnto them. But he (as ſone as he was departed) began to tel many thynges, and to publiſhe the ſayng: in ſo muche that Iesus coulde nomore openly entre into the citee, but was without in deſerte places. And thei came to hym from euery quarter.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ After a ſeue dayes alſo, he entered into Capernaum again, and it was noyed that he was in the houſe. And anone many were gathered together, in ſo muche that now there was no rōme to receiue them, no, not ſomuche as about the doore, and he preached the woordes vnto them: * And thei came vnto hym, byngynge one ſicke of the pally, whiche was bozne of foure menne. And whē they could not come nie vnto hym, for preſe, they vncouered the rooſe of the houſe that he was in. And when they had broken vp the roſe, they did (with cordes) let doune the bed wherin the ſicke of the pally laye. When Iesus ſawe their faith, he ſaid vnto the ſicke of the pally: * ſonne, thy ſynnes bee forgiuen thee.

But there were certayne of the ſcribes ſpytyng there, and thynkyng in their heartes: why dooeth he ſpeake theſe blaſphemies? Whocan forgiue ſynnes, but God onely? And immediatly when Iesus perceiued in his ſprite that thei ſo thoughte within them ſelues, he ſaith vnto them: why thynke ye ſuche thynges in your heartes? Whether is it eaſyer to ſaye to the ſicke of the pally, thy ſynnes bee forgiuen thee, or to ſaie aryle, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the ſonne of manne hath power in earth to forgiue ſynnes, he ſpake vnto the ſicke of the pally: Ariſe & take vp thy bed and gette thee hēce vnto thyne owne houſe. And immediatly he aroſe, tooke vp the bed, and went forth beſore them all: in ſo muche that that thei were all amazed, and glorified God, saying: wee neuer sawe it on this fashion.

* And he went again vnto the sea, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught theim. And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Lenti & soonne of Alphe, sytting at the recite of custome, and saied vnto hym: folow me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that when Iesus satte at meate in his house, many publicans and synners satte also together at meate with Iesus and his disciples. For there were many, that folowed hym. And when the scribes and pharises sawe hym eate with publicans and synners, thei saied vnto his disciples: how happeneth it, that he eateth, and drynketh with publicans and sinners? When Iesus hearde that, he saied vnto theim: Thei that bee whole, haue no nede of the physicion, but thei that are sicke. * I came not to call the righteous, but synners to repentance. And the disciples of Ihon and the pharises did faste, and thei come and saie vnto hym: Why dooe the disciples of Ihon and the pharises faste, but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus saied vnto theim: can the childe of the wedding fast while the bydegrome is with theim? As long as they haue the bydegrome with theim, they cannot faste. But the dayes will come, when the bydegrome shalbee taken awaye from them, and thei shall thei fast in those dayes.

¶ Romanne also soweth a pece of newe clothe vnto an olde garmente, els taketh he a waite the newe pece thereof from the olde, and so is the rente wourle. And no manne powreth newe wyne into olde bottels, els the new wyne dooth burst the bottels and the wine runneth out, and the bottels are marred. But newe wyne muste be putte into newe bottels. * And it chaunced on the Saboth dayes and his disciples began by the waye to plucke the eares of corne. And the pharises saied vnto hym: behold, why dooe thei on the Saboth dayes, that whiche is not lawfull? And he saied vnto them: haue ye neuer read what Dauid did, when he had nede, and was hungred, bothe he and thei that were with hym? How he went into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar the hie preeste, and did eate the hewbrede (whiche is not lawfull to eate, but for the preestes onely) and gaue also to theim whiche wer with hym? And he saied vnto them the Saboth was made for manne, and not man for the Saboth. Therfor is the soonne of man, Lord also of the Saboth.

The helpe the manne with the dyed hande, choiceth his Apostles, & casteth out the vncleane spirite, which the pharises ascribe vnto the deuell. The brother, sister, and mother of Christe.

And he entred again into the Synagoge, and ther was a manne there whiche had a withered hande. And thei watched hym, whether he would heale hym on the Saboth daie, that thei might accuse hym. And he saied vnto the manne whiche had the withered hande: arise, and stande in the middes. And he saith vnto theim: whether it is lawfull to dooe good on the Saboth dayes, or to dooe euill: to saue lyfe, or to kill? But thei helde their peace. And when he had looked round aboute on theim, with anger, mouing on the blyndnes of their heartes, he saith to the manne: stretch forth thyne hande. And he stretched it out. * And his hand was restored; euen as whole as the other. * And the pharises departed; and straight waye gathered a counsaill (with theim that belonged to herode) against hym, that thei might destroye hym. But Iesus auoyded with his disciples to the sea. * And a greete multitude folowed hym from Galile: and from Iewry, and from Hierusalem, and from Idumea, and from beyond Iordane. * And thei that dwelled about Tyre and Sidon, a greete multitude of menne: whiche (when thei had herde what thynges he did) came vnto hym.

And Iesus commaunded his disciples, that a shippe should waite on hym, because of the people: lest thei should throng hym. For he had healed many, in so muche that thei pressed vpon hym for to touche hym, as many as had plagues. And when the vncleane spirites sawe hym, thei fell doune befoze hym, and cried saying: thou art the soonne of God. And he straightely charged theim that they should not make hym knowne. And he wente by into a mountaigne, and called vnto hym whom he would, and thei came vnto hym. * And he ordeined the twelue, that they should bee with hym, and that he might sende them forth to preache: and that thei might haue power to heale sikennes, and to cast out deuels. And he gaue vnto Simon the name Peter. And he called James the soonne of zebede and Ihon James brother, and gaue theim to names Bonarges, whiche is to saie: the soonnes of thonder. And Andrew, and Philippe, and Bartholomewe, and Matthewe, and Thomas, and James the soonne of Alphe, and Thaddeus, and Symeon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot: whiche also betrayed hym.

And they came into the house, and the people assembled together agayne, so that thei had not leysur so muche as to eate brede. And when they that belonged vnto hym, hearde of it, thei went out to late handes vpon hym. For thei saied, he is madde. And the scribes whiche came doune from Hierusalem, saied: he hath Belzeub, and by the chief deuell, casteth he out deuels. And he called them vnto hym, & saied vnto thei in parables.

How can Sathan dryue out Sathan? And if a realme bee deuised against it self, & realme cannot endure: And if a house bee deuised against it self, that house cannot contynue. And if Sathan make insurrection againste hym self, and bee deuised, he cannot continue, but hath an ende. No manne can entre into a strong mannes house, and take a waic his goodes, except he first binde the strong manne, and then spoyle his house. Verely I saie vnto, all synnes shalbee forgiven vnto menne chyliden, and blasphemies whiche they soener they haue blasphemed. * But he that speaketh blasphemy against þe holy ghoſte hath neuer forgivenes, but is in daunger of eternall dampnacion. For thei ſaid: he hath an unclean ſpīre. ¶ There came alſo his mother and his brethren, & ſtoode without, & ſente unto hym to call hym out. And the people ſatte about hym and ſaid unto hym: behold, thy mother and thy brethren ſeke for thee without. And he answered them, ſaying: Who is my mother and my brethren? And whē he had looked round about on his diſciples, whiche ſatte in compaſſe aboute hym, he ſayed: Beholde, my mother and my brethren. For whoſoever dooeth the wyll of God, þe ſame is my brother and my ſiſter and mother.

The parable of the ſower. Chriſte ſpēketh the tempeſte of the ſea, whiche obeyed hym.

Mat. xiii. a

AND he began again to teache by the ſea ſide. And there gathered together unto hym muche people, ſo greatly that he entered into a ſhippe, * and ſatte in the ſea, and all the people waſ by the ſea ſyde on the ſhoze. And he taught them many thynges by parables, & ſaid unto theim in his doctryne: Herken to: behold, * there went out a ſower to ſowe. And it fortuned as he ſowed, that ſome fell by the waie ſide, and the foules of the ayze came, and deuoured it by. Some fell on ſtony grounde, where it had not muche earthe, and immediately ſprang vp, becauſe it had not depth of earthe, but a ſſone as the ſunne was vp, it caught heate: and becauſe it had not rotyng, it withded a waie. And ſome fell among thoznes and the thoznes grewe vp, and choked it, and it gaue no frute. And ſome fell vpon good grounde and did yelde frute that ſprang vp, and grewe and brought forth, ſome thirty fold, and ſome ſixtye folde, and ſome an hundred fold, and he ſaid unto theim: He that hath eares to heare lette hym heare. ¶

¶ And when he was alone, they that were aboute hym with the twelue, asked hym of the parable. And he ſaid unto theim: ¶ To you it is geuen to knowe the myſterye of the kyngdome of God. But unto theim that are without, all thynges happen by parables: that when thei ſee they maye not ſee, and not deſerne, and whē thei heare, * thei maye heare & not vnderſtand: leaſt at any tyme they ſhould tourne, and their ſynnes ſhould bee forgiven theim: And he ſaid vnto theim: Knowe ye not this parable? And how then will ye knowe all other parables.

* The ſower ſoweth the woozde. And they (whereof ſome bee rebelerſed to bee by the waie ſyde) are thoſe, where the woozde is ſowen: And when they heare, Satan commeth immediately, and taketh a waie the woozde, that was ſowen in their heartes. And lyke wyſe the other that receiveth ſeede into þe ſtony ground, are thei whiche when they heare the woozde, at once receiue it with gladenes, yet haue no rote in theim ſelues, and ſo endure but a tyme: and anone whē trouble and perſecucion ariſeth for the woozdes ſake, they fall immediatly. There bee other that receiue ſeede into thoznes, and thoſe are ſuche as heare the woozde, and ſcāres of this worlde, and the diſceitfulnes of riches, and the luſtes of other thynges, entre in and choke the woozde, and it is made vnfrutefull: and other there bee, that haue receiued ſeede into a good ground: thei are ſuche that heare the woozde and receiue it, ſo that one cozne dooeth byyng forth thirty, ſome ſixty, ſome an hundred.

And he ſaid unto theim: ¶ is the candell lighted, to bee putte vnder a buſhell, or vnder the ta- ble? Is it not lighted to bee putte on a candel- ſticke? ¶ For there is nothyng ſo pzeup, that ſhal not bee opened: neither hath it been ſo ſecrete, but that it ſhall come abzode. If any māne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And he ſayed vnto theim: take hede what ye heare: * ¶ Wpeth what meaſure ye meate, with þe ſame ſhal other menne meaſure vnto you again. And vnto you that haue, ſhal moze bee geuen. ¶ For vnto hym that hath, ſhal it bee geuen, and from hym that hath not, ſhal bee taken awaye, euen that whiche he hath. And he ſaid: ſo is the kyngdome of God, euen as * if a manne ſhould ſowe ſeede in þe ground, and ſhould ſlepe, and ryle vp night and daye: and the ſeede ſhould ſpyng and growe vpon whyle he is not a ware. ¶ For the earth byyngeth forth frute of her ſelf: firſte the blade, then þe eare after that the full cozne in the eare. But when þe frute is brought forth, anone he thryſterh in the ſyhell becauſe the perueſt is come.

And he ſaid: where vnto ſhall wee lyken the kyngdome of God? or with what compariſon ſhall wee compare it? * It is lyke a grayne of muſtarde ſeede: whiche when it is ſowen in the earth is leſſe then all ſeedes, that bee in the earth when it is ſowen, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes: and beareth greate branches, ſo that the foules of the ayze maye make their neſtes vnder the ſadowe of it.

* And with many ſuche parables ſpake he vnto the woozde vnto theim, after as they might heare it. But without parable ſpake he nothing vnto theim. But when thei were alone, * he expounded all thynges to his diſciples. And the ſame daye when euen was come, he ſaid vnto theim: lette vs paſſe ouer vnto the other ſyde. And they leſte the people, and tooke hym, euen as he was in the ſhippe. And there were alſo vnto hym other ſhippes. * And there aroſe a greate ſtorme of wynde, and the waues daſhed into the ſhippe, ſo that it was now full. And he was in þe ſterne a ſlepe on a pelowe. And thei awaked him and ſaid vnto hym: Maſter careſte thou not, þe ſhippe perithe? And he roſe vp, and rebuked þe wynd and ſaid vnto the ſea: peace, bee ſtill. And the wynde ceaſed, and there folowed a greate calme. And he ſaid vnto theim: Why are ye ſo feare- full? How happeneth it that ye haue no faith? And they feared exceedingly, and ſaid one to another: Who is this? For bothe wynd and ſea obeye hym.

The. xv. Chapter. ¶

Chriſte deliuereth the poſſeſſed from the unclean ſpīre: the woman from the bloody iſſue, and reſer- ſerth the captiues daughter.

And

And thei came ouer to the other syde of the sea, into the countre of the Gaderenites. And when he was come oute of the shippe ymmedyately there mette hym oute of the graues, a manne possessed of an vncleane spirite, whiche had his abydyng among the graues. And no manne coulde bynde hym no not with cheynes, because that when he was often bounde with fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes asunder, and brake the fetters in peces. Neither coulde any manne tame hym. And alwayes, nighte and daye he was in the mountaignes and in the graues, cryng and beatyng hymself with stones. But when he had spyed Iesus afarre of, he ranne and worshipped hym and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayed what haue I to dooe with thee? Iesus p̄ soonne of the moste highest God? I require thee in the name of God, that thou tourmente me not. For he sayed vnto hym: come out of the manne thou fowle spirite. And he asked hym, what is thyne name? And he answered and sayed vnto hym: my name is Legion, for wee are many. And he prayed hym instantly, that he would not sende theim awaye oute of the countree.

But there was there nye vnto the mountaynes a greaete herde of swyne fedyng, and all the deuels besoughte hym sayng: sende vs into the herde of swyne, that wee maye enter into theim. And anone Iesus gaue theim leaue. And the vncleane spirites went out and entered into the swyne. And the herde was carped hedlyng into the sea. Thei were almoste two thousande and were drowned in the sea. And the swyneherd fled, and tolde it in the citee, and in the feldeg. And thei wente oute for to see what had happened: and came to Iesus, and saue him that was vexed with the fende and had the legion, sit both clothed and in his righte mynde, and they were astraied. And they that sawe it tolde theim, how it happened to hym that was possessed with the deuell: and also of the swyne. And thei bega to praye hym, that he would departe oute of their cooste. And when he was come into the ship he that had the deuell prayed hym, that he might bee with hym. Howbeit, Iesus would not suffer hym, but sayed vnto hym: goo to thyne owne house and to thy frendes, and shewe theim how greaete thynges the Lorde hath dooen for thee, and how he hath had compassion on thee. And he departed, & began to publishe in the tenne citees how greaete thynges Iesus had dooen for hym, and all menne did maruail.

And when Iesus was come ouer agayne by shippe vnto the other syde, muche people gathered vnto hym, and he was nie vnto the sea. And beholde, there came one of the rulers of the Synagoge, whose name was Jairus: and when he sawe him, he fell doune at his fete, & besought hym greatly, sayng: my doughter lyeth at poynte of deathe, I praye thee come and lape thy hande on her, that she maye bee safe and lue. And he wente with hym, and muche people followed hym, and thronged hym. And ther was a certain woman, whiche had been diseased of an yssue of bloodde, twelue yeres, and had suffered many thynges of many physicians, and had spent all that she had, and felte none admeument at all, but rather was wourse, and wourse. When she had harde of Iesus she came in the p̄e alle behynde hym, and touched his garmente. For she said: if I maie but touche his clothes, I shal bee whole. And straighte waye the fountayne of her bloodde was dryed vp and she felte in her body, that she was healed of that plage. And Iesus immediately felng in hymself that vertue proceeded from hym, tourned him about in the p̄easse, and said: who touched my clothes? And his disciples said vnto hym: thou seest the people thrust thee, and askest thou who did touche me? And he looked rounde aboute for to see her that had dooen this thyng: But a woman fearng and tremblyng (knowyng what was dooen within her) came, and fell doune before hym, and tolde hym all the trouth: And he said vnto her: Doughter thy faith hath saued thee: goo in peace, and bee whole of thy plage.

Whyle he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagoges house, certain whiche said thy doughter is dedde: why disealest thou the master any further? Allone as Iesus hearde the woorde that was spoken, he said vnto the ruler of the synagoge: bee not afraied, onely beleue. And he suffered no manne to folow hym, save Peter, and James, and Iohn the brother of James. And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the synagoge, and sawe the wonderp̄ng, and theim that wepte and wayled greatly, & wente in, and said vnto theim: why make ye this a dooe, and wepe? The damsell is not dedde, but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scozne. But he putte theim all oute, and taketh the father and the mother of the damsell, and theim that were with hym, and entereth in where the damsell laye, and taketh the damsell by the hande, and saith vnto her: Tabita, cumy: whiche is (if one dooe interprete it) damsell, I saye vnto the arise. And straighte waye the damsell arose, & walked. For she was of p̄age of twelue yeres. And they were astonied out of measure. And he charged them straghtly, that no manne should knowe of it, & commaunded, to geue her meate.

The. vi. Chapter.

Christe sendeth his Apostles to heale them that were diseased. Of Iohn and Berode. Of the tyme Ioues and twos fishes. And of the walkyng on the sea.

And he departed thence, and came into his owne countree, and his disciples folowed hym. And when the Saboth daye was come, he began to teache in the synagoge. And many that hearde hym were astonied, and sayed: from whence hath he these thynges? And what wylsome is this that is geuen vnto hym: and suche vertues that are wrought by his handes? Is not this the carpenter Maries soonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Iuda and Symon? and are not his sisters here with vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus said vnto them: * A prophete is not despised, but in his owne countre, and among his owne kynne, and in his owne household. And he coude there shew no miracle, but layed hys handes vpon a fewe sicke folke, and healed them, and marueled, because of their vnbelene. **¶

¶ And he went aboute by the townes that laie on euery side, teaching. * And he called xiiij. and began to sende them forth two and two, and gaue them power against vncleane spirites. And he commaunded them, that thei should take nothyng in their iorney saue a rodde onely: no scripe, no bzede, no money in their purse, but should bee shooed with sandales. And that they should not put on two cootes. And he saied vnto them: whersoever ye entre into an house, ther abide till ye departe thence. * And whosoever shal not receiue you nor heare you, when ye departe thence, shake of the dust that is vnder your fete, for a witnesse vnto them. * Merely I saie vnto you: it shal bee easier for zodom and Gomoz in þe daie of iudgement, then for that citee. * And thei went out and preached, þe menne shuld repente and thei cast out deuils: & anoynted many that were sicke, with oyle, and healed them.

¶ And kynge Herode heard of hym (for his name was spreade abroad) and he saied: Iohn baptist is risen again from the dedde, and therefore miracles are wroughte by hym. Other saied: it is Helias, some saied: it is a prophete, as one of þe prophetes. But when Herode hearde of hym he saied: It is Iohn whom I beheaded, he is risen from death again. * For Herode hymself had sent forth menne of warre, and laied handes vpon Iohn, & bounde hym, and cast hym into prison, for Herodias sake, his brother Philippes wife (because he had married her.) For Iohn saied vnto Herod: It is not lawfull for thee to haue thy brothers wife. Herodias laied wayte for hym, & would haue kyled hym, but she coude not. For Herode feared Iohn, knowyng that he was a iust manne and an holy: and gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he did many thynges, and hearde hym gladly.

¶ And when a conuenient daie was come, that Herode on his birth daie, made a supper to the Lordes, his capitaines, and chief estates of Galile: and whē the daughter of the same Herodias came in, and daunsed, and pleased Herode & thei that sat at bourde also: the kynge sayed vnto the damsell: aske of me what thou wilt, and I will geue it thee. * And he swore vnto her whatsoeuer thou shalt aske of me, I will geue it thee, euē vnto thee one halfe of my kyngdome. And she wēt forth, and saied vnto her mother: what shall I aske? she saied: Iohn Baptistes hedde. And she came in straight waye with hast vnto the kynge and asked, sayng: I will, that thou geue me by and by in a charger, the hedde of Iohn Baptist. And þe kynge was sorre: howbeit for his othes sake, and for their sakes whiche satte at supper also, he would not cast her of. And immediatly the kynge sente the hangman and commaunded his hedde to bee brought in. And he wente and beheaded hym in the prison, and broughte his hedde in a charger, and gaue it to þe damsell, and the damsell gaue it to her mother. And when his disciples hearde of it, thei came, and toke vp his body, and laied it in a graue. **¶

¶ And when the daie was now farre spent, his disciples came vnto him, sayng: this is a deserte place, and now the tyme is farre passed let thei departe, that thei maie goo into the countre rounde about, and into the townes, and buye them bzede: for thei haue nothyng to eate. He answered and saied vnto them, geue ye the to eate. An thei saied vnto hym: Shall we goo and buye two hundred penyworth of bzede, & geue them to eate? He saied vnto them: * How many loues haue ye? Goo and loke. And when thei had searched, thei saied: fye and twoo fishes. And he commaunded them, to make them all sitte downe by compaignies vpon the grene grasse. And thei sat downe, here a rowe & ther a rowe, by hundredes and by fifties. And when he had taken the fyue loues and the twoo fishes, and looked vp to heauen, he blessed and brake the loues, & gaue them to his disciples, to set before thei, and the twoo fishes deuided he among them all. And they all did eat, & wer satisfied. And thei toke vp twelue baskettes full thereof, and of the fishes.

¶ And they that byd eate, were aboute fyue thousande menne. * And streyght waye he caused his disciples to goo into the shippe, and to goo ouer the sea before vnto Bethsaida, whyle he sente awaye the people. * And asone as he had sente them awaye he departed into a mountaigne to praye.

¶ And whē euen was come, the shippe was in the myddes of the sea, and he alone on þe lande and he sawe them troubled in rowyng, for the wynde was contrary vnto thei. And aboute the fourth watche of the night, he came vnto them walkyng vpon the sea, and would haue passed by them. But whē they sawe hym walkyng vpon the sea, they suposed it had been a spyrte and cryed out: for they all sawe hym, and were afrayed. And anone he talked with thei, and saied vnto them: bee of good cheare, it is I, bee not afrayed. * And he wente vp vnto thei into the shippe, and the wynde ceased, and thei were soze amased in them selues beyonde measure, & maruayled. For they remembred not of the loues, because their hearte was blynde.

And when thei wer ouer the water thei came into the lande of Genezareth and drewe vp into the hauen. And as sone as thei were come oute of the ship, straight waie they knewe hym, & ranne forth throughtout all the region rounde aboute, and began to carpe aboute in beddes those that were sicke. When thei hearde that he was there. And whether soeuer he entered, into townes, ciities, or villages, thei laied the sicke folkes in the streates, and praised hym that thei might touch and it wer but the hemme of his vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe. R

The vii. Chapter.

The disciples ate with vnwashen handes. The commandement of God is transgressed by mennes tradicions. Of the woman Sirophenicia. Of the Sadoth.

AND the pharises came together vnto hym, and diuers of the scribes whiche came from Hierusalem. And when thei sawe certayne of his disciples ate breade, wyth commen (that is to saie, with vnwashen) handes, thei complayned. For the pharises and all the Jewes, except thei walshed their handes ofte, cate not, obseruyng the tradicions of the elders. And when thei come from the market, excepte thei walshed, thei cate not. And many other thynges there be, whiche thei haue taken vpon them to obserue, as the walshyng of cuppes and cruses, and brasse vessels, and of tables.

Then asked hym the pharises and scribes why walke not thy disciples accordyng to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but cate breade with vnwashen handes? He answered and saied vnto them: Well prophesied Esaie of you, ypocrites, as it is writen: This people honoureth me with their lippes, but their heart is farre from me: howbeeit, in vayne dooe they serue me, teachyng the doctrynes and commandementes of manne. For ye laye the commandement of God aparte, and obserue the constitucions of manne, as the walshyng of cruses, and of cuppes & many other suche like thynges ye dooe. And he saied vnto them: Well, ye caste asyde the commandementes of God, to mayntain your owne constitucions. * For Moyses saied: honoure thy father & thy mother: and whoso curseth father or mother, let hym die the death. But ye saie: a manne shall saie to father or mother, Corba: whiche is, what gyfte soeuer cometh from me, that shalbee for thy profite. And so ye suffre hym nomore to doo ought for his father or his mother and make the woorde of God of none effecte, through youre owne constitucio, whiche ye haue ordeined. And many suche thynges dooe ye.

And when he had called all the people vnto hym, he saied vnto them: herken vnto me, every one of you, and vnderstande. There is nothyng without a manne, that can defile hym, when he entereth into hym: but the thynges whiche procede out of a manne, those are they that defile & manne. If any manne haue eares to heare, lette hym heare. And when he came into the house, a waie from the people, his disciples asked hym of þ similitude. And he saied vnto them: are ye also so greatly without vnderstandyng? Dooe ye not yet perceiue, that whatsoeuer thyng from without, entereth into a manne, it cannot defile hym, because it entereth not into his heart, but into the bely: and goeth out into the draught, pourgyng out all meates? And he saied: that whiche cometh out of manne, defileth þ manne. For from within euen out of the heart of manne procede euil thoughtes aduoutry fornicacion, mutther, theft couetousnes, fraude deceite, vncleines, a wicked eye blasphemies, pryde, folishnes: all these euill thynges come from within, and defile a manne.

* And from thence he arose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, & would that no manne should haue knowen. But he could not bee hid. For a certain woman (whose daughter had a foule spirite) as sone as she hearde of hym, came and fell at his fete. The woman was a Greke out of the nation of Sirophenicia, & she besought hym, þ he would caste out the deuell from her daughter. But Iesus saied vnto her: let the chyldren first bee fed. For it is not mete, to take the chyldrens breade and to cast it vnto the whelpes. She answered and saied vnto hym: euen so Lord, neuertheles the whelpes also ate vnder the table of the chyldrens crommes. And he saied vnto her: for this sayyng go thy waie, þ deuell is gone out of thy daughter. And when she was come home to her house, she found that the deuell was departed, and her daughter liyng on the bedde.

* And he departed again from the coastes of Tyre and Sidon, and came vnto the sea of Galilee through the middes of the coastes of the tenne ciities. * And thei brought vnto hym one þ was deaffe and had an impediment in his speche and thei praised hym, to put his hande vpon hym. And when he had taken hym asyde from the people, he putte his fyngers into his eares, and did spit, and touched his tounge, and looked vp to heauen and sighed, and saied vnto him: Ephata, that is to saie: bee opened. And straight waie his eares wer opened, and the stryng of his tounge was lousd, and he spake plain. * And he commaunded them, that thei should tell no manne. But þ more he forbade them, so muche the more a great deale thei published, sayyng: He hath dooen all thynges well, he hath made bothe the deaffe to heare, and the domme to speake. R

The viii. Chapter.

The miracle of the seuen loues. The pharises aske a signe. The leuen of the pharises. The blynde receiueh his sight.

IN those dayes * when there was a verie greate cōpaignie, and had no thyng to eate. Iesus called hys disciples to hym, and saied vnto them: I haue compassion on the people, because they haue now been with me thre dayes and haue nothyng to eate: And if I sende them away fastyng to their owne houses, they shall faynte by the waie. * For diuerse of them came from farre. And hys disciples answered hym: where should a manne haue brede here in þ wilderness, to satisfie these? And he asked them: how many many loaves haue ye? Thei saied: seuen. And he commaunded the people to sytte doune on the grounde. And he toke the seuen loaves, and whē he had geuen thanckes, he brake, and gaue it to his disciples, to set befoze them. And thei did set them befoze þ people. And thei had a fewe small fishes. And when he had blessed, he commaunded them also to bee sette befoze them. And they dyd eate, and were suffised. And they toke vp of the broken meate, that was left, seuen baskettes full. And they that did eate: were aboue foure thousande. And he sent them awaie. I

W And anone he entred into a ship with his disciples, and came into the parties of Dalmanutha. And the pharises came forth, and began to dispute with hym, sekynge of hym a sygne fro heauen temptynge hym. And when he had sighted in his spirite, he saietþ: why dooth this generacion seke a sygne? Verely I saie vnto you, there shall no signe bee geuen vnto this generacio. And he left them, and went into the ship again, & departed ouer the water. And thei had forgotten to take brede with them nether had thei in the ship with them moze then one loofe. And he charged them, sayng: I * Take hede, beware of the leuen of the pharises, and the leuen of herod. And thei reasoned among them selues, sayng: Wee haue no brede. And Iesus knew it, and he saied vnto thei: why take ye thought because ye haue no brede? perceiue ye not, yet nether vnderstand haue ye your heartes yet blynded? haue ye eyes and see not? And haue ye eares, and heare not? Dooe ye not also remembre? I * When I brake fyue loaves among fyue thousande menne, how many baskettes ful of broke meate toke ye vp? Thei saied vnto hym: twelue. I * When I brake seuen among foure thousand, how many baskettes of leaupnges of the broke meate toke ye vp? Thei saied, seuen. And he saied vnto them how happeneth it that ye dooe not vnderstande? I

C And he came to Bethsaida, and thei brought a blynde manne vnto hym, and desired hym to touche hym. And he caughte the blynde by the hande, and led hym out of the towne: and when he had spitte in his eyes, he putte his handes vpon hym, he asked hym if he sawe ought. And he looked vp, and saied: I see the menne: for I perceiue thei walke, as thei were trees. After that he putte his handes agayne vpon his eyes, and made hym see. And he was restored, and sawe euery manne clearly. And he sent hym home to his house sayng: nether goo into the towne, nor tell it to any in the towne. I

I * And Iesus went out, and his disciples into the townes that long to the citie called Cesarra Philippi. And by the waie he asked his disciples sayng vnto them Whom dooe menne saie that I am? And thei answered: some þ thou art Ihon baptist, & some saie, Helias. Again, some saie: þ þ art one of þ nobze of þ prophetes. And he saied vnto thei: but whom saie ye that I am? Peter answereth and saietþ vnto hym: þ thou art verie Christe. And he charged them, that thei should tell no manne of hym. And he began to teache them, * how that the soonne of manne must suffer many thynges, and bee repproued of þ elders, and of the hie preestes, and scribes, and bee killed and after thre daies aryse again. And he spake that sayng openly. And Peter toke hym syde, and began to chide hym. But he turned aboute, and looked on his disciples, and rebuked Peter, sayng: Goo after me Sathan. For thou sauereste not the thynges that bee of God, but the thynges that bee of menne.

I * And when he had called þ people vnto hym & his disciples also, he saied vnto thei: Who soeuer will folow me, lette hym forsake hymself and take vp his crosse, and folow me. For who soeuer will saue his life, shall lose it. But who soeuer shall lose his life for my sake and the Gospels, the same shall saue it. For what shall it profite a manne, if he wyne all the worlde, and lose his owne soule? Or what shall a manne geue to redeime his soule with all again? I * Who soeuer therefore shall bee ashamed of me and of my wordes, in this aduouterous and synfull generacion of hym also shall the soonne of manne bee ashamed, when he commeth in the glozy of his father with the holy angels.

The ix. Chapter.

The transfiguration. The lunatike is healed. The dysputation who should bee greatest. Offences are forbiiden.

And he saied vnto them: Verely, I saie vnto you: * There be some among thei that stande here, whiche shall not taste of death, til thei haue sene þ kyng dom of God come with power. I * And after sixe daies, Iesus taketh Peter and James and Iho, and leadeþ them vp into an hie mountaigne, out of the waye alone: and he was transfigured befoze them. And his rayment did shyne, and became verie white, euen as snowe: so whyte as no fuller can make vpon earthe. And there appeared vnto thei Helias with Moses. And thei talked with Iesu. And Peter answered and saied to Iesu: Master here is good beeyng for vs: lette vs make also thre tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moses, and one for Helias. For he wist not what he saied: for thei were afrayed. And there was a cloude that shadowed thei. And a voyce came out of the cloude, sayng: * This is my beloued soonne: heare hym. And sodenly when they had looked rounde aboute, they sawe no manne moze then Iesus onely with thei.

I * And when thei came doune from the hill, he charged them that thei should tell no man those thynges that thei had sene, till the soonne of man were rysen from death agayne. And they kepte that sayng with thei, and demaunded one of another, what the rysyng from death agayne shoulde meane? And they asked hym, sayng: why then saie the scribes, that Helias muste fyrste come? he answered and saied vnto them: Helias verely when he commeth fyrste, restoreth all thynges. And the soonne of manne (as it is written of hym) shall suffre many thynges & bee set at naught. But I saie vnto you that Helias has is come, and thei haue done vnto him what soeuer they woulde, as it was wyrtten of hym

And when he came to his disciples, he sawe muche people about them, and the scribes dysputyng with them. And straghte waye al the people (when thei beheld him) wer amased, and ranne to hym, and saluted hym. And he asked the scribes: what dispute ye among them? And one of the company answered, and sayed. Master, I haue brought vnto the my sonne, whiche hath a dome spyte. And whensoeuer he taketh hym, he teareth hym, and befometh, and gnaweth wyth hys teeth, and pyneth awaye. And I spake to thy disciples that they should caste hym oute, and they coude not.

He answereth hym, and sayth: O saytlesse nacion, howe longe shall I be wyth you: howe longe shall I suffer you? Bynge him vnto me. And they brought hym vnto him. And as sone as the spyte sawe hym, he tare hym. And he fel doune on the grounde, walyng and somynge. And he asketh hys father: howe long it is agoo sens this happened hym? And he said of a childe and ofte tymes it hath cast hym in the fyre, and into the water to destrope hym. But yf thou canst do any thyng, haue mercy on vs, and help vs. Jesus sayed vnto hym: yf thou couldest beleue. All thinges are possyble to him that beleue. And streyght way the father of the childe cried with teares, sayng: Lorde I beleue, helpe thou myne vnbeliffe.

When Jesus sawe that the people come runnyng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule spyte, sayng vnto hym. Thou dome and deaf spyte I charge the come oute of hym, and entre nomoze into hym. And the spyte (when he had cried, and rent hym soze) came oute of hym, and he was as one that had bene deade, in so muche that one said: he is deade. But Jesus caughte hys hande, and lyfte hym vp, and he rose. And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him secretly: why could not we cast hym out? And he said them: this kind can come forth by nothyng, but by prayer and fastyng.

And thei departed thence, and toke theyr journey throughe Galile, & he woulde not, that any man should knowe it. For he taught his disciples, and sayed vnto them: the sonne of man shall be deliuered into the handes of men, & they shall kyl hym: and after that he is kylled, he shall aryse agayne the thyrde daye. But they wyfte not what he said, and wer afraied to aske him. And he came to Capernaum. And when he was come into the house, he asked theym: what was it that ye disputed amonge youre selues by the waye? And they held theyr peace: for by the way they hadde reasoned amonge them selues, who should be the cheffest. And when he was set doune he called the xii. to hym and sayed vnto them: yf anye man desyre to be fyrst, the same shall be last of all, and seruaunte to all. And he tooke a childe, and set him in the myddes of them, and when he had taken hym in hys armes, he sayed vnto theym: whosoever receiueueth anye suche childe in my name, receyueueth me. And whoso-uer receueth me, receyueueth not me, but him that sent me. I

Thou answered hym, sayng: Master we sawe one cast out deuels in thy name, and he fo-loeth vs: and we forbad him, because he fo-loeth vs not. But Jesus said: for byd hym not. For there is no man whiche (yf he do a myracle in my name) can lyghtly speake euell of me. For he that is not agaynst vs, is on oure parte. Whosoever shall in my name geue you a cup of water to drinck, because ye belong to Christ verely I saye vnto you: he shall not lose hys reward. And whosoever shall offend one of these lytle ones, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, yf a mylstone were handged aboute hys necke, and he wer cast into the sea. Wherefore yf thy hand hinder the, cut it of. It is better for the, to enter into lyfe maimed, then hauing two handes to go into hell, into fyre that neuer shall be quenched, wher they wome dyeth not and the fyre goeth not out. And yf thy foot be a hynderaunce vnto the, cut it of. It is better for the to go halte into lyfe, then (hauyng two fete) to be cast into hel, into fyre that neuer shall be quenched: wher their wome dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. And yf thyne eye hynder the, plucke it out. It is better for the to go into the kyngdome of God with one eye, then (hauyng two eyes) to be cast into hell fyre: wher they wome dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out.

Euerye man shall be salted wyth fyre. And euerye sacryfyce shall be seasoned wyth salte. Salte is good. But yf the salte be vnseuerpe, what shall ye season therewith? Haue salte in youre selues: and haue peace amonge youre selues: one wyth another.

The .x. Chappter.

Of deuozement. The ryche man questy oneth wyth Christ. Of the sonnes of zabede, Bartimeus the blyndman.

And when he rose frome thence, he wente into the coastes of Jewry, throughe the regyon that is beyonde Iordane: And the people resorted vnto hym a frethe, and as he was woute, he taughte them agayne. And the pharysyes came, and asked hym. Is it lawfull for a man to put a waye his wyfe: to proue hym. And he answered and said vnto theym: What dyd Moyses byd you do: and they sayed: Moyses suffered to wyghte a testymonypall of deuozement, and to put her away. And Jesus answered and said vnto the: For the hardnes of your heart he wrot this precept vnto you. But at the fyrst creation God made them, man and woman. Therefore shall a man leaue hys father and mother, and byde by hys wyfe, and thei twaine shall be one flech. Therefore, what God hath coupled together let not man seperate.

And in the house hys disciples asked hym agayne of the same matter. And he sayth vnto the: Whosoever putteth away his wyfe, and marryeth another, breketh wedlocke to her warde. And yf a woman forsake her husband, and bee marped to another, the comytteth aduouty. I And thei brought chyliden to him, that he woulde touche them. And hys dysciples rebuked those that brought them. But when Iesus sawe it, he was displeased and saied vnto them: Suffer the chyliden to come vnto me, for byd them not. For of suche is the kyngdom of God. ¶ Merely I saie vnto you, whosoener dooth not receiue the kyngdome of God, * as a chylde, he shall not enter therein. And when he had taken them vp in hys armes, he put his handes vpon them, and blessed them.

¶ He answered and saied vnto hym: Master, all these haue I obserued from my yowth. Iesus behelde hym, and fauoured hym, and saied vnto hym: one thyng thou lackest. * Go thy waye, sell that thou hast, and geue to the pooze, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folw me, I and take vp my crosse vpon thy shouldeys. But he was dyscomforted because of that saynge, and went a waye mournynge, for he had greute possessions.

And when Iesus had looked round aboute, he saied vnto hys dysciples, * Howe vneasye shall they that haue monye, enter into the kyngdome of God. And the dysciples were astonied at hys wordes. But Iesus answered agayne, and sayth vnto them: chyliden, howe hard is it for them that truste in monye, to enter into the kyngdome of God. It is easier for a cammel to go throughe the eye of an nedle, then for the rich to enter into the kyngdome of God. And they were astonied out of measure, sayng betwene them selues: who then can be saued? Iesus looked vpon them, and saied: wyth men it is vnpossible, but not wyth God: for * wyth God all thynges are possible.

And Peter began to say vnto hym: Loo, we haue forlaken all, and haue folowed the. Iesus answered, & saied: Merely I say vnto you, ther is no man that hath forlaken house, or bryd, or sytters, or father, or mother or wyfe, or chyliden, or landes for my sake and the Gospelles, but he shall receaue an hundred folde now in this lyfe, houses and brydzen, and sytters, and mothers, and chyliden, and landes wyth persecucions: and in the world to come, eternall lyfe. * But many that are fyrst, shall be last: and the last, fyrst. And thei wer in the way going vp to Ierusalem. And as Iesus went before the, and thei wer amazed, and folowed, and were afrayed.

And Iesus tooke the twelue agayne, and began to tell them what thynges should happen vnto hym. * Behold we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shall be deliuered vnto the hye preestes and vnto the Scribes: and they shall condempne hym to death, and shall deliuer him to the Gentyles, and they shall moke hym, and scourge hym, spytte vpon hym and kill hym. And the thyrde daye he shall ryse agayne.

* And James and Ihon the sonnes of zebede came vnto hym, sayng: Master, we wold that thou shouldest do for vs whatsoener we desyre. He saied vnto them: what would ye? I should do for you? Thei saied vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we maye sytte one on the ryght hande and the other on the lyfte hande, in thy glozpe. But Iesus saied vnto them: Ye wot not what ye aske: Can ye drynke of the cup that I drynke of: and be baptyzed wyth the baptyme, that I am baptyzed wyth? and they saied vnto hym: that we can. Iesus saied vnto them, ye shall in dede drynke of the cup that I drynke of: & wyth the baptyme, that I am baptyzed wythal, shall ye be baptyzed in: but to syt on my ryght hande and on my lyfte hand is not myne to geue, but it shall happen vnto the, for whom it is prepared.

* And when the ten heard it, they beganne to disdayn at James and Ihon. But Iesus when he had called them to hym, saied vnto them: ye knowe that * they whiche are sene to beare rule among the people, reygne as Lozdes ouer them. And y they be great among them, exerceyse authority vpon them. Reuertheles, so shall it not bee amonge you: but whosoener of you wyl be greute among you shall be youre minister. And whosoener of you wyl be chefe, shall be seruaunt of all. For * the sonne of man also came not to be mynistred vnto: but to minister, and to geue hys lyfe for the redempcyon of many.

And thei came to Hierico: * And as he went out of the citee of Hierico wyth hys dysciples and a greute number of people: blynd Bartimeus the sonne of Timens, sat by the hye wayes syde beggynge. And when he heard that it was Iesus of Nazareth, he beganne to cry, and say: Iesus thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on me. And many rebuked hym, that he shoulde holde his peace. But he cryed the more a great deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Iesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be called: And they called the blynd, sayng vnto him: Be of good comfort: rise, he calleth the. And he threwe away his cloke, and rose, and came to Iesus. And Iesus answered, and saied vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blind saied vnto hym: Master, that I myght se. Iesus saied vnto hym go thy way, thy faith hath saued the. And immediatlye he receiued hys syght, and folowed Iesus in the waye.

The xi. Chapter

Christ rydeth to Ierusalem. The figges tree dyeth. The bysops and sellers are cast out of the temple. The pharyses question wyth Christ.

And when they came nye to Ierusalem vnto Bethphage and Bethan, belydes mount Olyuete, he sendeth forth the two of hys dysciples, and sayeth vnto them: Go youre waye into the toune, that is ouer agaynst you. And

And as sone as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynd a colte bounde, wherou neuer man sat: lose hym and bypunge hym ther. And yf anye man saye vnto you why do ye so? Say ye, that the Lord hath nede of hym: & straght way he wyl send hym byther. And they wente theyr waye, and founde the colte tyed by the doze wythoute in a place where two wayes mette, and they loosed hym. And dyuers of them that stood ther, saied vnto them: * What dooe ye losynge the colte? And they saied vnto them: euen as Jesus had commaunded. And they let hym go. And they broughte the colte to Jesus and cast theyr garmentes on hym: and he sat vpon hym. And many spredde theyr garmentes in the waye. Other cut downe braunches of the trees, and strawed them in the waye. And they that wente before and they that folowed cryed, saynge: Hosanna * blessed is he that cometh in the name of y. Lorde. Blessed be the kyngdome, that cometh in the name of hym that is Lord of our father Dauid Hosanna in the hiest.

And the Lorde entred into Jerusalem and in to the temple. And when he had looked round about vpon all thynges, and now the euentyde was come, he wente oute vnto Bethany wyth the twelue. * And on the morow when they were come out from Bethany, he hongred. And when he had spied a fygge tree afarre of, haupng leues, he came to se yf he myghte fynd any thyng thereon. And when he came to it, he founde no thyng but leues: for the tyme of fygges was not yet. And Jesus answered and saied vnto y. fygge tree: neuer man eate frute of the here after while the worlde standeth. And his dysciples hearde it.

And they came to Jerusalem. And Jesus went into the temple, and began to * caste out them that soulede and bought in the temple, and ouerthrowe the tables of the mony changers, and the stoles of them that solde doues: and would not suffer that any man shoulde carpe a vessel through the temple. And he taught sayng vnto them: * is it not wyrtten: my house shalbe called the house of prayer vnto al nacions: But ye haue made it a denne of theues.

And the Scribes and the hye preeftes herde it, and sought howe to destroye hym. * For they feared hym, because all the people marueled at his doctryn. And when euen was come, Jesus went out of the cytee. * And in the morning as they passed by, they saue the figge tre dried vpon the cotes. And Peter remembred, and saied vnto hym: Master, beholde the figge tre which thou cursedst, is wyderyed awaye. And Jesus answered and saied vnto them: haue confidence in God. * Merely I saye vnto you, that whoso euer shal saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, and cast thy self into the sea, and shal not doubt in his heart, but shal beleue that those thynges whiche he sayth shal come to passe, whatsoeuer he sayeth he shal haue. Therefore I saye vnto you: * what thynges soeuer ye desyre, when ye praye, beleue that ye receiue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and praye: for geue, yf ye haue oughte agaynst any man, that your father also which is in heauen, may forgeue you your trespasses.

And they came agayne to Jerusalem. * And as he walked in the temple: there came to hym the hye preeftes, and the scribes, and the elders and sayed vnto hym: by what aucthorite doest thou these thynges: and who gaue the thes aucthorite, to do these thynges? Jesus answered and sayed vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng and answer ye me, and I wyl tell you by what aucthorite I do these thynges. The baptyme of Jhon, whether was it frome heuen or of men? Answer me. And they thought in them selues, sayng: yf we saye from heauen he wyl saye: why then dyd ye not beleue hym? but yf they had sayed: of men, they feared the people. For all men counted Jhon, that he was a very prophet. And they answered and sayed vnto Jesus: we cannot tell. And Jesus answered, and sayed vnto them: nether wyl I tell you by what aucthorite I do these thynges.

The. xii. Chappter.

The vineyard is let out. Goe to Jesus that belongeth to Cesar. Of the saduers, of the doctor of lawe, pprophes must be eschewed, the offering of the poore wyddowe.

And he beganne to speake vnto the by parables. A certayne man planted * a vineyarde, and compassed it aboute with an hedge, and ordeyned a winepresse, and built a tow er and let it out to hye vnto husbandmen, and wente into a strange countree. And when the time was come, he sent to the husbandmen a seruaunte, that he myght receiue of the husbandmen of y frute of the vineyard. And they caught hym and bet hym, and sent hym awaye agayn emptye. And mozeouer he sente vnto them another seruaunte, and at him they cast stones, and brake his head, and sente hym away agayn al to reupled. And agane he sent another, and him they kylled: and manye other, beatynge some, and kylling some.

And so when he had but one beloued sonne he sente hym also at the last vnto them, sayng they wyl feare my sonne. * But the husbandmen said emongest the selues: this is the heyre: let vs kil him, and the inheritance shal be ours. And they tooke hym and kylled hym, and cast hym out of the vineyarde. What shal therfore the Lorde of the vineyard do? he shal come and destroye the husbandmen, and let out the vineyard vnto other. Haue ye not read this scripture? * The stone whych the buylders dyd refuse, is become y chiefe stone of the corner, this is y Lordes doynge, and it is meruelous in our eyes. They wente aboute to take hym, and feared the people. For they knewe, that he had spoken the parable agaynst theym. And they left hym and wente theyr waye.

* And they sent vnto hym certain of the pharises and herodes seruautes, to take hym in his wordes. And as sone as they were come, they sayd vnto him Master, we know that thou art true, & carest for no man: for thou confidest not

Ther came also vnto him the saduces * which saye that there is no resurreccion. And they asked hym sayng: Master? Moses wrote vnto vs, yf any mans brother dye, and leue his wife behynde hym, and leaue no chyldren: that hys brother should take hys wife, and raise vp seide vnto hys brother.

There wer seuen brethren, and the first toke a wife, and when he dyed, lefte no seide behynd hym. And the seconde toke her, and died, nether left he any seide. And the thyrde lykwysle. And seue had her, and left no seide behind them. Last of al the wife died also. In the resurreccion therfore when they shall rylse agayne, whose wyfe shal she be of them? For seuen had her to wyfe. And Jesus answered and sayed vnto them: Do ye not therfore erre because ye vnderstand not the scripctures, nether the power of God? For when they shall rylse agayne frome death, they nether mary, nor are maryed: but are as the angels, whych are in heauen. As touchyng y dead that they rylse agayne: haue ye not reade in the booke of Moses, howe in the bushe, God spake vnto hym, sayng * I am the God of Abraham and the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob? He is no God of dead, but the God of lyuynge. Ye are therfore greatly desceyued.

* And when there came one of the scribes: and had hearde them disputyng together (and perceined that he had answered them wel) he asked hym: whyche is the fyrst of all the commaundementes? Jesus answered hym, the fyrst of all the comaundementes is: Heare O Israel * The Lorde our God is Lorde only: And thou shalt loue the Lorde thy God wyth al thy heart, and wyth all thy soule, and wyth al thy mynd and wyth all thy strength. Thys is the fyrst commaundement. And the second is lyke vnto this * Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. There in none other commaundement greater then these.

And the scribe sayed vnto hym: Wel master thou hast sayd the truthe, for there is one God, and there is none but he. And to loue hym with all the heart, and wyth al the minde, and with all the soule, and wyth all the strength, and to loue a mans neyghboure as hym self, is a greater thyng then all burnt offerynges and sacryfices. And when Jesus sawe that he answered dyscretely, he sayed vnto hym. Thou arte not farre from the kyngdom of God. And no man after that, durst aske hym anye questyon.

And Jesus answered and sayed, teachyng in the temple: howe saye the scribes that Chryst is the sonne of Dauid? For Dauid hym selfe sayed wyth the holy ghooste saied: * The Lorde sayde to my Lorde, syt on my ryght hande tyll I make thyne enemyes thy foote stole. Dauid hym selfe calleth hym Lorde: and how is he the his sonne? And much people heard hym gladly.

And he sayed vnto them in hys doctryne: be ware of the scribes, whych * loue to go in long clothynge: and loue salutacions in the market places, and the chiefe seates in the congregacions, and the vpermost romes at feastes, whych deuour widowes houses, and vnder a pietence make longe prayers. These shall receiue greater dampnacion.

As he went oute of the temple, A * one of hys discyples sayed vnto hym: Master, se what stoncs, and what buyldynges are here. And Jesus answered and sayed vnto hym: Seest thou these great buyldynges? Ther shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwne doune. And as he satte on mounte Olyuete, ouer agaynst the temple, Peter and James, and Iohn, and Andzewe, asked hym secretly: tell vs when shall these thynges be: And what is the sygne when all these thynges shalbe fulfilled? And Jesus answered them and began to saye: * Take hede, least anye man desceyue you. For many shal come in my name sayng: I am Chryst, and shall desceyue many.

After two dayes was Easter, and the dayes of swete bread. * And the hye prestes and the scribes sought, how they might take hym by craft and put him to death. But they sayd: not in the feast daye, least any busines arise amonge the people. * And when he was at Bethania, in the house of Simo the leper, euen as he sat at meat, there came a woman hauing an Alabaster boxe, of oyntment, called Marth, that was pure and costly. and she brake the boxe, and poured it on hys heade. And there were some, þe were not contente wythin them selues, and sayd: what nede thys wayst of oyntment? For it myght haue bene solde for moze then thre hundred pens, and haue bene geuen vnto the pooze. And they grudged agaynst her.

And Iesus sayed: let her alone, why trouble ye her? She hath doone a good worke on me. * For ye haue the pooze with you all wayes, and whensoever ye wyll, ye may do them good, but me haue ye not alwayes. She hath doone that she coulede: she came afoze hande, to anoynte my body to the buryng. Verely I saye vnto you: whersoeuer thys Gospell shalbe preached thoro we oute the whole worlde: thys also that she hath done shalbe rehered in remembraunce of her.

* And Judas Iscariot, one of the. xii. went away vnto the hye prestes, to betraie him vnto them. When they heard that, they wer glad and promysed that they woulde geue hym money. And he sought, howe he myghte conueniently betraie hym.

* And the fyrst day of swete bred (when they offered Pascheouer) his disciples said vnto hym where wilt thou that we go and prepare, that thou mayst eate the Pascheouer? And he sendeth forth two of hys disciples, and saith vnto them Go ye into the cytee, and there shall mete you a man bearyng a pytcher of water, folowe hym. And whether soeuer he goeth in, saye ye to the good man of the house, the master sayth: where is thy greeft chamber, where I shall eate Pascheouer wyth my dysciples? And he wil shewe you a great parlour, pained & prepared: there make ready for vs. And his disciples went forth, and came into the citee, and founde as he had sayed vnto them, and they made ready the Pascheouer.

* And when it was now euentide, he came with þe. xii. And as they sat at boze and did eate Iesus sayed: Verely I say vnto you: one of you (ye eateth w me) shal betray me. And they began to be sorry, and to say to him one by one: is it I? And another said: is it I? He answered & sayed vnto them: It is one of the. xii. eue he þe dysciple that is with me in the platter. The sonne of man truly goeth as it is wytted of hym: but wo to þe man, by whome the sonne of manne is betrayed. Good wer it for that man, yf he had neuer bene bozne.

that speake but the holy ghooste. The brother shall deliuer vp the brother to death, and the father the sonne: and the chyldren shall ryle agaynst theyr fathers and mothers, and shall put them to death. And ye shalbe hated of all men, for my names sake. But whoso endureth vnto the ende the same shalbe safe.

* Moreover, when ye se the abhomy nation of desolacyon (whereof is spoken by Daniell the prophet) stand wher it ought not: let hym that readeth vnderstande. Then let them that be in Jewry, fly to the mountains. And let hym that is on the house top, not go doune into the house, neither enter therein to fetch anye thyng out of hys house. And let hym that is in the feelde, not turne backe agayn vnto the thynges which he left behynde hym, for to take hys clothes with hym. Who shalbe then to them that are w chyld and to them that geue suck in those dayes. But praye ye that poure flyght be not in the winter. For there shalbe in those dayes such trybulacyon as was not from the begynnyng of creatures, (whyche God created) vnto thys tyme, ne ther shalbe. And excepte that the Lorde should shorten those dayes, no fleshe shoulde be saued. But for the electes sake, whom he hath chosen he hath shortened those dayes.

* And then, yf any man saye to you: loe here is Chryst: loe he is there, beleue not. For false Chyristes and false prophetes shall ryle, & shall shewe myzacles and wonders, to desceine, yf it were possible, euen the electe. But take ye hede: Beholde I haue shewed you al thynges before.

* Moreover, in those dayes, after that trybulacion, the sunne shall waxe darke, and ymone shall not geue her lyght, and the starres of heauen shall fall: and the powers whyche are in heuen shal moue: * And then shal they se the sonne of man commynge in the cloudes, with greate power and gloze. And then shal he sende hys angels, and they shal gather together his elect from the foure wyndes, from the ende of the earth, to the vttermost parte of heauen.

* Learne a similitude of the figge tre. When hys bzaunche is yet tender, and hath brought forth leaues, ye know that sommer is nere. So in like maner: when ye se these thynges come to passe: vnderstande, that he is nye euen at the dozes. Verely I say vnto you: that this generation shall not passe, tyll these thynges be doone. Heauen and erath shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. But of þe day and time knoweth no man, no not the angels which are in heauen, ne ther the sonne hym selfe, saue the father only.

* Take hede, watche and praye, for ye know not when the time is. As a man which is gone into a straunge countre, and hath left his house and geuen hys substaunce to hys seruautes, & to euery man his worke, and commaunded the porter to watche. Watche ye therefore, for ye knowe not when the master of the house wyll come, euen at mydnyght, whether at the cocke crowyng, or in the dawning: least yf he come so deilyly he fynde you slepyng. But he spake more vehemently no, yf I should dye with the, I wil not denye the. Lyke wyse also sayed they all.

Mat. xxvi. * And they came into a place which was named Gethsemany. And he sayeth to hys dyscyples. Sit ye here while I go a lyde, and praye. And he taketh with him Peter and James and Iohn, and began to waxe abashed, and to be in an agony and sayeth vnto them: * My soule is heuy, euen vnto the death, tarye ye here & watch. And he went forth a litle, and fel doune flat on the ground and prayed: that yf it were possyble the houre myght passe from hym. And he sayd: * Abba father, all thynges are possyble vnto the, take away this cup from me. Neuertheles not that I wyll, but that thou wilt, be done.

And he came and founde them slepyng, and sayth to Peter: Simon: sleepest thou? Coudest not thou watch one houre? Watch ye, and pray least ye enter into temptacyon: the spyte truly is ready, but the fleshe is weak. * And agayne he wente a lyde, and prayed, and spake the same wordes. And he retourned: and founde them a slepe agayn. For they: eyes were heuy, neither wytt they, what to answer hym. And he came þ thyrde tyme and sayed vnto them: sleepe hence forth, & take your ease, it is ynough. The houre is come, beholde, the sonne of man is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse vp, let vs go.

Mat. xxvi. c. Lo, he that betrayeth me, is at hand. * And immediately whyle he yet spake, cometh Judas (which was one of the twelue) and with hym a greate number of people with swerdes and staves from the hye preestes and scribes and elders. And he that betrayed hym: had geuen the a generall token, sayng: Whosoever I do kysse that same is he: take hym and lede hym awaye warely. And as sone as he was come, he goeth stragglyt way to hym, and sayth vnto him: Greeting Master, & kissed hym. And thei laied theyr handes on him, and toke hym. And one of them þ stode by, drew out a swerde, and smote a seruaunte of the hye preeft, and cut of hys eare.

math. xxvi. c. And Iesus answered and sayed vnto them: * ye be come out as vnto a thief with swerdes and with staves, for to take me. I was daylye with you in the temple, teachyng, and ye toke me not: but these thynges come to passe, that scriptures shoulde be fulfilled. * And they all forsoke hym, and ranne away. And ther folowed hym a certayn younge man, clothed in lynnyn vpon the bare, and the younge men caught hym and he leste his lynnyn garment, and fled from them naked. * And they led Iesus away to the hyest preeft of all, and wyth hym came all the hye preeftes, and the elders, and the scribes. And Peter folowed him a greate waye of (euen tyl he was come into the palace of the hye preeft) and he sat wyth the seruautes, and warmed hym selfe at the fyre.

math. xxvi. c. * And the hye preeftes and all the councell soughte for wytnes agaynst Iesu, to put hym to death, and founde none: for many bare false wytnes agaynst hym, but their wytnesse agreed not together. And ther arose certain, & brought false wytnes agaynst hym, sayng: We hearde hym saye: * I wyll destroye this temple that is made wyth handes, and wythin thre dayes I wyll buylde another, made wythoute handes. But yet they: wytnesses agreed not together.

Mat. xxvi. * And the hye preeft stood vp amongest them & asked Iesus, sayng: answerest thou nothing howe is it that these beare wytnes agaynst the? But he helde his peace and answered nothinge. Agayne * the hye preeft asked hym, and sayed vnto hym: Arte thou Chryste the sonne of the blessed? And Iesus sayed I am. * And ye shal se the sonne of man syttyng on the ryght hande of power, and commyng in the cloudes of heauen. Then the hye preeft rente hys clothes, and sayed what nede we any further wytnesses? Ye haue hearde blasphemy, what thynke ye and thei al cōdemned hym to be worthy of death. And some began to spyt at hym, and to couer his face and to beate hym wyth fyftes, and to say vnto hym: Recade. And the seruautes boffetted hym on the face.

And as Peter was beneth in the palace there came one of the wenches of the hye preeft and * when she sawe Peter warming hym selfe, she loketh on him, & sayth: wast not thou also with Iesus of Nazareth? And he denyed sayng: I knowe him not, netter wot I what thou saiest. And he went out into the porche, and the cocke crew. And a damsel (when she sawe hym) began agayn to say to them that stode by, this is one of them. And he denyed it again. And anone after, they that stode by, sayed agayne to Peter surely thou arte one of them, for thou art of Galile, and thy speech agreeth therto. But he began to curse, and to swear, sayng: I knowe not this man of whom ye speake. And agayne * the cocke crewe, and Peter remembred the worde that Iesus saied vnto him, before þ cocke crowe thryse, thou shalt denye me thre tymes. And he beganne to wepe.

Of the Passyon, death, and buryall of Chryst math. xxvi. c. And a none in the daynyng, * the hye preeftes helde a councell with the elders and the scribes, and the whole congregacion and and bounde Iesus, and led hym away, and delyuered hym to Pilate. And Pilate asked hym art thou the kyng of the Jewes? And he answered and saied vnto him: thou sayest it. And the hye preeestes accused him of many thynges. So Pilate asked hym again sayng: * Answerest thou not hyng? Beholde, howe many thynges they lay vnto thy charge. Iesus yet answered nothyng, so that Pilate marueiled.

At that feast Pilate dyd deliuer vnto them a prisoner: whomsoever they woulde desire. And ther was one y was named Barrabas, which laye bounde wyth them that made insurreccion he had comyncted murder. And the people called vnto hym: and began to despyre him, that he woulde do, accordyng as he had euer done vnto them. Pilate answered them sayng: Wyl ye that I let lose vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? For he knewe that the hye preeestes had deliuered hym of enuy. But the hye preeestes moued y people, that he shoulde rather delyuer Barrabas vnto them.

Pilate answered agayn and saied vnto the: * What wyl then that I do vnto hym, whom ye call the kyng of the Jewes? And they cried againe: crucifie hym. Pilate saied vnto them what euell hath he done? And they cried y more feruently: Crucify him. And so Pilate willing to contente the people, * let lose Barrabas vnto them, and delyuered vp Iesus (when he had scourged hym) for to be crucified.

And the souldiers led him away into y common hall, and called together the whole multitude, and they clothed hym wyth purple, & they platted a crowne of thornes, and crowned hym withall, & beganne to salute hym: Hail kyng of the Jewes. And they smote him, on the head with a rede and dyd spyt vpon him and bowed their knees, and worshypped hym.

And when they had mocked hym, they toke the purple of hym, and put his owne clothes on hym, and led hym out to crucifie hym. * And they compelled one that passed by, called Symon of Cyrene (the father of Alexander and Rufus) whyche came out of the felde, to beare hys crosse. * And they brought hi to a place named Golgatha (whyche is yf a man interprete it: the place of dead mens sculles) and they gaue hym to dryncke, wyne myngled wyth myrre, but he receiued it not.

And when they had crucified hym: they parted hys garmentes, castyng lottes vpon them, what euerymā shoulde take. And it was about the thyrde houre, and they crucified him. And the title of his cause was written: The kyng of the Jewes. * And they crucified with him two theues, the one on the ryght hand, and the other on hys left. And the scripture was fulfilled which sayth: * He was counted among the wycked. * And they that wente by, rayled on hym, wagging theyr heades, and sayng: A wretch, thou that destroyest the temple, and buyldest it in thre dayes: saue thy selfe, and come doune from the crosse. Lyke wyse also mocked hym the hye preeestes amonge them selues wyth the scribys and sayed: he saued other men, hym selfe he cannot saue. Let Chryst the kyng of Israel descend nowe from the crosse, that we maye se, and beleue. And they that were crucified with hym, checked hym also.

* And when the syxt houre was come, darke nesse arose ouer all the earth, vntil the ix. houre. And at y. ix. houre Iesus cried with a loud voyce sayng: Eloi, Eloi, lama sabathani: whyche is (yf one interprete it) * my God my God, why hast thou forsaken me? And some of the yf stode by, when they heard that sayed: beholde, he calleth for Elias. * And one ranne, & filled a sponge ful of vineger, and put it on a rede, & gaue hym to dryncke: sayng: let hym alone, iet vs se whether helias will come and take hym doune.

But Iesus cryed with a loude voyce, & gaue vp the ghost. * And the vaple of the temple dyd rent in two peces, from the toppe to the botome. * And when the Centurion (which stode before hym) sawe that he so cryed, & gaue vp the ghost he saied: Truly this mā was the sonne of God. * There wer also women a good way of, beholding hym: among whom was Mary Magdalene, * and Mary y mother of James the lytle: and Ioses, and Mary Salome. * (whyche also whē he was in Galile had folowed hym and mynistred vnto hym) & many other women, which came vp wyth hym vnto Jerusalem.

And now when the euen was come (because it was the day of preparyng, that goeth before the sabboth) * Ioseph of the cytee of Aramathia a noble counsellour, whyche also looked for the kyngdome of God, came, and wente in boldly vnto Pilate, and begged of hym the body of Iesu. And Pilate marueiled that he was alre dyed, and called vnto hym the Centurion, and asked hym, whether he had bene any while dead. And when he knewe the truth of the Centurion, he gaue the body to Ioseph. And he bought a linnen cloth, and tooke hym doune, and wrapped hym in the linnen clothe, and layed hym in a sepulchre that was hewen out of a rocke, and rouled a stone before the doore of the sepulchre. And Marye Magdalene and Marye Ioses, behelde where he was layed. K

The concepcion and byrth of Ihon the Baptyst, The concepcion of Christ, The thalful songes of Mary and zachary

There was in the dayes of Herode the kyng of Jewry, a certayne pꝛiest named zacharyas * of the course of Abia. And hys wyfe was of the daughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth: they were both ryghteous before God, and walked in all the lawes and ordynances of the Lorde that no mā could fynde faute with them. And they had no chyld because that Elizabeth was barren, and they bothe were nowe well strycken in age.

And it came to passe, that when zachary executed the pꝛiestes offyce, before God, as hys course cam (according to the custome of the pꝛiestes offyce) hys lot fell to burne incense.

And he wente into the temple of the Lorde and the whole multitude of the people were wout in prayer, whyle the incense was a burning. And there appereyd vnto hym an Angell of the Lorde, standynge on the ryghte syde of the altare of incense. And when zachary sawe hym he was a bashed and feare came on hym.

But the Angell sayed vnto hym: feare not zachary, for thy prayer is hearde. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shal bear the a sonne, and thou shalt call hys name Ihon, and thou shalt haue ioye and gladnesse, and manye shall reioyse at hys byrth. For he shal be greate in the syghte of the Lorde, and shall nether dꝛynke wyne ner strong dꝛynke, and he shal be fylled with the holy ghoist euen frome hys mothers wombe: and many of the chyldren of Israel shal turne to their Lorde God. And he shall go before him in the spꝛete & power of * helias to turne the hertes of the fathers to the chyldren, and the vnbeleuers to the wysdome of the iust men, to make ready a perfecte people for the Lorde.

And zachary sayd vnto the Angell: by what token shall I knowe this? For I am olde, and my wyfe well strycken in yeares. And the angell answered and sayed vnto hym: I am Gabriel, that stande in the pꝛesence of God, and am sente to speake vnto the: and to shewe the these glad tidynge. And beholde it shall come to passe that thou shalt be domme, and not be able to speake, vntyll the daye that these thynges be perfourmed, because I beleueste not my wordes, which shal be fulfilled in theyr season.

And the people wayted for zacharyas, & merueyled that he tarped in the temple. And when he came oute, he coulde not speake vnto theim. And they perceaued that he had sene a vision in the temple. And he beckened vnto them and remayned sychelesse.

¶ And it fortunyd, that as lone as the dayes of his offyce wer out, he departed into his owne house. And after those dayes, hys wyfe Elizabeth conceined, and byd her selfe fyue monethes sayng: This wille hath God dealt with me, in the dayes wherin he hath looked on me, to take frome from me my rebuke among menne.

And in the fyrte moneth the angell Gabryell was sent from God vnto a cytie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a vyrgyne spoused to a man whose name was Ioseph, of the house of David and the vyrgins name was Mary. And the angell wente in vnto her, and sayde: Haple full of grace, the Lorde is with the: blessed arte thou among women. When she sawe hym, she was abashed at hys saynge: and caste in her mynde, what maner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her, feare not Marye: for thou hast founde grace wyth God. Beholde, *thou shalt conceyue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and *thalt call his name Iesus. He shal be greate, & shalbe called the sonne of the hyst. And the Lorde God shal geue vnto hym p seat of his father David, and * he shal raygne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and of his kyngdome there shalbe none ende.

Then sayd Mary vnto the angel: How shal this be, sayng I knowe not a man? And the angell answered & sayde vnto her. The holy gost shal come vpon the, and the power of the hyst shal ouerthadow the. Therefore also that holy thyng which shalbe borne, shalbe called sonne of God. And beholde, thy Cousyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceyued a sone in her age. And this is her sext moneth, which was called barre: for * with God shall nothyng be vnpossible. And Mary sayd: behold the handmaiden of the Lorde be it vnto me accordyng to thy worde. And the angell departed from her.

And Mary arose in those dayes, and went into the mountaynes with hast into the cytie of Jewye, and entred into the house of zachary, & saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuneth, that when Elizabeth herde the salutation of Mary, she bare sprange in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled with the holy ghost, and cryed with a loude voyce, and sayde: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that the mother of my Lorde shulde come to me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutation pounded in mine eares, the babe sprange in my wombe for ioye. And blessed arte thou p haste beleued: for those thynges shalbe performed, which were tolde p from the Lorde. And Mary sayde:

* My soule magnifyeth the Lorde. And my sprete hath reioysed in God my saviour. For he hath looked on p lowe degree of his handmaiden: for lo, now from hence forth shall all generacions call me blessed. Because he that is myghty, hath done to me great thynges, and holy is his name. And his mercy is on them that feare him, from generacion to generacion. He hath shewed strength with his arme, he hath scattered them p are proude in the ymagynacion of theyr vertue. * He hath put downe the myghtye from theyr seates, & exalted theim of lowe degree. He hath fylled the hungry with good thynges: and sent a waye the rych empty. He hath helped his seruauant Israel, in remembraunce of his mercy.

* Euen as he promysed to oure fathers, Aba-ham, and to his seide for euer. And Mary abode with her about a thre monethes, and retourned agayne to her owne house.

* Elizabeths tyme came that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne. And her neyghbours and her colyns heard howe the Lorde had shewed greate mercye vpon her and they reioysed with her.

And it fortuneth that in the eyght daye, they came * to circumsyse the chyld: and called hys name zacharyas, after the name of his father. And his mother answered and sayd: not so, but he shalbe called Ihon. And they sayde vnto her: There is none in thy kynred, p is named wyth this name. And they made sygnes to his father howe he wolde haue hym called: And he asked for wytyng tables, and wrote, saynge: Hys name is Ihon. And they marvelled all. And his mouth was opened immediatly, and his tonge also, and he spake, and prayesed God. And feare came on all them that dwelt nye vnto the. And all these saynges were noysed abroad throught out all the hyll contre of Jewye: and all they p heard them, layde the vp in theyr hertes, sayng: What maner of chyld shal this bee? And the hande of the Lorde was with hym.

And hys father zacharyas was fylled wyth the holy ghost, and prophesied, sayng: Blyssed be the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visyted and redemed his people: For he hath raised vp * an horne of salucion vnto vs in the house of his seruauit David. Euen as he promysed by the mouth of his holy prophetes, whiche were sens the worlde beganne. That we shulde be saued from our enemyes, and from the hande of al that hate vs. That he wolde deale mercifullye with oure fathers, and remembre his holy couenant: * And that he wolde performe the othe, which he sware to oure father Abraham, for to geue vs. * That we deliuered oute of p handes of oure enemyes, myght serue him woute feare all the dayes of our lyfe, in such holynesse & ryght troules as are accepte befoze hym. And thou chyld shalt be called the prophete of the hyst for thou shalt go befoze the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes: to geue knowlage of salucion vnto his people for p remission of synnes. Throught the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day spyng from an hye hath visyted vs.

* To geue lyght to them that sat in darcknesse, and in the shadowe of death, to gyde our fete into the waye of peace. And the chyld grew and wexed strong in sprete, and was in wylder nesse tyll the daye came, when he shoulde shewe hym selfe vnto the Israelites.

The byrth and circumcyon of Christ. How he was receyued into the temple, howe Symeon and Anna prophesied of hym and howe he was founde in the temple among the doctours.

And it chaunced in those dayes that there went out a commaundement fro Augustus the Emperour, that all the worlde shulde be taxed. And this taxyng was the fyrste, and executed wherby Syrenus was lictenant in Syria.

And every man went vnto his owne citie to be taxed. And Ioseph also ascended fro Galile, out of a cytye called Nazareth, into Ierulpe, vnto * the cytye of Dauid, which is called Bethleem because he was of the house and lynage of Dauid to be taxed wth Mary hys spoused wyfe, which was with chylde. And it fortuneth that whyle they wer there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she brought forth the ber fyrste begotten sonne, and wrapped hym in swadlyng clothes, and laide hym in a maunger because there was no roume for the in the ynn.

B And there wer in y^e same regyon, shepherdes watchyng and keepyng they^r flocke by nyght. And lo, the Angell of the Lorde stode hard by them, & the bryghtnes of y^e Lorde shone rounde about them, and they were sore afrayed. And y^e angel sayd vnto them. Be no afrayed. For behold, I bryng you tidynge of great ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is bozne this daye in y^e cytye of Dauid, a sauour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take thys for a sygne ye shall fynde the chylde wrapped in swadlyng clothes, and layed in a maunger. And straight waye there was with the angel a myltitud of heauenly souldyers praisyng God, and sayng, Glorify to God on hye, and peace on the earth, & vnto men a good wyll. I

C And it fortuneth, as soone as the angels wer gone awaye from theim into heauen. I The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go now euen vnto Bethleem, and set this thyng that we heare saye is happened, whyche the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Ioseph and y^e babe layde in a maunger. And when they had sene it, they published abrode the sayng: which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that heard it, wondred at those thynges which were told the of the shepherdes. But Mary kept al those saynges, & pondred them in her bert. And y^e shepherdes retourned, praisynge and laudyng God for all the thynges that they had heard & sene, euen as it was tolde vnto them. I

I And when y^e eyght daye was come y^e the chylde shulde be * circumcysed, & hys name was called Iesus * which was named of the Angel, before he was conceived in the wombe. I

B And when the tyme of they^r purificacion * (after the lawe of Moyses,) was come, they brought hym to Ierusalem, to present hym to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde * every man chylde that fyrst openeth the matrix, shal be called holpe to the Lorde) and to offer (as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde) a payre of turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons.

And beholde, there was a man in Ierusalem whose name was Symeon. And the same man was iuste and godly, and looked for the consolacyon of Israell, and the holy goste was in hym. And an aunswere had he receyued of the holye ghoste, that he shuld not se death, except he first sawe the Lordes Christ. And he came by inspyracyon in the temple.

C And when the father and mother broughte in the chylde Iesus: to doo for hym after the custome of the * lawe, then take he hym vp in hys armes, and sayde: Lorde, nowe lettest thou thy seruaunt depart in peace, accordyng to thy promyse. For myne eyes haue sene the saluacyon: which thou hast prepared before the face of all people. * A lyght to lyghten y^e gentyls, and the glory of thy people Israell. I

I And his father and mother meruayled at those thynges, which were spoken of hym. And Symeon blessed them, & sayde vnto Mary his mother: behold, this chylde is set to be the sal & vprysyng agayne of many in Israell, and for a sygne which is spoken agaynst. And mozeouer the sword shall pearce thy soule, y^e the thoughtes of many hertes maye be opened.

And there was a Propheesse, one Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of y^e trybe of Aser: which was of a great age, and had lyued wth an husbande. vii. yeres from her vprysynge. And she had bene a wedowe about. iiii. scoze &. iiii. yere, whiche departed not from y^e temple, but serued God with fastynges and prayers nyght & daye. And she came forth that same houre, and praysed the Lorde, and spake of him, to al them that looked for redemption in Ierusalem.

And when they had perfourmed all thynges accordyng to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to they^r owne cytye Nazareth. And * the chylde grewe, and waxed stronge in spiryte, and was fylled with wysdome and the grace of God was vpon hym. I

And his father and mother went to Ierusalem every yere * at the feaste of Easter. I And when he was. xii. yere olde, they went vp to Ierusalem after the custome of y^e feast daye. And when they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the chylde Iesus abode styll in Ierusalem, and hys father and mother knewe not of it: but they supposynge hym to haue bene in the company, came a dayes to zney and soughte hym among they^r kynnsfolke & acquayntaunce. And whē they found him not, they went backe agayne to Ierusalem, and soughte hym. And it fortuneth that after thre dayes, they founde him in the temple, sytting in the myddes of the doctoures, hearynge them, and polynge them. * And all that heard hym, were astonyed at his vnderstandyng and answeres.

And when they sawe hym, they marueyled. And hys mother sayde vnto hym: Sonne, why hast thou thus delte wth vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue sought the sorrowyng. And he saide vnto them: howe is it y^e sought me? Wylst ye not that I must go about my fathers busynes? * And they vnderstode not y^e sayng whiche he spake vnto them. And he went downe wth them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient vnto the. But his mother kept all these saynges together in her bert. And Iesus prospered in wysdom and age, & in fauoure, with God & men. I

The. v. Chapter. I

I The prayngs baptyme, and presentments of John the baptyme of Christ, and a rebryll of the generacyon of the fathers.

In the fyfteenth yere of the raygne of Tyberius the Emperoure, Pontus Pilate beyng Lefetenante of Jewrye, and Herode beyng Tetrarch of Galyle, and hys brother Phylippe Tetrarch of Iturea: and of the regyon of the Traconytes and Lysanpath the Tetrarch of Abylene (wher Anna and Cayphas were the hie preestes) the word of the Lorde came vnto John the sonne of zacharias in the wyldernesse. And he came into all the coastes aboute Iordane, preaching the baptyme of repentance for the remission of synnes, as it is wyrtten in the booke of y wordes of Esaye the prophete, sayng: * The voice of a cryer in y wyldernesse: prepare ye the waye of the Lorde, make his pathes strayght. Euerie valley shalbe fylled, and euerie mountayne and hill shalbe brought lowe. And thynges that be croked shalbe made strayghte, and the rough wayes shalbe made plain: and all fleshe shal se the saluacyon of God. ¶

¶ Then saide he to the people, that were come forth to be baptysed of hym. * O ye generacyon of vyppers, who hath taught you to fye from y wrath to come? Wyngye forth therfore due frutes of repentance, and begyn not to saye with in your selues: we haue Abraham to our father for I say vnto you: God is able of these stones to rayse vp chyldren vnto Abraham. Nowe also is the axe layde vnto the roote of the trees, * euerie tree therfore which byngeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

¶ And the people asked hym, sayng: * what shal we do then? he answered and sayeth vnto them: he that hath two coates, let hym part wth hym that hath none, & he that hath meate let hym do lyke wyse.

¶ Then came y publicans also to be baptysed and sayd vnto hym: Master, what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them: requyre no more, then that which is appoynted vnto you.

The souldiers lyke wyse demaunded of hym sayng: & what shal we do? And he sayde vnto them, hurte no man: neyther trouble any man wrongfully: and be content with your wages.

¶ As the people were in a doubte, and all men mused in theyr hertes of John, whether he were very Christ: John answered and sayd vnto the all: * I baptise you wth water, but one stronger the I shal come after me, whose sho latched I am not worthy to vnlose, he shal baptise you with the holy gost, and with fyre: * which hath his fanne in his hande, & wyl purge his floore and gather the corne into his barn, but y chaffe wil be burne with fyre y neuer shalbe quenched. And many other thynges in hys exhortacyon preached he vnto the people.

¶ Then Herode y Tetrarch, when he was rebuked of hym, for Herodias hys brother Phylippes wyfe, and for all the euell which Herode dyd, added this aboue all, and layde John in prysone.

¶ And it fortuneth that when all the people receyued baptyme (and when Iesus was baptysed and byd praye) the heauen was opened, and the holy goste came downe in a bodelye shape lyke a doue vpon hym, and a voyce came from heauen, whiche sayde: * Thou arte my beloued sonne, in the doo I delpte.

¶ And Iesus hym selfe beganne to be aboute thirty yere of age, so that he was supposed to be the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Hely, which was the sonne of Mathat: whiche was the sonne of Leuy, which was the sonne of Melchir: which was the sonne of Janna: which was the sonne of Ioseph, which was the sonne of Mathathias, which was the sonne of Amos which was the sonne of Naum, which was the sonne of Heli: which was the sonne of Ragge, which was the sonne of Maath: whiche was y sonne of Mathathias: whiche was the sonne of Hemei, which was the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Iuda, which was the sonne of Joanna: which was the sonne of Reba, which was the sonne of Zorobabell, whiche was the sonne of Salathiel: which was y sonne of Neri whiche was the sonne of Melchir, whiche was the sonne of Addi, which was the sonne of Coosaim: which was the sonne of Helmadan, which was the sonne of Her, whiche was the sonne of Ieso: which was the sonne of Heliizer, whiche was the sonne of Iozam: which was the sonne of Mattha, which was y sonne of Leui: whiche was the sonne of Symeon: which was the sonne of Iuda, which was the sonne of Ioseph: which was the sonne of Ionam: whiche was y sonne of Heliachim: whiche was the sonne of Melcha whiche was the sonne of Menan: whiche was the sonne of Mathatha: whiche was the sonne of Nathan, whiche was the sonne of Dauid: whiche was the sonne of Jesse: whiche was the sonne of Dab: whiche was the sonne of Boos: whiche was the sonne of Salmon, whiche was the sonne of Naassan: whiche was y sonne of Aminadab: whiche was the sonne of Aran, which was the sonne of Esrom: which was the sonne of Phares: which was the sonne of Iuda which was the sonne of Jacob: which was the sonne of Isahac: which was the sonne of Abraham, whiche was the sonne of Charra: whiche was the sonne of Nachor, which was the sonne of Saruch, whiche was the sonne of Ragau: whiche was the sonne of Phalec: which was the sonne of Heber, which was the sonne of Sala, whiche was the sonne of Canan: whiche was the sonne of Arphaxat, which was the sonne of Sem: which was the sonne of Noe, which was the sonne of Lamech, whiche was the sonne of Mathasala: which was the sonne of Enoch, which was the sonne of Jared, which was the sonne of Malaleed, whiche was the sonne of Cainan, which was the sonne of Enos, which was sonne of Seth: whiche was the sonne of Adam: which was the sonne of God.

And he caried hym to Ierusalem, and set him on a pynacle of the temple, and sayde vnto him If thou be þe sonne of God, caste thy selfe downe from hens. For it is wrytten: * he shal geue his angels charge ouer the, to kepe the, and in their handes they shal beare the vp, that thou dash not thy fote agaynst a stone. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto hym, it is sayd: * thou shalt not tempte the Lorde thy God. And as sone as all the tēptacyon was ended, the deuell departed from hym, for a season.

And Jesus returned by the power of the spiryte, into Galile, & ther went a fame of hym thowowoute all the regyon. And he taughte in theyr Synagoges, & was commended of al mē.

And he came to Nazareth, where he was noursed and (as his custome was) he went into the Synagoge on the Sabbath day, and stode vp for to reade. And there was deliuered vnto hym the booke of the Prophete Esaye. * And when he had opened the booke, he found þe place wherin it was wrytten: * The spiryte of þe Lord vps me, because he hath anoynted me: to preach the Gospell to þe poore, he hath sent me: to heale the broken hearted, to preach deliuerance to the captiue, and syghte to the blynde: frelye to set at lyberte them that are bynded, and to preach the acceptable yere of the Lorde.

And he closed the booke, and gaue it agayne to the minyster, and sat downe. And the eyes of all them that were in the Synagoge wer fastened on him. And he beganne to saye vnto them: This daye is thys scripture fulfilled in your eares. And all bare hym wytnesse * & wondzed at the gracys wordes whiche proceded oute of his mouth. And they sayde: Is not thys Iosephs sonne? And he sayde vnto them: Ye wyll vtterly saye thys prouerbe: Whysycon, heale thy selfe. * Whatsoeuer we haue hearde done in Capernaum, doo þe same here likewise in thynne owne countree. And he sayde: Verelye I saye vnto you: * No prophete is accepted in hys owne countree.

But I tell you of a truth: * many wydowes were in Israel, in the dayes of Helyas, when heauen was shut thre yeres & syxe monethes, when greete famphmente was throughtoute all the lande, and vnto none of them was Helyas sente saue into Sarepta besydes Sidon, vnto a woman that was a wydowe. * And many lepers were in Israel in the tyme of Eliseus the prophete: and none of them was censed, sauyng Naaman the Syzian.

And all they in the Synagoge (when they herde these thynges) were fylled with wrath, & rose vp, and thrust hym out of the cytie, and led hym euen vnto the edge of þe hyll (wher on their cytie was buylt) þat they might cast hym downe hedlyng. But he departed, and went his waye euen thowowe the myddes of them. And he came downe to Capernaum (a cytie of Galile) & there taughte them on þe Sabbath dayes. * And they were astonnyed at hys doctryne: for hys preaching was wyth power. * And in the Synagoge ther was a man, whych had an vnclene spyte of a deuell, and cryed wyth a loude voice sayng: let me alone, what hast thou to do with vs, thou Jesus of Nazareth? Arte thou come to destroye vs? I knowe the what thou arte, euen the holy of God. And Jesus rebuked hym sayng: holde thy peace, and come out of hym. And when the deuell had thowen hym in the myddes, he came oute of hym, and hurte hym not. And feare came on them all, and they spake amonge theim selues, sayng: what maner of thyng is thys? For wyth aucthoryte and power he commaundeth the foule spyrytes, and they come out. And the fame of hym was spred abroade thowowoute euery place of the countrey rounde aboute.

And when he was risen vp and come out of the Synagoge he entred into Symons house. And Symons mother in lawe was taken with a great feuer, & they made intercession to hym for her. And he stode ouer her, and rebuked the feuer, and þe feuer leste her. And immediatly she arose and minystrer vnto them.

When the sunne was downe, all they that had ben sycke, taken w diuers diseases, brough them vnto hym: and he layd his handes on euery one of them, and healed them. * And deuils also came out of many, cryng and sayng: thou art Chryste the sonne of God. And he rebuked them, and suffered them not to speake: for they knewe that he was Chryste.

As sone as it was daye, he departed, & went into a deserte place, and the people sought hym and came to hym, and kepte hym that he shulde not departe from them. And he sayde vnto the I must preache the kyngdome of God to other cyties also: For therfore am I sente. And he preached in the Synagoges of Galyle.

The. v. Chapter.

Chryste preacheth in the synagoge. The dysciples forsake all, and folowe hym. He censed the leper, healeth the manne of the palsy, calleth Mattheus the customes and he eateth with open synners.

T came to passe that (when the people praised vpon hym, to heare the worde of God) he stode by the lake of Genezareth: * & sawe two shyp- pes stande by the lake syde, but the fyshermen were gone out of them, and wer wal- shing theyr nettes. And he entred into one of the shippes (which pertayned to Symon) & pray- ed hym that he wolde thynste oure a lytell from the lande. And he sat downe and taught the peo- ple oute of the shyppe. When he had leste spea- kyng, he sayd vnto Symon: Launche out into the depe, and let synne poure nettes to make a draught. And Symon answered and sayde vn- to hym: After, we haue laboured all nyght, & haue taken nothyng. Neuerthelesse, at thy com- maundemente, I wyl lose forth the nette. And when they had this done, they inclosed a greate multitude of fyshes. But theyr nette brake, & they beckened to theyr felowes (whiche were in the other shyppe) that they shulde come, & helpe them. And they came, and fylled both the shyp- pes that they sonke agayne.

When Symon Peter sawe this, he fell doune at Jesus knees, sayng: Lorde, go from me, for I am a synfull man. For he was astonied, and all that were with hym, at the draughte of fyl- shes, which they had takē: & so was also James and John the sonnes of zebede, which were par- teners wth Symon. And Jesus sayd vnto Symon: feare not, from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And they broughte the shippes to lande, * and forsoke all and folowed hym.

* And it fortuneth that when he was in a cer- tayne cytie: beholde, there was a man full of le- prosye, and when he had spyed Jesus, he fell flat on his face, and besoughte hym, sayng: Lorde if thou wilt, thou canst make me cleane. And he stretched forth his hand, and touched hym, say- yng: I wyl, be thou cleane. And immediatly the leprosie departed fro hym. And he charged hym that he shulde tell no man: but go (sayth he) * & shewe thy selfe to the preste, and offer thy clen- syng accordyng as Moyses commaunded, for a wytnesse vnto them.

But so muche the more went there a fame a- brode of hym, and muche people came together to heare, and to be healed of hym of theyr infy- myties. And he kept hym out of the way in the wyldernesse, and gaue hym selfe to prayer.

* And it happened on a certayne daye: that he taught, and there sat the Pharyses and doc- toures of the lawe, whiche were come out of all the townes of Galyle and Jewye, and Jerusa- lem. And the power of the Lorde was presente, to heale them. * And beholde, men brought in a bed, a man which was taken wth a palsy, and they sought meanes to byng hym in, & to laye hym before him. And when they could not fynd on what syde they myght byng hym in (because of the presse) they went vpon the toppe of the house and let hym downe thowowe by tyling bed and all, euen in the myddes before Jesus.

When he sawe theyr faith, he said vnto hym man thy synnes are forgiuen the. And the Scry- bes and the Pharyses began to thynke, sayng:

What fellowe is this, which speaketh blasphemie? * who can forgiue synnes but God only?

But when Jesus perceyued theyr thoughtes he answered, and sayd vnto the: What thynke ye in youre hertes? Whether is easier to saye: thy synnes be forgiuen the, or to saye: ryse vp, and walke? * But that ye may knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgiue synnes on earth, he sayde to the synke of the palsy: I saye vnto the: arise, take vp thy bedde, and go vnto thy house. And immediatly he rose vp before them, and toke vp his bed (wheron he laye) and departed to his owne house, praising God. And they were all amased, & they gaue the glozy vn- to God. And were fylled wth feare, sayng: We haue sene strange thynges to daye.

* And after this, he went forth, and sawe a ff Publycane named Leui, sytting at the receypte of custome, and he sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he leste all, and rose vp, and folowed hym: And Leui made hym a great feast in his owne house. And there was a great company of Pub- lycans and of other that sate at meate with the * And the Scribes and Pharyses murmured a- gainst his discypples, sayng: Why do ye eate and drynke with Publicans and synners? And Jesus answered & sayde vnto them: They that are whole nede not the Physicion: but they that are synke. I came not to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance.

And they sayd vnto hym: * Why do the dysci- ples of Ihon fast often, and praye, and the discy- ples of the Pharyses also, but thyne eat & drynke he sayde vnto them: * Can ye make the childe of the weddyng faste, whyle the bydegrome is wth the? The daies wyl come, when the byde- grome also shalbe taken away from them: then shall they fast in those dayes.

He spake also vnto the a symilitude. No man putteth a pece of a newe garmente, into an olde vesture, for yf he do, then breaketh he the newe and the pece that was taken oute of the newe, a greeth not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde bottels. For yf he do, the newe wyne wyl burst the bottels, & runne out it selfe, and the bottels shal perishe. But new wyne must be put into newe bottels, and bothe are preserued. No man also that drynketh olde wyne straght wape can a way with newe: for he sayeth: the olde is better.

The. vi. Chapter.

It happened on an after pryncypall Sabbath, that he went thowowe by corne felde, and his discypples pluck- ed the eares of corne, and did eate, and rubbed them in theyr handes. And certayne of the Pharyses sayde vnto the: Why do ye that whiche is not lawfull to do on the Sabbath dayes? And Jesus answered the, and sayde: * Haue ye not red what Dauid dyd when he hym self was an hungred, & they which were

 And he behelde them all in compasse, and sayde

Mat. xiii. c. And it fortunede in those dayes * that he went out into a mountayne for to pray, & contynued all nyghte in prayer to God. And as sone as it mon whom he also named Peter, and Andzewe tholomewe, Mathewe & Thomas, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Symon which is called zelotes, and Judas James sonne, & Judas Iscariot, the same that was the traytoure.

Mat. xiii. d. And he came downe with them, and stode to be healed of theyr dysleases, & they that were vexed with foule spretes, and they were healed And al þ people pzeassed to touch hym, for ther went vertue out of hym, and healed them all.

Mat. v. a. And he lyft vp his eyes vpon the dysciples & sayde: * Blessed bee ye poore, for yonres is the kyngdome of God. Blessed are ye that hunger now, for ye shalbe satysfied. Blessed ar ye that wepe now, for ye shall laughe. Blessed shal ye be when men hate you, and thurstye you oute of theyr companye, and rayne on you, and abhorre youre names as an euell thyng, for the sonne of mans sake. Reioyce ye in that day, and be glad for behold, your reward is great in heauen. I For thus did theyr fathers vnto the prophetes

Amos. vi. a. * But wo vnto you þ are ryche: for ye haue your consolacyon. Wo vnto you that are ful: for ye shall hunger. Wo vnto you that now laughe for ye shall wepe and wepe. Wo vnto you whē all men prayse you: for so dyd theyr fathers to the false prophetes.

But I say vnto you which heare: Loue your enemyes. Doo good to them which hate you.
 Blessen them that curse you. And praye for the which wrongfully trouble you. And vnto him that smyteth the on the one cheke, offer also the other. * And him that taketh away thy gowne forbyd not to take thy cote also. Geue to euery man that asketh of the. And of hym that taketh away thy goodes, aske them not agayn. * And as ye wolde that men shoulde doo to you, do ye also to them lyke wyse.

* And yf ye loue them which loue you, what e thanke haue ye? For synners also loue theyr lo-uers. And yf ye do good for them which do good for you, what thanke haue ye? For synners also do euen þ same. And yf ye lende to them of whō ye hope to receiue: what thanke haue ye? For sinners also lende to synners, to receyue such lyke agayne. But loue ye youre enemyes: and dooe good, and lende, lokynge for nothyng agayne:
 and your rewarde shalbe greate, and ye shalbe the chyldren of the hyst: for he is kynde vnto þ vnkynde and to the euell.

* Be ye therfore mercyfull, as youre father also is mercyfull. * Judge not, and ye shal not be iudged: Condemne not, and ye shal not be condemned: For geue, & ye shalbe forgiven. * Geue and it shalbe geuen vnto you: good measure & pzeassed downe, and shaken together, & runnyng ouer, shal men geue into youre bosomes. * For with the same measure þ ye mete withall, shal other men mete to you agayne.

And he put forth a symilytude vnto them:
 * Can the blynde leade the blynde? Do they not both fall into the dytche? * The dyscypyle is not aboue hys master. Euery man shalbe perspyght euen as his master is. * Why seekest thou a moat in thy bzothers eye, but consydrest not þ beame that is in thyne owne eye? Eyrther howe canste thou saye to thy bzother: Bzother, let me pull oute the moate that is in thyne eye, when thou seekest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye.
 Thou ypocryte, cast out the beame out of thine owne eye fyrst, & then shalt thou se perspytely, to pull out þ moat that is in thy bzothers eye. I

* For it is not a good tree, þ byryngeth forth euell frute: nether is that an euell tree that byryngeth forth good frute. For euery tree is knowē by his frute. For of thornes do not men gather fygges, nor of bushes gather they grapes. A good man out of the good treasure of hys herte byryngeth forth that which is good. And an euell man, out of the euell treasure of his hert, byryngeth forth þ which is euell. * For of the abound-daunce of the hert, his mouth speaketh.

Why call ye me * Lorde Lorde, and do not as I bydde you: whosoener commeth to me and heareth my saynges, and doth the same, I wyl shew you to whom he is lyke. * He is lyke a mā which buylte an house, and dygged depe, and layde the foundacyon on a rocke. When þ waters arose, the floude bet vpon that house and coulde not moue it. For it was grounded vpon a rocke. But he that heareth and doeth not, is lyke a man that without foundacyon buylt an house vpon the earth, agaynst which the floude dyd beate: and it fell immediatly. And the sal of that house was grete.

The vii. Chapter.

¶ He healeth the captaynes seruant, rayseth the wyddowes son fourtyeth the discyples, whome John Baptyste sent vnto him comendeth Ihon, reproueth the Jewes and eateth with the p^oph^{et} cys. The woman washt his fete with her teares, and he forgo ueth her synnes.

When he had ended all his saynges in the audyence of the people, * he entred into Capernaum. And a cer-tayne Centurions seruant which was dere vnto hym, lay sycke, and was in perell of death. And when he herd of Jesu, he sent vnto hym the elders of the Jewes, he sechynge hym that he wolde come, and heale his seruant. And whē they came to Iesus, they besoughte hym instantlye, sayng: he is worthy that thou shouldest doo this for hym. For he lo-ueth our nacyon, and hath buyt vs a synagoge.
And Iesus went with them.

And when he was now, not farre from the house, the Centurion sent frendes to hym, say-ng vnto hym: * Lord, trouble not thy selfe: for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter vnder my rooffe. Wherefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come vnto the: but saye thou p^o word and my seruant shal be whole. For I also am a man set vnder power, and haue vnder me souldiers, and I saye vnto one go, and he goeth, and to another, come and he cometh: and to my seruant, do this, and he doth it. Whē Iesus herde thys, he maruailed at hym, and turned hym about and sayd to the people that folowed him I say vnto you, I haue not found so great faith no, not in Israel. And they p^o were sente, turned backe home agayne, and founde the seruante whole that had bene sycke.

¶ And it fortuneth after this, that he wente into a citie, which is called Naim, and many of his discyples went with hym, and much people.
When he came nye to the gate of the ctyte: be-holde, there was a dead man carped out, which was the only sonne of his mother, and she was a wydowe, and much people of the ctyte was with her. And when the Lorde sawe her, he had compassion on her, and said vnto her: wepe not.
And he came nye and touched the coffyn: & they that bare hym stode still. And he sayde: Ponge man, I saye vnto the: aryse. And he that was dead, sat vp, and began to speake. * And he delyuered hym to his mother. And ther came a fear on them all. And they gaue p^o glory vnto God, sayng: * A great p^ophete is rysen vp amonge vs, & God hath vplycted his people. ¶ And thys rumoure of hym went forth thorowout all Jewry, and thorowout all the regyons whiche lye rounde aboute.

And the discyples of John shewed hym of al these thynges. * And Ihon called vnto hym two of his discyples, and sent the to Iesus, sayng.
Art thou he that shouldest come: or shall we looke for another? When the mē wer come vnto him they sayde: Ihon Baptyst sent vs vnto the, say-ng: Arte thou he that shouldest come: or shall we waite for another? And in p^o same houre he cured many of theyr infirmities and plagues, and of euil spyrtes, & vnto many that were blynde he gaue syght. And he answered, and sayde vnto them: go your waye and bryng worde agayne to Ihon what thynges ye haue sene and hearde. ¶ Howe that * the blynde se, the halt go, the lepers are clynsed, & deafe heare, the dead rysen agayne, to the pooze is the glad tydynges preached, and happy is he that is not offended at me.

* And when the messengers of Ihon wer departed, he began to speake vnto the people concernyng Ihon. What went you out into p^o wyl-dernesse for to se? A rede shaken with the wind But what wēt ye out for to se? A man clothed in softe rayment? Behold, they which are gozgously appareled, and lyue delycatelye, are in kynges courtes. But what went ye forth to se?
A p^ophete? Yee, I saye to you, and more then a p^ophete. This is he of whom it is wyrtten * Beholde, I sende myne angel before thy face which shal prepare thy way before the. For I saye vnto you among wemens chyl dren, is ther not a greater p^ophete then Ihon Baptyst? Ne-uerthelesse, he that is lesse, in the kyngdome of God is greater then he.

And all the people, and the Publycans that herd hym, iustified God, and were baptysed wth the baptyme of Ihon. But the pharysees and lawers despyled the counsell of God agaynst them selues, and were not baptysed of hym.

And the Lorde sayde: * Wherunto shal I ly-ken the men of thys generacyon: & what thyng are they lyke? They are lyke vnto chyl dren syttyng in the market place, & cryng one to another, and sayng: We haue pyppd vnto you, and ye haue not daunsed: we haue mourned to you, & ye haue not wepte. For Ihon Baptyst came, nether * eatynge breade nor drynkyng wyne, and ye saye he hath the deuell. The sonne of man is come, and eateth and drynketh, and ye saye: be-holde a gluttonous man, and an vnmesurable drynker of wyne a frende of Publycans & synners. And wylde is iustified of al her chyl dren.

¶ And one of p^o pharysees despyed hym that he wolde eate with hym. And he went into the pharysees house, and sat downe at meat. * And beholde a woman in p^o ctyte (whiche was a synner) as sone as she knewe that Iesus sat at meat in the pharysees house, she brought an alabaster boxe of oymntment, and stode at his fete behynde hym wepyng, and beganne to washe his fete wth teares, and dyd wyppen them wth the heares of her heade, and kyssed his fete, and anoynted the wth the oymntment.

When (the pharyse which had byddē hym) sawe p^o, he spake win hym selfe, sayng: ¶ If this man were a p^ophete, he wolde surely knowe who, and what maner of woman thys is that touched hym, for she is a synner. And Iesus answered, & sayde vnto hym: Symon I haue som what to saye vnto the. And he sayde: Sayster, saye on. There was a certayne lender whychē had two detters, the one oughte fyue hundred pence, and the other systre. When they had nothyng to paye, he forgave them bothe. Tell me

The parable is this. * The ſede is the worde of God. Thoſe that are beſyde the waye, are they that heare, then cometh the deuell, and taketh awaye the worde oute of theyr hertes, leſte they ſhulde beleue and be ſaued. * Then came to hym hys mother, and hys brethren, and could not come at hym for preaſe. And it was tolde hym, and ſayde: Thy mother and thy brethren ſtande without, and wolde ſe the. He answered and ſayde vnto them: my mother and my brethren are theſe, whiche heare the worde of God and do it.

* And it chaunced on a certayne daye, that he went into a ſhypp, and his diſciples alſo, and he ſayde vnto them: Let vs go ouer vnto the other ſyde of the lake. And they layned forth. But as they ſayled he fell a ſleepe. * And there aroſe a ſtorme of wynd in the lake, and they were ſpylled wth water, and were in iopardie. And they came to hym, & awoke hym, ſayyng: Maſter, Maſter, we are loſte. Then he aroſe and rebuked the wynde and the tempeſt of water, and thei ceaſed, & it waxed calme. And he ſaid vnto them: where is your fayth? They feared & wondered emon them ſelues, ſayyng: What (thynke ye) is this? For he commaundeth horde the wyndes and water, and they obey hym. * And they ſayled vnto the region of Gadarenites, whiche is ouer agaynſt Galyle.

And when he went oute to lande, there met hym out of the ctye a certayne man, which had a deuell longe tyme, and ware no clothes nether abode in any houſe: but in grates. When he ſaw Jeſus and had cred, he fell doune befoze hym, and wpth a loude voyce ſayde: * What haue I to dooe wth the Jeſus, thou ſonne of the God moſte hyeſt? I beſech the torment me not: for he commaunded the foule ſpyrite to come out of ſ man. For oftentymes he had caught hym, and he was bounde wpth chaynes, and kepte wpth fetters: and he brake ſ bandes, and was carped of the fende into wylberneſſe.

And Jeſus asked hym ſayyng: What is thy name? And he ſayde: Legion, becauſe many deuils were entred into hym. And they beſought him that he wolde not commaunde them, to go out into the depe. And there was there an herde of many ſwyne, ſedyng on an hyll: and they beſought hym, that he wolde ſuffer them to entre into them. And he ſuffered the. Then wente the deuils out of the mā and entred into the ſwyne. And the heard ranne hedlyng wth violence into the lake, and were choked. When the herdme ſawe what had chaunced, they fled, and told it in the

in the cytie, and in the byllages.

And they came out to se what was done, and came to Jesus, and founde the man (out of whō the deuels were departed) sytting at the fete of Jesus, clothed, and in hys ryght mynd, and they were afrayed. They also whyche sawe it, tolde them by what meanes he (that was possessed of the deuell) was healed. And al the multitude of the Gaderenyttes, besought hym, that he would departe fro the, for they were taken wyth great feare. And he gat hym vp into the shyp, and returned backe agayn. Then the man (out of whō the deuels were departed) besought hym that he myght be with hym. But Jesus sent hym away sayng: Go home again to thynne owne house, & shewe what thynges soener God hath done for the. And he went his way and preached thorow out all the cytie, what thynges soener Jesus had done vnto hym.

And it fortuned that when Jesus was come agayne, the people receaued hym. For they all wayted for hym. * And beholde, ther came a mā named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the Synagoge) and he fell doune at Jesus fete praisynge hym, that he would come into hys house, for he had but one doughter only, vpon a twelue yere of age, and she laye a dyng. And Jesus sayd: Who is it that touched me? When euery man denyed, Peter (and they that were wyth hym) sayd: Master the people thrust the and vere the, and sayest thou: who touched me? And Jesus sayd: Some bodye hath touched me. For I perceauē that vertue is gone out of me. When the woman sawe that she was not hyd, she came tremblyng, and fell at his fete and tolde hym befoze all the people, for what cause she had touched hym, and howe she was healed immediatly. And he sayde vnto her: Doughter be of good comforte: thy faythe hath saued the, go in peace.

Whyle he yet spake, there came one from the rulers of the Synagoges house, whyche sayd to hym: thy doughter is dead, dyscase not the Master. But when Jesus hearde that worde, he answered the father of the damosell: * Feare not, be leue only, and she shalbe made whole. And whē he came to the house he suffered no man to go in wyth hym, saue Peter, James and Iohā, and the father and the mother of the mayden. Euery body wepte & sorowed for her. And he sayd: Wepe not. The damosell is not dead: but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scozne, knowynge that she was dead. And he thrust them all oute, & caught her by the hand and cryed, sayng: Mayde, arise. The ix. Chapter.

The sendeth oute the twelue Apostles to preache. Betwixt heareth tell of hym. He seith. v. men wyth. v. loaves & two fyshes, the dyscyples comfesse hym to be the sonne of God, he transfigured hym selfe vpon the mount, belue- teth the possessed, and teacheth his dyscyples to be lowly: they desyre vengeance, but he repproueth them.

Jesus called the * twelue together, & gaue them power an authoꝛyte ouer all deuels, and that they might heale dyscales. And he sent them to preache the kyngdome of God: and to heale the sycke, and he sayd vnto the: Take nothinge to your iourney: neyther staffe nor scrippe neyther bꝛeade, * neyther money, neyther haue two coates: & whatsoeuer house ye entre into, there abyde, and thence departe. And whosoever wyll not receaue you, when ye go oute of the cytie, shake of the very duste from your fete, for a testimony agaynst them. And they departed and wēt thorow the townes, preachynge the Gospell, & healyng euery where.

* And Herode the Tetrache heard of all that was done by hym, and doubted, because that it was sayd of some, that Ihon was rysen agayne from death: & of some that Helias had appeared and of some, that one of the olde prophetes was rysen agayn. And Herode sayd: Ihon haue I beheaded: but who is this of whom I heare suche thynges? And he desyred to se hym.

And the Apostles returned: and tolde hym all that they had done. * And he toke them and wēt asyde into a solytary place, nye vnto the cytie, & is called Bethsaida. Whyche when the people knewe, they folowed hym. And he receaued them, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, and healed them that had nede to be healed. And when the daye began to weere away, then came the. xii. and sayde vnto hym: sende the people awaye, that they may go into the townes & nexte byllages and lodge, and get meate, for we are here in a place of wyldernes. But he sayde vnto them: Geue ye them to eate. And they sayd: We haue no mo but fyue loaves and two fyshes, excepte we shoulde go and buye meate for all this people. And they were aboute fyue. M. men. And he sayde to hys dyscyples: Cause them to sytte doune by fyfties in a company. And they dyd so and made them all to syt doune. And he toke the fyue loaves and two fyshes, and looked vnto heauen: and blessed them and brake, and gaue to the dyscyples, to set befoze the people. And they all dyd eate, and were satisfied. And there was taken vp of that remayned to them, twelue baskettes full of broken meate.

* And it fortuned as he was alone praisynge, the hys dyscyples were with hym, and he asked them sayng: * Who saye the people that I am? They answered and sayd: Ihon Baptyst: Some saye: Helias, and some saye: that one of the olde prophetes is rysen. He sayde vnto them: But who saye that I am? Symon Peter answered and sayd: * thou art the Christ of God. And he warned and commaunded them that they should tell no man that thyng, sayng: * the sonne of man muste suffre many thynges, and be repproued of the elders, and of the hye preestes & scribes, and he slayne and cyle agayn the thyrde daye.

And he sayd to them al, if any man wyl come after me, let hym deny hym self, and take vpon hym the crosse dayly and folow me. * For whosoever wyl save hym selfe shall lose it. But whosoever doeth lose hym selfe for my sake, the same shall save it. For what avauntageth it a man if he wyne the whole worlde, & lose hym selfe, or runne in damage of hym selfe? For * who so is ashamed of me, and of my wordes, of hym shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in hymselfe, and in the maiestye of hymselfe, and of the holy angels. I tell you of a truthe: * there be some standyng here which shal not tast of death tyll they se the kyngdome of God.

And it fortuneth that aboute an. viii. dayes after these saynges, he toke Peter and Jhon and James, and went vpon into a mountayn to praye. And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was chaunged, and hym garment was whyte, & shone. And beholde, there talked wyth hym two men, whych wer Moyses and Elias, & appeared in the maiestye, and spake of hym departyng, whych he should ende at Jerusalem. But Peter and they that were wyth hym, were heuy wyth slepe. And when they awoke they sawe his maiestye, and two men standyng wyth hym.

And it chaunced as they departed from hym, Peter sayde vnto Jesus: * After, it is good beyng here for vs. Let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for the, and one for Moyses, and one for Elias (and wylt not what he sayd.) Whyle he thus spake, ther came a cloude & ouersadowed them, and they feared when they wer come into the cloude. And ther came a voyce out of the cloude sayng: * This is my deare sonne, heare hym.

And as sone as the voyce was passe, Jesus was founde alone. And they kept it close: and told no man in those dayes, any of those thynges which they had sene. * And it chaunced that on the next daye (as they came doune from the hyll) muche people met hym. And beholde, a man of the company cryed out, sayng: Master, I beseech the, beholde my sonne, for he is all that I haue, and se a spyte taketh hym, and sodenly he cryeth, and he knocketh and teareth hym, that he someth agayn, and wyth much payne departeth fro hym when he hath rente hym, and * I besought thy dyscyples to cast hym out, and they coude not. Jesus answered and sayd: O fapthlesse and croked nacion, howe longe shal I be wyth you, and suffer you? Whyng thy sonne hyther. As he was yet accompyng, the fende rente hym, and tare hym. And Jesus rebuked the vncleane spyrite, and healed the chyld, and deliuered hym to hym father. * And they were al amazed at the myghty power of God.

But whyle they wondred euerye one at all thynges whyche he dyd, he sayd vnto hymselfe: Let these saynges syncke doune into your eares. For it wyl come to passe: that the sonne of man shal be deliuered into the handes of men. * But they wylt not what that word ment, and it was hyd from them, that they understode it not. And they feared to aske him of that sayng. And there entred a thought among them which of them should be the greatest. When Jesus perceaued the thought of they heartes, * he toke a chyld and set hym harde by hym, and sayde vnto them: Whosoever receaueth this chyld in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth hym that sente me. For he that is least among you all, the same shal be great.

And Jhon answered, and sayde: * After, we shal be one casting out deuils in thy name, and we forbad hym, because he foloweth not wyth vs. And Jesus sayd vnto hym: * forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is wyth vs.

And it fortuneth when the tyme was come, he should be receaued vpon, he set hymselfe to go to Jerusalem, and sente messengers before hym. And they wet and entred into a cytie of the Samaritanes, to make readye for hym. And they would not receaue hym, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem. When hymselfe disciples, James and Jhon sawe this, they said: * Lorde, wylt thou that we commaunde fyre to come doune from heauen and consume them, euil as * Elias dyd? Jesus turned about, and rebuked them, sayng: Ye wote not what maner spyte ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destroye mens lyues, but to save them. And they went to another toun. * And it chaunced that as they were walkyng in the waye, a certayne man sayde vnto hym: * I wyl folow the whetherloever thou wylt go. Jesus sayd vnto hym: foxes haue holes, and byrdes of the ayre haue nestes: but the sonne of man hath not wher to laye hymselfe.

And he sayd vnto another: folow me. And the same sayd: Lorde, suffre me firste to go and burie my father. Jesus sayd vnto hym: * Let the dead burye theyr dead: but go thou and preache the kyngdome of God. And another sayd: Lorde * I wyl folow the: but let me fyrt go by my father and wyfe, whyche are at home at my house. Jesus sayd vnto hym: No man that putteth hymselfe to the plowe, and loketh backe, is apte to the kyngdome of God.

The sender the. lxx. before hym to preache, graeth them a charge how to behaue them selues, prayeth his heauenly father, answereth the scribe that tempted hym, & (by the example of the Samaritane) sheweth who is a mans neyghbour. Martha receaueth the Lorde into her house, Mary Magdalene is diligent in hearyng his word.

After these thynges, the Lorde appoynted other. lxx. (and two) also and set the two & two before hym into euery cytie & place, whether he him self would come. Therefore he sayd vnto the: * The haruest is grete, but labourers are fewe. Praye ye therefore the Lorde of the haruest, to send forth labourers into his haruest, go your wayes. * Behold, I send you forth as labbers among wolues. Beare no wallet, nether scripp, nor shoes, & salute no man by the way. * Into whatsoeuer house ye enter, fyrt saye: Peace be to this house. And if the sonne

But whyle they wondred euerye one at all thynges whyche he dyd, he sayd vnto hymselfe: Let these saynges syncke doune into your eares. For it wyl come to passe: that the sonne of man shal be deliuered into the handes of men. * But they wylt not what that word ment, and it was hyd from them, that they understode it sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon hym: yf not, it shall turne to you agayn. And in the same house tary styll, eatyng and drynkynge such as they geue. For the labourer is worthy of his reward. ¶

¶ Sonot from house to house, and into whatsoeuer cytie ye entre, & they receaue you, eate such things as are set before you, & heale the synke yf are therein, and say vnto them: the kyngdome of God is come nye vpon you. ¶ But into whatsoeuer cytie ye enter, and they receaue you not, go your wayes out into the stretes of the same, and saye: euen the verye duste of your cytie (whyche cleaueth on vs) do we wypp of agaynst you. Not withstandyng, be ye sure of this, that the kyngdome of God was come nye vpon you. I saye vnto you: that it shalbe easer in that daye for Sodome, then for that cytie.

And the lxx. turned agayn with ioye, sayyng: Lorde, euen the verye deuils are subdued to vs thorow thy name. And he said vnto the: ¶ I saw Satan (as it had bene lyghtenyng) fallynge doune from heauen: Behold, I geue vnto you power to tread on serpentes and scorpions, and ouer al maner power of the enemy, and nothyng shal hurte you. Neuertheles in this reioyce not that yf spytes are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that your names are wyrtten in heauen.

¶ That same houre reioyled Iesus in: (the holy) goost, and sayd: I thanke the O father, ¶ Lorde, of heauen and earth, yf thou hast hyd these thynges from the wyse and pruden, and haste opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. ¶ All thynges are geuen me of my father. ¶ No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: and who the father is, but the sonne, and he to whom the sonne wyll shewe hym.

And he turned to his disciples, & said secretly: ¶ ¶ Happy are the eyes, whyche se the thynges that ye se. For I tell you, that many prophetes and kynges haue desyred to se those thynges, whyche ye se, and haue not sene them, & to heare those thynges whych ye heare, & haue not heard them. And beholde, a certayne lawyer stode vp and tempted hym, sayyng: ¶ Master, what shall I do, to inheret eternall lyfe? He sayd vnto hym: What is wyrtten in the lawe? Howe readeste thou? And he answered and sayde: ¶ Loue the Lorde thy God, wyth all thy herte, and wyth al thy soule, and wyth all thy strengthe, and wyth al thy mynde: and thy neyghboure as thy selfe. And he sayde vnto hym: Thou haste answered ryght. Thys do & thou shalt lyue. But he wyllyng to iustifye hym self, sayd vnto Iesus: And who is my neyghboure?

Iesus answered, and sayde: A certayne man descended from Ierusalem to Hierico, and fell amonge theues whyche robbed hym of hys rayment, and wounded hym, and departed, leuyng hym halfe deade. And it chaunced, that there came doune a certayne preaste that same waye, and when he sawe hym, he passed by. And lykewyle a Leuyte, when he wente nye to the place, came, and looked on hym, and passed by. But a certayne Samaritane, as he iourneyed, came vnto hym: and when he sawe hym, he had compassyō on hym, and went to, and bounde vpon hys woundes, and pozed in oyle and wyne, and set hym on hys owne beaste, and brought hym to a comen ynne, and made prouysyon for hym. And on the morowe, when he departed, he toke oute two pence, and gaue them to the host, and sayd vnto hym: Take cure of hym: and whatsoeuer thou spendest more, when I come agayn, I wyl recōpense the. Whyche now of these thre, thynkest thou, was neyghboure vnto hym that fell amonge the theues? And he sayde: he that shewed mercy on hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto hym: Go, and do thou lykewyle. ¶

¶ It fortuneth that as they wente, he entred into a certayne toun. And a certayne woman named Martha, receaued hym into her house. And thys woman had a sytter, called Marye, whyche also sat at Iesus fete, and hearde hys word. But Martha was combred about much seruyng, and stode and sayde: Lorde doest thou not care, that me sytter hath left me to serue alone? Wyd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha, Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled aboute many thynges, verelye one is nedefull. Marye hath cholen the good parte, whyche shall not be taken awaye from her. ¶

¶ He teacheth hys disciples to praye, dryueth oute a deuill, and rebuketh the blasphemous pharyses. They requyre sygnes and tokens. He eateth wyth the pharyses, and reproveth the pproctyse of the pharyses, scribes, and pproctyses.

¶ And it fortuneth as he was prayyng in a certayn place: when he cealed, one of his disciples sayd vnto hym: Lorde, teache vs to praye, as thou also taught hys disciples. And he said vnto the: When ye praye, saye: ¶ Ooure father whyche art in heauē, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyll be fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. Our daylye breade geue vs thys daye. And forgeue vs oure synnes. For euen we forgeue every man that trespasseth vs. And leade vs not into temptacion. But deliuer vs from euell.

And he sayd vnto them: ¶ ¶ Yf any of you shal haue a frynde, and shal go to hym at mydnyght and saye vnto hym: frynde, lend me thre loanes, for a frynde of myne is come out of the waye to me, and I haue nothyng to set before hym, and I saye vnto you: though he wyll not aryle, and geue hym: yet because of hys importuntye he wyll ryle, and geue hym as many as he nedeth. And I say vnto you: *aske, and it shalbe geuen you. Seke, and ye shall fynde. Knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For euery one that asketh, receaueth: and he that seeketh, fyndeth: and vnto hym that knocketh, shall it bee opened. Of the sonne that aske bzeade of any of you that is a father, wyll he geue hym a stone? Or yf he aske fyre, wyll he for fyre geue hym a serpente? Or yf he aske an egge, wyll he offer hym a scorpion? Yf ye then beyng euell, can geue good gyftes vnto your chyldren, howe muche moze shall your father of heauen geue the holy spyrite to the that desyre it of hym. I

I * And he was castyng oute a deuell, and the same was domme. And whē he had cast oute the deuell, the domme spake, and the people wōdred. But some of theim sayde: * he casteth oute deuells thozowe Belzebub the chefe of the deuells. And other tempted hym and requyred of hym a sygne from heauen. But he knowynge they thought, sayde vnto them: Euery kyngdome deuyded agaynst it selfe, is desolate: and one house doth fall vpon another. Yf Satan also be deuyded agaynst hym selfe, howe shall his kyngdome endure? Because ye saye, that I caste out deuells thozowe Belzebub. Yf I by the helpe of Belzebub cast out deuells, by whose helpe do your chyldren cast them out? Therfore shal they be your iudges. But yf I wyth the fynger of God cast out deuells, no doubt the kyngdome of God is come vpon you.

Mat. xii. c

When a stronge man armed, watcheth hys house, the thynges that he posselseth are in prace. But when a stronger then he cometh vpon hym and ouercometh hym, he taketh from hym all hys harnes (wherein he trusted) and deuyeth hys goodes. he that is not wyth me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not wyth me, scattereth abzoade.

When the vncleane spyrite is gone oute of a man, he walketh thzough drye places, seeking rest. And whē he fyndeth none, he sayeth: I wyll retorne agayne vnto my house; whence I came out. And when he cometh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. Then goeth he, & taketh to hym seven other spyrites worse then hym selfe, & they enter in and dwel there. And the ende of that mā is worse then the begynnynge.

And it fortuned, that as he spake these thynges, a certayne woman of the companie lyft vp her voyce, & said vnto hym: happy is y wombe that bare the, and the pappes whiche gaue the sucke. But he said: yee, happy are they that heare the worde of God, and kepe it. I

When the people were gathered thychetogether, he beganne to saye: This is an euell nacion, * they seke a sygne, and there shall no sygne be geuen them, but the sygne of Jonas the prophete. For as Jonas was a sygne to the Ap-ntuetes, so shall also the sonne of man be to this nacion. * The quene of the South shall ryle at the iudgement, wyth the mē of this nacion, and condemne them: for she came from the vtmost partes of the earthe, to heare the wysedome of Salomon. And behold, a greater then Salomon is here. The men of Ninive shall ryle at the iudgement wyth this nacion, and shall condemne them: for they were brought to repentaunce, by the preachyng of Jonas. And beholde a greater then Jonas is here.

I * A man lyghteth a candel, and putteth it in a pryncipe place, neyther vnder a bushell, but on a candellstych, that they whiche come in may see the lyght. * The lyght of the bodye, is the eye. Therfore when thyne eye is synple, all thy body shalbe full of lyght. But yf thyne eye be euell, thy body also shalbe full of darknes. Take hede therfore, that the lyght whiche is in the, be not darkenes. Yf all thy body therfore be cleare haupng no parte darke, then shall it all be ful of light, euen as when a candel doth light the with byghtnes. I

And as he spake, a certayn pharyse besought hym to dyne with hym, and Iesus wente in and sate doune to meate. When the pharyse sawe it, he marnayled, y he had not firste washed before dyner. And the Lorde said vnto hym: * How do ye pharyses, make cleane the outsyde of the cup and the platter, but your inward parte is ful of rauenynge and wyckednes. Ye fooles, dyd not he (that made that whiche is wythout) make that whiche is within also? Neuer thelesse, * geue al-mooste of that ye haue, and beholde all thynges are cleane vnto you. * But wō vnto you pharyses, for ye tyth mynte and rewe, and all maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgement and the loue of God. These ought ye to haue done, and yet not to leane the other vndone.

Wo vnto you pharyses: for ye loue the vppermoste seates in the synagoges, and greatyn-ges in the market. Wō vnto you scribes and pharyses: ye hypocrites, for ye are as graues whiche appere not, and the men that walke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the lawyers, and sayd vnto hym: Master thus sayng, thou puttest vsto rebuke also. And he sayde: * Wō vnto you also ye lawyers: for ye lade men with burthens, which they be not able to beare, and ye your selues touche not y packes wyth one of your fyngers. Wō vnto you, * ye buyld the sepulchres of the prophetes, and your fathers kylled the, trulye ye beare wytnes, that ye alowe the dedes of your fathers, for they kylled them, and ye buyld the sepulchres. Therfore sayde the wysedome of God: * I wyll sende them prophetes and Apostles, and some of the they shall slaye and persecute: that the bloude of all prophetes (which is shed frō the begynnynge of the world) maye be requyred of this generacion, from the bloude of * Abell, vnto the bloude of zachary, whiche perished betwene the altar and the temple. Verely I saye vnto you: it shalbe requyred of this nacion.

Wo vnto you lawyers: for ye haue taken a waye waye þe kepe of knowlage, ye entred not in your selues, and them that came in, ye forbad. When he thus spake vnto them, the lawyers and the pharisees beganne to waxe busye aboute hym, and capcyously to aske hym many thynges, layeng wayte for hym, and sekynge to catche some thyng oute of hys mouth, whereby they myght accuse hym.

The. xlii Chapter.

The leuen of the pharisees, Christ comforteth his disciples against persecution, warneth them to beware of couetousnes, by the similitude of a certayne ryche man, he will not haue the to hang vpon earthy thynges, but to watche, and to be readye agaynst his comynge.

And there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (in so much that they trode one another) he began vnto saie vnto hys disciples: Aware of all: beware of the leuen of the pharisees, whiche is hypocrysy. For there is no thyng couered, that shall not bee vncouered: neyther hyd that shall not bee knowen. For what thynges ye haue spoken in darknes shall be harde in the lychte. And that whiche ye haue spoken into the eare, euen in secrete places shall be preached on the toppe of the houses. I saye vnto you my frendes, be not afrayed of the that kyll the bodye, and after that haue nomore that they can do. But I wyll shewe you, whom ye shall feare: feare hym whiche after he hath kylled, hath power to caste into hell. Yee, I saye vnto you: feare hym. Are not fyue sparowes bought for two farthynges? And not one of the is forgotten of God. Also eue the very heeres of youre head are all nombred. Feare not therfore ye are more of value then many sparowes.

I saye vnto you: every one: whosoever confelleth me before men, hym shall the sonne of man knowe also before the angels of God. And he that denyeth me before men, shall be denyed before the angels of God. And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man it shall be forgiven hym. But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holye gooste, it shall not be forgiven. When they byng you vnto the synagoges, & vnto rulers, and offycers, take ye no thoughte howe, or what thyng ye shall answer, or what ye shall speake. For the holye goost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

One of the company sayd vnto hym: Master, speake to my brother, that he deuide the inheritaunce with me. And he sayd vnto hym: Ma, who made me a iudge or a deuyder ouer you? And he sayd vnto them take hede and beware of couetousnes. For no mans lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of thynges whiche he posselleth. And he put forth a similitude vnto the, sayng: The grounde of a certayne ryche man broughte forth plentiful frutes, & he thought within hym selfe, sayng: what shall I do because I haue no roume where to bestowe my frutes? And he said: Thus wyll I do. I wyll destroye my barnes, and buylde greater, and therein wyll I gather all my goodes that are growen vnto me, and I wyll saye o my soule: Soule thou hast much goodes layed vp in stoor for many yeares, take thyne ease, eat, drynke and be mery. But God sayd vnto him: Thou fool, this night wyl they fetch away thy soule agayn from the. Then whose shall those thynges be, whiche thou hast prouyded. So is it with hym that gathereth riches to hym selfe, and is not readye towarde God.

And he spake vnto hys disciples: Therfore I saye vnto you: Take no thoughte for youre lyfe, what ye shall eat: neyther for the bodye what ye shall put on. The lyfe is more then meat and the bodye is more then rayment. Consyder the rauens, for they nether sowe nor reape, which neyther haue stowe house nor barne, and God feedeth them. Howe muche are ye better then feathered foules?

Whiche of you (with his takynge thought) can adde to his stature one cubyte? If ye then be not able to do that thyng whiche is least: why take ye thought for the remnant? Consyder the lylies how they growe. They laboure not, they spynne not: and yet I say vnto you, that Salomon in all hys royaltee, was not clothed lyke one of these. If God so cloth the grasse (whiche is to daye in the felde, and to morowe is cast into the fornaice) howe muche more wyl he clothe you, O ye of lytle fapth? And aske not ye what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drynke, neyther clymme ye vp an hye: for all such thynges dooe the heathen people of the worlde seke for. Your father knoweth, that ye haue nede of such thynges. Wherefore seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and all these thynges shall be ministered vnto you. Feare not lytell focke, for it is youre fathers pleasure to geue you the kyngdome.

Sell that ye haue, and geue almes. And prepare you bagges, whiche waxe not olde, euen a treasure, that fayleth not in heauen, where no thefe cometh, neyther mothe corrupteth. For where youre treasure is, there wyl your hearte be also. Let you loynes be girded aboute, and youre lychtes brennyng (in youre handes,) and ye youre selues lyke vnto men, that wayte for the Lord, when he wyl retorne from the weddyng: that when he cometh and knocketh they maye open vnto hym immediatly. Happye are those seruauntes, whome the Lord (when he cometh) shall fynde wakynge. Verely I saye vnto you, that he shall gyde hym selfe, and make them to lytte doune to meate, and walke by, and mynster vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yee yf he come in the thyrde watche, and fynde them so, happye are those seruauntes. This vnderstande, that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre the thefe would come, he would surely watche, and not suffer hys house to be broken vp. Be ye therfore readye also, for the sonne of man wyl come at an houre when ye thynke not.

Peter sayde vnto hym: Master, tellest thou thys synplytude vnto vs, or to all men? And the Lord said: Who is a fapthfull and wise steward whome his lord shall make ruler ouer his household, to geue them theyr duety of meate in due season? Happye is that seruaunte, whome hys lord lozde when he cometh, shall fynde so doyng. Of a truthe I saye vnto you that he wyl make hym ruler ouer all that he hath. But and yf the seruaunte saye in his herte: * My lozde wyl deferre hys comyng (and shall begyn to smyte the seruauntes and maydens, and to eat and drynke and to bee drynken) the lozde of that seruaunte wyl come in a daye when he thynketh not, and at an houre, when he is not ware, and wyl he we hym in peres, and geue hym hys rewarde wyth the vnbeleuers.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Of the Galileans whom Hylate slewe, and of those that dyed in Sylloe. The similitude of the fygge tree. Christe healeth the sycke woman. The parable of the mustarde seede and leuen. Few entre into the kyngdom Christ reproveth Herode and Jerusalem.

Act. b There were present at the same season certayne menne that shewed hym of the Galyleans, whose bloude Hylate had myngled wyth theyr owne sacryfyce. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto the: Suppose ye that these Galileans wer greater synners then al the other Galileans, because they suffered suche punishment: I tel you naye: but except ye repent: ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe. Of those. xliii. vpon whiche the toure in Sylloe fel, and slewe them, thynke ye that they wer synners aboue all men that dwelt in Jerusalem: I tell you naye: But except ye repent ye shall all lyke wyse peryshe.

He tolde also this synplytude: a certayne man had a fygge tree planted in his vyneyard, and he came and sought frute theron, and found none. The sayde he to the dresser of hys vyneyard: beholde, this thre yere haue I come, and sought frute on this fygge tree, and fynde none: cutte it downe, why combyeth it the ground: and he answered and sayde vnto hym: Lozde, let it alone this yere also, tyll I digge rounde aboute it, and donge it, to se whether it wyl beare frute and yf it beare not then, after that shalt thou cut it downe. And he taught in one of theyr synagoges on the Sabboth dayes. And beholde, there was a woman which had a spyte of infymptye. xliii. yeres, and was bowed together and coulde in no wyse lyfte vp her heade. When Jesus sawe her, he called her to hym, and sayde vnto her: woman, thou arte deliuered from thy dyscase. And he layd his handes on her, and immediatly, she was made straght and glorified God. And the ruler of the synagoge answered wyth indignacion (because that Jesus had healed on the Sabboth daye) & sayde vnto the people: There are syxe dayes, in whiche men ought to worke, in them come that ye maye be healed, and not on the Sabboth daye.

But the Lozde answered hym and said: Thou hypocrite, doest not eche one of you on the Sabboth daye, * loose his oxe or hys asse fro the stall and leade hym to water: And ought not this doughter of Abraham, whome Nathan hath bounde (lo. xliii. yeres) he loosed fro this bonde on the Sabboth daye: And when he thus sayde, all hys aduersaries were ashamed, and all the people reioysed on all the excellent dedes that wer done by hym.

Then sayd he: what is the kyngdome of God lyke: or whereto shall I compare it: * It is like a grayne of mustarde seede whiche a man toke, & sowed in his garden: and it grew and waxed a great tre, and the foules of the ayre made nestes in the bzaunches of it.

And agayne he sayde, wherunto shall I liken the kyngdome of God: * It is lyke leuen, whiche a woman toke, and hyd in thre peckes of meele, tyll all was leuened. And he went throuwe all cyties and townes, teachyng and ioyneyng towards Jerusalem. Then sayde one vnto hym: Lozde, are there fewe that bee saved: And he sayde vnto hym: I saye to * enter in at the straght gate, for many (I saye vnto you) wyl seke to entre in, and shall not be able. When the good man of the house is rylen vp, and hath shut to the doze, and ye begynne to stande withoute, and to knocke at the doze, sayng: Lozde, open vnto vs, and he shall answer, and saye vnto you: (I knowe you not whence ye are) The shall ye begyn to say, we haue eaten & drynken in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our stretes. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe you you not whence ye are: depart from me all ye that worke iniquyte. There shalbe wepyng & gnasyng of teth, when ye shall see Abraham & Isaac, and Jacob, & all the prophetes in the kyngdom of God, & ye poure selues thrust out. * And they shall come from the east and from the west, and from the north and from the south and shal sit doune in the kyngdom of God. And beholde, *ther are last, whyche shalbe fyrst. And ther are fyrst, whyche shalbe last.

¶ The same day came there certayn of the pharises, & sayd vnto hym: get the out of the way and depart hēce: for Herode wyl kyl the. And he sayd vnto thē: Go ye and tel that fore, beholde, I cast out deuils, & heale the people, to day & to morow and the thyrdd day I make an ende. Neuertheles I must walke to daye & to morowe, and the day folowyn: for it can not be that a prophet perishe any other where, saue at Jerusalem.

¶ Jerusalem, Jerusalem, whych kyllest the prophetes, and stonest them that are sente vnto the: how oft would I haue gathered thy chyldren together, as a byrde doeth gather her yonge vnder her wynges, and ye woulde not? Beholde, poure habytacyn is lefte vnto you desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shal saye: *blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

¶ Jesus eateth with the pharyse, healeth the dropsye upon the Sabbath, teacheth to be lowlye, telleth of the greates supper, and warneth them that wyl folow hym to laye their accomptes befoze, what is wyl cost them, & the sale of the earth.

¶ And it chaunced, that he went into the house of one of the chiefe pharyses to eate bread on the Sabbath daye, and they watched him. And beholde, there was a certayn man befoze hym, whych had dropsye.

¶ And Jesus answered, and spake vnto the lawyers and pharyses, sayynge: *Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabbath day? And they held theyr peace. And he toke hym, and healed hym, and let hym go, and answered them, sayynge: Whych of you shall haue *an asse or an oxe falle into a pyt and wyl not strayght waye pull him out on the Sabbath daye? And they could not answer him agayn to these thynges.

¶ He put forth also a sympletyde to the gesses, when he marked how they pteased to the hyeste roumes, and sayde vnto them: When thou arte bydden of any man to a wedding, sit not doune in the hyest roume, leaste a moze honorable man then thou be bydde of hym, and he (that had hym and the) come, and saye to the: geue thys manne roume, and thou then begyn with shame to take the loweste roume. But rather when thou arte bydden, go & sit in the lowest roume: that when he that had the, commeth, he maye say vnto the:

*frende sit vpper. Then shalt thou haue worshyppe in the presence of them that sit at meate with the. * If or whosoener exalteth hym selfe, shalbe brought low. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shalbe exalted.

¶ Then sayde he also to hym, that had despyred hym to dyner: ✠ When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy brethren, neither thy kynsmen, nor thy ryche neyghbours: leaste they also byd the agayn, and a recompense be made the. But when thou makest a feast, call the poore, the feble, the lame, and the blynd, and thou shalt be happy, for they can not recompense the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the iuste men.

¶ Then sayd he vnto hym. ✠ A certayn man ordeyned a great supper, and had many, & sente his seruaunt at supper tyme, to say to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now readye. And they all at once began to make excuse. The first said vnto him: I haue bought a farme and I must nedes go and se it, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyue yokes of oxen, and I go to plow the, I praye the, haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue maryed a wyfe, & therefore I can not come. And the seruaunt returned and brought bys mayster worde agayn therof.

¶ Then was the good man of the house dyspleased, and sayd to his seruaunt: Go out quykly into the stretes and quarters of the cytie, and byrnyng in byther the poore, and the feble, and the halte, and the blynde. And the seruaunte sayde: Lorde, it is done, as thou hast commaunded, and yet there is roume. And the Lorde sayde to the seruaunt: Go out vnto the bye wayes & hedges and *compel the to come in, that my house may be fylled. For I saye vnto you, y none of those men which wer bydde, shal tast of my supper.

¶ Which of you disposed to buylde a toure, setteth not doune befoze, & counteth the cosse, whether he haue sufficient to perfourme it: lest after he hath layde the foundation, and is not able to perfourme it, al that beholde it, begyn to moche hym, sayynge: this man began to buyld, and was not able to make an ende. Or what king goynge to make battaile against another kyng, setteth not doune fyrst, and casteth in his mynde, whether he be able wyth ten thousande to mete hym that cometh agaynst hym wyth. xx. thousande? Or els whyle the other is yet a great way of, he sendeth ambassadours & despyreth peace. So like wise, whosoener he be of you, y forsaiketh not al that he hath, he can not be my discypple.

When resorted vnto hym *all the publicans and synners, for to heare him. And the Pharyses and scribes murmured, sayng: He receaueth synners and eateth wpth them. But he putte forth this parable vnto them, sayng: *What man of you hauyng an hundred shepe (yf he lose one of them) doth not leaue nyntie and nyne in the wylernes, and goeth after that whyche is lost vntill he fynde it? And when he hath founde it, he layeth it on his shulders wpth ioye. And alsoone as he cometh home, he calleth together his louers and neyghbours, sayng vnto them: Reioyce wpth me, for I haue found my shepe, whych was loste. I saye vnto you, that lyke wyle ioye shalbe in heauen, ouer one synner that repenteth more then ouer nyntie and nyne iuste persons, whiche nede no repentaunce. Ether what womā (hauyng ten grootes, yf she lose one) doeth not lyght a candell, and swepe the house and seke diligently tyll she fynde it? And when she hath founde it, she calleth her louers & her neyghbours together, sayng: Reioyce wpth me, for I haue founde the grote whych I had lost. And he sayd: A certayn man had two sonnes, and the yonger of them said vnto the father: Father, geue me the porcion of the goodes that to me belongeth. And he deuoyded vnto them his substance. And not longe after, when the yonger sonne had gathered al that he had together, he toke his iorney into a farre countre, & there he wasted his goodes wpth ryotous luyng. And when he had spent all, there arose a greete dearth in all that lande, and he beganne to lacke and went, and came to a cytezen of the same countrey, and he sent him to his farme, to kepe swine. And he would sayne haue fylled his belye wpth the coddys that the swyne dyd eate: and no man gaue it vnto hym.

When he came to hym selfe, and sayde: howe many hyzed seruautes, at my fathers haue bred ynough: and I perishe with hunger. I wyl arysle and go to my father, and wyl saye vnto hym: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen and before the, & am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne make me as one of thy hyzed seruautes. And he arose, and cam to his father. *But whē he was yet a greete wape of, his father sawe hym, and had compassyon and ranne, and fel on his necke and kyssed hym. And the sonne sayd vnto hym: father, I haue synned agaynst heauen, and in thy syght, and am nomore worthy to be called thy sonne. But the father sayde to his seruautes: bring forth the best garment, and put it on hym and put a ryng on his hande, and shoes on his fete. And bringyng hyther that fat calfe, and kyll it, and let vs eat and be mery: for this my sonne was dead, and is aloue agayne, he was lost and is found. And they began to be mery. The elder brother was in the felde: and when he came and drewe nye to the house, he heard mynstrelly and daunsyng, and called one of his seruautes, and asked, what those thynges mente. And he sayde: vnto him: thy brother is come, & thy father hath kyllled the fat calfe, because he hath receaued hym safe and sounde. And he was angry and woulde not go in. Then cam his father out, and entreated hym. He answered and sayd to his father: Lo these many yeres haue I done the scrupce, neyther brake at any tyme thy comaundement, and yet gauest thou me neuer a kyd to make merce wth my fryndes: but as sone as this thy sonne was come (whiche hath deuoured thy goodes & harlottes) thou haste for his pleasure kyllled the fat calfe. And he said vnto hym: Sone, thou art euer wth me, and al that I haue is thine: it was mete that we should make mery and be glad, for this thy brother was dead, and is aloue agayne: and was loste, and is founde. I

The. xvi. Chapter.

The parable of the wyched mammon. Not one title of Gods worde shall perishe. Of the ryche man, and of the poore Lazarus.

Ad he sayd also vnto his disciples: I There was also a certayn ryche mā, whiche had a steward, and the same was accused vnto hym & he had wasted his goodes. And he called hym, and sayde vnto hym: Howe is it, that I heare this of thee? Geue accomptes of thy stewardshippe. For thou mayest be no longer steward. The steward said wpthin hym selfe: What shall I do? for my master taketh awaye from me the stewardshippe. I cannot bygge, & to begge I am ashamed. I wote what to do, & when I am put out of my stewardshippe, they may receaue me in to theyr houses.

So when he had called all his masters detters together he sayd vnto the first: howe muche owest thou vnto my master? And he sayde: an hundred tonnes of oyle. And he sayd vnto hym: take thy byll, and syt doune quickly, and wyte syftie. Then sayde he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he sayde: an hundred quarters of wheate. He sayde vnto hym: Take thy byll, & wyte foure scoore. And the Lorde commended the vniuste steward, because he had done wysely. For the chyldren of this worlde are in theyr nacyon, wyser then the chyldren of lyght. And I say vnto you: make you frendes of the vnyghteous Mammon, that when ye shall haue nede, they may receaue you into euerlastyng habitacions. I he that is saythfull in that whyche is least, is saythfull also in much. And he that is vnyghteous in the least: is vnyghteous also in muche. So then yf ye haue not bene saythfull in the vnyghteous Mammon, who wyl beleue you in that whyche is true? And yf ye haue not bene saythfull in another mannes busynes, who shall geue you that whych is youre owne? *No man. seruaunt can serue two masters: for ether he shall hate the one, and loue the other, or elles he shall leane to the one, and despise the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

All these thynges hearde the pharysies also, whiche were coueteous, and thei mocked hym. And he saied vnto theim: Ye are thei whiche iustifie your selues befoze menne: but God knoweth your heartes. For that whiche is highly esteemed among menne, is abhominable in the sight of God. I The lawe and the prophetes ragged vntill Iohn, and sence that tyme, the kyngdome of God is preached, and euery manne stryngeth to go in. *Easier it is for heauen and earth to perishe then one tittle of y^e law to faile. *Whosouer forsaketh his wife, and marieth another, committeth aduoutre. And he whiche marieth her that is deuorced from her husbände, committeth aduoutre also.

There was a certain riche manne, whiche was clothed in purple and fyne whyte, and fared deliciously euery daye. And there was a certain begger, named Lazarus, whiche laye at his gate full of sores, desiring to bee refreshed with the cromes, whiche fell from the riche mannes boorde. (and no manne gaue vnto hym.) The dogges came also, and licked his sores. And it fortuned, that the begger dyed, and was caried by the angels into Abrahams bosome. The riche manne also dyed, and was buryed.

And beeyng in hell tormentes, he lifte vp his eyes, and sawe Abraham afarre of, and Lazarus in his bosome, and he cryed and saied: father Abraham, haue mercy on me, and sende Lazarus, that he maie dippe the tippe of his fynger in water, and coule my toungue: for I am tormented in this flame. But Abraham saied, soonne remember that thou in thy life tyme receiuest thy pleasure, and contrarywyse, Lazarus receiued payne. But now is he comforted, and thou art punished. Beyond all this, betwene vs and you there is a great space set, so that thei whiche woulde goo from hence to you, cannot: neither maye come from thence to vs.

Then he saied: I praye thee therefore father, send hym to my fathers house. (For I haue five bryethen) for to warne theim, lest thei also come into this place of torment. Abraham saied vnto hym: they haue Moyses and the prophetes, lette thei heare theim. And he saied: naie father Abraham, but if one come vnto theim from the dedde thei will rep^r. He saied vnto hym: If thei heare not Moyses and the prophetes, neither will they beleue though on rose from death again. I

The. xviij. Chapter.

Chryste teacheth his disciples to auoyde occasions of euill, one to forgeue another, stedfastly to truste in God, and no manne to presume in his owne woordes. He healeth the tenne lepers, speaketh of the latter dayes and of the ende of the worlde.

He saied vnto the disciples: it can not bee, but offences will come. Neuertheles, *woe vnto hym through whō thei come. It were better for hym, that a mylstone were hanged aboute his necke, & be cast into y^e sea, then that he should offende one of these litle ones. Take hede to your selues. * If thy b^rother trespass against thee, rebuke hym: and if he repente, forgeue hym. And though he synne agaynst thee seuen tymes in a daye, and seuen tymes in a daye turne again to thee, sayyng: it repenteth me, thou shalt forgeue hym.

And the Apostles saied vnto the Lorde: increase oure faith. And the Lorde saied: * If ye had faith like a grayne of mustarde seede, and shoulde saye vnto this Syrcampne tree: plucke thy self vp by the rootes: and plante thy self in the sea, it shoulde obeye you. Who is it of you, if he had a seruaunte plowynge or fedynge catell, that will saie vnto hym when he cometh from the felde: God quickly, and sitte doune at meate and saiethe not rather vnto hym: Mylle, where with I maye suppe, and gyde by thy selfe, and serue me, till I haue eaten and droncken: and afterwarde eate thou, and dryncke thou? Dooeth he thanke that seruaunt, because he did the thynges that were commaunded hym? I trowe not. So lyke wyse ye, when ye haue dooen all those thynges whiche are commaunded you, saye: we are vnprofitable seruauntes. We haue dooen that whiche was our duty to dooe.

And it chaunced as he wente to Hierusalem, that he passed through Samaria and Galilee. And as he entred into a certain tounne, there mette hym tenne menne that were lepers. Whiche stode a farre of, and putte forth their voices, and saied: Jesu master, haue mercy on vs. When he sawe theim, he saied vnto theim: * Goo the waye your selues vnto y^e priestes. And it came to pass as thei went, thei wer censed. And one of thei, when he sawe that he was censed, turned backe again, and with a loude voyce praised God and fell doune on his face at his fete, and gaue hym thākes. And the same was a Samaritane. And Jesus answered, and saied, are there not tenne censed? But where are those nyne? There are not founde that returned agayne, to geue God prayse, saue onely this stranger. And he sayed vnto hym: aryle, goo thy waye, thy faith hath made thee whole. I

When he was demaunded of the pharysies, when the kyngdom of God shoulde come, he answered theim, and sayed: The kyngdome of God shall not come with waytynge for, neither shall thei saie: Lo here, or lo there. For beholde, y^e kyngdom of God is within you. And he saied vnto the disciples: the daies will come, when ye shall desire to see one daye of the soonne of mane and ye shall not see it. * And thei shall saie to you See here, See there. Goo not after theim, nor foloe theim: for as the lightenyng that appeareth oute of the one parte that is vnder heauen, and shyneth vnto the other parte whiche is vnder heauen, so shall the soonne of manne bee in his dayes. * But first must he suffre many thynges and bee refused of this nation.

And as it happened in the dayes of Noe: so shall it bee also in y^e dayes of the soonne of mane. Thei did eate and drynke, they married wyues and were married, euen vnto that same date that Noe wente into the Arke: and the floude came, and destroyed theim all. And he broughte vnto hym also young chyl-

 (when he had called them vnto hym) saied: Suffre chyl dren to come vnto me, and forbyd theim not. For of suche is the kyngdome of God. Nerely I saie vnto you: whosoever receiueth not þ kyngdome of God * as a chylde, shall not entre therein. * And a certain ruler asked him, sayyng: Good master: what oughte I to dooe, to obtain eternal life? Jesus saied vnto hym: Why callest thou me good? None is good, saue God onely.

Thou knowest the the commaundementes:
 * Thou shalt not committe aduoutrye, thou shalt not kyll, thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false witness, honoure thy father and thy mother. And he saied: all these haue I kepte from my youth vp. When Jesus hearde that, he saied vnto hym: Yet thou lackest one thyng.
 * Sell all that thou hast and distribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen and come foloe me. When he heard this, he was sozpy for he was very riche.

When Jesus sawe that he was sozpy, he saied:
 * with what difficultie shall thei that haue money, entre into the kyngdome of God? it is easier for a camell to goo through a nedles eye, then for a riche manne to entre into the kyngdome of God. And thei that heard it, saied: And who can the bee saued? And he saied: * The thynges whiche are vnpossible with menne, are possible with God. Then Peter saied: * Lo, wee haue forsake all and folowed thee. He saied vnto theim: Verely I saie vnto you: there is no manue that hath forsaken house, ether father oz mother, ether brethren, oz wyfe oz chyl dren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) whiche shall not receiue muche moze in this worlde, and in the worlde to come, life euer lastyng.

Jesus toke vnto him the twelue, and saied vnto theim: * Beholde wee goo vp to Hierusale and all shall be fulfilled, that are written by the prophetes of the soonne of manne. For he shall be deliuered vnto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked and spitefully entreated, and spitted on: and when thei haue scourged hym, thei will put hym to death. * And þ thirde daye he shall arise again.
 * And thei vnderstode none of these thynges.
 And this sayyng was hid fro theim, so that they perceiued not the thynges whiche were spoken.

And it came to passe, that as he was come nye vnto Hierico, a certain blynde manne satte by the waye syde beggynyng. And when he heard þ people passe by, he asked what it meante. And they saied vnto hym: that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayyng: Jesu thou soone of Dauid, haue mercye on me. And thei whiche wente before, rebuked hym, that he should holde his peace. But he cried so muche the moze: * thou soonne of Dauid haue mercy on me. And Jesus stode still, and commaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And whē he was come nere, he asked hym sayyng: what wilt thou that I dooe vnto thee? And he saied: Lozde, that I maye receiue my sighte: And Jesus saied vnto hym receiue thy syghte: thy faith hath saued thee. And ymmediately he receiued his sight, and folowed hym prayyng God. And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue prayse vnto God. ✠

The. xix. Chapter. ✠

Of zacheus, and the tenne seruantes, to whom the talentes wer deliuered. Christ rideth to Hierusalem, and wepeth ouer it.

And he entered in, & went through Hierico. And beholde there was a māne named zacheus, whiche was a ruler among the Publicans, and was riche also. And he sought meane to see Iesus what he shoulde bee: and coulde not for the pteasse because he was litle of stature. And he ranne before, and climed vp into a wild figge tree, to see hym for he was to come that waye. And when Iesus was come to the place, he looked vp and sawe hym, and saied vnto hym zache, come doune atonce for to daye I must abyde at thy house. And he came doune hastely: and receiued hym ioyfully. And when thei saw it, thei all grudged, sayng: He is gone in, to tarrye with a manne that is a synner. And zache rode forthe, and saied vnto the Lorde: beholde Lorde, the halfe of my goodes I geue to þ poore and if I haue dooen any māne wrong, I restore hym foure folde. Iesus saied vnto hym: this day is healte happened vnto this house, because that he also is become the chyld of Abraham. For the sonne of manne is come to seke, and to saue that whiche was losse. ✠

And as thei heard these thynges he added ther to a parable, because he was nie to Hierusalem, and because thei thought, that the kyngdome of God shoulde shortly appeare. He saied therfore ✠ a certain noble manne wente into a farre countree, to receiue hym a kyngdome, and to come again. And he called his tenne seruantes and deliuered thei tenne ponde, sayng vnto thei: Occupie till I come. But his citezens hated hym, and sente a message after hym, sayng: We will not haue this manne to raigne ouer vs.

And it came to passe, that when he had receiued his kyngdome, he returned and commaunded these seruantes to bee called vnto hym (to whom he had geuen þ money) to wit how muche every manne had dooen. Then came the first, sayng Lorde, thy ponde hath gayned tenne poud. And he saied vnto hym: Well thou good seruante: because thou haste been faithfull in a verpe litle thyng, haue thou auctoritee ouer ten citees. And another came sayng: Lorde, thy ponde hath made fise ponde. And to the same he saied bee thou also ruler ouer fise citees.

And another came sayng: Lorde, behold here is thy ponde, whiche I haue kepte in a napkyn for I feared thee, because thou arte a straighe manne: thou takeste vp that thou laydest not doune, and reapest that thou diddest not sowe. He saied vnto hym: Of thyne owne mouth, will I iudge thee, thou euill seruant. Knewest thou that I am a straighe manne, takyng vp þ flaid not doune and repyng that I did not sowe. And wherefore gauest not thou my money into the bancke, and at my commyng I might haue required myne owne with vauntage?

And he saied vnto thei that stode by: take frō hym that ponde, and geue it hym that hath tenne ponde. And thei saied vnto hym: Lorde, he hath tenne ponde. For I saie vnto you, that ✠ vnto euery one whiche hath halfe geuen (and he shall haue aboundance) and from hym that hath not halfe taken awaye, euen that whiche he hath. Moze ouer, those myne enemies, (whiche would not that I should raigne ouer thei) byyng better, and slee thei before me. ✠ And when he had thus spoken, he proceeded forthe, takyng his iourney, to goo vp to Hierusalem. ✠

And it fortuned when he was come nye to Bethphage and Bethany, besides the mount whiche is called Oliuet, he sente two of his disciples, sayng: goo ye into the towne, whiche is ouer agaynst you into the whiche, as lone as ye are come, ye shall fynde an asses colte tied, wher on yet neuer manne satte. Loose him, and byyng hym better. And if any manne aske you, why dooe ye loose hym: thus shall ye saie vnto hym The Lorde hath nede thereof.

Thei that were sente, wente their waie and founde euen as he had saied vnto thei. And as thei were a losyng the colte the owners thereof saied vnto thei: why loose ye the colte? And thei saied for the Lorde hath nede of hym. And thei brought hym to Iesus, and caste their raimente on the colte, and set Iesus thereon. And as he wente, thei spredde their clothes in the waye. ✠

And when he was now come nye to the gooyng doune of the mount Oliuet, þ whole multitude of the disciples beganne to reioyse, and to prayse God with a loude voyce for all the miracles that thei had sene, sayng: ✠ blessed bee the kyng that cometh in the name of the Lorde: peace in heauen, and glory in the hiest. And some of the pharises of the compaignie saied vnto him Master rebuke thy disciples. He saied vnto thei I tell you, that if these holde their peace, ✠ then shall the stones crye.

✠ And when he was come nere, he beheld the citee, and wepte on it sayng: If thou haddest knownen those thynges whiche belong vnto thy peace, euen in this thy daye, thou wouldest take hede. But now are thei hid from thine eyes. For þ daies shall come vnto thee, ✠ that thy enemies also shall cast a banke aboute thee, and compass thee rounde, and kepte the on every side & make thee euen with the grounde & thy chyldren whiche are in thee. And ✠ thei shall not leaue in thee one stone vpon another because thou knowest not the tyme of thy visitacion. ✠ And he wente into the temple, and beganne to caste out thei that solde therein, and thei that bought, sayng vnto thei: It is writtē ✠ my house is the house of praiser: but ye haue made it a denne of theues. And he taughte daily in the temple. ✠ But the hye preestes and the scribes and the chief of the people wente aboute to destroye hym: and coulde not fynd what to dooe. For all the people sticke by hym when thei hearde hym.

the scribes came together with the elders, and spake vnto hym sayng: * Tell vs by what auctorite doest thou these thynges? Ether who is he that geue thee this auctoritee? Iesus answered and sayed vnto theim, I also will aske you one thyng, and answer me. The baptyme of Ihon: was it from heauen or of menne. And thei thought within theim selues, sayng: If we saie from heauen, he will saie: why then beleue ye hym not? But and if wee saie of menne, all the people will stone vs. For they bee perswaded, that Ihon is a prophete. And thei answered that they could not tell whence it was. And Iesus saied vnto theim: nether tell I you by what auctoritee I dooe these thynges. mat. xxi. c. mark. xi. d

B Then beganne he to putte forth to the people this parable. * A certain manne planted a vineyarde, and lette it forth to housband menne, and wente hym selfe into a straunge countree for a greate season. And when the tyme was come he sente a seruaunte to the housbandemen, that they shoulde geue hym of the frute of the vineyarde. And thei bette hym, and sente hym awaye emptye. And agayne he sente yet another seruaunte. And hym thei did beate, and entreated hym shamefully, and sent hym awaye empty. And again he sente the thirde also, and hym thei wounded, and caste hym out. Then saied the Lorde of the vineyarde: what shall I dooe? I will sende my deare sonne peradventure thei will stande in awe of hym: when thei see hym. mat. xxi. d mark. xii. a luke. x. c. gene. ix. c. dier. vii. c.

C But when the husbandemen sawe hym, they thought within theim selues, sayng: this is the heyze, * come lette vs kyll hym, that the inheritance maye bee oures. And thei caste hym oute of the vineyarde, and kylled hym. What shall the Lorde of the vineyarde therefore dooe vnto theim? He shall come and destroye these housbandemen, and shall lette out his vineyarde to other. When they hearde this, they saied: God forbid. And he behelde theim, and saied: what is this then that is written: * the stone that the buyl ders refused, the same is become the hedde of the corner? Whosoener dooeth stonble vpon that stone, shalbe broken: but on whom soener it falleth, it will grynde hym to powder. And the hye preeffes and the scribes the same houre wente aboute to laye handes on hym. * And thei feared the people. For thei perceiued that he had spoke this similitude against theim. Ihon. iii. b rom. viii. a Gala. iiii. a ge. xxi. c. mat. xxi. d mark. xi. a

D And thei watched hym, and sente forth spies whiche shoulde sayne theim selues righteous menne, * to take hym in his woordes, and to deliuer hym vnto the power and auctorite of the depute. And thei asked him, sayng. Master, we knowe that thou saieste and teachest righte, nether considerest thou the outwarde apperaunce of any manne, but teachest the waie of God truly. Is it lawfull for vs to geue tribute vnto Cesar, or no? He perceiued their craftines, and saied vnto theim: * Why tempte ye me? Shewe me a peny, whose ymage and superscripcion hath it? Thei answered and saied: Cesars. And he saied vnto theim: geue then vnto Cesar, the thynges whiche bee long vnto Cesar, and to God þe thynges that pertain vnto God. And thei could not reprove his sayng befoze þe people: and thei marvelled at his answer, and helde their peace. mat. xxi. c. mark. xi. d luke. xix. g

E Then came to hym certain of the Saducees, whiche denie that there is any resurrection. And thei asked hym sayng: * Master Moyses wrote vnto vs, if any mannes brother dye having a wife, and he dye without children, that then his brother shoulde take his wife, and raple vp seede vnto his brother. There were therefore seven brethren, and the firste tooke a wife, and dyed without children. And the seconde toke her and in like wyse the residue of the seven, and lette no chyliden behynde theim, and died. Last of all the woman died also. Now in the resurrection, whose wife of theim shall she bee? For seven had her to wife. Iesus answered and saied vnto thei: The chyliden of this worlde marie wiues, and are maried: but thei whiche shalbee counted for woorthy of that worlde and the resurrection from the dedde, dooe not marie wiues, nether are married, nor yet can die any moze, for thei are equall vnto the angels, and are the sonnes of God, in as muche as thei are chyliden of the resurrection. And that the dedde shall rise again: Moyses also sheweth besides the bushe: when he calleth, the Lorde, the God of Abraham & the God of Isaac and the God of Jacob. For he is not a God of dedde, but liuyng. For all liue vnto hym. Then certain of the pharises answered, and saied: Master, thou haste well saied. And after that durste thei not aske hym any question at all. mat. xxi. c. mark. xi. d luke. xix. g

G And he saied vnto theim: * how saie thei that Christ is Dauides sonne? And Dauid hymself saith in the booke of the Psalmes: * The Lorde saied vnto my Lorde: sitte thou on my ryghte hande till I make thyne enemies thy foote stole Dauid therefore calleth hym Lorde: and howe is he then his sonne? Then in the audience of all the people, he saied vnto his disciples: * beware of the scribes, whiche will goo in long clothyng: and loue gretynge in the markettes, & the chief seates in the sinagoges, and the chief roumes at feastes, whiche deuoure widowes houses saynyng long prayers: the same shall receiue greater dampnacion. mat. xxi. c. mark. xi. d luke. xix. g

The xxi. Chapter.

Christe commendeth the poore widow: telleth of the destruction of Hierusalem, of false teachers, of the tokens and troubles for to come, of the ende of the worlde, and of his owne comyng.

A he behelde, * he sawe the ryche menne, whiche caste in their offerynge into the treasury. He saw also a certain poore widow whiche caste in thether twoo mites. And he saied, of a truth I saie vnto you, * that this poore widow hath putte in moze the thei all. For thei all haue of their superfluite added vnto the offerynge of God: but she of her penyury hath cast in all the substance that she had. mat. xxi. c. mark. xi. d luke. xix. g

B And vnto some that spake of the temple how it was garnished with goodly stones and Jewels, he saied: * The daies will come in þe which of mat. xxi. c.

(of these thynges whiche yee see) there shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwen doune. And thei asked hym sayng master, when shall these thynges be, and what sygne will there be when suche thynges shall come to passe? And he saied: take hede, that ye be not deceiued. For manye shall come in my name, and saie thei are Christ: and that time draweth nere. For ye here of warres and seditions be not affraid. For these thynges muste firste come to passe, but the ende foloweth not by and by. Then saied he vnto theim: Nacion shall ryle against nacion and kingdom, against kingdom, & great earthquakes shall be in all places, and hunger, and pestilence and fearfull thynges. And greatesynges shall there be from heauen.

But before all these, thei shall late handes on you, and persecute you, deliuering you vp to the synagoges & into prison, and shall byng you vnto kynges & rulers for my names sake: And this shall chaunce you for a testimoniall. Bee at a sure poynte therefore in your heartes, not to fayne before, what ye shall answer: for I will geue you a mouth and wisdom, wher against, all your aduersaries shall not be able to speake nor resist. Whoeuer ye shal be betrayed of your fathers and mothers and brethren, and kynskolke and frendes, and some of you shall thei putte to death. And hated shal ye be of all menne for my names sake and there shal not one heare of your heade perishe, possesse your soule by patience.

* And when ye see Hierusalem besieged with an hoste, then be sure that the desolacion of the same is nie. Then lette them whiche are in Jewrye, flic to the mountaignes. And lette them whiche are in the midst of it, departe out. And lette not them that are in other countres, entre therein. For these be the dayes of vengeance, that all thynges whiche are written maye be fulfilled. But wo vnto thei that be with child and to them that geue sucke in those dayes: for there shal be greates trouble in the lande, & and wraethe ouer all this people. And thei shall fall throught the edge of the swerde, and shal be led awaye captiue into all nations. And Hierusalem shall be troden doune for the Gentiles, vntill the tyme of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

* And there shal be synges in the sunne, and in the moone, and in the starres: and in the earth the people shal be at their wittes ende, throught dispaire. The sea and the water shall roare, and mennes heartes shall fayle them for feare, and for lokyng after those thynges whiche shall come on earth. For the powers of heauen shall moue. And then shall thei see the sonne of manne come in a cloude with power and greates glory. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and lifte vp your beddes for your redemption draweth nie.

* And he shewed them a similitude: beholde the sygge tree, and all the trees when thei shorte forth thei budbes yee see and knowe of youre owne selues that sommer is then nye at hande. So likewise also (wher ye see these thynges come to passe) be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nie. Merely I saie vnto you: this generacion shal not passe, till all be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shall passe but my wordes shall not passe.

* Take hede to your selues lest at any tyme your heartes be overcome with surfettyng and drowkenes and cares of this life, and so the date come vpon you vnwares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth: watche ye therefore continually, and praye, that ye maye escape all these thynges that shall come, and that ye maye stande before the sonne of manne. In y date tyme, he taught in the temple: and at night, he wente out, and abode in the mounte that is called Oliuet. And all the people came in the moorning to hym into the temple, for to heare hym.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Christe is betrayed. Thei ate the Easter lambe. The institution of the sacramente. Thei scine two shalbe greater, he reprooueth them. He prayeth three times vpon the mounte. Thei take hym and byng hym to the hye prestes house. Peter denieth hym thre, and thei byng hym before the counsaill.

For the feaste of swete brede draweth nye whiche is called Easter, and the hye prestes & scribes sought howe they mighte kyll hym, for thei feared the people: * Then entered Sathan into Judas, whose sir name was Iscariot (whiche was of the nombre of the twelue) and he wet his waye, and communed with the hye prestes and officers, howe he mighte betraye hym vnto them. And thei were glad, and promised to geue hym money. And he consented, and sought oportunitie to betraye hym vnto them: when the people were a waye.

* Then came the daye of swete brede, when of necessitee Pasceouer muste be offered. And he sent Peter and Ihs, sayng: go & prepare vs the Pasceouer, that we maye eate. They sayde vnto hym: Where wylte thou, & we prepare? And he sayde vnto them: Beholde, when ye enter in to the cyter, ther shall a man mete you, bearyng a pytcher of water, hym folow into the same house that he entreteth in, and ye shall saye vnto the good man of the house: The master sayeth vnto the: where is the gyste chamber, where I shall eate Pasceouer with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greates parloure paved. There make readye. And they wente and founde as he had sayde vnto them, and they made readye the Pasceouer.

* And wher the houre was come, he late doune and the twelue Apostles wyth hym. And he sayde vnto them: I haue inwardlye desyred to eate this Pasceouer wyth you, before that I suffre. For I saie vnto you: henceforth I wyl not eate of it any moze, vntill it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cup, and gaue thankes and sayd: Take this, and deuyde it amonge you. For I saie vnto you: I wyl not drynke of the frute of the vyne, vntill the kyngdome of God come.

sayng. This is my bodye, whiche is geuen for you. This dooe in the remembrance of me. Like wise also when he had supped, he toke the cuppe sayng: This cuppe is the newe testament in my bloodde, whiche is shed for you. Yet beholde the hande of hym that betrayeth me, is with me on the table. And truly the soonne of manne gooeth as it is appoynted: But woo vnto that manne by whom he is betrayed. And they began to en- quyre among them selues, whiche of them it was, that should dooe it.

And there was a strife among them, whiche of them should seme to bee the greateste. And he saied vnto them: the kynges of nacions raigne ouer them: and they that haue auctoritee vpon them are called gracious Lordes. But ye shall not bee so. * But he that is greateste among you, shalbe as the younger: and he that is chief, shalbe as he that dooth minister. For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meate? Or he that serueth? Is not he that sitteth at meate? But I am among you, as he that ministereth. Ye are they whiche haue bydden with me in my temptacions. And I appoynt vnto you a kyngdome, as my father hath appointed to me: that ye may eate and dryncke at my table in my kyngdome, and sitte on seates, iudgyng the twelue trybes of Israell. And the Lorde saied: Simon, Simon, beholde: Sathan hath desired to lifte you, as it were wheate: but I haue prayed for thee that thy faith faile not. And when thou art conuerted, strength thy brethren. And he saied vnto hym: * Lorde I am ready to goo with thee into prisone, and to deathe. And he saied: I tell thee Peter, thy cocke shall not crowe this date, till thou hast thrise denyed that thou knowest me.

And he saied vnto them: * When I sente you without wallet and scrippe and shooes lacked ye any thyng? And they saied, no: Then he saied vnto them: but now he that hath a wallet, lette hym take it vp, and lyke wyse his scrippe. And he that hath no swearde, lette hym sell his coote, and buye one. For I saie vnto you, that yet the same whiche is written, muste bee perfourmed in me: * even among the wicked was he reputed.

For those thynges whiche are written of me haue an ende. And they saied: Lorde, beholde, here are twoo swerdes. And he saied vnto they: it is ynough. * And he came oute, and wente (as he was wont) to mounte Olinet. And the disciples folowed hym. And when he came to the place he saied vnto them: * praise, leasse ye fall into temptacion. And he gatte hym self from them, aboute a stones castte, and knelled downe, and prayed sayng: Father if thou wilt, remoue this cuppe from me. Neuerthelesse, * not my will, but thyne bee fulfilled. And there appeared an angell vnto hym from heauen, confortyng hym.

And he was in agonye, and prayed the longer. And his sweate was like droppes of bloodde, trickelyng downe to the grounde. And when he rose vp from praiser and was come to his disciples, he found them slepyng for heuenesse, & saied vnto them why slepe ye? Rise, and praise, leasse ye fall into temptacion.

* While he yet spake: beholde, there came a compaignie, and he that was called Judas one of the twelue, wente befoze them, and pressed nie vnto Iesus, to kisse hym. But Iesus saied vnto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the soonne of manne with a kisse? When they whiche were aboute hym sawe what would be folow, they saied vnto hym: Lorde, shall we smite with swerdes? * And one of them smote a scruaunte of the hye preeste, and stroke of his righte eare. Iesus answered and saied: suffre ye thus farre forth. And when he touched his eare, he healed hym.

Then Iesus saied vnto the hye preestes and rulers of the temple and the elders whiche were come to hym. Ye bee come out, as vnto a thefe with swerdes and staves. When I was dailely with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes against me. But this is euen your verie houre, and the power of darknesse. Then toke they hym and led hym, and broughte hym to the hye preestes house. But Peter folowed a farre of. And when they had kyndeled a fyre in the middes of the palace, and were sette doune to gether, * Peter also sat doune among they. But when one of the whiche behelde hym, as he satte by the fire (and looked vpon hym) he saied: this same felow was also with hym. * And he denied hym sayng: woman I knowe hym not. And after a litle whyle another sawe hym, and saied: thou art also of them. And Peter saied: manne, I am not.

And aboute the space of an houre after, another affirmed, sayng: verely this felow was with hym also, for he is of Galile. And Peter sayed manne I wote not what thou saiest. And immediately whyle he yet spake, the cocke crowe. And the Lorde turned backe, and looked vpon Peter. * And Peter remembred the woordes of the Lorde how he saied vnto hym: befoze the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thrise. And Peter wente oute and wepte bitterly.

And the menne that toke Iesus mocked hym and smote hym: and when they had blyndfolded hym, they stroke hym on the face, and asked hym, sayng: arede, who is it that smote thee. And many other thynges dispitefully saied they against hym. And as sone as it was dape, the elders of the people and the hye preestes and the scribes came together, & led hym into their counsaill, sayng: art thou verie Christe tell vs? And he saied vnto them: if I tell you, ye will not beleue. And if I aske you, ye will not answer me, not lette me goo. * Hereafter shall the soonne of manne sitte on the righte hande of the power of God. Then saied they all: arte thou then the soonne of God? He saied, ye saie that I am. And they sayed * what nede wee any further witness? For wee oure selues haue hearde of his owne mouth.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Iesus is broughte befoze Pilate and Herode. The women make lamentacion for hym. He prayeth for his enemies, forgueyth the thefe vpon his righte hande, and dyeth on the crosse, and is buryed.

And the whole multitude of them arose and led hym vnto Pilate. And they beganne to accuse hym, sayng: wee founde this this feloe peruerting p people, and forbydding to pay tribute to Cesar: sayng that he is Christ a kyng. And Pilate apposed hym, sayng. Arte thou the kyng of the Jewes? he answered hym and saied: thou saiest it. Then sayed Pilate to p hie prestes, and to the people: I finde no faulte in this mane. And thei wer the more fearce sayng. he moueth the people, teachyng throughout all Jewry, and began at Galile, euen to this place. When Pilate hadde mencion of Galile he asked whether the manne were of Galile. And as sone as he knewe that he belonged vnto * Herodes iurisdiction, he sente hym to herode whiche was also at Hierusalem at that tyme.

And when Herode sawe Iesus he was exauoyng glad. For he was desirous to see hym of a long season, because he had hearde many thynges of hym, and he trusted to haue sene some miracle dooen by hym. Then he questioned wyth hym many wordes. But he answered hym nothyng. The hie prestes and scribes, stode forth and accused hym straightely. And Herode with his menne of warre, despised him: & when he had mocked hym, he araped hym in white clothynge, and sente hym again to Pilate. * And the same daye Pilate and Herode were made frendes together: For before they were at varyaunce.

And Pilate called together p hie prestes and p people, and saied vnto them: ye haue broughte this manne vnto me as one that peruerteth the people. And beholde, I examyn hym before you & finde no faulte in this manne, of those thynges whereof ye accuse hym: No, nor yet Herode. For I sente you to hym, and lo, nothyng worthy of death is dooen to hym. I will therefore chastene hym, and lette hym loose. * For of necessitie, he must haue lette one loose vnto them at the feast.

And all the people cryed at once sayng a waie with him, and deliuer to vs Barabaz: (whiche for a certain insurreccion made in the citee and for murther was caste in prisone) Pilate spake again to them willing to lette Iesus loose. But they cryed, sayng: Crucifie hym. Crucifie hym. He saied vnto them the thynde tyme: what euill hath he dooen? I fynde no cause of death in hym. I will therefore chasten hym, and lette hym goo. And they cryed with loude voyces, requirynge that he myghte bee crucified. And the voyces of them and of the hie prestes preuailed.

And Pilate gaue sentence, that it should bee as they requyred: and he lette loose vnto them hym that (for insurreccyon and murther) was caste into prisone, whom thei had despyed and he deliuered vnto them Iesus, to dooe with hym what they would. * And as they led hym a waie, they caughte one Symon of Cyren, commyng out of the felde: and on hym layed they the crosse that he might beare it after Iesus.

And there folowed hym a greate compaignie of people, and women * whiche bewayled and lamented hym: But Iesus turned backe vnto them, and sayed: Ye daughters of Hierusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for youre selues, and for your childre: For behold, the daies will come in the whiche thei shall saie: * Happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and p pap-pes whiche neuer gaue sucke. Then shall they begyn to saie to the mountaignes, fall on vs: and to the hylls, couer vs. For if they dooe this in a grene tree, what shal bee dooen in the drye? And there were two euill doers led with hym to bee slaine. * And after that they were come to the place (whiche is called Calvary) there they crucified hym, and the euill doers, one on p righte hande, and the other on the liste. Then saied Iesus, father forgene them for thei wote not what they dooe. * And they parted his rayment and caste lottes. And the people stode, and behelde.

And the rulers mocked hym with them, sayng: he saucth other menne lette hym saue hym self, if he be very Christ, the chosen of God. The souldyours also mocked hym, and came and offered hym vineger, and saied, if thou bee kyng of the Jewes, saue thy self. * And a superscrip-tion was written ouer hym, with letteres of Greke, Latin and Hebreu: This is the kyng of the Jewes. And one of p euill doers whiche wer hanged rayled on hym sayng: If thou bee Christe, saue thy self and vs. But the other answered, & rebuked hym sayng: Fearest thou not God sayng thou art in the same dampnacion: wee are righteously punished, for wee receiue accordyng to our deedes. But this manne hath dooen nothyng amisse. And he saied vnto Iesus: Forde remembre me, when thou comest into thy kyngdome. And Iesus saied vnto hym: Verely I saie vnto thee to daie shalt thou bee with me in Paradise. * And it was aboute the sixt houre. And ther was darkenes ouer all the earth, vntill the nyynth houre, and the sunne was darkened. And the bayle of the temple did rente, euen throughe the middes. And when Iesus had cryed with a loude voyce, he saied. Father into thy handes I commende my spirite. And when he thus had saied he gaue vp the ghooste. * When the Centurion sawe what had happened, he glorified God sayng: Verely this was a righteous manne. And all the people that came together to that spghre and sawe the thynges which had happened, smote they brestes and returned. And all hys acquaintaunce and the women that folowed hym from Galyle, stode asarre of, beholdynge these thynges.

And beholde * there was a manne (named Joseph) a counsailler, and he was a good manne and iuste, the same had not consented to the counsaill and decde of theim, whiche was of Arama-thia a citee of the Jewes, whiche same also waited for the kyngdome of God: he went vnto Pilate and begged the body of Iesus and tooke it doune and wrapped it in a linen cloth, and laied it in a sepulchre that was hewen in stone, where in neuer manne before was layed. * And that daye was preparyng of p Saboth, and the Saboth drewe on: The women that folowed after, whiche had come with hym from Galile, beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laied. And thei returned and prepared sweete odoures and oymmentes: but rested the Saboth daye, accordyng to the commaundemente.

haue spoken. * Dought not Christ to haue suffered these thynges, and to entre into his glory? And he began at Moyses, and all the prophetes, and interpreted vnto them in all scriptures whiche wer written of hym. And thei drewe nie vnto þe troubled, and why dooe thoughtes arise in your heartes? Behold my handes and my fete, that it is euen I my self. Handle me and see: for a spirite hath not fleshe and bones as ye see me haue. And whē he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hades and his fete. And while thei yet beleued not for ioye, and wondred, he saied vnto them: haue ye here any meate? And thei offred hym a pece of a bryoled fische and of an hony combe. And he toke it, and did eat befoze them. And he saied vnto them: These are the woordes whiche I spake vnto you, while I was yet with you: þe all must nedes bee fulfilled whiche were written of me in the lawe of Moyses and in the prophetes, & in the psalmes. * The opened he their wittes, that thei might vnderstande the scriptures, and saied vnto them: Thus is it writte: and thus it behoued Christ to suffre, and to rise againe from death the thirde daie and that repentaunce and remisio of synnes should bee preached in his name among all nacions: And must begyn at Hierusalem.

And ye are witnesses of these thynges. † And beholde, I will sende the promise of my father vpon you. * But tary ye in the citee of Hierusalem, vntill ye bee endued with power from on hie. And he led thei out into Berhany, and lyft vp his handes, and blessed them. * And it came

The fyfte Chapter

The marke of Ihon. The callinge of Androwe, Peter, &c.

In the begynnyng was the word, & the word was wyth God: and God was the word. The same was in the begynnyng wyth God. * All thynges were made by it: and withoute it was nothyng, & was made. * In it was lyfe, and &

lyfe was the lyght of men, and the lyght shyneth in darkenes: and the darkenes comprehended it not. Ther was sent a man fro God whose name was Ihon. The same came as a witnes of the lyghte, that all men through him myght beleue. * He was not that lyght: but was sente to beare witnes of the lyght. That lyghte was the true lighte, which lyghteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world and the world was made by hym, and & world knewe hym not.

He came among hys owne, and hys owne receaved hym not. But as many as receiued him, to the gaue he power to be the sonnes of God, euen them that beleued on his name which was borne, not of bloude, nor of the wyll of the flesh, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

* And the same word became fleshe, and dwelt among vs, and we sawe the gloze of it, as the gloze of the only begotten sonne of the father full of grace and truth. *

* Ihon beareth wytnesse of hym, and cryeth, sayng: This was he of whome I speake, whiche though he came after me, went before me: for he was before me. * And of hys fulnesse haue all we receiued: euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moyses, but grace and truth came by Iesus Chyfte: * No man hath seene God at any tyme.

The onely begotten sonne whiche is in the bolome of the father, he hath declared hym. *

* And this is the recorde of Ihon: when the Jewes sente preestes and Leuites from Ierusalem, to aske hym what art thou? And he confessed and denyed not, and sayed playnly: I am not Chyft. And they asked hym: what then? arte thou helyas? And he sayeth I am not. Arte thou that prophet? And he answered no. Then sayed they vnto him: What arte thou, that we maye geue an answer vnto them that sent vs? What saiest thou of thy selfe? he sayed: * I am the voice of a crier in the wilderness, make stryght the way of the Lord, as sayed the prophet Esayas. And they whiche were sente were of the pharysees. And they asked hym, and sayd vnto hym: Why baptisest thou then, if thou bee not Chyft, nor helyas, nether that prophete? Ihon answered them sayng: * I baptise with water, but there standeth one among you, whom ye knowe not, he it is which though he came after me, was before me, whose sho latcher, I am not worthy to vnlose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyond Iordane: where Ihon dyd baptise. *

* The nexte daye, Ihon seeth Iesus comyng vnto him, and sayeth: * behold the lambe of God, whiche taketh awaye the synne of the world. This is he of whom I sayed: After me cometh a man whiche went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe hym not: but that he shoulde be declared to Israel, therfore am I come baptysing wth water.

* And Ihon bare recorde sayng: I sawe the sprete descend from heauen, lyke vnto a doue, & abode vpon hym, and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptise in water, the same saied vnto me: vpon whom thou shalt se the sprete descende, and tarye styll on hym, the same is he which baptiseth w the holy ghost. And I sawe and bare recorde that he is the sonne of God. *

The nexte day after, Ihon stood agayn, and two of hys disciples, and he behelde Iesus as he walked by, and saith: behold the lambe of God. And the two disciples hearde hym speake and they folowed Iesus. And Iesus turned about and saw them foloe him: & sayth vnto them: What seke ye? They sayed vnto hym Rabbi (whiche is to saye of one interpreter it, Master) where dwellest thou? he saith vnto them: come and se. They came and sawe where he dwelt: & abode with him that day. For it was about the tenth houre.

One of the two whiche heard Ihon speake, and folowed hym, was Androw Symon Peters brother. The same founde hys brother Simon fyrst, and sayth vnto hym: we haue found Mesias (whiche is by interpretacion, anointed) and brought hym to Iesus. And Iesus beheld hym and saied: thou arte * Symon the sonne of Ionas, thou shalt be called Cephas: whiche is by interpretacion a stone. The daye folowynge, Iesus woulde go into Galile, and founde Philip, and sayth vnto hym: foloe me. * Philip was of Bethsaida the cite of Androw and Peter. Philip founde Nathaniel and saith vnto him: we haue found hym, of whom * Moyses in the lawe and the prophetes did writ, Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathaniel saied vnto hym: can there any good thyng come out of Nazareth? Philip sayth vnto him come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comyng to him, and sayth of him. Behold a right Israelite, in whom is no gyle. Nathaniel sayth vnto hym: whence knowest thou me? Iesus answered and said vnto hym. Before that Philippe called the, when thou wast vnder the figge tree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayed vnto him: Rabbi thou arte euen the very sonne of God, thou art the kyng of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayed vnto hym: Because I sayed vnto the, I sawe the vnder the figge tree, thou beleuest. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto hym: Verely, verely, I saye vnto

And the thyrde daye was there a marriage in Cana a ciety in Galile, and the mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called (and hys disciples) vnto the marriage. And when the wyne failed the mother of Iesus sayth vnto hym: they haue no wyne. Iesus sayth vnto her: woman what haue I to dooe wth the, myne houre is not yet come. Hys mother sayeth vnto the mynisters: whatsoeuer he sayth vnto you do ye. And there were standyng there, vi. waterpottes of stone after the maner of the purifying of the Jewes, contaynyng two or thre fyryngs a pece. Iesus sayth vnto them: fyl the waterpottes with water. And they fylled them vp to the bryme. And he sayth vnto them: dya we out nowe, and bere vnto the gouernoure of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast hadde tasted the water that was turned into wyne, and knewe not whence it was (but the mynisters whyche dreyne, the water knewe.) he calleth the bydgrome, and sayth vnto hym. Euery man at the begynning doth set forth good wyne, and when men be dronke, then that whych is worse. But thou hast kept the good wyne vntil now. The commynication of Christ with Nicodemus. The doctrine and baptysme of Ihou, and what wytnes he beareth of Christ.

Ther was a man of the pharysees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jewes. ✠ The same came to Iesus by nyghte, and sayed vnto hym: Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come frome God: for no man could do such myracles as thou dooest, excepte God were wth hym. Iesus answered and sayed vnto hym:

John. vi.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne frome aboue, he can not see the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus saith vnto him: how can a man be borne when he is olde, can he enter into hys mothers wombe and be borne agayne? Iesus answered: * Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne of water and of the sprete, he cannot enter into the kyngdome of God. ✠ That whiche is borne of the fleshe, is fleshe, and that whiche is borne of the sprete, is sprete. Maruayle no thou that I sayed to the ye must be borne frome aboue. The winde bloweth where it lysteth, and thou herest the sounde thereof: but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whether it goeth. So is euerye one that is borne of the sprete.

The. iiii. Chapiter.

The louyng communycacyon of Chryst with the woman of Samarya by the welles syde. Howe he heareth the rulers sonne.

AS sone as the Lorde knew, how the pharises had harde, that Iesus made and baptised mo dysciples, then Ihon (though that Iesus himselfe baptized not, but hys disciples) he lefte Jewry, and departed agayne into Galilee. For it was so that he must nedes go through Samaria. ¶ Thei came to the cytee of Samaria (which is called Sychar) Besydes the possellon, that Jacob gaue to his sonne Ioseph. And ther was Jacobs well. Iesus then beyng werpe of hys iournepe, sette thus on the well. And it was aboute the fyrte houre: and there came a woman of Samarya to drawe water. Iesus saith vnto her geue me drynke. For his disciples were gone away vnto the toune to buy meate. Then sayeth the woman of Samarya vnto hym: howe is it that thou beyng a Jewe, askest drynk of me, which am a Samarytane. ¶ For the Jewes meyle not with the Samarytanes. Iesus answered, and sayed vnto her: If thou kneweste the gyfte of God, and who it is that sayeth to the, geue me drynke: thou wouldest haue asked of hym, and wouldest haue geuen the water of lyfe. The woman sayth vnto hym: Sy, thou haste nothyng to drawe with, and þ wel is depe: from whence then haste thou that water of lyfe? Arte thou greater then oure father Jacob which gaue vs the well, and he hym selfe drancke thereof and hys chyldren, and hys catell?

Iesus answered and sayed vnto her: Whosoever drynketh of this water, shal thyrst again. But whosoever drynketh of the water that I shall geue hym, shal neuer be moze a thyrst: but the water that I shall geue hym, shalbe in him a well of water spryngyng vp into euerlastyng lyfe. The woman sayeth vnto hym: Sy, geue me of that water that I thyrst not nether come hether to drawe. Iesus sayth vnto her: Go, cal thy husband, and come hether. The woman answered and sayd vnto hym: I haue no husband. Iesus sayed vnto her: Thou hast well sayed: I haue no husbnde. For thou hast had fyue husbandes, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husbnde. In that sayedst thou trulye. The woman sayth vnto him: Sy, I perceiue that thou arte a Prophete. Oure fathers worshypped in thys mountayne, and ye saye that in Jerusalem is the place, where men ought to worshyp. Iesus saith vnto her woman beleue me, þ hour commeth, when ye shall (neither in thys mountayne, nor yet at Jerusalem) worshyppe the father. Ye worshiipe ye wote not what: we know what we worshyppe.

¶ For saluacyon commeth of the Jewes: But the houre commeth and now is, when the true worshyppers shal worshyppe the father, in sprete, and in the truth. For such the father also requireth to worshyp hym. ¶ God is a spret, and they that worshyppe hym, muste worshyp hym in sprete and in the truth.

The woman sayeth vnto hym: I wote, that Messyas shall come, whyche is called Chryste. ¶ When he is come, he wyll tell vs all thynges: Iesus sayth vnto her: ¶ I that speake vnto the am he. And immediatly came hys disciples, & maruelled that he talked with the woman. Yet no man saied what meanest thou, or why talkest thou with her. The woman then left her water pot and wente her waye into the cyte, and sayth to the men: Come, se a man whych told me al thynges that euer I dyd. Is not he Chryste? Then they went out of the citee, and came vnto hym.

In þ meane whyle hys disciples prayed him saynge: Mayster, eate. He sayed vnto them: I haue meate to eate, that ye knowe not of. Therfore sayed the dysciples amonge theym selues, hath any man brought hym ought to eate? Iesus sayth vnto them, my meate is to do the wyl of hym that sent me, and to fynysh his worke. Say not ye: there are yet. iiii. monethes, & then commeth harueste? Beholde, I saye vnto you: lyft vp your eyes, and loke on the regyons, for they are whyte already vnto herueste. ¶ And he that repeth, receiueþ reward, and gathereth frute vnto lyfe eternall: that both he that soweth, & he þ repeth, myghte reioyse together. And herein is the saynge true, that one soweth and another reapeth. I sent you to reape that: wher on ye bestowed no labour. Other men labour-

Many of the Samaritans of that cite beleued on hym, for the sayng of þ woman, which testefyed that he tolde her all that euer she dyd. So whē the Samaritans wer come vnto him they he soughte hym that he woulde tary with them. And he abode ther two dayes. And many mo beleued because of hys owne wordes, & sayed vnto þ woman. After two dayes he departed thence, and wēt a waye into Galile. * For Jesus hym selfe testified, that a prophet hath none honoure in his owne countre. Then as sone as he was come into Galile, the Galians receiued hym: whā they had sene all the thynges that he dyd at Ierusalem at the daye of the feast. For they went al so vnto the feast daye. So Jesus came agayne into Cana of Galile * where he tournded the water into wyne. * And there was a certayn ruler, * whose sonne was lycke at Capernaum. As sone as the same heard that Jesus was come out of Jewry into Galile, he went vnto hym, & he sought him, that he woulde come doune, and heale hys sonne. For he was euen at the poynte of death. Then sayed Jesus vnto hym: excepte ye se sygnes & wonders, ye wyl not beleue. The ruler sayth vnto hym: Syr come doune oz euer that my sonne dye. Jesus sayth vnto hym: Go thy waye thy sonne lyueth. The man beleued þ worde that Jesus had spoken vnto hym. And he went hys way. And as he was goyng doune the seruauntes met hym, and tolde him, sayng thy sonne liueth. Then enquired he of them the houre when he began to amende. And they saied vnto hym: Yester daye, at the. vii. houre, the feuer left hym. So the father knewe, that it was the same houre, in the whyche Jesus sayed vnto hym thy sonne lyueth. * And he beleued and all hys household. * This is agayn the second myracle, that Jesus did, when he was come out of Jewrye into Galile.

The. v. Chapter.

¶ He healeth the man that was lycke. xxviii. yere. The Jewes as cuse hym, he answereth for hym selfe, and repproueth them.

After this was there a feast daye of the Jewes, and Jesus went vp to Ierusalem. And there is at Ierusalem by the slaughtre house, a poole (which is called in the hebrue tounge, Bethesda) haupnge fyue porches, in whyche laye a great multitude of lycke folke, of blynde, halte and wythered, wartyng for the mouing of the water. For an Angell wente doune at a certeyn ceason into þ poole, and stered the water. Whosoever then tpyt (after the stearyng of the water) stepped in, was made whole, of whatsoeuer dyscase he had. And a certeyne man was there, whyche had bene dyscased. xxxviii. yeres. When Jesus sawe hym lye, and knewe that he nowe longe tyme hadde bene dyscased, he sayeth vnto hym Wylt thou be made whole? The lyckeman answered hym: Syr, I haue no man when the water is troubled, to put me into the poole. But in the meane tyme, whyle I am aboute to come, another steppeth doune before me.

Jesus sayeth vnto hym: * ryse, take vp thy bedde and walke. And immediatlye the man was made whole, and tooke vp hys bedde, and walked. And the same daye was the Saboth. The Jewes therfore sayd vnto hym, that was made whole: It is the Saboth daye, it is not lawfull for the to cary thy bedde. He answered them: he þ made me whole, sayed vnto me: take vp thy bedde, and walke. Then asked they hym What man is that, whyche sayed vnto the: take vp thy bedde and walke. And he that was healed, wylt not who it was. For Jesus had gotten hym selfe a waye, because that there was pzeale of people in that place.

* Afterwarde, Jesus founde hym in the temple, and sayed vnto hym: behold, thou art made whole synne nomore, least a worse thyng happen vnto the. The man departed and tolde the Jewes that it was Jesus which had made him whole. * And therfore þ Jewes dyd persecute Jesus, & sought the meanes to slea him, because he had done these thynges on the Saboth dayes. And Jesus answered them: * My father worketh hether to, & I worke. Therfore the Jewes soughte the more to kyll hym, not only because he had broken the Saboth: but saied also that * God was his father, and made hym selfe equall wryth God.

¶ Then answered Jesus and sayed vnto them Verely, verely I saye vnto you: * the sonne can do nothyng of him selfe: but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoeuer he doth, that doth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, and sheweth hym al thynges that he him selfe doth. And he wyl shewe hym greater workes then these, because ye shoulde maruell. For lyke wise as the father rayseth vp the dead, and quyketh them, euen so the sonne quickeneth whom he wyl. * Nether iudgeth the father any man: but hathe comytted all iudgemente vnto the sonne because that all men shoulde honour the sonne, euen as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not þ sonne, the same honoureth not the father, whyche hathe sente hym. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you * he that hereth my word and beleueth on hym that sente me, hathe euer-lyng lyfe, and shal not * come into dampnacyon: but is escaped from death vnto lyfe.

¶ Verely, verely, I saye vnto you * the houre shal come, & now it is, when the dead shal hear the voyce of the sonne of God. And they þ heare shal lyue. * For as the father hath lyfe in hym selfe, so lyke wyse hath he geuen to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe, and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, because he is the sone of man. Maruel not at thys: for the * houre shal come, in the which al that are in the graues shal hear hys voyce, and shal come forth, they that haue done good, vnto the resurreccyon of lyfe: & they that haue done euell, vnto the resurreccyon of dampnacyon. ¶

✠ I can of myne owne selfe do nothing. As I heare I iudge and my iudgement is iust, because I seke not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father whiche hath sent me. ✠ If I should beare wytnes of my selfe, my wytnes were not true. There is another that beareth wytnes of me: and I am sure that the wytnesse whych he beareth of me is true.

✠ He sent vnto Ihon, and he bare wytnes vnto the truth. But I receiue not the recozd of man. Neuertheles, these thynges I say that ye might be safe. He was a burnyng and a shynyng light and ye woulde for a season haue reioysed in hys lyght. ✠ But I haue greater wytnesse then the wytnes of Ihon. For the workes whych the father hath geuen me to synyshe, the same workes that I do, beare wytnes of me, that the father hath sente me: And the father hym selfe whiche hath sent me, hath bozne wytnes of me. Ye haue not hearde his voyce at anye tyme, nor sene his shape, his word haue ye not abiding in you. For whom he hath sent hym ye beleue not.

Search the scriptures, for in them ye thynke ye haue eternall lyfe: and they are they whych testifie of me. And yet wyll ye not come to me for ye myght haue lyfe. I receiue not praise of men. But I knowe you, that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name and ye receiue me not. ✠ If another come in his owne name, him wyll ye receiue: Howe can ye beleue whych receiue honour one of another, and seke not the honour that cometh of God onelye? Do not thynke that I wyll accuse you to my father. There is one that accuseth you: euen Moses in whome ye trust. For had ye beleued Moses, ye woulde haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But ye ye beleue not hys wytynges: how shall ye beleue my wordes? ✠

¶ The vi. Chappter.

Jesús fedeth fyue thousand men, departeth awaye that they should not make hym a kynge, and reproveth the fleshy hearers of hys wordes. The carnall are offended at hym.

After these thynges, Jesús wente his way ouer the sea of Galile, which is the sea of Tiberias: and a great multitude folowed him, because they sawe his myracles which he did on them that wer diseased. And Jesús went vp into a mountayn and ther he sat wyth hys disciples. And easter, a feast of the Jewes was nye.

✠ When Jesús then lyft vp hys eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto hym, he sayth vnto Phylippe: whence shall we buy breade, that these maye eat? Theys he sayed to proue hym, for he hym selfe knewe, what he woulde do.

Phylippe answered hym: two hundred peny worth of breade are not sufficient for them that euery man may take a lytle. One of hys disciples (Andrew the Symon Peters brother) sayth vnto hym: Ther is a lad here, whych hath fyue barley loaves and two fyshes: but what are they amonge so manye? And Jesús sayed: Make the people sit doune. There was muche grasse in the place. So the mē sat doune in nōumber, about fyue thousande. And Jesús toke the breade. And when he had geuen thankes, he gaue to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set doune. And lyke wyse of the fyshes as much as they woulde.

When they had eaten ynough, he sayth vnto hys disciples: gather vp the broken meate, whych remaineth, that nothing be losse. And they gathered it together, and filled twelue baskets with the broken meate of the fyue barley loaves, whych broken meate remayned vnto them that hadde eaten. Then those men (when they had sene the myracle that Jesús dyd) sayed: this is of a truthe: the same prophete, that should come into the worlde. ✠ When Jesús therfore perceiued that they woulde come, and take hym vp to make hym a kynge, he departed agayne into a mountayne him selfe alone. And when euen was now come, hys disciples went doune vnto the sea, and gat vp into a ship and came ouer the sea vnto Capernaum. And it was now darke, and Jesús was not come to them. And the sea arose with a great wind that blew. So when they had rowne about a. xlv. or. xxx. furlonges, they sawe Jesús walkyng on the sea, and drawyng nye vnto the ship, and they were afraied. But he sayth vnto them: It is I, be not afraied. Then would they haue receiued hym into the shippe, and immediatly the shippe was at the lande, whether they wente.

The daye folowynge, when the people (whych were on the other syde of the sea) sawe that ther was none other ship there, saue that one where into hys disciples were entred, and that Jesús wente not wyth hys disciples into the shippe but that hys disciples were gone awaye alone (Howbeit, there came other shippes from Tiberias, nye vnto the place, where they dyd eate bread, after that the Lord had geuen thankes) when the people therfore sawe, that Jesús was not there, nether hys disciples, they also toke shippe and came to Capernaum seekyng for Jesús. And when they had founde hym on the other syde of the sea, they sayed vnto hym: Rabbi, when camest thou hether? Jesús answered them, and sayed: verely verely, I saye vnto you: ye seke me, not because ye sawe the myracles, but because ye dyd eate of the loaves and wer fylled. ✠ Labour not for the meate which perissheth, but for that which endureth vnto euerylastyng lyfe, whych meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For him hath God the father sealed. Then sayed they vnto hym: what shall we dooe that we myghte worke the workes of God? Jesús answered and sayed vnto them: this is the worke of God: that ye beleue on hym whom he hath sente. They sayed therfore vnto hym: What signe shewest thou that we may se and beleue? What doest thou worke? Our fathers dyd eate Manna in the desert, as it is wyrtte. He gaue them bread from heauen to eate. Then Jesús sayed vnto them: verely, verely, I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not bread frome heauen: but my father geueth you the true breade frome heauen. For the breade of God is he whych cometh doune.

Then saied they vnto hym: Lorde euermore geue vs thyss bread. And Iesus sayed vnto the I am the bread of lyfe. He that cometh to me shall not hunger: & he that beleueth on me shall neuer thyrst. But I saye vnto you: that ye al so haue sene me, and yet ye beleue not. Al that f father geueth me shall come to me, and him that cometh to me, I cast not away. For I am come doune from heauen: * not to do that I wpll but that he wpll, whych hath sente me. And thys is che fathers wil which hath sente me, that of all whych he hath geuen me, I shall lose nothyng but rayse them vp agayn, at the last day. And this is the wpll of hym that sente me: that euerpe one whych seeth the sonne * and beleueth on hym, haue euerlastyng lyfe. And I wpll rayse hym vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at hym, because he saied: I am the bread (of lyfe) whych came doune from heauen: And they sayed: * Is not thys Iesus the sonne of Joseph, whose father and mother we knowe? How is it then that he sayth, I came doune from heauen? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them: mur- mure not emonge youre selues.

* No man can come to me, excepte the fa- ther whych hath sente me, drawe hym: And I wpll rayse hym vp at the last day. It is writte in the prophetes * and they shall be all taught of God. Euerp man therfore that hath heard, and hath learned of the father, cometh vnto me. * Not that any man hath sene the father, saue he whych is of God, the same hath sene the father. Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: he that put teth his trust in me, hath euerlasting lyfe. I am that bread of lyfe. Your fathers dyd eat Māna in the wyldernesse, and are deade. Thys is the bread, which cometh doune from heauen, that a man maye eat therof, and not dye. I am that lyuyng bread, whych came doune from heauē. If any man eate of thys breade he shall lyue for euer. * And the breade that I wpll geue, is my flesh, which I wil gaue for y life of the world.

The Jewes therfore stroue emonge them sel ues sayyng, howe canne this seloe geue vs that flesch of hys to eate? Then Iesus sayd vnto the Verely, verely, I saye vnto you. excepte ye eate the fleshe of the sonne of man and drynke hys bloude: ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso ea- teth my fleshe and dryncketh my bloude, hath e- ternal life, and I wpll rayse him vp at the last day. For my flesch is meate in dede: & my bloude is drynke in dede. He that eateth my fleshe and dryncketh my bloude dwelleth in me, and I in hym. As the lyuyng father hath sente me, and I liue for the father: Euen so he that eateth me shall lyue by the meanes of me. Thys is the bre- ade, whych came doune from heauen: not as your fathers dyd eate manna, and are dead. He that eateth of thys breade, shall lyue euer.

These thynges sayd he in the Synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therfore of his dysciples (when they had heard thys) sayd: this is an hearde sayyng: who can abyde the helyng of it? Iesus knewe in hym selfe, that hys dyscples murmured at it: and he sayed vnto theim: Doth thys offende you? What and ye shall se that sonne of man ascende vp thither wher he was befoze? It is the spyete that quykkeneth, y fleshe profyteth nothyng. The wordes that I speake vnto you are spyete and lyfe. But there are some of you y beleue not. For Iesus knewe frome the begynnynge, whych they were, that beleued not, and who shoulde betray hym. And he sayed, therfore, sayed I vnto you: that * no- man can come vnto me, except it wer geuen vn to hym of my father. From that tyme many of his disciples went backe, and forsoke hym, and walked nomore wyth hym. Then sayed Iesus to the twelue: wpll ye also go away? Then Si mon Peter answered him: Lord to whom shall we go? Thou hast the wordes of eternal lyfe, * and we beleue and are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the lyuyng God. Iesus answered them: Haue not I chosen you twelue, and * one of you is a deuel? He spake of Judas Iscariot the sonne of Simon. For he it was, that shoulde betraye hym, beyng one of the twelue.

The. vii. Chapter.

Iesus cometh to Jerusalem at the feast, teacheth the Jewes and reproveth them. There are dyuerse oppynions of hym emong the people. The pharyses rebuke the officers, because they haue not brought him, and chyd wyth Nicodemus for takyng his parte.

After these thynges Iesus wente a bout in Galile: for he woulde not go about in Jewrye because that the Jewes soughte to kyl hym. The Jewes feast of y tabernacles was at hande. His brethzen therfore sayd vnto him get the hence, and go into Jewrye, that thy dys- ciples also maye se thy workes that thou doo- est. For there is no man that dothe anye thyng in secrete, and he him selfe seeketh to be knowne openly. If thou do such thynges, shewe thy self to y world. For his brethzen beleued not in him.

Then Iesus sayed vnto them: My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is alwaye readye. The world cannot hate you * But me it hateth because I testifie of yt, that the workes ther of are euell: goo ye vp vnto this feast, I wpll not go vp yet vnto thys feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. When he had sayed these wordes vnto theim, he abode styll in Galyle. But as sone as hys brethzen were come, then went he vp also vnto y feast, not openly, but as it were pynelye. Then soughte the Jewes hym at the feast, and sayed * Where is he? And much mur- muryng was there of hym emonge the people. For some sayed: * he is good, other sayed nay: but he deceiveth the people. Howbeit, * no man spake openly of hym, for feare of the Jewes. Nowe when halfe of the feast was done, Je- sus went vp into the temple, and taughte. And the Jewes marueled, sayyng: how knoweth he the scriptures, sepyng that he neuer learnede? Je- sus answered them, & saied: My doctryn is not myne: but his that sente me. If any man wyl be obedient vnto his wil, he shall knowe of the doc- trine whether it be of God, or whethere I speake of my

*Dyd not Moyses geue you a lawe, and yet none of you kepeth the lawe? Why go it about to kyl me? The people answered & saied: Thou hast the deuell: Who goeth aboute to kyl the?
Jesus answered, and saied vnto them: * I haue done one worke, and ye al maruel. Moyses therfore gaue vnto you þe cꝝcumcisiõ not because it is of Moyses: but * of þe fathers. And yet ye on the saboth daye, cꝝcumcise a man. Yf a man on of the saboth daye receiue cꝝcumcisiõ, wythoute bꝛeakynge of the lawe of Moyses, dysdayne ye at me because I haue made a manne euer ye whyt hole, on the saboth day? Judge not after the vtter apperaunce, but iudge wyth a ryghte ous iudgement.

Then sayd some of them of Ierusalem: is not thys he, whom they go aboute to kyl? But loo, he speaketh boldlye, and they saye nothyng to hym. Do the rulers knowe in dede, that thys is Christ? Howbeit * we know thys manne whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no mā knoweth whence he is. Then cried Jesus in the temple (as he taught) sayng: ye both know me and whence I am, ye know. And I am not coming of my selfe but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not. But I knowe hym. (And yf I say that I knowe hym not, I shalbe a lyer lyke vnto you, but I knowe hym.) For I am of hym, and he hath sente me. * Then they soughte to take hym, but no man layed handes on hym, because hys houre was not yet come. *

Many of the people beleued on hym, and saied when Christ cometh, wyl he do any mo myracles then these that thys man hath done?

The pharysyes heard that the people murmured such thynges concernynge hym. And the pharysyes and hye pꝛiestes sente mynysters to take hym. Then sayd Jesus vnto them: Yet am I a lytle whyle wyth you: and then go I vnto hym that sent me. Ye shal seke me and shal not fynde me: * and where I am, thither can ye not come. Then sayd the Iewes among them selues Whether wyl he goo, that we shal not fynde hym? Wyl he go among the Gentyles (whiche are scattered abrode) and teache the Gentyles?
What maner of sayng is this that he sayed ye shal seke me, and shal not fynde me: and where I am thither can ye not come.

In the last daye, that grete daye of the feast Jesus stode & cryed sayng: * yf any man thyrst let hym come vnto me, and drynke. He that beleueth on me (as sayth the scripture) out of his bellye shal flowe ryuers of water of lyfe. But thys spake he of the spꝛete, whych they that beleue on hym, shoulde receyue. For the holpe of goodte was not yet there, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

Manye of the people therfore (whent they hearde this sayng) sayde: * of a truth thys is a prophete: but other sayed: thys is Christe. But some sayed: shall Christ come out of Galyle?
Sayth not the scriptur, that Christ shal come of the seede of Dauid: and oute of the tounne of Bethleem, where Dauid was? So was there discencion amonge the people because of hym.

And some of them would haue taken hym, but no man layed handes on hym. Then came the mynysters to the hye pꝛiestes and pharysyes And they sayed vnto theym: Why haue ye not brought hym? The mynisters answered: neuer man spake as thys man doth. Then answered them the pharysyes: are ye also dysceiued? Doth anye of the rulers or of the pharysyes beleue on hym? But thys common people whyche knowe not the lawe, are cursed. Nichodemus sayth vnto them * (he that cam to Jesus by night, & was one of them:) Doth our law iudge any man, before it hear him, and know what he hath done?
They answered and sayed vnto hym: Art thou also of Galile? Search & loke. For out of Ga-lyle aryleth no prophete. And euery man went vnto hys owne house.

The viii. Chapter.

A woman is taken in aduouty. Christ deliuereth her. The fir-dome of such as folow Christ, whom they accuse to haue the deuill wythin hym, and go about to stone hym.

Jesus wente vnto mount Olyuet and early in the mornynge he came agayne into the temple, and all the people came vnto hym, and he saie dounde and taughte them. And the scribes and pharysyes brought vnto hym a woman taken in aduouty, and when they had set her in the myddest, they saye vnto him: Master this woman was taken in aduouty, euẽ as the dede was a doynge * Moyses in the law commaũ-ded vs, that suche shoulde be stoned. But what sayest thou? This they saied to tempt hym that they might accuse him. But Jesus stooped doune and wyth his fynger wꝛote on the ground. So when they continued askynge hym, he lifte hym selfe vp, and sayed vnto them: let hym that is a monge you wythout synne, cast the fyrst stone at her. And agayne he stooped doune, and wꝛot on the grounde. And allone as they hearde this they went out one by one, begynnynge at the eldest. And Jesus was lefte alone, and the womā standynge in the myddes. When Jesus had lyft vp hym selfe, and sawe no man, but the womā he sayed vnto her: woman wher are those thine accusers? Hathe no man condemned the? She saied: No man, Lord. And Jesus sayed. Nether do I condemne the. Go and sinne no more.

Then spake Jesus again vnto them, say-ng: * I am the lyght of the world. He that fo-loeth me, doth not walke in darkenes, but shal haue the lyght of life. The pharysyes therfore sayed vnto him: thou bearest recorde of thy selfe, thy recorde is not true. Jesus answered, and said vnto them: though I beare recorde of my selfe, yet my recorde is true: for I knowe whence I came and whither I go. But ye cannot tel whence I came, and whither I go. Ye iudge after the flesh I iudge no man. And if I iudge, my iudgement is true. For I am not alone: but I and the father that sent me. * It is also wyrtten in youre lawe, that the testymonye of two men is true.

Then said thei vnto hym: Who arte thou? And Jesus sayth vnto them: eue the very same thing that I speak vnto you. I haue many thinges to say, and to iudge of you. Per, and he that let me is true. And I speake in the world those thinges which I haue heard of hym. Howbeit thei understode not that he spake of his father. Then said Jesus vnto them: when ye haue lift vp an eye the sonne of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of my selfe but as my father hath taught me, euen so I speake these thinges: he that sent me, is with me. Jesus answered them: Verely, verely, I say vnto you, that whosoener comytteth synne is the seruaunte of synne. And the seruaunte abydeyth not in the house for euer: But the sonne abydeyth euer. If the sonne therfore shall make you free, then are ye free in dede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seede: but ye seke meares to kyll me, because my word hath no place in you. I speak that which I haue sene with my father, and ye do, that which ye haue sene with your father. They answered and sayd vnto him: Abraham is our father. Jesus saith vnto them: If ye were Abrahams chyldren, ye would do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kyll me a man that hath tolde you the truth, which I haue heard of God: this dyd not Abraham. Ye do the dedes of your father. Then sayed thei to hym: We were not borne of fornicacion. We haue one father euen God. Jesus sayd vnto thei: If God were your father, truly ye would loue me. For I proceeded forth, and came from God. Neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me. Why do ye not know my speech? Euen because ye can cannot abyde the hearing of my worde.

Ye are of your father the deuyl, and the lustes of your fathers wyl ye serue. He was a murderer from the begynnyng, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in hym. When he speaketh a lye, he speaketh of his owne: for he is a lyer, and the father of the same thing. And because I tell you the truth, therfore ye beleue me not. Which of you rebuketh me of synne? If I do saye the truth, why do ye not beleue me? He that is of God, heareth Goddes wordes. Ye therfore hear them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes, and sayed vnto hym: Saye we not well, that thou art a Samaritan, and hast the deuyl? Jesus answered: I haue not the deuyl: but I honour my father, and ye haue dishonoured me. I seke not myne owne praise, there is one that seeketh & iudgeth Merely, verely, I saye vnto you: if a man kepe my sayng, he shall neuer see death. Then sayed the Jewes vnto him: How know we that thou hast the deuyl? Abraham is deade, and the prophetes, and thou sayest: if a man kepe my sayng, he shall neuer tast of death. Art thou greater then our father Abraham, which is dedde, and the prophetes are dedde? Whome makest thou thy selfe? Jesus answered: If I honour my selfe, myne honour is nothing. It is my father, that honoureth me, which ye say, is your God, and yet ye haue not knowne hym: but I knowe hym. And if I saye: I knowe hym not, I shall be a lyer lyke vnto you. Chryste maketh the man to se that was borne blynde

As Jesus passed by, he sawe a man which was blind from his birth. And his discyples asked hym, sayng: Master, who dyd synne, this man, or his father and mother, that he was borne blind? Jesus answered: Neither hath this man sinned, nor yet his father and mother: but that synne of God shoulde be shewed in hym. I muste worke the workes of hym that sent me, while it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worke. As long as I am in the worlde, I am the lychte of the worlde.

As soon as he had thus spoken, he spat on the grounde, and made claye of the spittle, and rubbed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, and sayd vnto hym: Go, washe the in the pole of Siloe, which (by interpretacion) is as much to say, as sent. He wente bys way therfore, and washed, and came again, sayng. So the neighbours and thei that had sene him before (how that he was a begger

He hym selfe sayde: I am euen he. Therefore sayde they vnto hym: Howe are thyne eyes opened? He answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, & annoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the poole Siloe and washe. And when I went and washed, I receyued my syghte. Then sayde they vnto hym, where is he? He sayde, I can not tell.

They brought to pharyses, hym that a lytell before was blynde: and it was the Sabbath daye, when Iesus made claye, and opened his eyes. Then agayn the pharyses also asked hym, howe he had receyued hys syghte. He sayde vnto them, he put claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed and doo se. Therefore sayde some of the pharyses: thys man is not of God, because he kepeth not the Sabbath daye. Other sayde,

* howe can a man þ is a synner do suche myracles? And there was a stryfe among the. They spake vnto the blynde mā again. What sayest thou of hym whiche hath opened thyne eyes? He sayde: * He is a prophete.

But þ Jewes dyd not beleue of the mā (how that he had ben blynde, and receyued his sight) vntyl they called the father and mother of him that had receyued hys syghte. And they asked them sayng: Is this poure sonne whome you saye was bozne blynde? Howe doth he now se then? hys father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe that this is oure sonne, & that he was bozne blynde: but by what meanes he now seeth, we can not tell. Or who hath opened his eyes, cā not we tel. He is olde ynough aske hym, let hym answer for hym selfe. Such wordes spake his father & mother, because they feared the Jewes. For þ Jewes had conspyred alreadye, that yf any man dyd confesse that he was Chryst, * he shulde be excomunicat out of the Synagoge. Therefore sayde his father and mother: he is olde ynough, aske hym.

Then agayne called they the man that was blynd, and sayd vnto hym: True God þ prayse we know that this man is a synner. He answered therfore, and sayde: Whither be he a synner or no, I can not tell. One thyng I am sure of that where as I was blynde now I see. Then sayde they to hym agayne. What dyd he to the? Howe opened he thine eyes? He answered them I tolde you perwhyle, ye dyd not heare, wherfore wolde ye heare it agayne? wyl ye also bee his discyples? Then rate they hym, and sayde, We thou his discyppe. We are Moyses discyples. We are sure, that God spake vnto Moyses. As for this felow, we know not from whence he is.

The man answered, and sayde vnto them this is a maruelous thyng, that ye wot not fro whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes. For we be sure, that God heareth not synners. But yf any man be a worshypper of God, and obedient vnto his wyl, him heareth he. Sence the worlde began, was it not hearde, that any man opened þ eyes of one that was bozne blind Yf thys mane were not of God, he coulde haue done nothyng. They answered, and sayd vnto hym: thou arte all together bozne in synne, and dost thou teach vs? And they cast hym out.

Iesus hearde that they had excommunicate hym: and when he had founde hym, he sayd vnto him: dost thou beleue on þ sonne of God? He answered & sayde: who is it Lord that I might beleue on hym. And Iesus said vnto him. Thou hast sene hym, * and he it is that talketh wyth the. And he sayde: Lord I beleue, and he worshiped hym. And Iesus sayde vnto hym: I am come vnto iudgemente into this worlde: þ they whiche se not, myght se, and they whiche se, myght be made blynde. And some of þ pharyses whiche were with hym, heard these wordes and sayd vnto hym: are we blynde also? Iesus sayd vnto the: * Yf ye were blynde, ye shuld haue no synne. But now ye say: we se, therfore your synne remaineth.

Certaine man was sycke, named Lazarus of Bethania & to one of mary, & her sister Martha. It was his wyfe Mary * whiche anoynted Jesus with oylment, & topped his fete with her heare, whose brother Lazarus was sycke. Therfore, his sisters sent vnto hym, sayynge: Lorde, beholde he whome thou louest, is sycke. When Jesus herde that, he sayde this in symytle is not vnto death: but for the prayse of God, & the sonne of God * myght be prayled by reason of it. Jesus loued Martha and her syster and Lazarus. When he had hearde therfore that he was sycke, he abode two dayes styll in the same place where he was.

Then after that, saide he to his disciples: let vs go into Jewry agayne. His disciples sayde vnto hym: Master, the Jewes lately soughte to stone the and wyle thou go thither agayne? Jesus answered: are there not. xii. houres of the daye? If a man walke in the daye, he is not bleth not, because he seeth the lyghte of this worlde. But if a man walke in nyght he is bleth, because there is no lyghte in hym. This sayde he, and after that he sayd vnto them, our frend Lazarus * slepeth, but I go to wake hym out of slepe. Then sayde his disciples: Lorde, if he slepe, he shall doo well ynough. Howbeit Jesus spake of his death, but they thought he had spoken of the naturall slepe. Iesus layde take ye a waye the stone. Martha the syster of hym that was dead, sayd vnto hym: Lord by this time he stiketh. For he hath bene deade foure dayes. And Iesus lift vp his eyes, and sayde. Father, I thanke the, that thou haste herde me. Howbeit, I knewe: that thou hearest me alwayes, but because of the people whiche stande by: I said it, that they may beleue, that thou hast sent me.

¶ And when he thus had spoken, he cryed with a loude voyce: Lazarus come forth. * And he y^e was dead came forth, bound hande & fote with graue clothes, and his face was bounde with a naphyn. Iesus therfore walked nomore opely among the Jewes: but wente hys waye thence vnto a country nye to a wilderness, into a cytie which is called Ephraim, and there contynued wyth his discyples. * And the Jewes Easter was nie at hand, and many went out of the countre vp vnto Jerusalem before the Easter to purifye them selues. ¶ Then soughte they for Iesus and spake amonge them selues as they stode in the temple: What * thynke ye, seynge he cometh not to the feast daye? The hye prestes and pharyses * had geuen a commaundemente, that yf any man knewe where he wer, he shulde shewe it, that they myght take hym. ¶

¶ Then Iesus (syre daies before Easter) came to bethany, where Lazarus had bene dead, who he raysted fro death. ¶ There they made hym a supper, & Martha serued but Lazarus was one of them y^e late at y^e table with hym. * Then toke Mary a ponde of oynment (called Nardus, perfecte & prepyouse) and anoynted Iesus fete, and wiped his fete with her heare, and the house was fylled wyth the odoure of the oynment. * Then sayde one of hys discyples (euen Judas Iscariot Symons sonne, whiche after ward betrayed hym) why was not this oynment sold for thye hundred pence, and geuen to the poze? ¶ This he sayde, not that he cared for y^e poore, but because he was a thefe and * had the bagge, & bare that whiche was geuen. ¶ Then sayde Iesus: let her alone, agaynst the daye of my buryng hath she kepte this. For the poore alwayes shal ye haue with you, but me haue ye not alwaye.

¶ Much people of y^e Jewes therfore had knowlage that he was there. And they came not for Iesus sake only, but y^e they myght se Lazarus also * whome he raysted fro death. ¶ But the hye prestes helde a counsaile, that they myght put Lazarus to deathe also, because y^e for hys sake many of the Jewes went away and beleued on Iesus. ¶

¶ * On the nexte daye muche people that wer come to the feast, when they hearde that Iesus shulde come to Jerusalem, tooke braunches of palme trees, and went forth to mete hym, and cryed hosanna, & blessed is he that in the name of the Lorde, cometh kyng of Israell. ¶ And Iesus got a ponge asse, & sat thereon: as it is wyrtten: * feare not doughter of Syon, beholde thy kyng cometh sytting on an asse coltre. ¶ These thynges vnderstoode not hys discyples at the tyme: but when Iesus was glorified, then remembred they that such thynges were wyrtten of hym, and that suche thynges they had done vnto hym. ¶ The people y^e was with hym (when he called Lazarus out of hys graue, and raysted hym fro death) bare recorde. ¶ Therfore met him the people also, because they hearde that he had done such a miracle. ¶ The pharises therfore said amonge them selues: perceauye ye, how we preyse hym not wyse: beholde * (all the hole) woylde goeth after hym.

¶ * There were certayne grekes amonge them that came to worshyppe at the feast: the same cam therfore to Philyp (whiche was of Bethsaida a cyte of Galile) and desyred hym sayng: Syr, we wolde fayn se Iesus. ¶ Philyppe came and tolde Andrew. ¶ And agayn Andrew and Philyp tolde Iesus. ¶ And Iesus answered them sayng: * the houre is come, y^e the sonne of man must be glorified.

Christ washeth the discyples fete, telleth them of Judas the traytoure, and commaundeth them carnestly to loue one another.

BEfore the feaste of Easter, when Jesus knewe that his houre was come he shulde depart out of this worlde vnto the father. When he loued his discyples which wer in I worlde, vnto the ende he loued them. And when supper was ended, after I the deuyl had * put in the hert of Judas Iscarioth Simons sonne, to betray him. Jesus knowying that * the father had geuen all thynges into his handes, and that he was come frome God, and wente to God: he rose from supper, & layde asyde his upper garmentes: and when he had taken a towel, he gyrded hym selfe. After I he poured water into a basyn, and beganne to washe the discyples fete, & to wype them wyth the towel, wherwith he was gyrded.

Then came he to Symon Peter. And Peter sayde vnto hym: Lord, dost thou washe my fete? Jesus answered & sayd vnto hym: What I do thou wotest not now, but I shalt knowe hereafter. Peter sayeth vnto hym: thou shalt neuer washe my fete, Jesus answered hym: If I washe the not, thou haste no parte wyth me.
Symon Peter sayeth vnto hym: Lord, not my fete only but also the handes and the heade. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: he that is washed, nedeth not, saue to washe his fete: but is cleane euer wyth. And ye are cleane, * but not all. For he knewe who it was that shoulde betraye hym.
Therfore sayd he: ye are not al cleane. So after he had washed theyr fete, and receyued his clothes & was set doune he sayd vnto them agayn wote ye what I haue done to you? Ye call me Master and Lord and ye saye well, for so am ye shulde do, as I haue done to you. Cleuely

The. xviii. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed. The wordes of his mouth, synge the officers to the grounde. Peter syngeth of Malchus eare. Jesus is brought before Anna: Cayphas and Pilate.

When Jesus had spoke these wordes I he went forth with his discyples ouer y broke of Cedro, where was a garden, into the whiche he entred & his discyples. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, knewe the place: for Jesus ofte tymes resorted thither with his discyples. Judas then after he had receyued a bonde of men: (and minystrers of the hye prestes & Pharises) came thither with lanternes, & fytybzandes & weapons. And Jesus knowyng all thynges y shuld come on hym, went forth, and saide vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hym: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus sayth vnto them. I am he. Judas also whiche betrayed hym, stode with them. Aflone then as he had sayde vnto them I am he, they went backward & fell to y grounde. Then asked he them agayne: whom seke ye? They sayde: Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. Wye seke me

These thynges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme wyl come, when I shall no moze speake vnto you: by prouerbes: but I shall shewe you playnely from my father. At y daye shal ye aske in my name. And I saye not vnto you that I wyl speake vnto my father for you. For y father him selfe loueth you, because ye haue loved me, and haue belened, that I came out from God. I went out from the father, and came into the worlde. Again, I leaue the worlde and go to the father.

Hys discyples sayde vnto hym: Lo, nowe talkest thou playnly, and speakest no prouerbe. Nowe are we sure, that thou knowest all thynges, and nedest not that any man shulde aske y any question. Therfore beleue we, that thou comest fro God. I Jesus answered them: Nowe ye do beleue. Beholde the houre draweth nye and is alre dy come, that ye shal be scattered eue ryne man to hys owne, and shal leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For the father is with me.

Gene. ix. a * Put vp thy sword into the sheath, whal I not dꝛynke of the cuppe, whiche my father hath geuen me? Then the companie and the captayne, and minystrs of the Jewes toke Jesus, & bound hym, and led hym awaye to Anna wyfe: for he was father in lawe vnto Cayphas, which was the hye pꝛiest that same yere. Cayphas was he John. xi. f which gaue counsel to the Jewes * that it was expedient, that one man shulde dye for þe people.

* And Symon Peter folowed Jesus, & so dyd math. xxi. f another disciple: that disciple was knowen vnto mar. xiii. f the hye pꝛiest, and went in wyth Jesus into the Luke. xxi. f palace of the hye pꝛiest. But Peter stode at the doze withoute. Then went oute that other disciple (which was knowen vnto the hye pꝛiest) and spake to the damsel that kept the doze, and brought in Peter. The sayde the damsell that kepte the doze, vnto Peter. Arte not thou also one of this mans discyples? He sayde. I am not The seruautes & minystrs stode there, which had made a fyre of cooles: for it was cold & they warmed them selues. Peter also stode among them, and warmed hym.

* The hye pꝛiest then asked Jesus of his dis-marke. xiii. c cyples & of his doctryne. Jesus answered hym, Luke. xxi. g I spake openly in the worlde. I neuer taught in the Synagoge, and in the temple whither all þe Jewes resorte, and in secrete haue I sayde nothyng. Why askest thou me? Aske them which herd me, what I haue sayde vnto the. Beholde they can tel what I sayd. Whē he had thus spoken, one of the minystrs which stode by, smote Actes. xxi. d Jesus on þe face, sayng * answerest thou the hye pꝛiest so? Jesus answered hym: Yf I haue euil spoken, beare witness of the euil. But yf I haue wel spoken, why smytest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Cayphas the hye pꝛiest.

Then sayde they vnto hym: arte not þe also one of hys discyples? He denyed it, and sayd: I am not. One of the seruautes of þe hye pꝛiestes (his colyn whose eare Peter smot of) sayd vnto him John. xiii. d dyd not I see the in the garden with hym? * Peter therfore denyed agayne: and immediatly þe mat. xxi. a cocke crewe. * Then led they Jesus from Cay-marke. xv. a phas into the hall of Iudgement. It was in the Luke. xxi. a moornyng, and they thei selues went not into the iudgement hal, lest they shuld be defyled, but that they myghte eate Pasche. Plate then wente oute vnto them & sayde: what accusacyon hrynge ye agaynst this man? They answered and sayde vnto him: Yf he were not an euill doer we wold not haue deliuered him vnto the.

Then saide Plate vnto the: take ye him, & I iudge hym after your owne lawe. The Jewes therfore sayde vnto hym. It is not lawfull for math. xx. c vs to put any man to death. That þe wordes of Jesus myghte be fulfilled * whiche he spake, sayng, nyfeng, what death he shoulde dye.

* Then Plate entred into the iudgement hal agayn, & called Jesus, & sayde vnto hi: art thou the kyng of the Jewes? Jesus answered: sayst þe that of thy selfe, or dyd other tel it þe of me? Pl-late answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne owne nacyon and hye pꝛiestes haue deliuered þe vnto me.
 What hast þe done? Jesus answered my kyngdome is not of this worlde. Yf my kyngdome were of this worlde: then wolde my minystrs surely fyght, that I shulde not be deliuered to the Je-wes, but now is * my kyngdome not from hēce.
 Plate therfore sayde vnto hym: Arte thou a kyng then? Jesus answered: thou sayest that I am a kyng: for this cause was I borne, and for this cause came I into the worlde, & I shuld beare witness vnto þe truth. And all þe are of the truth heare my voyce. Plate sayde vnto hym.
 What thyng is trueth? And when he had sayde this, he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, and sayeth vnto them: * I fynde in hym no cause at all. Ye haue a custome, that I shuld deliuer you one loose at Ester, wyl ye that I loose vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they all a-gayne, sayng: * Not hym but Barrabas: the same Barrabas was a murderer.

The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Christ is crucified. He comitteth his mother vnto John, dyeth and is buried.

hen Plate toke Jesus therfore, & I scourged hym. * And the souldyers wounde a crowne of thornes, and putte it on hys heade. And they dyd on hym a purple garment, & (as came vnto hym) and sayde: hallo kyng of the Jewes, & they smote hym on the face. Plate went forth agayn: and sayde vnto them, beholde, I hrynge hym forth to you, that ye maye knowe, that I fynde no faute in hym. Then came Jesus forth wearyng a crowne of thorne, and a robe of purple. And he sayeth vnto them: beholde the man.
 * When the hye pꝛiestes therfore and minystrs saw hym, they cried sayng crucify him, crucify hym. Plate saith vnto the. Take ye him, & crucifye hym, for I fynde no cause in him. The Je-wes answered hym: We haue * a lawe & by our lawe he ought to dye, because he made himselfe the sonne of God. When Plate herd that say-yng, he was the more afrayde, and went again into the iudgement hal, and sayeth vnto Jesus whence arte thou? But Jesus gaue hym none answer. Then sayde Plate vnto hym: Spea-kest thou not vnto me? knowest thou not, that I haue power to crucify the, and haue power to loose the? Jesus answered: Thou couldest haue no power at all agaynst me, * except it wer geuen the fro aboue. Therfore, he that deliuered me vnto þe hath þe more sinne. * And fro thence forth sought Plate meanes to loose hym, but the Jewes cryed sayng: Yf thou let hym goo, þe art not Cessars frend. For * whosoever maketh hym selfe a kyng, is agaynst Cesar.

When Plate heard þe sayng, he broughte Jesus forth, and sat downe to geue sentence in the place þe is called the pauement, but in þe byue

hine tongue, Gabbatha. It was the preparyng daye of the Easter, about the syxte hour. And he sayeth vnto þe Jewes: behold your kyng? They cryed, a waye wyth hym, a waye wyth, crucyfy hym. Pylate sayeth vnto them: Shall I crucyfy your kyng? The hye prestes answered: we haue no kyng but Ceaser. * Then deliuered he hym vnto them, to be crucyfyed. And they tooke Jesus, and led hym a waye. And he bare hys crosse, and went forth into a place, whiche is called the place of dead mens sculles. But in Hebrue, Golgotha, where they crucyfyed hym, and two other wyth hym, on eyther syde one, and Jesus in the myddes. And * Pylate wrote a tittle, and put it on the crosse. The wrytyng was: Jesus of Nazareth kyng of the Jewes. This tittle reade many of the Jewes. For the place where Jesus was crucyfyed, was nye to the cite. And it was wrytten in Hebrue, and Greke, and Laten. The sayd the hye prestes of þe Jewes to Pylate: write not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayd: I am kyng of the Jewes. Pylate answered: what I haue wrytten, that haue I wrytten.

¶ Then the souldyers, * When they had crucy-fyed Jesus, toke his garmentes, and made foure partes, to euery souldyer a parte, & also his cote.
The cote was without seme, wrought vpo tho-rowe out. They said therfore among the selues: Let vs not deuyde it, but cast lottes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture myght bee ful-fylled, sayng: * They haue departed my raymēt among them, & for my cote dyd they cast lottes.
And the souldyers dyd suche thynges in dede.

¶ There stode by the crosse of Jesus his mother and his mothers syster, Mary the wyfe of Cleo-phas and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus therfore sawe hys mother and the dysciple stādpyng, whome he loued, he sayeth vnto hys mother: woman, beholde thy sonne. Then sayde he to the disciple: behold thy mother. And from that houre the dysciple toke her for his owne.

¶ After these thynges, Jesus knowyng that all thynges were now performed, that * the scripture myght be fulfilled, he sayth: I thyste. So there stode a vessel by, full of vyner. * Therfore they fylled a sponge with vyner, & wound it aboute wyth ylope, and put it to hys mouthe.
As Jesus then receaued of the vyner, he sayd:
* It is fynished, and bowed hys heade, and gave vp the goost. The Jewes therfore, because it was the preparyng of the Sabbath that the bodyes should not remayne vpon the crosse, on the Sabbath daye (for that Sabbath daye was an hye daye) besoughte Pylate, that they legges myght be broke, and that they might be taken doune. Then came the souldyers, & brake the legges of the fyrste, and of the other whiche was crucyfyed with hym. But when they came to Jesus, and sawe that he was dead alreadye, they brake not his legges: but one of þe souldyers with a speare thrust him into the syde, and forth with came there out bloude and water.

¶ And he that sawe it bare recorde, and hys recorde is true. And he knoweth that he sayth true that ye myghte beleue also. For these thynges were done, that the scripture should be fulfilled.

* Ye shall not breake a bone of hym. And agayn another scripture sayth: * they shall loke on hym whō they pearled. * After this, Joseph of Ara-mathia (whiche was a discypule of Jesus: but secretly for feare of the Jewes) besought Pylate that he myght take doune þe body of Jesus. And Pylate gaue hym lycence, * (he came therfore, & tooke the body of Jesus.) And there came also Nicodemus (whiche at þe begynnyng cam to Jesus by night) and brought of myrrre and aloes myngled together, about an hundred pounde wayghte. Then tooke they the bodye of Jesus, and wounde it in lynnen clothes with the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And in the place wher he was crucyfyed, ther was a garden, and in the garden a newe sepulchre, wherein was neuer mā layde. There layde they Jesus therfore, because of the preparyng of the Sabbath of the Jewes for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ¶

¶ The .xx. Chapter. ¶

¶ The resurrection of Christ, whiche appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all hys discyples, to the greate conforste.

¶ The fyrste daye of the Sabbathes, I cam Mary Magdalene early (whē it was yet darke) vnto the sepulchre and sawe the stone taken a waye fro the graue. The she ranne, and came to Symon Peter, & to the other dyscypule * whō Jesus loued, and sayeth vnto them: They haue taken away the Lorde out of the graue, and we can not tell where they haue layde hym. Peter therfore went forth, and that other discipule, and came vnto the sepulchre. They ranne both together, and the other dyscypule dyd outrunne Peter and came fyrst to the sepulchre. And whē he had stouped doune, he sawe the linnen clothes lyng yet wente he not in. * Then came Symon Peter folowyng hym, & wente into the sepulchre, & sawe the linnē clothes lye, & the napken that was about hys head, not lyng wyth the linnen clothes but wrapped together in a place by it selfe. The wente in also that other discipule, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw and beleued. For as yet they knewe not the * scripture, that he should ryse agayne from death. ¶ Then the dyscyples went a waye agayn vnto theyr owne home.

¶ * Mary stode without at the sepulchre wepyng. So as she wepte, she bowed her selfe into þe sepulchre & seeth two angels clothed in white, syttyng the one at the heade, and the other at the fete, where they had layde the bodye of Jesus.
They saye vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou?
She sayth vnto them: for they haue takē awaye my Lord, and I wote not where they haue layd hym. When she had thus sayde, she turned her selfe backe, and sawe Jesus standyng, and knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Woman, why wepest thou? Whō seekest thou?
She supposyng that he had bene a gardener, sayeth vnto hym: Syr, if thou haue bozne hym hence, tell me where thou hast layde hym, and I wyl set hym. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Mary. She turned her selfe, and sayd vnto hym: Rabboni, which is to saye: maister. Iesus sayth vnto her: Touche me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to my brethren, & say vnto the: I ascende vnto my father and your father, & to my God, and poure God. Marpe Magdalene came and tolde the discyples, & she had sene the Lord, and that he had spoken such thinges vnto her. I. x. The same day at night whiche was the fyrst day of the Sabbathes, when the doores wer shut (wher the discyples were assembled together for feare of the Jewes) came Iesus, and stode in the myddes, and sayeth vnto the: peace be vnto you. And whē he had so sayd, he shewed vnto the hys handes, and his syde. Then were the discyples glad when they sawe the Lord. Then sayd Iesus to them agayn: peace be vnto you. As my father sent me, euensolende I you also. And when he had sayd those wordes, he brynged on them, and sayth vnto them: Receaue ye the holy gooste. Whosoever synners ye remyt they are remytted vnto them. And whosoever synnes ye retayne, they are retayned. I. xi. But Thomas one of the twelue (which is called Didimus) was not with the when Iesus came. The other discyples therefore sayde vnto hym: we haue sene the Lord. But he sayd vnto the except I se in his handes the print of a nayles, and put my fnger into the print of a nayles, & thrust my hand into his syde, I wyl not beleue. And after viii. dayes again his discyples wer within & Thomas with them. The came Iesus when the doores wer shut, and stode in the myddes, & sayd: Peace be vnto you. And after he sayd he to Thomas: bryng thy fnger hether, and se my handes and reach hether thy hand, and thrust it into my syde, & be not saythlesse, but beleuyng. Thomas answered & said vnto hym: my Lord, & my God Iesus sayeth vnto hym: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, & hast beleued, blessed are they that haue not sene, & yet haue beleued. I. xii. And many other signes truly dyd Iesus in the presence of his discyples, which are not wyrtten in this booke. These are wyrtten that ye myght beleue, & Iesus is Christ the sonne of God, and that (in beleuyng) ye myght haue lyfe thow we his name.

The .xxi. Chapter.

He appeareth to hys discyples agayn by the see of Tyberias, and commaundeth Peter earnestly to fede hys shepe.

Afterward dyd Iesus shewe hym selfe agayn, at the see of Tyberias. And on this wyse shewed he hym selfe. Ther wer together Symon Peter and Thomas (whiche is called Didimus) & Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sonnes of Zebedee, and two other of his discyples. Symon Peter sayeth vnto the: I wyl go a fshyng. They say vnto hym: Alas! so wyl go with the. They went theyr way, and entered into a shyp immediatly, and that nyght caught they not anyng. But when the morninge was nowe come, Iesus stode on the shore: neuer thelesse the discyples knew not that it was Iesus. Iesus sayeth vnto them: chyldren, haue ye any meat? They answered him, no. And he sayth vnto them: cast out the net on the ryght syde of the shyp, and ye shall fynd. They caste out therfore, and anon they wer not able to drawe it for the multitude of fshes.

Then sayd the disciple whō Iesus loued vnto Peter: It is the Lord. When Symon Peter herd that it was the Lord, he gyrd his cote vnto hym (for he was naked) and sprang into the sea. The other discyples came by shyppe, for they wer not farre from lande, but as it wer two hundred cubytes, and they drew the net with fshes. Asone then as they were come to lande, they sawe hote coles, & fische layde thereon, & bread. Iesus sayeth vnto the: bryng of the fische which ye haue now caught. Symon Peter wente vp and drew the net to the lande full of great fshes, an hundred and liii. And for all there wer so many, yet was not the net broken. Iesus sayth vnto the: come, & dyne. And none of the discyples durste aske hym: what art thou? For they knewe that it was the Lord. Iesus then came, and toke bread, & gaue them and fische likewise. This is nowe the third tyme that Iesus appeared to his discyples, after that he was risen again, fro death. So whē they had dynd, Iesus sayth to Symon Peter: Symon Joanna, louest thou me more then these? he said vnto him: yee Lord, thou knowest, & I loue the. He sayeth vnto hym: fede my lābes. He sayth to hym agayn the seconde tyme: Symon Joanna, louest thou me? he sayth vnto him: Yee Lord, thou knowest that I loue the. He said vnto hym: fede my shepe. He sayd vnto hym the thyrde tyme: Symon Joanna louest thou me? Peter was sorowful, because he sayd vnto hym the thyrde tyme: louest thou me, & he sayd vnto hym: Lord, thou knowest al thinges, thou knowest that I loue the. Iesus sayeth vnto hym: fede my shepe.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto the: when thou shalt yonge, thou gyrddest thy selfe, & walkedst whether thou wouldest, but when thou art olde, & thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, & another shall gyde the, and lead the whither thou wouldest not. That spake he, signyfying by what death he should glorifye God.

And when he had spoken this, he sayeth vnto hym: folow me. Peter turned about, & saw the disciple, whō Iesus loued, folowng (whiche also leaued on his brest at supper, and said: Lord whiche is he that betrayeth the?) When Peter therfore saw him, he sayth to Iesus: Lord, what shal he here do? Iesus sayth vnto hym: If I wil haue hym to tary tyll I come, what is that to thee, folow thou me. Then wente this sayng abrode among the brethren, that that disciple shuld not dye. Yet Iesus sayd not to hym, he shall not dye, but yf I wyl that he tary tyll I come, what is that to the? The same disciple is he, whiche testifyeth of these thinges, & wrote these thinges. And we knowe that hys testimonye is true. There are also many other thinges, which Iesus dyd, the whiche if they shuld be wyrtten euery one, I suppose, the world coulde not contayne the booke that shoulde be wyrtten.

The Actes of the Apostles.

The first Chapter. ✠

The ascension of Christ. Matthias is chosen in steade of Judas.

In the former treatise (deare Theophylus) we haue spoken of all that Iesus began to do and teache, vntill the daye in which he was taken vp, after that he thow the holy goste had geue commaundementes vnto the Apostles, whome he had chosen, to whome also he shewed hym selfe alyue after his passion (and that by many tokens) appearyng vnto the fourtye dayes, & speakyng of the kyngdom of God, and gathered them together, *and commaunded them, that they shuld not departe from Ierusalem: but to waite for promes of the father *wherof (sayeth he) ye haue hearde of me. For Ihon truelye baptysed with water, but ye shalbe baptysed with the holpe goste after these fewe dayes. When they therfore wer come together, they asked of hym, saynge: Lorde, wilt thou at this tyme, restore again the kyngdom of Israel? And he sayd vnto the: * It is not for you to knowe the tymes, or the seasons whiche the father hath put in hys owne power: but *ye shall receaue power, after that the holpe goste is come vpon you. And *ye shalbe wytnes-ses vnto me, not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Jewrye and in Samary, and euen vnto the worlde's ende.

And when he had spokē these thynges, whyle they beheld, *he was taken vp and hys a cloude receaued hym vp oute of theyr sight. And whyle they looked stedfastlye vnto warde heauen, as he went, beholde, two men stode by them in wyhte apparell, which also sayd: ye me of Galile, why stande ye gasyng vp into heauen? Thys same Jesus, whiche is taken vp from you into heauen, *shal so come, euen as ye haue sene hym go into heauen. Then returned they vnto Ierusalem from the mount (that is called Olyuete) (whych is from Ierusalem a Sabbath dayes iorneye).
And when they were come in, they went vp into a parler, wher abode both *Peter and James, & Ihon and Andrew, Whyllyp and Thomas, Bar-tholomewe and Matthewe, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Symon zelotes, and Judas brother of James. These all contynued wth one accorde in prayer and supplicacyō wth the we-men, and Marye the mother of Iesu, and wth hys brethren.

✠ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the dyscyples, and sayde (the nombze of names that wer together, wer about an hundred and twentye.) Ye men and brethren, thys scripture must nedes haue bene fulfilled, whych the holpe gooste, thow the mouthe of Dauid spake before of Judas, * whiche was guyde to them that tooke Iesus. * For he was nombzed wyth vs, & had obtayned felshipp in thys myni-stracion. And the same hath now possessed a plat of grounde wth the rewarde of iniquyte: and when he was *hanged, he burste asunder in the myddes, and al his bowels gushed out. And it is known vnto all the inhabyters of Ierusalem, in so muche that the same feld is called in theyr mother tonge, Acheldama, that is to saye, the blou-dy felde. For it is wyttē in the booke of psalmes:

* hys habytacion be voyde, and no mā be dwel-lyng therin, * and hys wyshpwyke let another take: Wherfore of these men whiche haue companyed wth vs (all the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had al his conuersaciō among vs, begyn-nyng at the baptyme of Ihon, vnto the same daye that he was take vp fro vs) must one be ordeyned, to be a wytnes wth vs of his resurreccion.

And they apoynted two, Joseph, which is called Barsabas (whose surname was Justus) and Matthias. And whē they prayed, they said: thou Lorde which knowest the hertes of al mē shew whether of these two thou hast chosen: * he may take the roume of this ministraciō and Apostle-shipp, from which Judas by transgression fell, & he myghte go to hys owne place. An they gaue forth their lottes, and the lot fell on Matthias, & he was counted wth the eleuen Apostles. ✠

The ii. Chapter. ✠

The commyng of the holy goste. The sermon of Peter before the congregacion at Ierusalem, and the increase of the saythfull.

hen * the fyfthe dayes wer come to an ende, they were all wth one accorde together in one place. And so-denly there came a sound from heauen, as it had bene the commyng of a myghty wynde, & it fylled all the house where they sate, and there appeared vnto them clouen tongues, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it sate vpon eche one of them, * and they were all fylled wth the holy goste, and began to speake wyth other tongues, euen as the same spyrte gaue them vterauce.

There were dwelling at Ierusalem, Jewes devote men, oute of euerye nacyon of them that are vnder heauen. Whē thys was noyed about the multitude came together, & were astonnyed because that euery man hearde the speake wth hys owne language. They wōdred al, and maruayled, sayng among them selues: beholde, are not all these whych speake of Galile? And howe heare we euery man hys owne tongue wherein we were bozne? Parthians, and Medes, & Cla-mites, and the inhabyters of Mesopotamia and of Jewrye, and of Capadocia, of Pontus and Asia, Phrygia, and Pamphilia, of Egypte and of the parties of Lybia, whych is besyde Syren and straungers of Rome, Jewes and * Prosely-tes, Grekes and Arabians: we haue hard them speake in our owne tongues the greates wythes of God. They were al amased, and wōdred saynge one to another: what meaneth thys?
Other mocked, saynge: these menne are full of newe wyne.

For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seying it is but the thyrde houre of the daye. But thys is that whiche was spoken by the prophet Joel: And it shalbe in the last dayes, sayth God, of my spyte I wyl powze out vpon all fleshe. * And your sonnes & youre doughters shal prophesye, and youre younge men shal see vpspons, and your old men shal dreame dreames. And on my seruantes, & on my handmaydens I wyl powze out of my spyte in those dayes, & they shal all prophesye. And * I wyl shew wonders in heauen about, and tokens in the earthe beneth, bloude & fyre, and the vapoure of smoke. psal. xvi. c.

E Ye men and brethren, let me frely speake vnto you of the patriarche Dauid: * For he is both dead and buryed, and hys sepulchre remayneth wyth vs vnto this day. Therefore seying he was a prophete, and knewe that God had swozne wyth an oth to hym, that Christ (as concerning the fleshe) shoulde come, & the frutes of hys loynes, and should syt on hys seat, he knowyng this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ: that hys soule shoulde not be left in hell: neyther hys fleshe shuld se corrupcion. Thys Jesus hath God rayled vp, * wherof we all are wytnesses.

Actes. i. a

Sence nowe that he by the ryght hand of God is exalted, and hath receaued of the father y^e promyse of the holy goste, he hath shed forth thys * (gyst) whych ye now se and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauen, but he sayth: * The Lorde sayd to my Lorde: syt thou on my ryght hande, vntyll I make thy foes thy foote stoole. Sotherfore let al the house of Israel knowe for a suretie, that God hath made that same Jesus (whom ye haue crucified) Lorde and Christ.

When they herde thys, they were pricked in theyr hertes, and sayd vnto Peter and vnto the other Apostles: Ye men & brethren, * what shall we do? Peter sayd vnto the: repent of your synnes, and be baptysed euery one of you in y^e name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of synnes, and ye shall receaue the gyft of the holy goste. For the promyse was made vnto you and to youre chyldren, and to al that are afarre of, eue as many as the Lorde our God shall call. And wyth many other wordes bare he wytnes and exhorted them sayng: Saue your selues from this vntowarde generacion. Then they that gladly receaued hys preachyng were baptysed: And the same daye there were added vnto them aboute thre thousande soules.

And they contynued in y^e Apostles doctryne & feloshypp, and in breakyng of bread, and in prayers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders and sygnes were shewed by the Apostles (at Ierusalem. And greete feare came vpon all men.) And all that belened, kept them selues together and had all thynges commen, and solde theyr possessions and goodes, and parted them to all men, as euery man had nede. And they continued dayly with one accord in the temple, & brake breade from house to house, and dyd eate theyr meate together wyth gladnes and synghenes of herte, prayng God, and had fauoure wyth all the people. And the Lorde added to the congregacyon dayly, suche as shoulde be saued.

The. iii. Chapter. R

The halt is restored to hys fete. Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

Peter and Ihon went vp together into the temple at the nynthe houre of prayer. And a certayn man that was halt from hys mothers wombe, was broughte, whome they layde daylye at the gate of the temple (whych is called beutyfull) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter and Ihon that they would go into the temple, he despyred to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened hys eyes on hym wyth Ihon, and sayde: Loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustyng to receaue some thyng of them. Then sayde Peter: Syluer and golde haue I none, suche as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth * ryle vp, and walke. And he toke hym by the ryght hande, and lyfte hym vp. And immediatly hys fete and ancle bones receaued strengthe. And he sprange, stode, and walked, and entred wyth them into the temple, walkyng, and leapyng, and prayng God. R

And all the people sawe hym walke, & prayse God. And they knewe hym, that it was he which sat and begged at the beutyfull gate of the temple. And they wondered, and were sore astonyed, at that whych had happened vnto hym. And as the halte which was healed, helde Peter & Ihon all the people ranne amased vnto them in * the porche that is called Salomons.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people: Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at ye at this, or why loke ye so on vs, as though by our owne power or strength we had made this man go: The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, & of Jacob, the God of our fathers hath glorified his sonne Iesus, whom ye deliuered *and denyed in the presence of Pilate, when he had iudged hym to be loosed. But ye denyed y^e holy and iust, and despyred a murderer to be geuen you, and kyllled the Lorde of lyfe, whom God hath ray- sed from death: of the whyche we are wytnesses. And his name thozowe the sayth of his name hath made this man sounde, whome ye see, and knowe. And the sayth which is by hym hath ge- uen to hym this health in the presence of you all. And nowe brethren, I wote that thozow igno- raunce ye dyd it, as dyd also youre rulers. But God (whyche before had shewed, by the mouth of al his prophetes) howe y^e Christ should suffer hath thus wyle fulfilled. Let it *repēt you ther- fore, and conuert, that your synnes may be done away. When the tyme of refrechynge cometh which we shal haue of the presence of the Lorde and when God shal send hym, which before was preached vnto you, that is to wyt Iesus Christe whych must receaue heauen, vntil the tyme that all thynges, whyche God hath spoken by the mouth of al his holy prophetes, sence the world began, be restored agayn.

Moses truly sayd vnto the fathers: *a Pro- phete shall the Lorde poure God rayle vp vnto you, euen of youre brethren, lyke vnto me: hym shall ye heare, in al thynges whatsoeuer he shal saye vnto you. For the tyme wyl come that e- uery soule which wyl not heare that same pro- phet, shalbe destroyed from amonge the people. All the prophetes also from Samuel and hence forth (as many as haue spoken) haue in like wise tolde of these dayes.

Ye are the chyldren of the prophetes, and of the couenaunt, whyche God made vnto our fa- thers, sayng to Abraham: *Euen in thy seide shal all the kynredes of y^e earth be blessed. Forst whē God had rayled vp his sonne Iesus vnto you, he sente hym to blesse you, that euery one of you should turne from his wyckednes. I

The. liii. Chapter.

The Apostles are taken and brought before the counsell. They are forbydden to preache, but they turne them vnto prayer, and are more obedient vnto God then vnto men.

As they spake vnto the people, the preastes and the rulers of the tem- ple, and the Saduces came vpon them, takng it greuoulye y^e they taughte the people, and preached in Iesus the resurreccio fro death. And they layde handes on them and put them in holde, vntyl the next daye, for it was nowe euē- tyde. Howbeit many of them whiche hearde the wordes, beleued, and the nombze of the mē was aboute fyue thousande.

And it chaunced on the morowe, that they rulers and elders, and scribes, (and Annas the chiefe preaste and Cayphas, and Iohn, and Ale- xander, and as many as wer of the kyured of the hye preastes) gathered together at Ierusalem. And when they had set the before the, they asked *by what power, or in what name haue ye done this.

Then Peter full of the holpe gooste, sayde vnto them: ye rulers of the people and elders of Israel, yf we this daye be examyned of the good dede that we haue done to the synke mā by what meanes he is made whole: bee it knowen vnto you all, & to all the people of Israel, that by the name of *Iesus Christe of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whome God rayled agayn from de- ath: euen by hym doeth this mā stande here pre- sent before you whole. *Thys is the stone why- che was caste asyde of you buylders, whyche is become the chiefe of the corner. Neether is there saluacion in any other. *For amonge men vn- der heauen ther is geuen none other name, wher in we muste be saued. I

When they sawe the boldnesse of Peter and Iohn, and vnderstode that they wer vnlarned and laye men, they marueled, and they knewe them, that they had bene wth Iesu, and behol- dyng also the man (whyche was healed) stan- dyng wth them, they coulde not saye agaynst it, but commaunded them to go asyde out of the counsell, and counceled among them selues, say- yng: *What shall we do to these menne? For a mannyfeste sygne is done by them, and is openly knowen to all them that dwell in Ierusalem, & we can not denye it: But that it bee nopsed no farther amonge the people, let vs threaten and charge them, that they speake hence forth to no man in this name.

And they called them, *and commaunded the that in no wyle they should speake nor teache in the name of Iesu. But Peter and Iohn answe- red, and sayde vnto them: whether it be ryght in the syght of God, to herken vnto you more then to God, iudge ye. For we cā not but speake, that whyche we haue sene and heard. So they threatened they them, and let them go, and found nothyng how to punysh them, because of the people. For al mē prayled God because of *that which was done: for the man was aboute fourtie yere old, on whom this myracle of healyng was shewed.

As soon as they wer let go, they came to they feloes, and shewed all that the hye preastes and elders had said. And when they heard that, they lyft vp they voyces to God wth one accord, & sayd: Lorde thou art God, which hast made hea- uen and earth, the sea, & al that in them is, which *(in the holy goost) by the mouth of thy seruante Dauid *(our father) haste sayde: *Why dyd the heathen rage, & the people ymagen vayne thynges: The kynges of the earthe stode vp, and the rulers came together, agaynst the Lorde and a- gaynst his anoynted.

fydence they maye speake thy worde. So shalte thou stretch forth thyne hande, that healyng and sygnes and wonders be done by the name of thy holy chylde Iesus. And as sone as they had prayed, the place moued, where they wer assembled together, and they wer all fylled wth the holpe gooste, and they spake the worde of God holdelpe.

¶ And the multytude of them that beleued, wer of one hert, and of one soule: Neyther sayd any of them, that ought of the thynges whiche he possessed was his owne: but they had al thynges common. And wth greate power gaue the Apostles wytnesse of the resurrection of the Lord Iesu. And great grace was wth them al. Neyther was there any among the that lacked. For as many as wer possessers of landes, or houses, solde them, and brought the pryce of the thynges that wer sold and layde it doune at the Apostles fete. And distribution was made vnto euery man accordyng as he had nede. ¶ And Ioses, whiche was also called of the Apostles, Barnabas (that is to say: the sonne of consolacion) beyng a Leuite, and of the countre of Cypers, when he had lande, solde it, and layde the pryce doune at the Apostles fete.

The .v. Chapter.

The dissimplyng of Ananias, and Sapphira is punished. Miracles are done by the Apostles which are taken, but the Angell of God byngeth them out of prison. They are brought before the counsell. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beaten, they teyple in trouble.

A Certain man, named Ananias with Sapphira his wyfe, sold a possession, and kept a way parte of the pryce (his wyfe also beyng of counsell) and brought a certayn parte, and layde it at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayde: Ananias, howe is it, that Sathan hath fylled thyne hart, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holy gooste and kepe a waye parte of the pryce of the lande? Pertayned it not vnto the onelye, and after it was solde, was it not in thyne owne power? Why hast thou concealed thys thyng in thyne herte? Thou hast not lye d vnto menne, but vnto God. When Ananias herd these wordes, he fell doune and gaue v by the gooste. And great feare came on all them that herd these thynges. And the yong men rose vp, and put hym aparte, and carped hym out and buryed hym.

¶ And it fortuneth, that (as it were about the space of thre houres after) hys wyfe came in, ignorant of that whiche was done. And Peter sayd vnto her: Tell me, solde ye not the lande for so muche? And she sayd: yee, for so muche. Then Peter sayde vnto her: Why haue ye agreed together, to tempt the spyte of the Lord? Beholde, the fete of them which haue buryed thy husbāde are at the doore, and shall carpe the oute. Then fell she doune straghte waye at hys fete, and yeldded v by the gooste. And the yonge men came in and founde her dead, and carped her out, and buryed her by her husbāde. And greate feare came on all the congregacyon, and on as many as hearde it.

¶ By the handes of the Apostles were many sygnes and wonders shewed amonge the people. And they were altogether wth one accorde in Salomons porche. And of other durste no man ioyne hym selfe to them, neuerthelesse the people magnified the. The nombre of the that beleued in the Lord both of menne and women grewe more and more: in so muche that they brought the sycke into the stretes, and layde the on beddes and couches, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter, when he came by, myghte shadowe some of them, (and that they myght all be deliuered from theyr infirmities.) There came also a multytude out of the cyties rounde aboute vnto Jerusalem, byngynge sycke folkes, and them whiche wer vexed wth vncleane spytes. And they were healed euery one.

¶ Then the chefe prest rose vp, and all they that wer wth hym (whiche is the secte of Sadduces) and were full of indignacyon, and layed handes on the Apostles, and put them in the comune prison. ¶ But the angell of the Lord by nyght opened the prison doores, and brought the forth, and sayd: go, and stande and speake in the temple to the people, al the wordes of thys lyfe. When they herd that, they entred into the temple earlye in the mornynge, and taught. But the chefe preast came, and they that were wth hym and called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chylde of Israel, and sent men to the prison, to fet them. When the mynysters came, and founde them not in the prison, they returned and tolde, sayng: the prison truly founde we shutte wth all dyligence, and the keepers standynge wythout before the doores. But when we had opened, we founde no man wythin. When the chefe preast and the ruler of the temple, and the byeprestes herde these thynges, they doubted of the wherunto thys would growe.

¶ Then came one and shewed them: behold, the men that ye put in prison, stande in the temple, and teache the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, wth mynysters and brought the wyth out vpolence. For they feared the people, lest they shuld haue ben stoned. And whē they had brought them, they set them before the counsell. And the chefe preast asked them, sayng: whyd not we straptely commaund you, that ye shuld not teache in thys name? And beholde, ye haue fylled Jerusalem wth your doctryne, and intend to byng thys mans bloude vpon vs.

¶ Peter and the other Apostles answered, and sayd: We ought more to obey God then men. The God of oure fathers raysed vp Iesus, whō ye slewe, and hāged on tre. Hym hath God lyfte vp wth hys ryghte hande, to bee a ruler and a saupoure, for to geue repentance to Israel, and for geuenesse of synnes. And we are recordes of these thynges, whiche we saye, and so is also the holy gooste, whom God hath genen to them that obey hym. When they hearde that, they claue asunder, and sought meanes to slea them. Then stode there vp one in the counsell, a Pharyse, named med. Gamaliell, a doctoure of lawe (had in reputation among all the people) & commaunded the Apostles to go asyde a lytle space, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Israel, take hede to youre selues, what ye entend to do as touchynge these men. For befoze these dayes rose vp one Theudas, boasting hym selfe, to whom resorted a nombre of men, about a foure hundred, whiche was slayn: & they all whiche beleued hym, were scattered abrode, and broughte to nought. After this man, was ther one Judas of Galile in the dayes of the tribute, and drew a way much people after hym: he also perished and al, euen (as many as harkened to hym) were scattered abroade. And now I say vnto you: refrayne youre selues from these men, and let them alone. For yf this counsell, or this worke be of men, it wyll come to nought. But and yf it bee of God, ye can not destroye it, lest haplye ye be founde to stryue against God. And to hym agreed the other: and when they had called the Apostles, they beate them, & commaunded that they shoulde not speake in the name of Iesu, and let them go.

And they departed from the counsell, & reioysing, that they were counted worthy, to suffre rebuke for hys name. And daylye in the temple and in euery house they ceased not, to teache and preache Iesus Christ.

The. vi. Chapter.

Conuerses (or deacons) are ordeyned in the congregation, to do seruyce in necessary thynges of the body, that the Apostles maye wayte onlye vpon the worde of God. Steuen is accused.

In those dayes (when the nombre of the dyscyples grewe) there arose a grudge amonge the Grekes against the hebrewes, because they wyddowed were despyled in the dayly ministry. Then the twelue called the multitude of the dyscyples together, & sayd: It is not mete that we should leaue the word of God and serue tables. Wherefoze brethren loke ye out among you seven men, of honest reposte, and full of the holy goost and wysedom, to whom we maye commytte this busynes. But we wyll geue oure selues continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the worde. And they chose Steuen a man full of fayth and full of the holpe goost, and Phillip, and Procorus, and Nicanor & Timon and Perimenas, & Nicolas a conuert of Antioche. These they set befoze the Apostles: and when they had prayed they layd their handes on the. And the word of God increased, and the nombre of the dyscyples multiplyed in Jerusalem greatly, and a great company of prestes were obedient to the fayth.

And Steuen, full of fayth and power, dyd great wonders and myracles among the people. The ther arose certen of the Synagoge, which is called the Synagoge of the Libertines, and Cyrenytes, and of Alexandria, and of Celycia, and of Asia, dysputyng with Steuen. And they coulde not resiste the wysedome, and the spyrte, whiche spake. I Then sent they in men, whiche sayde: We haue hearde hym speake blasphemous wordes against Moses, and against God. And they moued the people and the elders and the Scribes: and came vpon hym and caught hym, and broughte hym to the counsel, and brought forth false witness, whiche sayde: This man ceaseth not to speake blasphemous wordes against this holy place and the lawe: for we herde hym saye: this Iesus of Nazareth shal destroye this place, and shall chaunge the ordynaunces, whiche Moses gaue vs. And all that sate in the counsell, looked stedfastlye on hym, and sawe hys face as it had bene the face of an angell.

The. vii. Chapter.

Steuen maketh answer to his accusation, rebuketh the hardnecked Jewes, and is stoned vnto death.

Then sayd the chiefe prest: is it even so? And he sayd: ye men, brethren, and fathers, herken: The God of glorie appeared vnto our father Abraham when he was in Mesopotamia, befoze he dwelt in Charran, and sayd vnto hym: Get thee out of thy countre, and from thy kynred, and come into the land whiche I shal shewe the. The came he out of the lande of Chalde, and dwelt in Charran. And fro thence, when hys father was dead, he brought hym into this lande, in whiche ye now dwell, and he gaue hym none inheritance in it, no not the bredth of a foote: & promysed that he woulde geue it to hym to possesse, and to hys scede after hym, when as yet he had no chyld.

God verely spake on this wise: that his scede shoulde sojourn in a straunge lande, and that they shoulde kepe the in bondage, and entreat them euell. .i.ii. C. yeres. And the nacion (to whome they shalbe in bondage) wyll I iudge, & sayd God. And after that shall they come forth and serue me in this place. And he gaue hym a couenaunte of circumcision. And he begat Isaac, and circumcysed hym the eyght daye, and Isaac begat Jacob, & Jacob begat the twelue patryarkes. And they patryarkes hauing indignacyon, solde Joseph into Egypte. And God was with hym, & deliuered hym out of al hys aduersities, and gaue hym fauoure & wysedome in the syght of Pharaos kyng of Egypte. And he made hym gouernoure ouer Egypte, and ouer all hys householde.

But there came a deth ouer all the lande of Egypte and Canaan, and great affliccyon that oure fathers founde no sustenance. But when Jacob herde that there was corne in Egypte, he sent oure fathers first. And at the seconde tyme Joseph was knowne of his brethren, & Josephs kynred was made knowne vnto Pharaos. The sente Joseph a message, and caused hys father to be brought, & all hys kynne. .lxxv. soules. And Jacob descended into Egypte, & dyed bothe he and oure fathers, and were caried ouer into Sichem and layde in the sepulchre: that Abraham bought for money of the sonnes of Emor, the sonne of Sichem.

Saul persecuteth the Christen. The Apostles are scattered abrode. Philip cometh into Samaria. Symon Magus is daptised, he dissembleth. Philip daptiseth the chamberlayne.

Saul

Saul consented vnto his death. And at that tyme there was a greate persecution against the congregation whiche was at Hierusalem and they were all scattered a brode throughe out the regions of Jewry and Samaria, except the Apostles. But deuoute menne dressed Steuen and made greate lamentacion ouer him. As for Saul he made hauocke of the congregacion and entered into euery house, and drew oute bothe menne and women and thruste them into prison. Therfore they that wer scatered abroad went euery where preaching the woorde of God.

Then came Philip into a citee of Samaria, and preached Christ vnto them. And the people gaue hede vnto those thynges whiche Philip spake with one accorde, hearyng and seying the miracles whiche he did. For vncleane spirittes crying with loude voyce, came oute of many that were possessed of them. And many taken with palsies, and many that halted, wer healed. And there was greate ioye in that citee.

But there was a certain manne, called Symon, whiche before tyme in the same citee bled with charme, and bewitched the people of Samaria, sayng that he was a manne that could doo greate thynges. Whom they regarded, from the lyste to the greatesse, sayng: this manne is the power of God, whiche is called great. And hym they sette muche by because that of long tyme, he had bewitched them with sorceries.

But as sone as they gaue credence to Philip, preaching of the kyngdome of God, and of the name of Jesus Christ: they wer baptised bothe men & womē. Then Symon hymself beleue also. And when he was baptised, he continued with Philip, wondering, beholding the miracles and signes, whiche were shewed. When the Apostles whiche were at Hierusalem heard saie that Samaria had receiued the woorde of God they sente vnto them Peter and Iohn. Whiche when they were come doune praied for them, that they might receiue the holy ghooste: For as yet he was come on none of the but they wer baptised onely in the name of Christ Iesu. Then laied they their handes on them, & they receiued the holy ghooste.

When Symon sawe that throughe laipng on of the Apostles handes, the holy ghooste was geuen, he offered them money, sayng: geue me also this power, that on whomsoener I putte the handes, he may receiue that holy ghooste. But Peter saied vnto hym: thy money perishe with thee, because thou hast thought that the gifte of God maye bee obtained with money. Thou hast neither parte nor fellowship in this busynes. For thy hearte is not right in the sight of God. Repente therefore of this thy wickednes and praie God, that he thought of thyne hearte maye be forgiven thee. For I perceiue that thou arte full of bitter gall, and wrappd in iniquitee.

Then answered Symon and saied: praye ye to the Lorde for me that none of these thynges whiche ye haue spoken, fall on me. And when they had testified and preached the woorde of God they returned toward Hierusalem, and preached the Gospell in many citees of the Samaritans.

The angell of the Lorde spake vnto Philip, sayng: aryse and goo toward the southe vnto the waye that gooeth doune from Hierusalem vnto the citee of Gaza, whiche is in the deserte. And he arose, and wente on. And behold a manne of Ethiopia (a chamberlayne, and of greate aucthorite: with Candace quene of the Ethiopians, and had the rule of al her treasure) came to Hierusalem for to worship. And as he returned home agayne sitting in his charret, he red the Prophete.

Then the spirite saied vnto Philip: good nete and ioyne thy self to ponde the charret. And Philip ranne to hym, and heard hym rede the Prophete Esai, and saied: Understandest thou what thou readeest? And he saied: How can I, excepte I had a guyde? And he desired Philip, that he would come vp, and sit with hym. The tenoure of the scripture whiche he rede, was this: He was led as a shepe to bee slaine: and like a lambe dumme before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth. Because of his humblenes he was not esteemed. But who shall declare his generacyon? for his lyfe is taken from the earth. The chamberlayne answered Philip, and saied: I praye thee of whom speaketh the Prophete this? Of hymself, or of some other manne?

Philip opened his mouth, and beganne at the same scripture, and preached vnto hym Jesus. And as they wente in their waye, they came vnto a certayne water, and the chamberlain saied: See, here is water: what dooeth lette me to bee baptised? Philip saied vnto hym: If thou beleue with all thine hearte thou mayest. And he answered and saied: I beleue that Jesus Christe is the sonne of God. And he commaunded the charret to stande still. And they went doune bothe in the water: bothe Philip and also the chamberlayne & he baptised hym. And as sone as they were come out of the water the spirite of the Lorde caughte awaye Philip and the chamberlayne sawe hym nomore. And he wente on his waye reioysing: but Philip was founde at Azotus. And he walked througheout the countree, preaching in all the citees, till he came to Cesarea.

The ix. Chapter.

Saul is converted, and confoundeth the Jewes Peter rayseth Tabitha.

Saul yet breathyng out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lorde, wente vnto the hie preeste, and desired of hym letters, to cary to Damasco, to the Synagoges: that if he founde any of this waye (whether they were menne or women) he might byying them bounde vnto Hierusalem. And when he southeied, it fortuned that as he was come nye to Damasco, sodenly there shyned rounde aboute hym a lyghte from heauen, and he fell to the earth and heard a voyce, sayng to hym: Saul Saul, why persecutest thou me? And he saied: what arte thou Lorde? And the Lorde saied: I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest. It is harde for thee to lyeke agaynst the pykes.

And

The Actes

And he bothe tremblyng, and astonnied saied: Lorde, * what wylte thou haue me to dooe? And the Lorde saied vnto hym: arise, and goo into Jerusalem, and it shal be tolde thee what thou must dooe.

W The menne whiche ioyned with hym, stode amased, hearyng a voyce, but seeyng no manne. And Saull arose from the earth, and when he opened his eyes, he sawe no manne. But thei led hym by the hande, and broughte hym into Damascus. And he was thre dayes without sight, and neither did eate nor drynke. And there was a certain discipule at Damascus, named Ananias, and to hym saied the Lorde in a vision: Ananias. And he saied: Beholde, I am here Lorde: and the Lorde saied vnto hym: Arise, and goo into the streete (whiche is called straighte) and seke in the house of Judas after one called Saull of Tarsus. For beholde he prayeth, and hath sene a vision a manne named Ananias commyng in to hym, and puttynge his handes on hym, that he might receiue his sight.

C Then Ananias answered: Lorde, I haue hearde by many, of this manne * how muche evil he hath dooen to the saintes at Jerusalem, and here he hath auctorite of the hie preestes to bynd all that call on thy name. The Lorde saied vnto hym: goo thy waye, for he is a chosen vessel vnto me, to beare my name before the Gentiles, and kynges, and the chyldeyn of Israell.

For I will shewe hym how greate thynges * he must suffre for my names sake. * And Ananias wente his waye, and entered into the house, and putte his handes on hym, and saied: Brother Saull, the Lorde that appeared vnto thee in the waye as thou camest, hath sente me, that thou mightest receiue thy sight, and be filled with the holy ghooste. And immediatly there fell from his eyes as it had been scales, and he receiued sight: and arose, and was baptised, and receiued meate, and was comforted. Then was Saull certain dayes with the disciples whiche were at Damascus. And straight waye he preached Christe in the Synagoges, how he was the sonne of God but all that hearde hym, were amased, and saied: Is not this he, that spoyled theim whiche called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hether for that entent, that he might byyng theim bounde vnto the hie preestes? But Saull encreased the more in strength, and confounded the Jewes whiche dwelt at Damascus, affirmyng that this was verie Christe.

And after a good while, the Jewes toke consaill together, to kyll hym. But their layng a waite was knowe of Saull. And thei watched the gates daye and nighte to kyll hym. * Then the disciples toke hym by nighte and putte hym through the wall, and let hym doune in a basket. And whē Saull was come to Jerusalem, he asayed to couple hymself to the disciples: but thei were all afraied of hym, and beleued not that he was a discipule. But Barnabas tooke hym, and broughte hym to the Apostles, & declared to thei how he had sene the Lorde in the waye and that he had spoken to hym, and how he had dooen boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesu. And he had his conuersacion with theim at Jerusalem speakyng boldly in the name of the Lorde Jesu. And he spake and disputed agaynst the Greekes but thei wente aboute to slee hym. Whiche whē the brethren knewe, * thei broughte hym to Cesarea, and sente hym forth to Chasus. Then had the congregacions rest through all Jewry and Galilee and Samaria, and were edified and walked in the feare of the Lorde, and multiplied by the conforste of the holy ghooste.

And it chaunced as Peter walked throughoute all quarters: he came also to the saintes, whiche dwelte at Lydda. And there founde a certayne manne named Eneas, whiche had kept his bedde eight yeres, and was sicke of the palsy. And Peter saied vnto hym: Eneas: The Lorde Jesu Christe make thee whole, arise, and make thy bed. * And he arose ymmediatly. And all that dwelt at Lydda and Straton sawe hym and turned to the Lorde.

There was at Joppa a certayne woman a discipule named Tabitha (whiche by interpretacon is called Dorcas) the same was full of good woorkes and almes deedes, whiche she did. And it chaunced in those dayes that she was sicke, and dyed. Whom when they had washed, they layed her in a chamber. But for asmuche as Lydda was nise to Joppa, and the disciples had hard that Peter was there, thei sente vnto hym, desirynge hym, that he woulde not be greued to come vnto theim.

Peter arose, and came with theim. And when he was come, thei broughte hym into the chamber. And all the wyddowes stode rounde aboute hym wepyng, and shewyng the cootes and garments whiche Dorcas made, whyle she was with theim. And Peter putte theim forth, and kneeled doune, and prayed: and turned hym to the body, and saied: Tabitha * arise, and she opened her eyes, and when she sawe Peter, she satte vp. And he gaue her the hande, and lift her vp. And when he had called the saintes and wyddowes, he shewed her aliue. And it was knowe through out all Joppa, and many belued in the Lorde. And it fortuneth, that he taried many dayes in Joppa with one Symon a tanner.

The x. Chapter.

The vision that Peter sawe. How he was sente to Cornelius. The heahe also receiue the spirite and are baptised.

Here was a certain manne in Cesarea called Cornelius, a capitaine of the souldoyours of Italy, a deuoute manne & one that feareth God with all his house holde whiche gaue muche almes to the people, & prayed God alwaie. The same sawe by a vision evidently (about the ninth hour of the daie) an gell of God commyng into hym, and sayng vnto hym. Cornelius: When he looked on hym, he was afraied, and saied: What is it Lorde? He sayed vnto hym: Thy prayers and thy almeses are come vp into remembraunce before God. And now send menne to Joppa, and call for one Simon whose surname is Peter. He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the seaside. He shall tell thee, what thou oughtest to dooe. And

et. cxxv

And when the Angell whiche spake vnto hym was departed, he called two of his household seruantes, and a deuoute souldiour of theim that waited on hym, and tolde them all the matter, and sente them to Joppa.

B On the morowe as thei went on their iorney and drew nye vnto the citee, Peter wente vpon the toppe of the house to praye, aboute the sytte houre. And when he weted an hongred he woulde haue eaten. But while thei made ready, he fell into a trance, and sawe heauen opened and a certain vessell came downe vnto hym as it had been a greate nete knet at the foure corners and was let doune to the earthe, wherein were all maner of fourefoted beastes of the earth and vermes and wormes and foules of the ayre. And there came a voyce to hym, rise Peter, kyl and eate. But Peter saied: not so Lorde, for I haue neuer eaten any thyng that is comen of vncleane. And the voyce spake vnto hym againe the second tyme: * What God hath cleued that call not thou comen: This was dooen thy self, and the vessell was receiued vp againe into heauen.

C Whyle Peter also mused in hym self what this vision (whiche he had sene) meante beholde the mene whiche were sente from Cornelius had made inquirance for Simons house and stode before the dooze: and called oute one, and asked whether Simon whiche was surnamed Peter were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on the vision, the spirite saied vnto hym beholde, mene seke thee: aryse therefore, and gette thee doune, and goo with them, and doubt not, for I haue sente them. Peter wente doune to the nene whiche wer sent vnto hym from Cornelius and saied: Beholde, I am he whom ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? Thei saied Cornelius the capitaine a iuste manne, and one that feareth God, and of good reporte among all the people of the Jewes was warned by an holy angell to sende for thee into his house, and to heare woordes of thee: Then called he them in * and lodged them.

D And on the morow, Peter went a waite with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied hym. And the thyrde daye entred they into Cesarea. And Cornelius wayted for them and had called together his kinsmen and special frendes. And as it chaunced Peter to come in: Cornelius mette hym, and fell doune at his fete, and worshipped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, saying: stand vp, for I my self also am a manne. And as he talked with hym, he come in, and founde many that wer come together. And he saied vnto them: Ye knowe how that it is an vnlawfull thyng for a manne that is a Jewe, to compaignie or come vnto an aliene. But God hath shewed me that I should not call any manne comen of vncleane: therefore came I vnto you without delaye, as sone as I was sente for. I aske therefore, for what intent haue ye sente for me. And Cornelius saied: This daye now foure dayes about this houre, I satte fastyng & at the nynt houre I prayed in my house, and behold, a manne stode before me in byght clothynge, and saied: Cornelius, thy prayer is hearde, & thyne almes deedes are had in remembrance in the sighte of God: send men therefore to go Joppa, & cal for Symon whose surname is Peter. He is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner by the sea syde whiche as sone as he is come, shall speake vnto thee. Thei sente for the immediately, and they had well dooen, that thou arte come. Now therefore are we all here presente before God, to heare all thynges that are commaunded vnto thee of God. Then Peter opened his mouth, and saied of a truth I perceiue that there is no respect of persones with God * but in all people, he that feareth hym, and woorketh righteously, is accepted with hym.

E Ye knowe the preaching that God sente vnto the chyldren of Israel: preaching peace by Iesu Christe, whiche is Lorde ouer all thynges. Whiche preaching was published throughe all Jewry (and began in Galile; after the baptyzme whiche Iohn preached) how God anointed Iesus of Nazareth with the holy ghooste and with power. Whiche Iesus wente aboute dooynge good, and healyng all that wer oppressed of the deuell, for God was with hym. And we are witnesse of all thynges whiche he did in the land of the Jewes and at Hierusalem: who thei slew & hanged on a tree. Hym God raised vp the thirde daye, and shewed hym openly not to all the people, but vnto vs witnesse (chose before of God for that same intent) whiche did eate and drinke with hym, after he arose from deathe. And he commaunded vs to preache vnto the people and to testifie that it is he, whiche was ordeyned of God to bee the iudge of quicke and dedde. To hym geue all the Prophetes witness, that throughe his name whosoener beleueth in hym shall receiue remission of synnes.

F While Peter yet spake these woordes, the holy ghooste fell on all them whiche heard the preaching. And thei of the circumcision whiche beleued, wer astonied, as many as came with Peter, because that on Gentiles also was shed out the gifte of the holy ghooste. For thei hearde them speake with toungues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter: * can any manne forbyde water that these shoulde not bee baptised, whiche haue receiued the holy ghooste as well as we? And he commaunded them to bee baptised in the name of the Lord. Then prayed thei hym to tary a fewe dayes.

The xi. Chapter.

¶ Peter sheweth the cause wherfore he wente to the heathen. Barnabas and paul preache to the heathen. Agabus prophesieth death to come.

A And the Apostles and brethren that wer in Jewry, heard that the heathen had also receiued the woorde of God. And whē Peter was come vp to Hierusalem, thei that wer of the circumcision contended against hym saying: Thou wentest into mene vncircumcised, and diddest eate with them. But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, & expounded it by order vnto them saying: I was in the citee of Joppa, praying and in a trance, I sawe a vision a certayne vessell descend

* They also whiche were scatered abrode throughe the afflyccion that arose aboute Steuen, walked througheoute vnto Phenices and Cyprus, and Antioche, preachyng the woorde to no manne but vnto the Jewes onely. Some of theim were menne of Cyprus and Syren, whiche when thei were come to Antioche, spake vnto the Grekes, and preached the Lorde Iesus. And the hand of the Lorde was with theim, and a greete nombze beleued and turned vnto the Lorde. Actes. xiii. c. Epdynges of these thynges came vnto the eares of the congregacion, whiche was in Hierusalem. And thei sente for the Barnabas, that he shoulde goo vnto Antioche. Whiche whē he came, and had sene þ grace of God, was glad and * exhorted theim all, that with purpose of hearte they would continually cleaue vnto the Lorde. For he was a good manne, and ful of the holy ghoste and of faith: and muche people was added vnto the Lorde. Then departed Barnabas to Charlus, for to seke Saul. And when he had founde hym he brought hym vnto Antioche. And it chaunced that a whole yere thei had their couersacion with the congregacion there, and taughte muche people, in so muche, that the disciples of Antioche were the firste that were called Chrysten.

The disciples euery manne accordyng to his abylitee, purposed to sende * socour vnto the brythren whiche dwelte in Jewry. Whiche thyng thei also did, and sente it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

The xii. Chapter.

Herode persecuteth the Chyrtien. Kylleth James, and putteth Peter in prison, whom the Lorde deliuereth by an angell. The shawfull death of Herod.

A the same tyme Herode the kyng stretched forth his handes to bere certaine of the congregacion. And he kyled * James the brother of Iohn with the sword. And because he saw that it pleased the Jewes he proceeded further, and tooke Peter also. Then were the dayes of swete bryede. And when he had caughte hym, he putte hym in prison also, and deliuered hym to foure quaternions of souldiours to be kepte, entenyng after Easter to bryng hym forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in prison: But prayer was made without ceasyng of the congregacion, vnto God for hym. And when Herode would haue brought hym out vnto the people, þ same night slept Peter betwene twoo souldiars bounde with twoo cheynes, & the keepers before the doze kept the prison. And behold, * the angell of the Lorde was there present, and a light shyned in the habitation. And he smote Peter on þ side, and stered hym vp, sayng: arise vp quickly. And his chaynes fell of from his handes. And the angell saied vnto hym: gyste thy selfe, and bynde on thy sandales. And so he did. And he saith vnto hym: caste thy garmente aboute thee, and foloe me. And he came out and foloed hym, and wytte not that it was truerth whiche was dooen by the angell, but thoughte he had sene a vision. When they were paste the firste and the soconde watche, they came vnto the yron gate, that leadethe vnto the citee, * whiche opened to theim by the owne accorde. And thei wente out, and passed throughe one strete, and forthwith the angell departed from hym.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he saied: howe I knowe of a suerty, that the Lorde hath sente his angell, and hath deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, and from all the waytyng for, of the people of the Jewes. Actes. xii. d. And as he considered the thyng, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one Iho, whose sirname was Marke, where many were gathered together * in prayer. As Peter knocked at the enterie dooze, a damsell came forth to herken, named Rhodda. And when she knewe Peters voyce she opened not the enterie for gladnes, but ranne in, and told how Peter stode before the enterie. And they saied vnto her: thou arte madde: But she affirmed that it was euē so. Thei saied they: it is his Angell. But Peter contynued knockyng: and when thei had opened the dooze, and and sawe hym, thei wer astonnyed. * And when he had beckened vnto them with the hande, that thei mighte holde their peace, he tolde theim by what meanes the Lorde had brought hym oute of the prison. And he saied: goo herwe these thynges vnto James and to the bzyethren. And he departed, and wente into another place.

D Asone as it was daye, there was no litle adoe among the souldioners, what was become of Peter. When Herod had sought for hym, and founde hym not, he examined the keepers and commaunded them to bee caried awaye. And he descended from Jewry to Cesarea, and there abode. Herode was displeased with theim of Tyre and Sidon. But thei came all with one accorde to hym, and made intercession vnto Blastus the kynges chamberlain, and desired peace, because their countre was nourished by the kynges provision. And vpon a daye appoynted, Herode arrayed hym in royall apparell, and set hym in his seat, and made an oracion vnto theim. And the people gaue a shoute, sayng: it is the voyce of a God, and not of a manne. And ymmediatly the angell of the Lorde smote hym, because he gaue not God the honoure, and he was eaten of wormes and gaue vp the ghozte. And the woorde of God grew and multiplied. And Barnabas and Paull returned to Hierusalem, when they had fulfilled their office, and toke with theim, * Iho whose surname was Marke.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Paull and Barnabas are called to preache among the heathen, of Sergius Paulus and Elimas the sorcerer Paull preacheth at Antioche.

I Here were in the congregacion that is at Antioche, certain prophetes, & teachers: as Barnabas and Simon that was called Nigcr, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaben, Herode the Tetrarkes nourfeloe, and Saul. As thei ministered to the Lorde and fasted, the holy ghozte saied seperate me Barnabas & Saul, for the woorde whereunto I haue called theim. And when thei had fasted and prayed, and laied their handes, on theim, thei let theim goo. And thei after they were sente forth of the holy ghozte, departed vnto Seleucia, and from thence thei sailed to Cyprus. And when thei were at Salamine, thei thewed the woorde of God in the sinagoges of the Jewes. And thei had Ihon to their minister.

When thei had gone throughe the isle vnto Paphos, thei founde a certain sorcerer, (a false prophete, a Jewe) whose name was Bariesu, whiche was with the ruler of the countree one Sergius Paulus a prudente manne: The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul and desired to heare the woorde of God. But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstode theim, and soughte to turne the ruler a waye from the faith. Then Saul whiche (also is called Paull) beeyng full of the holy ghozte, set his eyes on hym, and saied O full of all subtilty and disceitfulness, thou chyld of the deuell, thou enemye of all righteousnes: wilt thou not cease to peruerste the straight wayes of the Lorde?

And now beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon thee and thou shalt bee blinde, and not see the sunne for a season. And ymmediatly, there fell on hym a miste and a darkenes, and he went aboute, sekynge theim that should leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened * beleued, and wondred at the doctryne of the Lorde.

When Paull departed from Paphos, they that were with hym, came to Perga in Pamphilia: and Ihon departed from theim, and returned to Hierusalem. But they wandered through the countrees, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and wente into the synagoge on the Saboth daye, and satte doune. And after the lecture of the lawe and of the Prophetes the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto theim, sayng: ye menne and bzyethren, if ye haue any sermon to exhorste the people, saye on.

Then Paull stode vp, and beckened with the hande for silence, and saied: Menne of Israhell and ye that feare God, geue audience. The God of this people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when thei dwelte as straungers in the lande of Egypte, and with an hye harme brought he theim out of it, and aboute the tyme of fouerty peres, suffered he their maners in the wilderness. And he destroyed seuen nacions in the lande of Canaan, * and deuided their lande to theim by lotte. And afterwarde, he gaue vnto theim iudges aboute the space of foure hundred and fifty peres, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophete. And afterwarde, * thei desired a kyng & God gaue vnto them Saul the soonne of Cis, a manne of the tribe of Benjamin by the space of fouerty peres. And when he was putte doune, he sette vp Dauid to bee their kyng, of whom he reported sayng: * I haue founde Dauid the soonne of Jesse, a mane after myne owne hearte, whiche shall fulfill all my will.

* Of this mannes seede hath God (accordyng as he had promysed) broughte forth the to Israhell, a sauoure, one Iesus, when Ihon had first preached before his commynge the Baptyne of repentance to Israhell. And when Ihon had fulfilled his course, he saied: * whom ye thynke that I am, the same am I not. But behold, ther commeth one after me, whose moores of his fete I am not worthy to loofe.

Ye menne and bzyethren, chyldren of the generation of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is this woorde of saluacion sente. For the inhabytors of Hierusalem and their rulers, because they knewe hym not, nor yet the voyces of the Prophetes whiche are rede every Saboth daye, they haue fulfilled theim, in condempnyng hym: * And when they founde no cause of death in hym, yet desired they Pylate to kyll hym. And when they had fulfilled all that were wyrtten of hym, they toke hym doune from the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre. But God rayled hym again from death, and he was sene many dayes of theim whiche came vp with hym from Galyle to Hierusalem: whiche * are his witness vnto the people.

The Actes

And wee declare vnto you, howe that the promise (whiche was made vnto the fathers) God hath fulfilled vnto their children (euen vnto vs) in that he raised vp Iesus again. Euen as it is written in the seconde Psalme: *Thou arte my sonne, this daye haue I begotten thee. As concerning that he raised hym vp from death, now nomore to returne to corruption he saied on this wise: *The holy promises made to Dauid, will I geue faithfully to you. Wherefore he saith also in another place. *Thou shalt not suffer thynne holy to see corruption. For Dauid (after he had in this tyme fulfilled the wil of God) *fel on slepe, & was laied vnto his fathers, and sawe corruption. But he whom God raised agayne sawe no corruption.

I Bee it knowen vnto you therefore (ye menne and brethren) that *through this manne is preached vnto you the forgiveness of synnes, & that by hym, all that beleue, are iustified fro all thynges from whiche you coulde not bee iustified by the lawe of Moyses. Beware therefore, lest that fall on you, whiche is spoken of in the the prophetes: *Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, & perishe: for I dooe a worke in your daies, whiche ye shall not beleue though a manne declare it you. When the Jewes were gone out of the congregacion, the Gentiles besought that thei woulde preache the worde the next Saboth, when the congregacion was broken vp, many of the Jewes and vertuous proselites folowed Paull and Barnabas, whiche spake to them: and *exhorted them to continue in the grace of God.

And the next Saboth daie came almost the whole citee together, to heare the worde of God. But when the Jewes sawe the people, thei wer full of indignacion and spake against those thynges, whiche wer spoken of Paull, speaking agaynst it, and raplyng on it: Then Paull and Barnabas waxed bold and saied: it was meate that the worde of God should firste haue been preached to you. But seying ye put it from you, and thyncke youre selues unworthy of euerylastyng life: lo, wee turne to the Gentiles: For so hath the Lorde commaunded vs: *I haue made thee a lighte of the Gentiles, that thou bee the saluacion vnto the ende of the worlde. When the Gentiles herde this, thei wer glade and glorified the worde of the Lorde, and beleued, euen as many as were ordeyned vnto eternall life. And the worde of the Lorde was published throughout all the region: But the Jewes moued the deuoute and honest women, and the chief menne of the citee: and raised persecucion agaynst Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coostes: *But thei shoke of the duste of their fete agaynst them, and came vnto Iconium. And the disciples were filled with ioye and with the holy ghooste. F

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Paull and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some beleue, some here vp sedicion. At Listra thei woulde dooe sacrifice to Barnabas and Paull, whiche refuse it and exhorre the people to worshippe the true God. Paul is stoned: after that cometh to Darba Listra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

And it fortuned in Iconium that thei wente bothe to gether into the sinagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, & a greate multitude bothe of the Jewes and also of the Grekes beleued. But the beleuyng Jewes, steryd vp, and vniquieted the myndes of the Gentiles agaynst the brethren: Long tyme abode thei there, and quite thei selues boldly with the helpe of the Lorde, whiche gaue testimony vnto the worde of his grace, and *grasfired sygnes and wonders to bee dooen by their handes. But the multitude of the citee was deuided: and parte helde with the Jewes, and parte with the Apostles.

Whē there was an assaute made bothe of the Gentiles and also of the Jewes with their rulers to dooe them violence, and to stone thei they were ware of it, and *fled vnto Listra and Darba, cities of Licaonia, and vnto the region that lieth rounde aboute, and there preached the Gospel: (and all the multitude was moued at their doctrine, but Paull and Barnabas taried still at Listra.) And there sat a certain manne at Listra weake in his fete beeyng: a crepell from his mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same heard Paull preache, whiche beholding hym, and perceiuyng that he had faith to bee whole, saith with a loude voice stande vprighte on thy fete: And he *sterre vp and walked. And when the people sawe what Paull had dooen, thei lifte by their voyces, saying in the speache of Licaonya: *Goddess are come doune to vs in the lykenes of menne. And thei called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paull Mercurius because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters preeste, & dwelte befoze their citee, brought oxen and garlandes vnto the porch, and would haue dooen sacrifice with the people.

Whiche when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paull hearde of, they rente their clothes, and ranne among the people, crying and saying, sirs why dooe ye this? *Wee are mortall menne like vnto you, and preache vnto you, that ye shall turne from these vanities vnto the liuyng God, *whiche made heauen and earth and the sea and all thynges that are therein: the whiche in tymes past suffered al nacions to walke in their owne wayes. *Neuerthelesse, he left not hymself withoute wytnes, in that he shewed hys benefytes from heauen, in geuyng vs rayne and frutefull seasons fylling our hartes w foode & gladnes. And with these saynges, scarce refrayned thei people, & thei had not dooen sacrifice vnto them.

Whether came certayne Jewes from Antioche and Iconium: whiche (when they had obtained the peoples consent *and had stoned Paul) drewe hym oute of the citee, supposyng he had been dedde. Howbeit as the disciples stode round aboute hym, he rose vp, and camme into the cite And the next daye he departed with Barnabas to Darba. And when thei had preached to that citee and had taught many, thei returned again to Listra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strengthened the dyscyples soules agayne, and exhorted them to continue in the faith, affir-myng that wee muste through muche tribulacion entre into the kyngdome of God. And whē thei had ordened theim elders by eleccion in euery congregacion, and had prayed and fasted, they commended them to the Lorde on whom they beleued. And when thei had gone through oute Phisida, thei came to Phamphilia, and when thei had preached the woorde in Perga, thei descended into the cite Attalia, and thence departed by shippe to Antioche from whence thei wer committed vnto the grace of God to the worke whiche thei fulfilled. When thei wer come, and had gathered the congregacion together, thei re-uered all that God had dooen by them and how he had opened the doore of faith vnto the Gentiles. And there thei abode long tyme with the disciples.

The xv. Chapter.

¶ Clarauce aboute circumcision. The Apostles pacifie the matter at Hierusalem. Paull and Barnabas preache at Antioche.

And certayne menne whiche came doun from Jewry, taught the brethren* excepte ye bee circumcised after the maner of Moles, ye cannot bee saued. So when there was risen discencion and disputyng not a litle vnto Paull and Barnabas against theim, thei determined that Paull and * Barnabas, and certain other of theim shoulde goo vp to Hierusalem vnto the Apostles and elders aboute this question. And after they were broughte on their waye by the congregacion, thei passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declaryng the conuersion of the Gentiles, and thei broughte greate ioye vnto all the brethren. And when thei were come to Hierusalem, thei were receiued of the congregacion and of the Apostles and elders. And they declared all thynges that God had dooen by them. The rose vp certayne of the secte of the pharises, whiche did beleue sayng that it was nedefull to circumcise theim and to commaunde theim to kepe the lawe of Moles. And the Apostles and elders came together to reason of this matter.

¶ And when there was muche disputyng, Peter rose vp, and saied vnto theim: Ye menne and brethren: Ye knowe howe that a good whyle agoo, God did chole among vs, that the Gentiles by my mouth shoulde heare the woorde of the Gospell, and beleue. And God whiche * knoweth the heartes, bare theim witnesse, and gaue vnto theim the holy ghoſte, euen as he did vnto vs, and putte no difference betwene vs and thei sayng that with faith he* purified their heartes.
Now therefore, why tempte ye God, to putte on the disciples neckes the yocke* whiche neither oure fathers nor wee were able to beare? But we beleue, that through the grace of the Lorde Jesu Chriſte, wee shalbee saued, as they dooe.
Then all the multitude was peased and gaue audience to Barnabas and Paull, whiche tolde what signes and wonders God had shewed emong the Gentiles by theim.

¶ And when thei helde their peace, James answered, sayng: Menne and brethren, hearken vnto me. Simon tolde, how God at the begyn-nyng did visite the Gentiles, to receiue of theim a people in his name. And to this agre the woordes of the prophetes, as it is writte: * After this Amos. ix. 8 I will retorne, and will buylde again the tabernacle of Dauid, whiche is fallen doun and that whiche is fallen in decaye of it, will I buylde a-gayne, and I will sette it vp, that the residue of menne myghte seke after the Lorde and also the Gentiles vpo whom my name is named, saith the Lorde, whiche dooeth all these thynges: knowen vnto God are all his woordes from the begynnyng of the worlde. Wherefore my sentence is that wee trouble not theim: whiche from emong the Gentiles, are turned to God: but that wee wyte vnto theim, that thei abstayne theimselues* from filthines of ymages, and from for-nicacion, and from strangled, and * from bloodde Exod. ix. 18

Then pleased it the Apostles and elders with the whole congregacion, to sende chosen menne of their owne cōpaignie to Antioche with Paull and Barnabas. They sente * Judas (whose sir- Act. xiii. 4 name was Barsabas) and Silas, whiche were chief menne among the brethren, and gaue them letters in their handes after this maner.

The Apostles, and elders and brethren sende grettynges vnto the brethren whiche are of the Gentiles in Antioche, Siria and Cilicia. For as muche as wee haue hearde, that certain whiche departed from vs, haue troubled you with woordes, and combyed your myndes, sayng: Ye must bee circumcised and kepe the lawe, to whō wee gaue no suche commaundemente: It semed therefore to vs a good thyng, when wee were come together with one accord, to sende chosen menne vnto you, with oure beloued Barnabas and Paull, menne that haue leoparde their liues for the name of oure Lorde Jesu Chriſte. Wee haue sente therefore Judas and Silas, whiche shall also tell you thesame thynges by mouth.
For it semed good to the holy ghoſte and to vs, to charge you with nomore, then these necessary thynges that is to saie ye abstain from thynges offered to ymages, and from bloodde, and from strangled, and from fornicacion. From whiche if ye kepe your selues, ye shall dooe wel. So fare ye well. When thei therefore were departed, thei came to Antioche and gathered the multitude together, and deliuered the epistle. Whiche whē they had redde, they reioysed at the consolacion.
And Judas and Silas beeyng Prophetes, exhorted the brethren with muche preachyng, and strengthened theim. And after thei had taried ther a space, thei were lette go in peace of the brethren vnto the Apostles. Notwithstandyng it pleased Silas to abyde there still (but Judas departed alone to Hierusalem) Paull and Barnabas continued in Antioche, teachyng and preachyng the woorde of the Lorde with other many.

But after a certayne space, Paull saied vnto Barnabas: lette vs goo again, and visite our brethren in euery citee where wee haue shewed the woorde of the Lorde, and see how thei dooe.

Timothy is circumcised. Paull preacheth at Philip

THEN came he to Darba and to Lisra. And beholde, a certain disciple was ther named Timothe us a womannes sonne whiche was a Jewys and beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whos reporced well the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium. Him would Paull that he should goe forth with hym, and tooke and circumcised hym, because of the Jewes whiche were in those quarters: for thei knew all, that his father was a Greke. As thei wente throughe the citees they deliuered theim the decrees for to kepe, that wer

When they had gone throughe Byrgia: and the regyon of Galacia, and were forbydden of the holy ghozte to preache the woorde in Asia, thei came to Mysia, and sought to goo into Bethynia. But the spirite suffered theim not: but when they had gone throughe Mysia they came Paull in the night. There stode a manne of Macedonia and prayed hym, sayng: come into Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, ymmediatly wee prepared to goo into Macedonia, beyng certefied that the Lorde had called vs, to preache the Gospell vnto theim. Wher wee lowled forth then from Troada, wee came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the nexte daye to Neapolin, and from thence to Philippos whiche is the chief citee in the parties of Macedonia, and a free citee. Wee wer in that citee abydyng certain dayes. And on the Saboth dayes wee wente out of the citee besydes arnyer where menne were wonte to praye. And wee sat doune, and spake vnto the women whiche reforted thither. And a certain womā (named Lidia) a seller of purple, of the citee of Thyatira, whiche worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hearte the Lorde opened, that she attended vnto the thynges, whiche Paull spake. Wher she was baptised, and her housholde, she besought vs, say-ng: If ye thynke that I beleue on the Lorde come into my house, and abyde there. And we constrayned vs. And it fortunied as we wente to praye, a certain damsell possessed with a spirite that prophesied, met vs, whiche brought her master and mastres muche vauntage with prophe-sying. The same folowed Paull and vs and cryed sayng: * these menne are the seruantes of the moste hie God, whiche shewe vnto vs the waye of saluacion. And this dyd she many dayes. But Paull not contente, turned aboute, & saied to the spirite I commaund thee in the name of Jesu Christ that thou come out of her. And he came out the same houre. And when her master and mastres sawe that the hope of theyr gaynes was gone, they caught Paull and Silas, and dreyne theim into the market place vnto the rulers and broughte theim to the officers, sayng. These menne trouble our citee sayng they are Jewes and preache ordynaunces, whiche are not lawefull for vs to receiue, nether to obserue, sayng we are Romy-nes. And the people ranne against them and the officers rente their clothes, and commaunded theim to be beaten with roddes. And wher thei had beaten thei soze, thei cast theim into prison commaundyng the iayler of the prison to kepe theim diligently: Whiche when he had receiued suche commaundement, thrust theim into the inner prison, and made their fete faste in the stocks.

At midnichte Paull and Silas prayed, and lauded God. And the prisoners hearde them. And sodenly there was a greete earthquake, so that the foundation of the prison was shaken, & im-mediatly all the doores opened and euery mannes bandes were loosed. When the keeper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prison doores open, he dreyne out his sword & would haue killed hymself supposyng that the prisoners had been fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice sayng: dooe thy selfe no harme, for wee are all here. Then he called for a lighte, and sprang in, and came tremblyng vnto Paull, and sel doune at the fete of Paull, and Silas, & brought theim out and saied. Sirs * what muste I dooe to be saured? And thei saied: beleue on the Lorde Jesu and thou shalt be saued and thy housholde. And thei preached vnto hym the woorde of the Lorde and to all that were in his house. And he tooke theim the same houre of the night, and washed their woundes, & was baptised & all thei of his housholde straighte waye. And when he had broughte theim into his house, he sette meate before theim, and ioyed that he with his housholde beleued on God. And when it was daie, the officers sente the ministers, sayng: let those menne goe. The keeper of the prison tolde this sayng to Paull, the officers sente woorde to loose you.
Now therefore, get you hence and goo in peace.
Then saied Paull vnto thei: thei haue beaten vs openly vncondempned, for all that wee are Romaines, & haue cast vs into prison: and now would thei sende vs awaie priuely: Nay verely but let them come them selues, and sette vs out.
When the ministers tolde these woordes vnto the officers, thei feared when thei hearde, that they were Romynes: they came and besought theim: and brought theim out, and desired theim to departe out of the citee.

And thei went out of the prison, and entred in

The. xvii. Chapter

Paul commeth to Thessalonica, where the Jewes set the cytee on a roare, Paul escapeth and commeth to Athens where he precheth the true and unknowne God.

As they made their journey throug Amphipolis: and Apollonia, thei came to Thessalonica, where was a sinagoge of Jewes. And Paule (as his maner was) wente in vnto the, & thre sabboth dayes declared out of scrip ture vnto the, opening and aledging, y^e Christ must nedes haue suffered, and rylse againe frome death, and that thys Jesus was Christ, whom (sayed he) I preach to you. And some of them beleued, and came and companied with Paull and Silas, and of the deuout Grekes a greate multitude, and of the cheife women, not a fewe.

But the Jewes which beleued not, had indig nation and tooke vnto them euell men, whyche were vacabondes, and gathered a company, & set al the citee on a roare, and made assaute vnto the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people. And when thei found the not they dreyue Jason, and certayne brythren vnto the heades of the citee criyng: these that trouble the worlde, are come hether also, whom Jason hath receiued preyely. And these all do cō trary to the decrees of Cesar, assymyng another kyng one Jesus. And they troubled the people, and the officers of the cytee, when they hearde these thinges. And when thei wer sufficiently answered of Jason, & of other, they let the go.

And the brythren immediatly sente away Paull & Silas by nyght vnto Berrea. Which when thei wer come thether, thei entred into y^e sinagoge of the Jewes. These were the noblest of brythren among them of Thessalonica, which receiued the worde with all dilgence of mynde, & searched the scriptures dayly, whether those thynges were euen so. And many of them beleued: also of worshipful womē whych wer Grekes, and of men not a fewe. When the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berrea: thei came and moued the people there. And then immediately the brythren sente away Paul to go as it were to the sea: but Silas and Timotheus abode there still. And they that guyded Paul brought hym vnto Athens, and receiued a commaundement vnto Silas and Timotheus, for to come to him with speede and came their way. Whyle Paul waited for theim at Athens, hys spete was moued in hym, when he sawe the cytee geuen to worshyp of ymages. Then disputed he in the sinagoge with Jewes, and with the deuoute personnes: and in the market dayly with them that cam vnto him by chaunce. Certayn Philosophers of the Epicures and of the Stoyckes, disputed wyth hym. And some there were whyche sayed: what wyl this babler saye? Other sayed: he seemeth to bee a tydynges bypnger of new deuels, because he preached vnto theim Jesus and the resurreccyon. And they toke hym, and brought hym into Marce strete sayng: may we not knowe what this new doctrine wherof thou speakest, is? For thou bypngest straung tydynges to our eares. We would knowe therfore, what these thinges meane. For all the Athenians and straungers whych were there, gaue them selues to nothyng elles, but ether to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

Paul stode in the middes of Marce street, and sayed: Ye men of Athens, I perceiue that in all thinges ye are superstitious. For as I passed by and behelde the maner howe ye worshyp your goddes: I founde an alter wherin was written vnto the unknowne God. Whom ye then ignorantly worship, him shew I vnto you: *God that made the worlde and all that are in it, (scilicet dwel- leth not in temples made wyth handes, nether is worshipped wyth mens handes, as though he neded of any thyng, seynge he hym selfe genethlypfe and bryeth to all men euery where and hath made of one bloud all nacyns of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath asygned before, howe longe time, and also the endes of theyr inhabitacon, that they should seke God, yf they might fele and fynde him, though he be not farre from euery one of vs. For in hym we lyue, moue, and haue our being, as certayn of your owne Poetes sayd: For we are also his generacyon. For asmuch then as we are the generacyon of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhead is like vnto golde, siluer, or stone grauen by craft and imagynacon of man.

* And the tyme of this ignorance God regarded not. But now he byddeth all men euery where repente because he hath apoynted a daye in the which he wil iudge the worlde wyth ryghe teousnes, by that man by whom he hath apointed, and hath offered sayntes al men, after that he had rayled hym vp from death.

When they hearde of the resurreccyon from deathe, some mocked, and other sayed: we wyl heare the agayne of this matter. So Paul departed from among them. Howbeit certain men claue vnto hym and beleued: among the which was Dionysius a senatoure, and a woman named Damaris, and other wyth them.

Paul preacheth at Corynthum continuynge there a yere and a half, goeth agayne into Syria, commeth to Ephesus Cesarea and Antioche. Of Apollos Aquila and Priscilla.

After thys, Paul departed fro Athens & came to Corynthum, & founde a certayne Jewe named Aquila, bozne in Pontus, lately come fro Italie, with his wife Priscilla (because that the Emperour Claudius had commaunded al Jewes to depart from Rome) and he dreyue vnto theim, because he was of the same craft, he abode wyth theym and wrought: their crafte was to make tentes. And he departed thence, and entered into a certayn mans house, named Justus a worshipper of God, whose house ioyned hard to the synagoge. Howbeit, one Crispus the chief ruler of synagoge beleued on the Lorde with all his household, and many of the Corynthians when they gaue audience beleued, and were baptysed.

Then spake the Lorde to Paul in the nyghte by a vision: be not afrayed but speake, & holde not thy peace: for I am with the, and no manne shall inuade the: that shall hurt the. For I haue muche people in this citee. And he continued ther a yere and sixe monethes, and taught them the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Achaia, the Jewes made insurreccyon with one accord agaynst Paul, and broughte hym to the iudgement seate, sayng: this felow counsellet men to worship God contrary to the law. And when Paul now was about to open his mouth Gallio sayed vnto the Jewes, yf it were a matter of wrong, or an euell dede (O ye Jewes) reason woulde that I shoulde heare you: but yf it be a question of wordes, or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to yt your selues. For I will be no iudge of such matters, and he drave them fro the seate. Then all the Grekes tooke softenes the cheife ruler of the synagoge, and smote hym before the iudges seate. And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Paul after this, taried ther yet a good while and tooke his leaue of the brethren and sayed thence into Ciria, Priscilla and Aquilla accompanying him. And he shoke his head in Ecbreza for he had vowed: And he came to Ephesus and lefte them there, but he hym self entered into the synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. When they despyed him to tary longer tyme with the he consented not, but bad them farewell sayng I must needs (at this feaste that cometh) be in Ierusalem: but I will retourne agayne vnto you if God will. And he departed from Ephesus: and when he was come vnto Cesarea and ascended vp and saluted the congregacion he departed vnto Antioch: and when he had taried ther a while, he departed, and went ouer al the countre of Galacia and Phrygia by order, strengthning all the dysciples.

1. Cor. i. b

2. Cor. x. c

And a certayn Jew named Apollos, boine at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was informed in the waye of the Lorde, and spake feruently in the synagoge, and taught diligently the thynges of the Lorde and knew but the baptyme of Ihon onely. And the same began to speake boldly in the synagoge. Whome when Priscilla and Aquila had heard: they toke hym vnto theym, and expounded vnto hym the way of God more perfectly. And when he was dysposed to go into Achaia the brethren wrote exhortyng the dysciples to receiue hym. Whych when he was come helped them muche whiche had beleued through grace. For he overcame the Jewes myghtely, and that openly, shewing by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

The. xix. Chapter. ✠

Of the twelue men that were baptised at Ephesus and what myracles were done by Paul. Demetrius moued sed ppon in the cytes Fortuned that whyle Apollo was at Corinthum, Paul passed through the vpper coastes and came to Ephesus, and found certayne dysciples, and sayed vnto them haue ye receyued the holpe of the ghost, sence ye beleued? And they saied vnto him no, we haue not heard whether there be any holy ghost or no. And he sayed vnto them, wherewith were ye then baptised? And they sayed: with Ihons baptyme. Then saied Paul: Ihon verely baptised with the baptim of repentance sayng vnto the people that they shoulde beleue on hym, whych shoulde come after hym: that is one Christ Jesus. When they heard this, they were baptised in the name of Lorde Jesu. And when Paul laied his handes vpon them, the holy ghost came on them and they spake with tounge, and prophecyed, and all the men were aboute twelue.

And he went into the synagoge, and he behaued hym self boldly for the space of thre monethes, disputyng and geuyng them exhortacions of the kyngdome of God. When dyuers waxed harde harted and beleued not, but spake euell of the waye of the Lorde (and that before the multitude) he departed from them, and separated the dysciples. And he dysputed dayly in the scole of one called Tyrannus. And this continued by the space of two yeres: so that al they whych dwelte in Asia, hearde the word of the Lorde Jesu, bothe Jewes and Grekes. And God wroughte specyall myracles by the handes of Paul: so that fro his body, wer broughte vnto the spycke, naphys and partelettes, and the diseases departed from them, and the euell spretes wente oute of them.

Then certain of the vagabond Jewes exorcistes, toke vpon them to call ouer them (whych had euell spretes) the name of the Lorde Jesus, sayng: We adiure you by Jesus whome Paul precheth. And there were seven sonnes of one Sceua a Jewe and chefe of the prestes whych dyd so. And the euell sprete answered and sayd: I knowe, and Paul I knowe: but who are ye? And the man in whom the euell sprete was, ra on them on them and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. And this was knowne to all the Jewes and Grekes also whyche dwelte at Ephesus and feare came on them all, and the name of the Lorde Jesus was magnified.

And manye that beleued, came, and *confessed and shewed theyr workes. Manye of them whych vled curyous craftes: brought theyr bookes, and burned them befoze all men, and they counted the price of them and found it. i. l. siluerlynges. So myghtylve grewe the worde of God, and prevailed. After these thynges were ended. Paul purposed in the spret (whan he had passed ouer Macedonia and Achaia) to goo to Jerusalem, sayng: after that I haue bene ther I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedoniam two of them that mynystred vnto hym euē Timothy and Erastus: but he hym selfe remained in Aspa for a season.

The same tyme ther arose no litle ado about that waye. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a syluer smyth (which made syluer thynges, for Dyana) was not a lytle benefycial vnto the craftes men. Whome he called together with the workmen of lyke occupacion, and sayd: Syys, ye knowe that by thys craft: * we haue aduantage. Moreouer ye se and heare y not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughtout all Asia, thys Paull hath perswaded and turned awaye much people, sayng: that * they be not goddesses whych are made wyth handes. So that not onely this oure craft commeth into paryl to be set at nought: but also that the temple of the grete goddesse Diana shoulde be despylled, and her magnyficence shoulde be destroyed, whom al Aspa and the world worshyppe.

When they heard these saynges they were full of wrath, and cryed out sayng: Grete is Diana of the Ephesians: And all the cyte was on a roze, and they rushed into the common hall wyth one assente, and caught Gaius and Aristarcus men of Macedonia, Pauls companions. When Paull woulde haue entred in vnto the people, the dyscyples suffered hym not. But certayne of the cheefe of Asia (which were hys fren des) sent vnto hym, despyng hym, y he woulde not pzease into the common hall. Some the refoze cried one thyng and some another, and the congregacyon was all out of quyet, and y more part knewe not wherfoze they wer com together.

Some of the company dze forth Alexander the Jewe thrustyng hym forwarde. Alexander bekened wyth the hande, and woulde haue geuen the people an answer. When they knewe that he was a Jewe, ther arose a shoute almost for the space of two houres, of all men, cryng grete is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the tounel Clarke had sealed the people he sayd: ye men of Ephesus, what manne is it that knoweth not that the cytee of the Ephesians is a worshyppe of the grete goddesse Dyana, of the ymage whych came from heuen. Seyng then y noman sayth here against, ye ought to be contente, and to do nothyng rashly for ye haue bypughte better these men: whyche are ne ther robbers of churches, nor yet dyspplers of your goddesse. Wherefoze, yf Demetrius and the craftesmen which are wyth him, haue a matter agaynst any man, the law is open, and they are rulers, let them accuse one another. But yf ye go aboute any other thyng, it shalbe determined in a lawfull congregacyon. For we are in leopardy to be accused of thys dayes vyzour for as much as ther is no cause, wherby we may geue a rechenyng of thys concourse of the people. And when he had thus spoken, he let the congregacyon departe.

The. xx. Chapter.

¶ Paul goeth into Macedonia and into Grece. At Troas he rayseth vp a deade body. At Ephesus he calleth the elders of the congregacyon together, commyttyng the keepyng of gods floche vnto them, warneth they of false teachers, maketh his prayer wyth them, and departeth to shippe.

After that frage was ceased, Paul called the dysciples vnto him, and toke hys leaue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And when he had gone ouer those partys, and had geuen them a long exhortacyon, he came into Grece, and ther abode thre monethes. And when the Jewes layed wayt for him as he was aboute to sayle into Syria, he purposed to retourne through Macedonys. There accompanied hym into Aspa, Sopater of Berea, and of Thessaloniam, Aristarcus and Secundus and Gaius of Derba, and Timothy and oute of Aspa Tychicus and * Trophimus. These goyng befoze taried vs at Troas. And we sayled awaye from Philippios after the dayes of swete bread, and came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpon one of the saboth dayes, whan the disciples came together for to breke bred Paul preched vnto them (redye to depart on the morowe) and contynued the prechyng vnto mydnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chamber, where we wer gathered to gether, and ther sat in a wyndow a certayn young man (named Euticus) beyng fallen into a dede slepe. And as Paul was prechyng he was the more ouercom wyth slepe and fell doune from the thyrd lofte and was taken vp dead. But when Paull wet doune, he fell on hym * and embraced hym and sayd: make nothyng a do for hys lyfe is in him. So when he was come vp agayne, and had broken the bread & eaten, and talked along whyle (euē tyll the moynyng) at the last he departed. And they broughte the younge man a lyue and were not a lytle comforted.

And we went afoze to ship, and lousd vnto Asson ther to receyue Paul. For so had he apoynted, and woulde hym selfe go a soote. When we were come together at Asson we toke him in, & came to Mytilenes. And we sailed thence, and came the nexte daye, ouer agaynst Chios. And the next day we arriued at Samos, and taried at Trogilon. The next day we came to Miletus for Paul had determined to saile ouer by Ephesus, because he wold not spend y tyme in Aspa,

Then the next day Paul toke the men, and purgfyed hym self wyth them and entred into the temple, declaryng that he obserued the dayes of the purifycacyon, vntyll that an offering shoulde be offered for every one of the. And whā the vii. dayes were now almost ended, the Jewes whych were of Asia (when they saw hym in the temple) moued all the people, and layed hādes on hym cryng: men of Israel helpe. This is the man, that techeþ all men euery where agaynst the people and the lawe, and thys place. he hath also brought Grekes into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place. For thei had seene wyth hym one in the cytee. Trophimus an Ephesian: whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple. And all the cytee was moued, and all the people swarmed to gether. And they toke Paul and drew hym out of the temple, and forth wyth the doores were shut. As they went aboute to kyll hym, tydnynges came vnto the hye captain of the souldiers that all Jerusalem was moued. Whych immediatly toke souldyers and vndercaptaines, and ran doune to thei. When they sawe the vpper ca ppytaine and the souldyers: thei leste smityng of Paule. Then the captayn came nere and tooke hym, and commaunded hym to be bound wyth two cheynes, and demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And some cryed one thyng some another amonge the people. And when he coulde not knowe the certaintie for the rage, he commaunded hym to be caried into the castell. And when he came to a staire, it fortuneth that he was bozne of the souldyers for the vpolence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, cryng: awaye wyth hym.

And when Paul began to be caried into the castell, he sayed vnto the hye capitaine: maye I speke vnto the? Which saied: Canst thou speke Greke? Art not thou that Egipcian, whych be fore those dayes madest an vpour: and leddest oute into the wyldernes. iii. men that were murderers? But Paul sayd: I am a mā which am a Jewe of * Charlus a cytee in Cicyll, a cytefyn of no vyle cytee. I beseeche the suffer me to speake vnto the people. And when he had geue hym lycence. Paul stode on the steppes, * and beckened wyth the hande vnto the people, and when there was made a greate silence he spake vnto them in the Hebrue tounge sayng.

The. xxi. Chapter

Paul answereth the Jewes. he is scourged & layed in prison agayn

MEn, brythren, and fathers, heare ye mine answer whyche I make now vnto you. Whē they heard, that he spake in the Hebrue tounge to them they kept the more silence. And he sayth I am verely a man whyche am a Jewe bozne in * Charlus a cytee in Cicyle: neuertheles, yet broughte vp in thys cytee, at the feete of Gamaliel, and infourmed diligently in the lawe of the fathers and was feruent mynded to God warde, as ye all are thys same daye. And I persecuted this way vnto the death, blyndyng and deluyering into prison both men and women, as the chiefe priest doth here me wytnes and all the estate of the elders: of whom also I receiued letters vnto the brythren, and went to Damasco to brynge them, (whyche were there bounde) vnto Jerusalem for to be punyshed.

And it fortuneth (that as I made my tourney and was come nye vnto Damasco about none) sodenly there shone from heauen a great lyght rounde about me, and I fell vnto the earth, and I heard a voyce sayng vnto me. Saul, Saul why persecutest thou me? And I answered: what arte thou Lord. And he sayd vnto me: I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were wyth me, sawe verely a lyght, and were afrayed: but thei heard not the voyce of hym that spake wyth me. And I sayd: what shall I do Lord? And the Lord sayd vnto me Aryse and go into Damasco, and ther it shal be tolde the of al thynges, whych are apoynted for the to do. And when I sawe nothyng for the bryghtnes of that lyght, I was led by the hād of them that were wyth me, and came into Damasco. And one Ananyas a perfecte man, and (as pertaynyng to the lawe, hauyng a good report of all the Jewes whych there dwelt) came vnto me, and stode and sayd vnto me. Brother Saul, receyue thy syght. And the same houre I receyued my syght and sawe him. And he sayd the God of our fathers hath ordayned þ before that thou shouldest knowe hys wyll, and se the thyng that is ryghtfull, and shouldest here the voyce of hys mouth for thou shalt be hys wytnes vnto all men of those thynges, whych thou hast seene and hard. And now, why tarpest thou Aryse, and be baptysed and walke a waye thy synnes. In callynge on the name of the Lord. And it fortuneth, that when I was come again to Jerusalem, and prayed in the temple, I was in a traunce, and sawe hym, sayng vnto me: Make hast and get the quickly oute of Jerusalem: for they wyll not receyue thy wytnesse that thou bearest of me. And I sayd: Lord: they knowe that I pylsoned and bet in euery synagoge them that beleued on the. And when there arose a great debate, the ca-

 and brought hym to the hye captaine, and sayed Paul the presoner called me vnto him, & prayed me to byng thys young man vnto the whych he hath a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captaine toke hym by the bande and went wyth hym out of the way, and asked him what is it that thou hast to tel me? And he sayd thy curtelty a fewe wordes

For we haue found thys man a pestelpnt feloe and a mouer of debate vnto al the Jewes in the whole worlde, and a mayatayner * (of sedycyon) of the secte of the Nazarites, whych hath also enforced to pollute the temple * Whom we tooke and woulde haue iudged accordyng to our law but the hye captayn Lysias came vpon vs, and wyth great vyolence toke hym awaye oute of vnto the. Of whom thou maiest (yf thou wyle enqurye) knowe the certentie of al these thynges wherof we accuse him. The Jewes like wise affymed: sayng, that these thynges wer euen so ¶ Then Paull (after that the debyte hym selfe had beckened vnto hym that he shoulde speke) answered, with a moze quiet mind do I answer for my selfe, for as muche as I vnderstand, that thou hast bene of many yerres a iudge vnto this people, because that thou mayeste knowe, that there are yet, but twelue daies sence I went vp ther founde me in the temple dysputyng wyth any man, ether raylyng vp the people, neyther in the Synagoges, nor in the cytee. Nether can they proue the thynges wherof they accuse me.

But thys I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (whych they call heresy) so worshipppe I the God of my fathers, beleuyng all thynges, whych are wyrtten in the lawe and the prophetes, and haue hope to warde God, that * the same resurreccyon of the dead (whiche they themselues loke for also) shalbe both of iust and vniust. And therfore * study I to haue alway clere conspence to ward God, and toward men. But after many yerres, I came * and brought almes to my people and offerpuges (and vowes) in the which they found me purpyed in the temple, nether wyth multitude nor yet wyth vnquyetnes

 * (and they tooke me, and cryed, sayng: alway wyth oure enemye.) Howbeit they wer certayn Jewes out of Asya, which ought to be here present before the, and accuse me, yf they had ought agaynst me: or els let these same here say, yf they haue found any euell doyng in me, whyle I stand here in the counsell: excepte it be for thys one voyce that I cry-ed standyng among them * of the resurreccyon frome deathe am I iudged of pou thys daye

When Felix hard these thynges, he deferred them, for he knewe very well of that way, and sayed: when Lysias the captain is come doune I wyl knowe the vttermoost of youre matter.
 And * he commaunded an vnder captain to ke-pe Paull, and to let hym haue reast, and that he shold forbyd none of hys acquayntaunce to mynester vnto hym, or to come to hym.

After a certayn daies, whē Felix came with his wife Drusilla (which was a Jewesse) he called forth Paull, and hearde hym of the sayeth, whych is towarde Chryst. And as he preached of ryghteousnes temperaunce, and iudgemente to come. Felix trembled and answered, Go thy waye for thys tyme: when I haue a conueny-ente season, I wyl sende for the. He hoped also that mony shoulde haue bene geue him of Paull that he might lose him: wherfore, he called him the oftner and comjoned wyth hym. But after two yere, Festus Docepus came into Felix towne. And Felix * wyllyng to shewe the Je-wes a pleasure, lefte Paull in prysen bounde.

 but that he hym selfe woulde shortlye departe and the nexte daye sat doune in the iudgemente seate, and commaunded Paul to be bzoughte. Whych when he was come, the Jewes whiche were come frome Jerusalem, stode about hym, and layed manye and greuous complayntes agaynst Paul, whych they coulde not proue, as longe as he answered for him selfe * that he had nether agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, nether agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar, offended any thyng at all.

A Festus* willing to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paul, and said: wylte thou go vp to Jerusalem, and ther be iudged of these thynges befoze me? Then sayed Paul I stand at Cesars iudgemēt seat, wher I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very wel knowest: If I haue hurt them, or committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to dye. If none of these thynges are, wherof they accuse me, no man maye deliuer me to theim. I appele vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus wyth deliberation, and answered. Thou hast appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar shalt thou go.

And after a certayne dayes kyng Agrippa and Bernyce came vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And when they had bene there a good season, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto þe kyng sayng: * there is a certayne man left in prysen of Felix aboute whom when I came to Jerusalem, * the hye preestes and elders of the Jewes enfourmed me, and desired to haue iudgemēt agaynst hym. To whome I answered: it is not the maner of the Romaynes, for fauour to deliuer any man, that he should perishe, befoze that he which is accused, haue þe accusers befoze hym & haue lycence to aunswer for hym selfe, concerning the crime layed agaynst hym. Therfore, when they wer come hether without any delay on the morowe I late to geue iudgemente, and commaunded the man to be bzoughte forth.

Agaynst whom, whan the accusers stode vp * they bzought none accusation of such thynges as I supposed: but had certayne questions agaynst him of theirowne supersticion, and of one Jesus whych was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be aloue. And because I doubted of such maner of questions, I asked him whether he wold go to Jerusalem & there be iudged of these matters. But when Paule had appealed to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded hym to be kepte, tyl I myght sende hym to Cesar. Agrippa said vnto Festus: I wold also here the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayed he) thou shalt here hym: And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernyce, wyth great pompe, and were entered into the counsel house, wyth the captaynes and chiefe men of the cytee, at Festus commaundemēt was Paul bzought forth. And Festus sayed: kyng Agrippa, and all ye men whych are here present wyth vs, ye se this man, aboute whome all the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me, both at Jerusalem and also here cryinge, that he oughte not to lyue anye lenger. Yet founde I nothyng worthy of death, that he had committed. Neuerthe lesse, seynge that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determyned to sende hym. Of whome I haue no certayne thyng to wyte vnto my Lord. Wherfore, I haue bzought hym vnto you, and specialllye vnto the (Kyng Agrippa) that after examinacion had I myght haue somewhat to wyte. For me thyncketh it vncreasonable, for to sende a prysoner, and not to shewe the causes whych are layed agaynst hym.

The xxvi. Chapter

Kyng Agrippa heareth Paul, whych telleth hym his calling from the begynnynge Agrippa said vnto Paul: thou art permitted to speake for thy self. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for him selfe: I thynke my selfe happy kyng Agrippa, because I shal aunswere this daye befoze the, of all thynges whereof I am accused of the Jewes, namely be cause thou arte experie in all customes and que styons whych are amonge the Jewes. Wherfore I beseeche the, to here me paciently. Wyllyng that I haue ledde of a chylder (which was at the fyrst among myne owne nacion at Jerusalem) knowe al the Jewes whych knewe me frome the begynnynge, yf they woulde testifye * For after the moost straytest secte of our relygyon, I lyued a Pharisee. And nowe I stande and * am iudged for the hoope of the promesse made of God vnto our fathers: vnto which promes our twelue tribes (instantly seruyng God day and nyght) hoope to come. For whych hopes sake, kyng Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes. Why should it be thoughte a thyng in credyble vnto you, that God shoulde rase a gayne the dead? I also verelye thoughte in my selfe that I oughte to do manye contrary thynges, cleane agaynst the name of Jesus of Nazareth: whych thynges I also dyd in Jerusalem. And many of the sayntes dyd I shut vp in prysen and had receyued authoryte of the hye preestes. And when they were put to death, I gaue the sentence. And I punished them ofte in euerye synagoge, and compelled them to blasphemie and was yet more madde vpon them, and persecuted theym, euen vnto straunge cytees. About whych thynges as I wente to Damascus wyth authoryte and lycence of the hye preestes: euen at myddaye, (Kyng) I sawe in the waye a lyghte from heauen about the bryghtnes of the sunne shyne rounde about me, & them whych iourned wyth me. When we were all fallen to the earthe, I hearde a voyce speaking vnto me, and saynge in the hebrewe tongge: * Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is I, I sayde: who arte thou Lord. And he sayde: I am Jesus whom thou persecutest, but rise and stande vpon thy feete.

For

For I haue appered vnto the for this purpose: to make the a minyfter and a wytnesse bothe of those thynges whiche thou hast sene, & of those thynges in the whiche I wyll appere vnto the, deliueriug the frome the people, and from the Gentyles, vnto whome nowe I sende the, to open theyr eyes, that they maye be turned frome darkenes to lyght, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they may receiue forgiveness of synnes, and inheritaunce amonge them which are sanctified by fayth is toward me.

Wherefore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not dysobediente vnto the heauenlye visyon: but shewed fyrst vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and thow out all the coastes of Jewrye, and then to the Gentyles that they shulde repent, and turne to God, and do suche workes as become them that repent. For this cause the Jewes caughte me in the temple, and wente about to kyll me. Seyng therfore that I haue obtayned helpe of God: I contynue vnto this daye, wytnessyng bothe to small and to greates, sayng none other thynges, then those whiche the prophetes and Moses dyd say shuld come: that Chryste shulde suffer, and that he shoulde be the fyrst that shuld ryse from death and shuld shewe lyghte vnto the people, and to the Gentyles.

As he thus spake for hym self, Festus said w a loude voyce: Paule, thou arte besyde thy selfe much learynyng doth make the mad. And Paul sayde: I am not mad (moste dere Festus) but speake forth the wordes of truth and sobernes. For the kynge knoweth of these thynges, before whom also I speake frely: neyther thynke I any of these thynges are hydden from hym. For this thyng was not done in a corner. Kynge Agrippa beleuest thou the Prophetes? I wote well that thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paule: Some what thou byngeste me in mynde for to become Chrysten. And Paul sayd I wold to God that not onely thou: but also all that heare me to daye were, not somewhat onely but altogether, such as I am, except these bondes. And when he had thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the debyte, and Bernice, and they that sat wyth them. And when they were gone apart, they talked betwene the selues, sayng. This man dothe nothyng worthy of death, or of bondes. Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus: This man myght haue bene let loose, yf he had not appealed vnto Cesar.

The xxvii Chapter.

¶ Paul shippeth toward Rome. Julius the captayn intreateth hym courteously, and at the last they suffice shippwreke.

¶ When it was concluded, that we shoulde sayle into Italpe, they deliuered both Paul, and certayne other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vndercaptaine of Cessars souldyers. And we entred into a ship of Adramitium, and losed from lande appoynted to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one Aristarcus oute of Macedonia of the countre of Thessalonias carryeng wyll wyth vs. And the nexte daye we came to Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paule & gaue hym lybertie, to go vnto his frendes, and to refresh hymself. And when we had launched from thence, we sailed hard by Cypers bycause the wyndes be contrary. And when we had sayled ouer the see of Celicia and Phamphilia, we came to Myra which is in Lycia.

And therethe vndercaptayne found a shipp of Alexandria, redy, that sayled into Italpe, & he put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly many dayes, & scarce wer come ouer against Sydon (because the wynde withstode vs) we sayled hard by the coast of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche worke sailed beyond it, and came vnto a place which is called Fairer hauen. Nye wherunto was the cytie of Lasea. When much tyme was spent, & when saylunge was nowe leopardous, because also that they had ouerlonge fasted, Paul put them in remembrance, and sayd vnto them: Syrs I perceiue that this vyage wyl be with hurt and damage not of the saydyng and shyppe onely, but also of youre lyues. Neuerthelesse, the vndercaptayne belened the gouerner and the mayster of the shyp more then those thynges whyche were spoken of Paule. And because the heauen was not commodious to winter in, many toke counsell to departe thence, yf by anye meanes they myght attayne to Phenices, and there to winter, whiche is an hauen of Candy, and lyeth toward the southwester and northwester wynde. When the southwynde blew, they supposyng to obtayne theyr purpose, loosed vnto Asson, & sayled paste all Candy.

But not longe after, there arose agaynst theyr purpose a flawe of wynde out of the north-east. And when the shyppe was caught & could not resyst the wynde, we let her goo, and draue wyth the wether. But we were carryed into an yle which is named Clauda, & had much worke to come by a boote, which they toke vp, and vled helpe, and made faste the shyp, fearyng, lest they shuld fall into the Syrtes. And so they let do wne a vessel and wer carped. The nexte day (when we were tossed with an excedyng tempest) they lyghtened the shyppe, and the thyrde day we cast out wyth our owne handes the takyng of the shyppe. When at the laste, nether the Sunne nor starres in many daies appered, and no smal tempeste laye vpon vs, all hope that we shulde escape, was then taken awaye. But after long abstinence, Paule stode forth in the myddes of them and sayde: Syrs, ye shuld haue berkened to me, & not to haue loosed from Candy, nether to haue brought vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhorde you to bee of good chere. For ther shalbe no losse of any mans lyfe among you, saue of the shyp only. For ther stode by me this nyght the angell of God, whose I am, and whom I serue, sayng: feare not Paul, for thou must be brought before Cesar. And lo: God hath geuen the all them that sayle with the. Wherefore syrs be of good chere: for I beleue God, that it shalbe euen as it was tolde me. Howebeit we must be cast into a certayne plande.

But when the fourteneth nyght was come

(as we wer sailyng in Aria, about mydnyght) the shypmen demed, & there appered some countre vnto them: and lounded, & founde it. xx. faddoms. And when they had gone a lptell further they lounded agayn, and founde. xv. faddoms. Then fearyng lest they shoulde haue fallen on some rocke, they caste foure ancre out of the sterne, and wyshe for the daye. As the shypmen were about to flee out of the shyp (when they had let doune the bote into the see, vnder a coloure, as though they wolde haue caste ancre out of the shyppe) Paul sayde vnto the vndercaptayn and to the soudyers: excepte these abyde in the shyppe ye can not be safe. Then the soudyers cut of the rope of the bote, & let it fall a way.

In And when the day began to appere, Paule besoughte them all to take meate, sayyng thys is the fourtenth daye, that ye haue tarped, and contynued fastyng, recepyng nothyng at all. Wherefore I praye you to take meate: for thys no doubte is for your helthe: for there shal not an heer fall fro the head of any of you. And whē he had thus spoken, he toke bread & gaue thankes to God in ptesence of them al, and when he had broken it, he began to eate. Then wer they all of good chere, and they also toke meate. We were altogether in the shyppe, two hundred thre score and syxtene soules. And when they had eaten ynoug, they lyghtened the shyp, and caste out the wheate into the see.

G When it was daye, they knewe not the land but they spyed a certayne haven with a banke, into the which they wer mynded (yf it wer possible) to thrust in the shyp: And when they had taken vp the ancre, they commytted them selues vnto the see, and loosed the rudder bondes & hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, and drewe to lande. And when they chaunced on a place, whiche had the see on bothe sydes, they thrust in the shyppe. And the foreparte stucke fast and moued not, but the hynder parte brake with the violence of the waues.

The soudyers counsell was to kyll the pylsoners, lest any of them, whē he had swome out shulde runne a waye. But the vndercaptayne, wyllynge to saue Paule, kepte them fro theyr purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swimme, shulde caste them selues fyrste into the see, and scape to land. And the other he comaunded to go, some on bozdes, and some on broken peces of the shyppe. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to lande.

And when they were scaped, then they knewe, that the yle was called Milet. And the straungers shewed vs no lptell kynndnes: for they kynbled a fyre, and receiued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, and because of the colde. And when Paule had gathered a bondell of fyrkes, and layde them on the fyre, there came a vpper oute of the heate, & caught hym by the hande. When the straungers sawe the beast hange on his hand they sayde amonge them selues: no doubte this man is a murtherer: Whome (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeance suffreth not to lyue. And he shooke of the vpper into the fyre, & felt no harme. Howbeit they wyped when he shuld haue swolne, or fallen downe dead sodely. But after they had loked a greate whyle, and sawe no harme come to him, they charged theyr myndes, and sayd that he was a God.

After thre monethes we departed in a shyp of Alexandrye, which had wyntered in the yle, whose badg was Castor & Pollux. And when we came to Cyracula, we taried ther thre daies. And frome thence we fet a compass, and came to Regium. And after one day the south wynde blew, and we came the next daye to Butiolus: wher we founde brythren, and were despyred to tary wyth them seuen dayes, and so came we to Rome. And fro thence, when the brythren herd of vs, they came to mete vs at Apphozum, and at the thre tauernes. When Paul sawe them he thanked God, and wered bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vndercaptayne deliuered the pylsoners to the chefe captayne of the hoste but Paule was suffered to dwell by hym selfe with a soudyer that kept hym.

And after thre dayes, Paule called the chefe of the Jewes together. And whē they wer come he sayde vnto them: Men and brythren, though I haue commytted nothyng against the people or lawes of the elders, yet was I deliuered pylsoner frome Jerusalem into the handes of the Romaynes. Whiche when they had examyned me, wolde haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jewes spake contrarie I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not for I had oughte to accuse my people of. Here endeth the Actes of the Apoſtles.

The Epistle of the Apoſtle ſayncte Paule to the Romaynes.

The fyrſt Chapter. ✠

Paul declareth his love toward the Romaynes, ſheweth what the Goſpel is, with the frute therof, and rebuketh the beaſtynes of the Iewes.

Paul the ſeruaunte of Jeſus Chriſte, called to the offyce of an Apoſtle, * put a parte for y Goſpel of god, * which he had promyſed afore by his Propheces in the holy ſcriptures of his ſonne, which was borne (vnto hym) * of the ſede of Dauid after the fleſh: and hath bene declared to be the ſonne of God with power after the ſpyrite that ſanctifyeth, ſence y tyme that Jeſus Chriſt our Lord roſe agayn fro death * by whom we haue receiued grace and Apoſtleſhip, that obedyence myght be geuen vnto the ſaythe in his name among all beathen, of whoſe nombze you be the electe of Jeſu Chriſt.

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and ſaintes by eleccon. * Grace be with you & peace from God our father, and from the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Firſte verely I thanke my God thorowe Jeſus Chriſte for you all, that your ſayth is ſpoken of in all the world. For God is my wytnes (whom I ſerue, * with my ſpyrite in the Goſpell of his ſonne) that without ceaiſing I make mencion of you, praiſyng alwayes * in my prayers, that by ſome meane, at y laſte (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney (by y will of God) myght fortune me, to come vnto you. For I longe to ſee you, that I myght beſtow amonge you ſome ſpyrituall gyfte, to ſtrengthen you withall, that is, that I myght haue conſolation together with you, through the common ſayth, which both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye ſhulde knowe (bretthren) howe that I haue often tymes purpoſed to come vnto you * but haue bene lette hereto, to haue ſome frute alſo amonge you, as amonge other of the Gentyles. I am better both to the Grekes and to the vngrekes, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that (as much as in me is) I am redye to preach the Goſpel vnto you that are at Rome alſo. * For I am not aſhamed of y Goſpel of Chriſt, becauſe it is y power of God vnto ſaluacyon to euery one that beleueth, to the Jewe fyrſt, and alſo to the Gentyle.

For by it is the ryghteouſneſſe of God opened from fayth to fayth. As it is wyrtten: * the iuſte ſhall lyue by fayth.

For the wrath of God appereth from heauen agaynſt all vngodlynes and vnyghteouſnes of men, whiche wythholde the trueth in vnyghteouſneſſe: ſepnge * that it whiche maye be knowne of God, is manifeſt amonge them, becauſe God hath ſhewed it vnto them. * For his inuſyble thynges (that is to ſaye bys eternall power & godhed) are ſene, for as muche as they are underſtande * by the workes, from the creation of the worlde: So that they are without excuſe, becauſe that whē they knewe God, they gloryed hym not as God, nether were thankfull but waxed full of vanities in theyr ymagynacions. * And theyr folyſh hert was blynded. When they counted them ſelues wyſe, they became foolis, * and turned the gloze of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the ſimilitude of a mortall man: but alſo of byrdes, and foure footed * beaſtes, and of creeping beaſtes. Wherefore, God gaue them vp to vncleines, thorowe the luſtes of theyr owne hartes to deſpyle theyr owne bodies amonge them ſelues: which chaunged his trueth for a lie, and worſhipped and ſerued y thynges that be made more then hym that made them, whiche is to be praiſed for ever. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto ſhameful luſtes: * For euē theyr women byd chaunge the naturall vſe into that which is agaynſt nature. And lyke wyſe alſo y men, leſte the naturall vſe of the woman, and byente in theyr luſtes one with another, * men with men wrought fylthyneſſe, and receyued to them ſelues the rewards of theyr erreure, as it was accorpyng.

And as they regarded not to knowe God, * euen ſo God deliuered them vp vnto a lewde mynde, that they ſhuld do thoſe thynges which were not comely, bepyng full of all vnyghteouſneſſe, fornicacion, wyckednes, couetouſneſſe, malicyouſneſſe, full of enuye, murder, debate, diſcepte, euil condicioned, whysperers, backbiters, haters of God, diſdainful, proud boasters byngers vp of euil thynges, diſobedient to father and mother, without underſtandynge, conuincunt venaunte breakers; vnloypng, truce breakers, vnmercifull. Which men though they knewe, the ryghteousnes of God: (considered not) howe they which commytte suche thynges, are worthy of death, not only: (they saye) do the same: but also: (they which) haue pleasure in them & do them.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He rebuketh the Jewes, whiche as touchynge synne are lyke the Heathen.

Therfore art thou inexcusable, O man whosoever thou bee that iudgeste. For in the same wherein thou iudgeste another, thou condemnest thy self. For thou that iudgeste doest euen the same selfe thynges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God, is accordynge to the truthe agaynst them whiche commytte suche thynges. Thynges thou thyself, O thou man that iudgeste them whiche do suche thynges, and doest euen the very same thyselfe, that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God? Either despyrest thou the riches of his goodnes, and patience and long suffering, not knowyng, that the kyndnes of God leadeth the to repentaunce?

But thou after thy stubbernes, and herte thou cannot repent, beapest vnto thy selfe wrathe against the daye of vengeance, when shall be opened the ryghteous iudgement of God, which will rewarde every man accordyng to his dedes, that is to saye, prayse honoure and immortalitye, to them which contynue in good doynge, and seke immortallite. But vnto them that are rebelles, and that do not obey the truthe, but followe vnryghteousnes, shall come indignacyon and wrathe, tribulacion and angurthe vpon the soule of every man that dothe euell: of the Jew first, and also of the Gentyle. To every man that doth good, shall come prayse, and honoure, and peace, to the Jew first, and also to the Gentyle. For there is no respecte of persons, with God.

For whosoever hath synned without lawe, shall also perishe without lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe. For in the synne of God they are not ryghteous which heare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For when the Gentyles which haue not the lawe, do of nature the thynges conteyned in the lawe: then they hauing not the lawe, are a lawe vnto themselves, which shewe the dede of the lawe wyrtten in their heartes: whyle they conscience beareth wytnes vnto them, & also they thoughtes, accusyng one another, or excusing, at the daye when the Lord shall iudge the secretes of men, by Iesus Christ accordyng to my Gospell.

C Beholde thou arte called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God, & knowest his wyl, and allowest the thynges that be excellent, and art informed by the lawe: and beleueste that thou thyselfe arte a guide of the blinde, a lyght of them which are in darckenes an informer of them which lacke dyscrecyon, a teacher of the vnlerned, which hast an ensample of knowlage, & of the truthe by the lawe. Thou therfore whiche teachest another, teachest not thy selfe. * Thou preacheest, a manne shoulde not steale: yet thou stealest. Thou that sayest, a man shoulde not comyt adoutry breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou makest thy boast of the lawe, thou breakest the lawe by the nourest God. For the name of God is euell spoken of amonge the Gentyles, thou doste as it is wyrtten. For circumcysion verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But if thou be a breaker of the lawe, the circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion. Therfore, yf the vncircumcysed kepe the ryght thynges contayned in the lawe, shall not his vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion. And shall not vncircumcysion which is by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge the, which beynge vnder the letter and circumcysion, dost transgresse the lawe? He is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Neither is it circumcysion which is outward in the fleshe. But he is a Jewe which is hyd with in, and the circumcysion of the herte is the true circumcysion, whiche conspyketh in the spere and not in the letter, whose prayse is not of men: but of God.

The iii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and that both the Jewes & Gentyles are vnder synne, and are iustified only by the grace of God in Christ.

What preferment then hath the Jewe? Or what aduantage hath circumcysion? Surely very muche. First because that vnto them were comytted the wordes of God. What then though some of them dyd not beleue? * Shall they vbeleue make promises of God without effect? God forbid. * Let God be true, and every man a lyer, as it is wyrtten: that thou mightest be iustified in thy saynges, and overcome when thou art iudged.

But yf our vnryghteousnes make the ryghteousnes of God more excellent: what shall we saye? Is God vnryghteous, which taketh vengeance? I speake after the maner of men: God forbid. For howe then shall God iudge the world? For yf the truthe of God appere more excellent thow my lye, vnto his praise, why am I therefore iudged as a synner: and not rather (as men speake euell of vs, and as some aspye that we saye) let vs do euell, that good maye come thereof. Whose damnacyon is iust.

What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we haue alredy proued, how that both Jewes and Gentyles are all vnder synne, as it is wyrtten. * There is none ryghteous, no not one: there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vnprofytable, there is none that doth good, no not one. * They are as an open sepulchre, whiche they haue dysceyued: the popson of Aspes is vnder their lippes. * Whose mouthe is ful of cursyng and bytternes. * They sete are swyft to shed blood. * Destruction & wretchednes are in their wayes, and the way of peace haue they not knowen. * There is no feare of God before their eyes.

We knowe that what soeuer thynges the lawe sayth, it sayth it to them which are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes may be stopped, & that all the worlde may be subdued to God, because that * by the dedes of þe lawe there shal no fleshe be iustified in his syght. For by the lawe cometh the knowlage of synne.

But nowe is the ryghteousnes of God declared wythout the lawe, for so much as it is allowed by the testymonie of the lawe and of the prophetes. The ryghteousnes of God, cometh by the fayth of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. (on hym.)

There is no difference: for all haue sinned & are destitute of the gloire of God: but * are iustified frely by his grace, through þe redempcyon that is in Christ Iesu, whome God hath set forth * to be þe obtayner of mercy thow faith by the meanes of his blood, to declare his ryghteousnes, in that he forgaueth synnes that are passed, whiche God dyd suffer, to shewe at this tyme his ryghteousnes, that he myght be counted iust, and þe iustifier of hym whiche beleueth on Iesus. Where is then thy reioysing? It is excluded. By what lawe of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

Therefore we holde, that * a man is iustified by fayth wythout the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes only? Is he not also the God of the Gentyles? Yes, euē of the Gentyles also: for it is God onely whiche iustifieth the circumcysion that is of fayth, and vncircumcysion thow fayth. Do we then destroy þe lawe thow we say the? God forbyd: But we rather mayntayne the lawe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The declareth by the example of Abraham, that fayth iustifieth, and not the lawe, nor the workes thereof.

What shal we say then, þe * Abraham oure father (as pertayning to the fleshe) did synde? If Abraham were iustified by dedes, then haue he wherein to reioyse: but not wyth God. For what sayeth the scripture? * Abraham beleued God, and it was counted vnto hym for ryghteousnes. To hym that worketh is the rewarde not reckened of fauoure, but of due tye. To hym that woorketh not, but beleueth on hym that iustifieth the vngodly, is his faythe counted for ryghteousnesse, (accordynge to the purpose of the grace of God.) Euen as Dauid described the blessedfulnesse of that manne, vnto whome God imputeth ryghteousnesse without dedes. * Blessed are they, whose vnrightheousnesse are forgiven, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man, to whome the Lorde wyll not impute synne. Came this blessednes when vpon the vncircumcysion, or vpon þe circumcysion also? For we saye, that faythe was reckened to Abraham for ryghteousnes. Howe was it then reckened? When he was in the circumcysion? or when he was in the vncircumcysion? * Not in þe tyme of circumcysion: but when he was yet vncircumcysed. And he receyued the synne of circumcysion, as a seale of þe ryghteousnes of fayth, which he had yet beyng vncircumcysed, that he shuld be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcysed: that ryghteousnes myght be imputed to them also: and that he myght be father of circumcysion, not vnto them onely whiche came of þe circumcysed; but vnto them also that walke in the steppes of the fayth þe was in oure father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcysion.

For the promes (that he shuld be the father of the world) happened not to Abraham or to his seede thow we the lawe: but thow we the ryghteousnes of fayth. * For yf they whiche are of the lawe, be heyres, then is fayth but vayne and the promes of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrath. For where no lawe is, there is no transgressyon. Therefore by fayth is the enheritaunce geuen, that it myght come of fauoure: þe promes myght be sure to all the seede. Not to them onely whiche are of the lawe: but to them also whiche are of the fayth of Abraham, * which is the father of vs all. (As it is wyrtte: I haue made the a father of many nacions) euē before God, whome he beleued, whiche reioyseth the dead vnto lyfe: & calleth those thynges whiche be not, as though they were.

Which Abraham, contrary to hope, beleued in hope, that he shoulde be the * father of many nacions, accordynge to that which was spoken * euen so shal thy seede be, (as the starrs of heauen, and the sande of the see.) And he sayned not in þe fayth nor yet considered his owne body whiche was nowe dead, euē when he was almost an hundred yere olde: whether yet þe Sara was past child bearyng. He staked not at the promes of God, thow we vbeleue: but became stronge in fayth and gaue God the praise, beyng full certified, that he which had promysed the same was able also to make it good. And therefore was it reckened to hym for ryghteousnes.

Reuerthelesse, it is not wyrtten for hym only, that it was reckened to hym (for ryghteousnes) but also for vs, to whome it shal be counted (for ryghteousnes) so that we beleue on hym that raised vp Iesus oure Lorde from the deade: whiche was deliuered for oure synnes, and was raised agayne for oure iustificacyon.

The. v. Chapter.

The power of fayth, hope and loue, and howe death raygned from Adam vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synnes.

Because therefore that we are iustified by fayth, we are at * peace with God, thow we oure Lorde Iesus Christ: by whome also it chaused vnto vs to be brought in thow we say the, vnto this grace, wherein we stande, and * reioice in hope of the gloire (of the chyldren) of God. Not that onely: but also we reioyce in tribulacions: knowing that * tribulacyon byngeth patience, patience byngeth experyence, experyence byngeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because þe loue of God is shed abroad in oure hertes, by þe holy ghooste whiche is geuen vnto vs.

For* when we were yet weake, accordyng to the tyme, Christ dyed for vs which were vngodly: Yet scarce wyl any man dye for a righteous man. Peradventure for a good man durste a man die. But* God setteth out his loue to warde vs, seying that whyle we were yet synners* (accordyng to the tyme) Christ dyed for vs.

Much more then now (we are iustified by his bloude) shalbe saved from wrath thowow hym.

For yf when we were enemyes, we wer reconcyled to God, by the death of his sonne: muche more seying we are reconcyled, we shalbe preserved by his lyfe. Not onely this, but we also loye in God by the meanes of our Lord Jesus Christ by whome we haue now obtained the attonement.

Wherefore, as by one man, synne entred into the worlde, and* death by the meanes of synne. Euen so death also went ouer al mē, insomuch as all we haue synned. For euen vnto the lawe was synne in the worlde: but synne is not imputed, when there is no lawe: neuer thelesse death reigned from Adam to Moies, euen ouer them also that had not synned wyth lyke trasgressyon as did Adam: which beareth the synnitude of hym that was to come. But the gyfte is not lyke as the synne. For yf thowowe the synne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God, and gyft by grace* which was of one man Jesus Christ. For

And the gyft is not ouer one synne: as death came thowow one synne of one that sinned. For dampnacion came of one synne vnto condempnacion: but the gyfte came to iustifye from many synnes. For yf by y synne of one, death reigned by the meanes of one: much more they (whiche receiue aboundaunce of grace and of the gyft of ryghteousnes) shal raygne in lyfe by y meanes of one (that is to say) Jesus Christ.

Lykewyse then as by the synne of one ther sprange vpon euell on all men to condempnacion: euen so by the ryghteousnesse of one spryngeth good vpon all men to the ryghteousnes of lyfe. For as by one mannes disobeyence, many became synners: so by y obeyence of one shal many be made ryghteous. But* the lawe in the meane tyme entred in, that sinne shuld encrease. Neuer the later wher aboundaunce of sinne was ther was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had raygned vnto death, euen so myghte grace raygne thowowe ryghteousnes, vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Jesu Christ. For

The. vi. Chapter.

For so much as we be deliuered thowowe Christ from synne, we muste fasten oure selues to lyue as the seruautes of God, and not after our owne lustes. The only hely reward of ryghteousnes and synne.

What shal we saie then? Shal we co tynne in synne, that there maye be a boundaunce of grace? God forbid. Howe shal we that are dead as touchyng sinne, lyue any lenger therein?

I knowe ye not that* all we which are baptised into Jesu Christe are baptised to dye with hym: We are buryed the with him by baptyme for to dye: that lykewyse as Christ was raised vp from death by the glozpe of y father, euen so we also shuld walke in a newe lyfe. For if we be grafte in death lyke vnto hym, euen so shal we be partakers of the resurreccyon: knowyng this, that our olde man is crucified wyth hym also, that the bodye of synne myght vterly be destroyed, that henceforth we shulde not be seruautes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is iustified from synne. Wherefore yf we be deade wyth Christ, we beleue, that we shal also lyue wyth hym: knowyng, that Christ beinge raised from death,* dyeth nomore. Death hath no more power ouer hym. For as touchyng that he dyed, he dyed concernyng synne once. And as touchyng that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Lykewyse consydre ye also, that ye are dead as touchyng synne, but are aloue vnto God thowowe Jesus Christ our Lord. Let not synne raygne therfore in your mortall bodye, that ye shulde therunto obey by the lustes of it: Nether geue ye your membes as instrumentes of vnyghteousnes vnto synne: but geue ouer poure selues vnto God as they that of dead, are aloue. And geue ouer your membes as instrumentes of ryghteousnes vnto God. For synne shal not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then? Shal we synne, because we are not vnder y lawe: but vnder grace? God forbid. I knowe ye not, howe that* to whome soeuer ye comyt poure selues as seruautes to obey his seruautes ye are to whome ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obeyence vnto ryghteousnes? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruautes of synne, ye haue yet obeyed with hert vnto the rule of the doctryne, that ye be broughte vnto. Ye are then made free from synne, and are become the seruautes of ryghteousnes. I speake grossly, because of the infymptie of your fleshe. As ye haue geuen your members seruautes to vncleannes and to iniquitye, (from one iniquitie to another) euen so now geue ouer your membes seruautes vnto ryghteousnes, that ye maye be sanctified. For when ye were the seruautes of synne, ye were voyde of ryghteousnes. What frute had ye then in those thynges, wherof ye are now ashamed? For y ende of those thynges is death. But now are ye deliuered from synne, and made the seruautes of God, & haue your frute to be sanctified, & the end euerlasting lyfe. For* y reward of synne is death, but eternall lyfe is the gyft of God, thowowe Jesus Christ our Lord. For

The. vii. Chapter.

Christ hath deliuered vs from the lawe and death. He sheweth what the fleshe and outward man is, & calleth it the lawe of the membes.

Nowe ye not brethzen (I speake to y them that knowe the lawe) how y the lawe hath power ouer a mā, as longe as it endureth? For* the wo man which is in subieccion to a mā is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. But yf the man be deade: he is loosed from the lawe of y man. So then* yf whyle the man lyueth the couple her selfe to a nother man she shalbe counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the the man be deade, he is free from the lawe of the husbande, so that he is no wedlocke breaker; though the couple ber selfe wyth a nother man.

Euen so ye also (my brethren) are dead concerning the lawe by the body of Christ, & ye shal be coupled to another (I meane to hym & is risen agayn from death) & we shulde bring forth frute vnto God. For when we were in the flesh the lustes of synne which were stered by the lawe, raygned in our members, to bring forth frute vnto death. But now we are we deliuered from the lawe, and dead vnto it, wherunto we were in bondage, that we shuld serue in a newe conuersacyon of the sprete, and not in y^e olde conuersacyon of the letter.

What shall we say then? is the lawe synne? God forbyd: neuertheles, I knewe not synne, but by y^e lawe. For I had not knowen what lust had mente, excepte the lawe had sayde: & shalte not luste. But synne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement and wroughte in me all maner of concupiscence. For verely wythoute the lawe, synne was dead. I once lyued wythout lawe: But when the commaundement came, synne reuyued, and I was dead.

And the very same commaundement, which was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was found to be vnto me an occasion of death. For sinne toke an occasyon by the meanes of the commaundement, & so dysceyued me, & by the same slewe me. Wherefore the lawe is holy, and the commaundement holy and iust & good. Was that the which was good made death vnto me? God forbyd. Naye it was synne: that synne myghte appere (by it which was good) to worke death in me: & sinne by the commaundement myght be oute of measure synful. For we knowe that the lawe is spirytual: but I am carnal: & solde vnder synne, because I allow not that which I do. For what I wold, that do I not: but what I hate, that do I. If I do nowe that which I wolde not, I consēt vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I that doo it, but synne & dwelleth in me. For I knowe, that in me (that is to saye: in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing. For to wyl is present with me: but I fynde no meanes to performe that which is good. For the good that I wold, do I not: but the euell which I wolde not that doo I. If I do that I wolde not, then is it not I that doo it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynde then by the lawe, that when I wolde do good euell is present wth me. For I delyte in the lawe of God, after the inward man: But I see another lawe in my members, rebelling agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduyng me vnto the lawe of synne, which is in my members. O wretched man that I am: wh^o shal deliuer me from this body subdued vnto death? I thanke God thowow Iesus Christ our Lorde. So then wyth the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but with the flesh the lawe of synne.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

¶ The lawe of the spreyte geueth lyfe. The spreyte of God maketh vs Gods chyldren & hepyes with Christ. The aboundaunce of God, can not be separated.

There is then no dampnacyon to them which are in Christ Iesu, which walke not after the flesh but after the spreyte. For the lawe of the spreyte, of lyfe thowow Iesus Christ, hath made me free from the lawe of synne, and death. For what the lawe coulde not doo (in as muche as it was weake because of the flesh) that performed god and sent his sonne in the similitude of synfull flesh, and by synne damned synne in the flesh, that the ryghteousnes of the law, might be fulfilled in vs, which walke not after the flesh, but after the spreyte.

For they that are carnal, are carnally mynded. But they that are spirytual, are godlye mynded. To be carnally minded, is death. But to be spirytually minded, is lyfe and peace.

Because that the fleshy mynde is enemy agaynst God, for it is not obedyent to the lawe of God, nether can be. So then they that are in the flesh, can not please God.

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the spreyte: so be that the spreyte of God dwell in you. If any man haue not y^e spreyte of Christ, y^e same is none of his. If Christ be in you, the bodye is dead because of synne: but the spreyte is lyfe for righteousnes sake. Wherefore yf the spreyte of hym that raysed vp Iesus from death, dwell in you: euen he that raysed vp Christ from death shall quyen your mortall bodyes, because of his spreyte that dwelleth in you.

¶ Therefore brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to lyue after the flesh. For yf ye lyue after the flesh, ye shal dye: But yf ye (thowow the spreyte) do mortifye the dedes of the bodye, ye shal lyue. For as many as are led by y^e spreyte of God, they are the sonnes of God. For ye haue not receyued the spreyte of bondage to feare any more, but ye haue receyued the spreyte of adopcion, wherby we crye: Abba father. The same spreyte certifieth oure spreyte that we are y^e sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, the are we also heires: I meane of God, & hepyes annexed wth Christ: so be that we suffer with hym, that we maye be also glorified together with hym.

¶ For I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthe of the gloire, which shal be shewed vpon vs. For the feruent desire of the creature abydeeth loyng when the sonnes of God shal appere, because the creature is subdued to vanytie, agaynst the wyll therof, but for his wyll which hath subdued the same in hope. For the same creature shal be deliuered from the bondage of corrupcyon into the glorious liberty of the sonnes of God. For we know that every creature groweth with vs also, & trayleth in payne euen vnto this tyme.

Not onely it, but we also which haue the spreyte frutes of the spreyte, moze in oure selues also, and wayte for the adopcion (of the chylde of God) euen the deliuerance of our body.

¶ For we are saued by hope. But hope that is sene is no hope. For how can a man hope for that which he seeth? But and yf we hope for y^e we se not, then do we with pacyence abyde for it.

Lyfe

The Epistle

Lyke wyse, the sprete also helpeth our infirmities. For we know not what to desire as we ought: but the sprete maketh intercession for us with groynge whyche cannot be expressed. And he that searcheth the hartes knoweth, what is the meynynge of the sprete, for he maketh intercession for the sayntes, accordyng to the pleasure of God. I

We know that all thynges worke for the best vnto them that loue God, whiche also are called of purpose. For those whiche he knew before, he also ordeined before, that they shulde be lyke fashioned vnto the shape of his sonne, that he myghte be the fyrste begotten sonne amonge many brethren. Moreover, whom he appoynted before, them also he called. And whom he hath called, them also he iustified: & whom he iustified, them he also glorified.

What shall we then saye to these thynges? if God be on our syde: who can be against vs, whiche spared not his owne sonne: but gaue hym for vs all: how can it be that with hym he shulde not geue vs all thynges also? Who shall laye any thyng to the charge of Gods chosen? it is God that iustifyeth: who is he that can condemn? it is Chryste whiche dyed: yee, rather which is risen again, which is also on the right hand of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Who shall separate vs from the loue of God? shall tribulacion: or angurthe: or persecucion: eyther hunger: eyther nakednes: eyther pael: eyther sword? As it is wyrtten: for thy sake are we kylled all day longe, and are counted as shepe apoynted to be slayne. Neuertheles, in all these thynges we ouercome thoroowe hym that loued vs. For I am sure, that nether death, nether lyfe, nether angels, nor rule, nether power, nether thynges present, nether thynges to come nether heygth, nether loweth, nether any other creature shall be able to departe vs from the loue of God, which is in Chryste Iesu our Lorde. I

The ix. Chapter.

Pauls complayneth vpon the harde hertes of the Jewes that wolde not receyue Chryste, and howe the heathen are chosen in the place steade.

Saye the truthe in Chryste, and lye not (my conscience also bearing me wytnes by the holy goste) for I haue greute heuyenes and contynuall sorowe in my hert. For I haue wylled my selfe to be cursed fro Chryste, for my brethren (my kynsmen as pertaynyng to the fleshe) which are of Israelytes. To whom pertaineth the adopcyon, & (of the chyldren) and the glozy, and the conuenantes & the lawe that was geuen, & the serupce of God, and the promyses: whose also are the fathers, and they of whom (as concernyng the fleshe) Chryste came, whiche is god in all thynges to be prayled for ever. Amen.

I speake not these thynges, as though the wordes of God had taken none effecte. For they are not all Israelytes, which are of Israel: neither are they all chyldren of Abraham. But in Isaac shall thy seed be called: for it is to saye, they whiche are the chyldren of the fleshe, are not the chyldren of God. But they whiche be the chyldren of promyses are counted the seede. For this is a worde of promyses, about this tyme I will come, and Sara shall haue a sonne. Not only this, but also Rebecca was wyth chyld by one, euen by oure father Isaac. For yet the chyldren were bozne, whiche they had nether done good nether bad (that the purpose of God by eleccion, might stand) it was said vnto her, not by the reason of workes, but by the caller, the elder shall serue the yonger, as it is wyrtte: Jacob haue I loued, but Esau haue I hated. What shall we say then? is ther any vnrightheousnes with God? God forbid. For he sayth to Moyses: I will shewe mercy to whom I shewe mercy: & I will haue compassion on whom I haue compassion. So lieth it not then in a mans wyll or runnyng, but in the mercye of God. For the scripture sayeth vnto Pharaos: Euen for this same purpose haue I stered the vp, to shewe my power on the, & that my name myght be declared thoroowe out all the worlde: So hath he mercye on whom he wyll, & whom he wyll he maketh hard harted.

Thou wilt saye then vnto me: why the blamest thou vs yet? For who hath beene able to resist his wyll? But O man, what art thou which disputest with God? Shall the worke saye to the workeman: why hast thou made me on this fashion? hath not the potter power ouer the claye, euen of the same lombe to make one vessel vnto honoure, and another vnto dishonoure? Euen so, God willing to shewe his wrath, & to make his power knowne: suffered with longe patience the vessels of wrath, ordeyned to damnacion, & to declare the ryches of his glozy on the vessels of mercy whiche he had prepared vnto glozy who also be called, not of the Jewes onely, but also of the Gentyles. As he sayeth also to Osee: I will call them my people whiche were not my people: and her beloved which was not beloved (and her to haue obtained mercie, that had not obtained mercie.) And it shall come to passe, in the place wher it was sayd vnto them: ye are not my people, there shall they be called the chyldren of the liuyng God.

But I saye crieth concerning Israel, though the nombre of the chyldren of Israel be as the sand of the see, yet the remnant shall be saved. For he synneth the worde verely, & maketh it shorte in rygheousnes. For a shorte worde will God make on earth. And as I say sayd before: Except the Lorde of Sabbath had left vs seide, we had bene made as Sodoma, and had bene lykened to Gomorra. What shall we say then? we say, that the Gentyles whiche folowed not righteousnes haue overtaken righteousnes: and the rygheousnes which cometh of sayth. Contrary wyse. Israel which folowed the lawe of rygheousnes, coulde not attayn to the lawe of rygheousnes. Wherefore? Euen because they sought it not by sayth: but as it were by the workes of the lawe. For they haue stumbled at the stumbling stone. As it is wyrtten: Beholde, I put in Sion a stumbling stone, & a rocke that men shall be offended

The. x. Chapter.

The vnfaithfulness of the Jewes. Two manner of righteousnesses.

Save then, hathe God caste awaye his people? God forbyd. For even I also am an Israelyte, of the seed of Abraham, of the trybe of Ben Jamin, God hath not caste awaye hys people, whyche he knewe before. Note ye not, what the scripture sayth of helias, howe he ma-keth intercession to God against Israel, sayng: *Lorde, they haue kylled thy prophetes, & dysged doune thine alters: and I am left alone, and they seke my lyfe. But what sayth I answere of God vnto hym? *I haue reserued vnto my selfe seuen thousande men, whyche haue not bowed the knee to the ymage of Baal. Euen so also at thys tyme is there a remnant left accordyng to the eleccion of grace. If it be of grace, then is it not nowe of woorkes. For then grace is no more grace. But if it be of woorkes, then is it nowe no grace. For then were deseruyng nomore deseruyng. What the? Israel hath not obtained that whyche he seketh: but the eleccion hath obtained it. The remnaunte are blynded, accordyng as it is wyrtten. *God hath geuen them the spirit of vniuersity: eyes that they should not see, and eares that they should not heare, euen vnto thys daye. *And Dauid sayeth: Let theyr table bee made a snare to take them wyth al, and an occasyon to fall, and a rewarde vnto them. Let theyr eyes be blynded that they se not: and bowe thou downe theyr backe alwaye.

I saye then: haue they therfore stumbled, that they should utterly fall away together? God forbyd: but thow they fall, is saluacion happened vnto the Gentyles, for to prouoke the with all. Wherefore if the fall of the be the ryche of the worlde & the mynyshyng of the the ryche of the Gentyles: howe muche more theyr perfect-nesse? I speake to you Gentyles, in as muche as *I am the Apostle of the Gentyles, I wyll ma-gnyfye myne offyce, if by any meane I maye prouoke them whyche are my fleshe, and myght saue some of them. For if the casting awaye of them be the reconcyllyng of the worlde, what shal the receauyng of them be, but lyfe agayne from death? For if one pece be holpe, the whole heape is holpe. And if the rote be holpe, the bryanches shal be holpe also.

Though some of the bryanches be broken of,
and thou beyng a wyldelyne olyuetree, wast grafte in amonge them, and made partaker of the rote and fatnes of the olyuetree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the bryanches. For if thou boaste thy selfe, thou bearest not the rote, but the rote the.
Thou wilt saye then: the bryanches are broken of, that I myght be graft in. Thou sayest well: because of vnbeleue they were broken of, & thou stodest stedfaste in faythe. Be not hye mynded, but feare: for seying that God spared not the naturall bryanches, take hede, lest it come to passe that he spare not the also.

Beholde therfore the kyndnes and rygozousnes of God: on them whyche fell, rygozousnes: but towarde the, kyndnes: if thou contynue in hys kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be between of, and they agayne: if they byde not still in vnbeleue, shalt thou be

Bethzen, my hartes desyre & prayer to God for Israel is, if they myghte be saued. For I beare them record, if they haue a feruent mynde to Godwarde, but not accordyng to know-lage. For they beyng ignoraunt of Gods ryghteousnes, & goyng about to stablish their owne ryghteousnes, haue not bene obedient vnto the righteousnes of God. For *Christ is the fulfylling of the lawe, to iustifye all that beleue.

For *Moses wyrtteth of the ryghteousnes whyche cometh of the lawe, howe that the man whyche doth the thynges of the lawe, shall lyue ther-by. But the ryghteousnes whyche cometh of fayth, speaketh on thys wyse: Save not thou in thyne herte, who shall ascende into heauen? (that is euen to fetch Christ doune from aboue.) Ep-ther who shall descende into the depe? (that is euen to fetch vnto Christ agayne from death.) But what sayeth he? *The worde is nye the, euen in thy mouth and in thyne herte.

This same is the worde of fayth, whyche we preach. For if thou knowlage wyth thy mouth that Iesus is the Lorde, and beleue in thyne herte that God rayled hym vp from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue wyth the harte iustify-eth: & to knowlage wyth the mouthe maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayeth: *Whosoever beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe and the gentyl. For one is Lorde of al, which is ryche vnto al that cal vnto hym. For *whosoever doth call on the name of the Lorde, shal be safe. Howe then shall they call on hym, on whom they haue not beleued? howe shall they beleue on hym, of whom they haue not heard? howe shall they heare, wythout a preacher? And how shal they preache except they be sent? As it is wyrtten: howe beautyfull are the fete of them whiche byng tydynges of peace, and byng tydynes of good thyngges. But they haue not al obeyed to the Gospel.

For Esay sayth: *Lorde, who hath beleued our saynges? So then sayth cometh by hearpyng, and hearpyng cometh by the worde of God. But I aske: haue they not heard? No doute: they found wente out into all landes, & theyr wordes into the endes of the worlde. For

But I demaund, whether Israel byd knowe or not? For *Moses sayeth: *I wyll prouoke you to enuy, by them that are no people: by a solyphrenacion I wyll anger you: Esay after that is bolde and sayeth: *I am founde of them, that sought me not: I am manifeste vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israel he sayeth: *all daye longe haue I stretched forth the my hades vnto a people that beleueth not but speaketh agaynst me.

The. xi. Chapter.

All the Jewes are not cast awaye, therfore I shal warneth the gentyls if be called, not to be hye mynded nor to despyce the Jewes, for the iudgements of God are hope & secrete.

The Epistle

shal be grafted in agayne. For God is of power to graffe the in agayn. For yf thou wast cut out of a naturall wyld olue tree, and was grafted contrary to nature in a true olue tree how much more shall the naturall bzaunches bee grafted in theyr owne olue tree agayn.

I would not that thys secrete should be hyd from you my bzyethzen (lest ye should be wyle in your owne conceptes) that partelye blyndnes is happened in Israel, vntyll the fulnes of the gentyles be come in: and so all Israel shal be saved.

As it is wrytten: * There shal come out of Syon he that doth delpue, and shal turne a waye vngodlynes from Jacob. And this is my conenat vnto them, when I shal take a waye they synnes. As concernyng the Gospell they are enemyes for your sakes: but as touchyng the electyon, they are loued for theyr fathers sakes.

For verely, the gyftes and callyng of God are suche, that it can not repente hym of them: for loke, as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God, yet haue nowe obtayned mercye thozowe they vnbeleue: euen so now haue they not beleued the mercye whiche is happened vnto you: that they also maye obtayne mercye. For God had wrapped all nacyns in vnbeleue, that he myght haue mercye on all.

Of the depenes of the ryches both of the wysedom and knowlage of God: how vnsearcheable are his iudgementes, and hys wayes passe fynyng out: For * who hath knowne the mynde of the Lorde? Or who hath bene his counsellor: ether who hath geue vnto hym fyrst, and he shal be recompensed again: For of hym, and thozow hym and for hym are all thynges: To hym be glozpe for euer. Amen.

The. xii. Chapter.

The swete conuersacyon, loue, and workes of suche as beleue in Christ.

Besech you therfore bzyethzen, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make your bodyes a quicke sacrytyce holy and acceptable vnto God: whych is your reasonable seruing of God: and fashyon not your selues lyke vnto thys worlde, but be ye chaunged in your shape by y renewyng of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thyng that good, and acceptable, and perfecte wyll of God is. For I say (thozowe the grace y vnto me geuen is) to every man among you, that * no mā stande hys in his owne concepte more then it becommeth hym to estyme hym selfe: but so iudge of hym selfe, that he bee gentle and sober, accordyng as God hath dealt to every man the measure of fapth.

Eccle. iii. c
Rom. xiii. a

For as we are many members in one bodye, and all membzres haue not one offyce: so we be ynge many are one bodye in Christe, and euerye man among our selues, one anothers members.

1. Pet. iii. c

* Heryng that we haue dyuers gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geuen vnto vs: yf any man haue the gyfte of * prophecy, let hym haue it that it be agryng vnto the fapth. * Let hym that hath the an offyce, wapte on hys offyce. Let hym that teacheth take hede to his doctrine. Let hym that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacyon. Yf any man geue, let hym do it with synghenes. Let hym that ruleth, do it wyth diligence. Yf any man the we mercye, let hym do it wyth cherfulness. Let loue be wythout dissimulation. Hate y which is euell, & cleane vnto that whych is good. Be kynde one to another wyth brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slouthfull in the busynes whych ye haue in hand. Be feruent in the spyte Apply your selues to the tyme. Be ioyse in hope. Be pacient in trybulacyon. Contynue in prayer: Wryttribute vnto the necessarye of the sayntes: * be ready to herboure. * Blesse the which persecute you: blesse (I saye) and curse not. Be mercy wyth them that are mery. Wepe also wyth the that wepe. Be of lyke affectyon one towarde another. Be not hye mynded: but make your selues equall to them of the lower sorte. * Be not wyle in your owne oppynions. Recopence to no man euell for euell. Proude asochad thyn: ges honest: (not onely before God, but also) in syght of all men. Yf it bee possible, (as muche as is in you) lyue peaceably wyth all men. Dearly beloved, auenge not youre selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is wrytten: * vengeaunce is myne, I wyll rewarde, sayeth the Lorde.

Therefore yf thynne enemye hunger, fede hym, yf he thyrste, geue hym drynke. For in so doyng thou shalt heape coles of fyre on hys heade. Be not ouercome of euell, but ouercome euell wyth goodnes.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The obedyence of men vnto theyr rulers. How fullylth the lawe. It is now no tyme to folow the workes of darknes.

Et every soule submyt hym self vnto the authorite of the hyer powers. For * there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeined of God. Whosoener therfore respyeth power, respyeth the ordynance of God. But they that respyt, shall receaue to them selfe damnation. For rulers are not feareful to them that do good, but to them that do euell. Wylt thou be wythoute feare of the power? Do well then: and so shalt thou bee praysed of the same. For he is the mynyster of God, for thy welth. But and yf thou do that whych is euell, then feare: for he beareth not the swerd for nought: for he is the mynyster of God, to take vengeaunce on hym that doth euell. Wherefore, ye muste nedes obeye, not onely for feare of vengeaunce: but also because of conspence. And euen for thys cause paye ye trybute. For they are Goddes mynysters, seruyng for the same purpose.

Geue to every man therfore his dnetie: * trybute to whō trybute belongeth: custome, to whō custome is due: feare to whō feare belongeth: honoure, to whō honoure pertayneth. * Owe nothyng to any manne: but thys, that you loue one another. For he that loueth another hath fullylled the lawe. For these commaundementes: * Thou shalt not commytte aduoutry: thou shalt not kyll: thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnesse: thou shalt not lust, & so forth forthe (yf ther be any other commaundement) it is al comprehended in this sayng, namely: * loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. Loue hurteth not hys neyghboure. Therfore is loue the fulfylling of the lawe. ¶ ¶ Thys also we knowe the season howe y it is tyme, that we should now awake out of slepe for nowe is our saluacyon nether the when we beleued. The nyghte is passed, the daye is come nye. Let vs therfore cast away y dedes of darkness, & let vs put on the armour of light. Let vs walke honestly, as it wer in the day lyght: * not in eatyng and drynkyng, neyther in chambryng and wantonnes, neyther in stryfe and enuynge: but put ye on the Lorde Iesus Christe. ¶ And make not prouyspon for the fleshe to fulfyll the lustes of it.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The weake ought not to be despyed. No man should offende another's conscience, agayn for outwarde thynges should no man condemne another.

Im that is weake in the saythe, receaue: not in disputyng & troublingng hys conscience. One beleueth that he may eat all thyng: Another whiche is weake eateth herbes. Let not hym that eateth, despyse hym that eateth not. And let not hym whych eateth not, iudge hym that eateth. For God hath receued hym. ¶ What art thou that iudgest another mannes seruauant whether he stande or fall, y pertayneth vnto hys owne master: yee, he shalbe holden vp, y he may stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

¶ Thys man putteth dyfference betwene daye and daye. A nother mā counteth al dayes alke. Let euery mannes mynde satysfy hym selfe. he that obserueth the daye, doth it vnto the Lorde. And he that doeth not obserue the daye, doeth it for y Lorde also. he that eateth, doeth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thanks. And he y eateth not, eateth not to please the Lorde wyth all, and geueth God thanks. For none of vs lyueth for hym selfe, and no mā dyeth for hym self. For yf we lyue, we lyue vnto the Lorde. And yf we dye, we dye vnto the Lorde. Whether we liue therfore, or dye, we are the Lordes. For Christe therfore dyed, and rose agayn, and reuyned, that he myght be * Lorde of dead and quicke.

¶ But why doest thou then iudge thy brother? Eyther, why doest y despyse thy brother? We shalbe al brought before the iudgement seate of Christ. For it is writte: as truly as I lyue, sayeth the Lorde: * all knees shall bowe to me, & all tonges shal geue prayse to God. So shal euery one of vs geue accomptes of hym selfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another any moze.

But iudge this rather, that no mā put a stumblingge blocke, or an occasyon to fall in hys brothers waye. For I knowe, and am full certyfied by the Lorde Iesus, that * ther is nothyng commune of it selfe: but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be comune: to hym is it comune. Yf thy brother be greued wyth thy meate, nowe wakeste thou not charitably. Destroie not hym w thy meate, for whom Christ dyed. Cause not poure trouble to be euell spoken of. For the kyngdom of God is not meat and drynke: but ryghteousnes, and peace, and ioye in the holy gost. For he that in these thynges serueth Christe, pleasech God and is commended of men.

Let vs therfore folow those thynges whych we make for peace, & thynges wherby one maye edify another. Destroie not the worke of God for a lytell meates sake. * All thynges are pure: but it is euell for that man, whych eateth wyth hurte of conscience. It is good nether to eat flesh neyther to drynke wyne, neyther any thyng, wherby thy brother stumblith, eyther falleth, or is made weake. Halte thou sayth: haue it wyth thy self before God. happye is he, that condemneth not hym self, in y thyng whych he alloweth. For he that maketh conscience is damned yf he eat: because he eateth not of fayth. For whatsoeuer is not of fayth, the same is synne. ¶

The. xiv. Chapter.

The intympte & frailties of the weake ought to be borne wyth all loue and kyndnes, after the ensample of Christ.

Whyche are stronge * oughte to beare the frailties of them whych are weake, and not to stande in our owne conceptes. Let euery manne please hys neyghboure vnto hys wealtie and edyfying. For Christe pleased not hym selfe: but as it is written: * The rebukes of them whych rebuked the, fell on me.

¶ Whatsoeuer thynges are wyrtten afore tyme they are wyrtte for our learnyng, that we thoroowe pacience and comfote of the scriptures, myght haue hope.

The God of pacience and consolacyon, graunt vs you, to be lyke mynded one to wardes another, after the ensample of Christe Iesu: * that ye all agryng together may wyth one mouth prayse God, the father of oure Lorde Iesus Christe. Wherefore receaue ye one another, as Christe receaued vs, to the prayse of God. And thys I say that Iesus Christe was a mynyster of the circumcyspon for the truth of God to confirme the promyses made vnto the fathers: * that the gentyles myght prayse God for his mercye, as it is wyrtten. * For thys cause I wyll prayse the amonge the gentyles, and synge vnto thy name. And agayn he sayth: * Reioyce ye gentyles with hys people. And agayn: * prayse the Lorde al ye gentyles, and laud hym all ye nacyns together. And agayn Esay sayeth: there shalbe * the rote of Jesse, and he that shal ryle to raygne ouer the gentyles: in hym shal the gentyles truste. The God of hope fyll you wyth all ioye, and peace in beleuyng: that ye may be ryche in hope, thoroowe the power of the goly gost. ¶

I my selfe am full certyfied of you (my brethren) that ye also are full of goodnesse, and fylled wyth all knowlage, wyllyng to exhorste one another. Neuertheles (brethren) I haue some what moze boldly wyrtten vnto you, partly to put you in remembraunce, thoroowe the gracy is geuen me of God, that I should be y mynyster of Iesu Christ among the Gentyles, and should mynyster the Gospell of God, y the offeringe of the gentyles myght be acceptable, & sanctified by þe holy goste, I haue therfore wherof I maye reioyce thowowe Christe Iesu, in those thynges whych pertayne to God. For I dare not speake of any of those thynges, whych Christ hath wrought by me, to make the Gentyles obedient, with worde and dede, in myghty signes & wonders, by the power of the spyrte of God: so that from Jerusalem and the coastes rounde aboute vnto Illyricū, I haue fylled al countreys with the Gospell of Christ.

E So haue I enforced my selfe to preach þe Gospell, not wher Christ was named, least I should haue buylt on another mans foundaciō: but as it is wyrtten: * To whō he was not spokē of, they shall see: and they that herde not, shall vnderstand. For this cause I haue ben oft lettē (* as I let as yet) that I coulde not come vnto you: but nowe, seying I haue nomore to do in these countreys, & also haue bene desyrus many yeres to come vnto you, whensoeuer I take my iourneye into Spayne, I wyll come to you. For I truste to see you in my iourney, & to be brought on my waye thetherwarde by you, after þe I haue somewhat enioyed your acquayntaunce.

Nowe go I vnto Jerusalem, and * my nyxt vnto the sayntes, for it hath pleased the of Macedonia & Achaia to make a certayne dystribucion vpon the poore sayntes, which are at Jerusalem. It hath pleased them verely, & they detters are they. For yf the gentyles be made partakers of theyr spirytual thynges, theyr dutye is to mynister vnto the in bodely thynges. Whiche I haue perfourmed this, & haue brought the this frute sealed, I wyll come backe agayne by you into Spayne. I am sure that whē I come vnto you, I shall come wyth a boundaunce of the blessing of the Gospell of Christ. I beseeche you brethren for oure Lorde Iesus Christes sake, & for the loue of the spyrte, that ye helpe me in my busynes wyth your prayers to God for me, that I maye be deliuered from them whych beleue not in Iesuyse: & that this my seruyce, whych I haue to do at Jerusalem, may be accepted of the sayntes, & I maye come vnto you wyth ioye, by the wyll of God and may with you be refreshed. The God of peace be wyth you all. Amen. R

The .xvi. Chapter.

A chapter of salutations. He warneth them to beware of menys doctrine, and commendeth vnto them certayn goodly men, that were louers and brethren in the truth.

I Commende vnto you Phebe our sister (which is a mynyster of the congregacion of Cenchrea) þe receaue her in Christ, as it becommeth sayntes, and þe assist her in whatsoeuer busynes she nedeth of poure ayde. For she hath suckered many, and myne owne selfe also. Grete Prisca and * Aquila my helpers in Christe Iesu which haue for my lyfe layd downe theyr owne neckes. Vnto whō not I onely geue thākes, but also al the congregacions of the gentyles. Lyke wyse, grete the congregacyon þis in there house. Salute my welobelued Epheletes, whych is þe firste frute of Achaia in Christe. Grete Marpe whych bestowed muche labour on vs. Salute Andronicus and Junia my cosyns, & presoners wyth me also, whych are well taken amonge the Apostles, and were in Christe before me. Grete Amplias my beloued in the Lorde. Salute Urban oure helper in Christ, and Stachis my beloued. Salute Appelles approued in Christ: Salute them, which are of Aristobolus household. Salute Herodion my kynsmā. Grete them that be of the household of Narcissus, whych are in the Lorde. Salute Triphena & Triphosa, whiche laboure in the Lorde. Salute the beloued Persis, whych laboured muche in the Lorde. Salute Rufus cholen in the Lorde, and his mother & myne. Grete Asyncritus, Philegon, Herman, Patrobas, Mercurius, & the brethren whych are wyth the. Salute Philologus & Julia, Nereus and his syster, and Olympa, and all the sayntes whych are wyth them. * Salute one another wyth an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseeche you brethren, marke them whych cause deuysson and gene occasyons of euell, contrarie to the doctryne whych ye haue learned: and auoyde the. For they that are suche serue not the Lorde Iesus Christe, * but theyr owne bellies, and wyth swete and flatterynge wordes, deceaue the heartes of the innocentes. For youre obedyence is gone abroade vnto all men. I am glad therfore no doute, of you. But yet I woulde haue you wyse vnto that whych is good, and to be innocent as concernynge euell. The God of peace shall treade Sathan vnder your fete shortly. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be wyth you.

Tymotheus my worke felow, and Lucius and Jason, and Socypater my kynsmen salute you: I Tercus salute you, whych wrote this Epistle in the Lorde. * Gayus my host and the hoste of all the congregacyon saluteth you. Erastus the treasurer of the cytte, saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesu Christe be wyth you all. Amen. R

To hym that is of power to stablyshe you, accordyng to my Gospell, and preachyng of Iesus Christ in utteryng of the mysterie, whych was kepte secrete sence the worlde beganne, but nowe is opened by the scriptures of the prophetes at the commandement of the euerlastynge God to stire vp obedyence to the fayth, published amonge all nacions: To the same God, which alone is wyse be * (honoure &) prayse thowowe Iesus Christ for euer. Amen.

The fyrste Epistle of sainte Paull the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The firste Chapter.

He commendeth the Corinthians, exhorteth them to bee of our mynde, and rebuketh the diuision that was among the worldly wysdome is foolysnes before God: yee, there is no wysdome but in the despyled crosse of God.

Paul called an Apostle of Jesus Christ, thow the wyl of God and brother Holtenes.

Unto the congregacyon of God whych is at Corinthum.
To the that are sanctified by Christe Iesu called sayntes wyth all that call on the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ in euery place, epyther of theys or of oures.

* Grace be vnto you, and peace from God our father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christ.

* I thanke my God alwayes on your behalf, for the grace of God whych is geuen you by Jesus Christ, p in all thynges ye are made riche by hym, in all vterance and in all knowlage by p whyche thynges the testimony of Jesus Christ was confyrmed in you, so that ye are behynde in no gift, waityng for the appearng of our Lorde Jesus Christ, whych shall also strength you vnto the ende, that ye may be blamelesse in the day of the commyng of our Lorde Jesus Christ.

* God is saythfull, by whom ye are called vnto the felowshyp of hys sonne Jesus our Lorde. I be-seche you brethren by the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ, that ye al speake one thyng, and that there be no discencion among you: but p ye may be a whole body: of one mynde & of one meanyng for it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by the whych are of the house of Cloe, that there is stryfe amonge you. I speake of the same that euery one of you sayeth: I hold of Paul: I holde of Apollo: I hold of Cephas: I hold of Christe.
Is Christe deuyded? Was Paule crucified for you: either wer ye baptised in the name of Paul I thanke God, that I baptised none of you, but Crispus & Gaius: lest any shuld say, that I had baptised in myne owne name. I baptised also p house of Stephana. Furthermoze knowe I not whether I baptised any man: (of you) or no.

* For Christe sente me not to baptise, but to preache p Gospell, not wyth wysdome of wor-des, lest the crosse of Christ shuld haue ben made of none effecte. For the preachyng of the crosse, is to them that perishe, foolysnes: but vnto vs whyche are saued: it is the power of God. For it is wyrtten: * I wyll destrope the wysdome of p wyle, and wyll caste awaye the vnderstandyng of the prudente. Where is the wyle? * Where is the scrbye? Where is the disputer of this world?
Hath not God made the wysdome of thys world foolysnes?

* For after that the world thow the wysdome knewe not God, in the wysdome of God it pleased God thow the foolysnes of preachyng, to saue them that beleue. For * the Jewes requyre a sygne, and p Grekes seke after wysdome. But we preache Christe crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasion of fallyng, and vnto the Grekes fo-lyshnes: but vnto them which are called both of the Jewes and Grekes, we preache Christe the power of God and the wysdome of God. For the folysnes of God, is wyser then me, and the weaknes of God is stronger then men. Brethren ye se youre callyng, howe that not many wyle men after the fleshe, not many myghtie, not many of hye degree, are called: But God hath chosen the folyshe thynges of the world, to confound the wyle. And God hath chosen the weake thyn-ges of the world, to confound the thynges why-che are myghty. And vyle thynges of the world and thynges, whyche are despyled, hath God chosen, yee, and thynges of no reputacion, for to bryng to nought thynges of reputacion, that no fleshe shoulde reioyce in hys pzelence. And of hym are ye, in Christ Iesu, whych of God is made vnto vs wysdome, and ryghteousnes, and sanctifying, and redemption. That accordyng as it is wyrtten: he whyche reioyseth, shoulde reioyce in the Lorde.

The. ii. Chapter.

It is not eloquence and glorious paynted wordes of worldly wysdome, that can edifye and conuert soules vnto Christ but the playne wordes of the scripture for they make men-cion of hym and hys crosse.

And I brethren (wher I cam to you) came not in glorifyng of wordes or of wysdome, the wyng vnto you the testimony of God. Neither shewed I my selfe that I knewe any thyng among you, saue Jesus Christ, euen the same that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in much trem-blyng. And my wordes and my preachyng was not wyth entysyng wordes of mans wysdome: but in the wyng of the spyte and of power, that your sayth shoulde not stande in the wysdome of men, but in the power of God.

We speake of wysdome amonge them that are perfecte: not the wysdome of thys world, neyther of the rulers of thys worlde (whyche go to nought) but we speake of the wysdome of God which is in secrete and lyeth hyd, which God or-deyned before the world vnto our glorie, whych wysdom * none of p rulers of thys world knewe for had they had knowlage, they woulde not haue crucified the Lorde of glorie. But (as it is wyrtten:) * The eye hath not sene, and the eare hath not harde, neither haue entred into the berte of man, the thynges whych God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by hys spyte. For * the spyte searcheth al thynges, yee the bottome of Goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man: saue the spyte of man whych is wythin hym? Eue so the thyn-ges of God knoweth no man, but the spyte of God. And we haue not receaued the spyte of the worlde: but the spyte whych cometh of God, for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs of God

of God: which thinges also we speake (not with wordes that mannes wysedome teacheth, but wyth wordes whych the holy goste doeth teach) makinge spirytuall comparyson of spirytuall thynges. The naturall man perceaueth not the thynges that belonge to the spryte of God. For they are but folysynes vnto hym. Neyther can he perceane the, because they are spirytually examyned. But he that is spirytually, discusseth al thynges: yet he hym selfe is iudged of no manne. For who hath knowen the minde of the Lord: eyther who shall enforme hym? But we vnderstande the mynde of Christ.

Ad I coulde not speake (vnto you brethren) as vnto spirytual: but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto babes in Christ. I gaue you mylke to drinke, and not meate. For ye then were not stronge, nether are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As longe verily as ther is among you enuiyng, and stryfe and sectes: are ye not carnall, and walke after the maner of menne? For whyle one sayeth: I holde of Paul, and another: I am of Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thyng is Apollo? Onely ministers are they by whom ye beleued euen as the Lord gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollo watred: but God gaue the increase. So then, neyther is he that planteth any thyng, neyther he that watreth, but God that geueth the increase. He that planteth and he that watreth, are one. Euerye man yet shall receaue his rewarde, accordyng to his labour. For we are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husbandes: ye are Goddes buyldyng: accordyng to the grace of God geuen vnto me, as a wyse builder haue I layde the foundation. And another buid thereon. But let euery manne take hede, howe he buyldeth vpon. For another foundation can no man laye, then it that is layde: whych is Iesus Christ. If any man buylde on this foundacyon, golde, syluer, peryous stones, tymbre, haye or stoble: euerye mannes worke shall appeare. For the daye shall declare, whych shall be shewed in fyre. And the fyre shall trye euery mans worke, what it is. If any mannes worke that he hath buylde vpon, byde, he shall receaue a rewarde. If any mannes worke burne, he shall suffre losse, but he shall be safe hym selfe: neuertheles, yet as it were thow wyse.

I* knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God, & howe that the spryte of God dwelleth in you? If any man defyle the temple of God, hym shall God destroye. For the temple of God, is holy, whych temple ye are. Let no man deceane hym selfe. If any man seme wyse to hym selfe among you, let hym become a foole in this worlde, that he may be wyse. For the wysdom of this worlde is folysynes wyth God: For it is wyrtten: he compasseth the wyse in theyr craftyness: And agayn God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyse that they be vayne. Therfore, let no man reioyce in men. For all thynges are poures, whether it be Paul, ether Apollo, ether Cephas whether it be the worlde, ether life, ether death whether they be present thynges, or thynges to come: all are poures: and ye are Christes, and Christe is Goddes. Amen.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The preachers are but mynstres, Iudgement be layd only vnto God.

Et I a man this wyse treme vs, euen as the mynstres of Christ, and stewardes of the secretes of God. Furthermore it is requyred of stewardes, that a man be founde fapthful. Wyth me is it but a very smal thing that I shuld be iudged of you, ether of mans iudgement. No, I iudge not myne owne self. For I knowe nought by my selfe: yet am I not thereby iustified. It is the Lord that iudgeth me. Therfore iudge nothyng before the tyme vntill the Lord come, whych wyl lyghten thynges that are hydin in darkenes, and open the counsels of the heartes. And then shal euery man haue prayse of God. These thynges (brethren) I haue for an example describde in myne owne person, and in Apollos, for youre sakes, that ye myght learne by vs, that no man count of hym self beynd that whych is aboue wyrtten: that one swell not agaynst another for any mas cause. For who preterreteth the? What hast thou, that thou hast not receaued? If thou haue receaued it, why reioycest thou, as though thou haddest not receaued it? Now ye are full: now ye are made ryche: ye raygne as kynges wythoute vs, & I would to God ye dyd raygne that we myght raygne wyth you.

For me thynketh, that God hath set forth vs (whych are the last Apostles) as it wer menne apoynted to death. For we are a gasyng stocke vnto the worlde, and to the aungels, and to men. We are foolcs for Christes sake, but ye are wise thowom Christ. We are weake, but ye are strong. Ye are honozable, but we are despyled. Euen vnto this tyme we hunger and thyrste, and are naked, and are bofeted wyth fytes, and haue no certayn dwelling place, and labour: working wythoure owne bandes. We are reuyled and yet we blesse. We are persecuted, and suffer it. We are euill spoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the fylthyness of the worlde, the offshouryng of al thynges, euen vnto this daye.

I wyte not these thynges, to shame you: but as my beloned sonnes I warne you. For though ye haue ten thousande instructours in Christ: yet haue ye not many fathers. In Christ Iesu I haue begotten you thowome the Gospel. Therfore, I despyre you to folowe me, as I folow Christ. For this cause haue I sente vnto you Tymotheus, whych is my deare sonne, & fapthful in the Lord whych shall put you in remembrance of my wayes, that I haue in Christe, euen as I teach euery where in all congregacions. Some swell, as though I would come nomore at you. But I wyll come to you shortly, & wyl knowe, not the wordes of them whych swell, but the power: for the kyngdome of of God is not in wordes but in power. What wyl ye? Shall I come vnto you wth a rodde, or els in loue and in the spryte of softnesse.

The. v. Chapter.

After what maner I shall curse the man that had commytted fornicacion wth his mother in lawe.

Here goeth a commen sayng, that there is fornicacyon among you, & such fornicacyon, as is not named among the gētyles: * p̄ one shuld haue hys fathers wyfe. And ye swel and haue not rather sorowed, p̄ he whiche hath done thys dede, myght bee put from among you. For I verelye, as absente in bodye, but presente in spryte, haue determyned alreadye (as though I were presente) concernyng hym that hath done thys dede, in the name of our Lorde Jesu Christ when ye are gathered together, and my spryte wth you, wth the power of the Lorde Iesus Christe, * to deliuer hym vnto Sathan, for the destruccio of the fleshe, that the spryte maye be saued in the dape of the Lorde Iesus.

Poure reioysyng is not good: knowe ye not, that a lytle leuen soweth the whole lompe of dowe? I poure therfore the old leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete breade. For Christ oure passeouer is offred vpon vs. Therfore, let vs kepe holy dape, not wth olde leuen, neither wth the leuen of malycyousnesse and wyckednesse: but wth the swete breade of pure-nes and truthe. I wrote vnto you in a pistle, that ye shuld not company wth fornicatours.
And I meant not at all of the fornicatours of thys world, eyther of the coueteouse, or extorciners, eyther the ydolaters: for then must ye ne-des haue gone oute of the worlde. But nowe I hvd wyte vnto you, * that ye company not together, yf any that is called a brother, be a fornicatoure or coueteous, or a worshipp of ymages, eyther a rapler, eyther a dyonkard, or an extorcyoner: wth hym that is such, se that ye eate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them that are wythout. Doye not iudge thē that are with in: Them that are without, God iudgeth. * Put awaye the euell from among you,

The. vi. Chapter.

He rebuketh them for goyng to lawe together before the heathen, and reioyeth theyr vnielennes.

Are one of you haupnge busynes wth another, go to law vnder the wycked, & not rather vnder p̄lapy-tes? * Doye not knowe, p̄ the sayn-tes shall iudge the worlde? If the worlde shalbe iudged by you: are ye not good ynough to iudge smal tryples? knowe ye not how that we shall iudge the aungels? Howe muche more, maye we iudge thynges that pertaine to the lyfe? If ye haue iudgements of worldelye matters, take them whyche are despyled in the congregacyon, & make thē iudges. Thys I say to your shame. Is there utterly not one wyse man among you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe wth another: and that vnder the vnielennes?

Now therfore, ther is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to lawe one w another. Why rather suffre ye not wrong? why rather suffre ye not your selues to haue harme? naye ye your sel-ues do wrong, and robbe: and that the brethren.
Doye not knowe, howe that the dryghteous shal not inheret the kyngdome of God? Be not deceaued. For * neyther fornicatours, neyther worshippers of ymages, neyther aduouterers, neyther weaklynges, neyther abusers of thē sel-ues wth mankynde, neyther theues, neyther coueteous, neyther dyonkardes, neyther cursed speakers, neyther pylers, shall inheret the kyngdome of God. And suche were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified: but ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, and by the spryte of our God.

I maye do al thynges, but * al thynges are not profytable. I maye do al thynges: but I wyl be brought vnder no mans power. Meates are ordained for the bellye, and the bellye for meates: but God shall destroye bothe it and thē. Let not the bodye be applyed vnto fornicacion, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the bodye. God hath rayled vpon the Lorde, and shall rayle vs vp by hys power. * Ether knowe ye not, p̄ your bodies are the membes of Christ: shal I nowe take the membes of Christ, and make them the membes of an harlot? God forbid. Doye not knowe, that he whych coupleth hym selfe wth an harlot, is become one bodye? For two (sayth he) shalbe one fleshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde is one spryte.

Ale fornicacion. Every synne that a mā doth is wythout the bodye. But he that is a fornicator, synneth agaynst his owne bodye. Eyther knowe ye not; howe that your bodies are the temple of the holy goste, whych dwelleth in you whom ye haue of God, and how that ye are not your owne? For ye are dearly bought. Therefore glorifye God in your bodies, and in your sprytes, whych are Goddes. I

The. vii. Chapter.

Of marriage, virginyte, and wyddowheade.

I concerning the thynges wher-of ye wrote to me: * It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Reuerthelesse, to auoyde whoredome, let euerye man haue hys wyfe: and let euerye woman haue her husbände. Let the husbände geue vnto the wyfe as he geueth hys owne bodye, to the church, to sanctifye it wth the word of water, by the word, to wash it wth the word, to cleanse it wth the word, to present it to himselfe a holye church, without spotte, or wrinkle, or any such thinge, that she maye present herselfe to himselfe glorious, without spotte, or wrinkle, or any such thinge. As the church is sanctified by the word of water, by the word, to wash it wth the word, to cleanse it wth the word, to present it to himselfe a holye church, without spotte, or wrinkle, or any such thinge, that she maye present herselfe to himselfe glorious, without spotte, or wrinkle, or any such thinge. As the church is sanctified by the word of water, himselfe a holye church, without spotte, or spotte, or wrinkle, or any such thinge.

Thys I saye of fauoure, and not of commaun-dement. For I would that all men were as I my of God, one after this maner, another after that I saye vnto them that be vnmarrid, and wyd-

The firste Epistle

1. Tim. v. c. I do. But and * pf they can not abstayne, let the mary. For it is better to mary then to burne.

1. Tim. v. c. Unto the marped commaunde, not I, but the Lord: * Let not the wyfe be separated from the husband. Pf she seperate her selfe, let her remayn vnmарped, or be reconcyled vnto her husband agayn. And let not the husbände put awaye hys wyfe from hym.

C To the remnaunt speake I, not the Lord. Pf any brother haue a wife that beleueth not, pf she be contente to dwel wyth hym, let hym not put her awaye. And the woman whych hath to her husbände an infydele, & consente to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym awaye. For the vnbelyupng husbände is sanctified by the wyfe, and p vnbelyupng wyfe is sanctified by the husbände. Ouels were poure chyldren vncleane: but now are they holpe. But and pf the vnbelyupng departe, let hym departe. A brother or a sytter is not in subieccion to suche. But God hath called vs in peace. For howe knowest thou (o womā) whether thou shalt saue thy husband or no? Either howe knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wyfe or no: but euen as God hath dyscrepited to euery man.

Eph. iiii. a * As the Lord hath called euery mā, so let hym walke: & so ordeyne I in all congregacions. Pf any man be called beyng cypcumcised, let hym not adde vncypcumcisiō. Pf any man be called vncircūcised, let hym not be circūcised. Circūcisiō is nothyng, and vncypcumcisiō is nothyng: but the keepng of the commaundementes of God.

1. Tim. vi. a Let enery man abyde in the same calling wherein he was called. * Arte thou called a seruaunt: care not for it. Neuertheles pf thou master bee fre, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lord, beyng a seruaunt, is the Lordes freman. Like wyse he that is called beyng fre, is Christes seruaunt. Pe are dearely boughte, be not ye the seruauntes of menne. Brethren, let enery manne wherein he is called, therein abyde wyth God. For concerning virgyns, I haue no commaundement of the Lord: yet geue I counsell, as one that hath optayned mercye of the Lord, to be faythful. I suppose therfore that it is good for the present necessite. For it is good for a mā so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seke not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe, seke not a wyfe. But and pf thou mary a wyfe, thou hast not synned. Like wyse, pf a virgyn mary, she hath not synned. Neuertheles such shal haue trouble in theyr fleshe: but I fauoure you.

E not a wyfe. But and pf thou mary a wyfe, thou hast not synned. Like wyse, pf a virgyn mary, she hath not synned. Neuertheles such shal haue trouble in theyr fleshe: but I fauoure you.

1. Cor. vii. a This saue I brethren * the tyme is shorte. It remayneth that they whych haue wyues, be as though they had none, & they that wepe, be as though they wept not, and they that reioyse, be as though they reioysed not: and they that buye be as though they possessed not: & they that vse thys worlde, be as though they vied it not. For

1. Cor. vii. b * the fastyng of thys worlde goeth awaye. * I would haue you without care. He that is vnmарped careth for the thynges whych belong to the Lord, howe he maye please the Lord. But he that hath marped a wyfe careth for the thynges that are of p worlde, howe he may please his wife. There is difference betwene a virgyn & a wyfe. The syngle woman careth for the thynges that are of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and also in spyte: A gayn, she that is marped, careth for p thynges that pertain to p worlde how she may please her husband. This speake I for your profyte, not to cagle you in a snare: but that ye may foloe it whych is honest and cōly, & that ye may cleaue vnto the Lord wythout seperacion. If any man thynke that it is vncōmly for hys virgyn, pf she passe p tyme of marpage. And pso nede requyre, let hym do what he lysteth he synneth not: let the be coupled in marpage. Neuertheles, he that purposeth surely in his herte, haung no nede: but hath power ouer hys owne wyl: and hath so decreed in hys herte, that he wyl kepe his virgyn, doth well. So then he that ioyneth hys virgyn in marpage doth well. But he that ioyneth not his virgyn in mariage doth better. * The wyfe is bounde to the maryage, as long as her husband lyueth. If her husbände dye, she is at lybertie to marye wyth whō she wyl, onely in the Lord. But she is happier pf she so abyde, after my iudgemente. And I thynke verely that I haue the spyte of God.

The viii. Chapter.

C The rebuketh them that vse lybertie to the shlaundre of other, and sheweth howe men oughte to behaue them selues towarde suche as be weake.

A touchyng thynges * offred vnto ymages, we are sure p we all haue knowlage. Knowlage maketh a man wel: but loue edifyeth, pf any mā thinke p he knoweth any thing he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to knowe. But pf any man loue God, the same is known of hym. As cōcernyng the eatyng of those thynges that are offred vnto ydoles, we are sure, p * the ymage is nothyng in the worlde and that there is none other God, but one. And though there be that are called Goddes, whether in heauen other in erth (as ther be Goddes many, and Lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God which is the father, of whō are al thynges, & we for hym: and one Lord Iesus Christ, by whom are al thynges, and we by hym. But enery man hath not knowlage. * Some haung conscience because of the ymage, vntyll thys houre, eat as a thyng offred vnto ymages: and so theyr conscience beyng weake is despyled. But meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Neyther pf we eat, are we the better. Neyther pf we eat not, are we the worse.

But take hede, least by any meanes thys lybertie of poures be an occasyon of fallynge to them that are weake. For pf some manne se the whych hath knowlage, syt and eate of meate offred vnto ymages, shal not the cōscience of hym whych is weake, be boldened to eate those thynges, whyche are offred to ymages? And so thorowe thy knowlage shal the weake brother perishe, for whome Christe dyed. When ye synne so agaynst the brethren, and wounde theyr weakē cōscience, ye synne agaynst Christe.

Wherfore

Wherefore * if meate hurte my brother, I will neuer eate flethe lest I should offend my brother
The ix. Chapter.

Paul teacheth the thing that he maye dooe by the lawe. He exhorteth them to runne on forth in the course that they haue begonne.

Am I not an Apostle? am I not free? * haue I not sene Iesus Christe out of the Lozde? Are ye not my worke in the Lozde? If I be not an Apostle vnto other, yet am I vnto you. For the seale of myne Apostleship are ye in the Lozde. Myne answere to them that aske me, is this. Haue we not power to eate and to drinke? Haue we not power to leade aboute a woman a sister as well as other Apostles, and as the brethren of the Lozde, and Cephas? Either onely I and Barnabas haue not power this to dooe? Who gooeth a warfare any tyme at his owne cost? who planteth a vinearde, and eateth not of the frute therof? Or who feedeth a flocke and eateth not of the milke of the flocke?

Bhaue I these thynges after the maner of menne? Saith not the lawe the same also? For it is writen in the lawe of Moyses. * Thou shalt not moue the mouth of the oxe that treadeth out the corne. Dooth God take thought for oxen? Saith he it not altogether for our sakes? For our sakes no doubt this is writen: that he which careth should care in hope, and that he which trespeth in hope, shoulde bee partaker of his hope. * If wee sowe vnto you spirituall thynges is it a greete thyng if wee reape your bodely thynges? If other bee partakers of this power ouer you, wherefore are not wee rather?

Couerthelesse we haue not vsed this power but suffre all thynges, lest wee should hinder the Gospell of Christe. Dooe ye not knowe, howe that they which minister aboute holy thynges liue of the sacrifice? They which wayte of the temple, are partakers of the temple. Euen so also did the Lozde ordayne: that they which preache the Gospell, shoulde liue of the Gospell. But I haue vsed none of these thynges.ouerthelesse I wrote not these thynges, that it shoulde bee so dooen vnto me. For it were better for me dye then that any manne shoulde take this reioysing from me. For if I preache the Gospell, I haue nothyng to reioice of. For necessite is put vnto me. But woe is it vnto me, if I preach not the Gospell. If I do it with a good will, I haue a reward: But if I dooe it against my will, an office is committed vnto me. What is my reward then? Verily that when I preache the Gospell, I make the Gospell of Christe free, that I misse not myne auerboisitee in the Gospell.

DFor though I bee free from all menne, yet haue I made my self seruante vnto all menne, that I might wyne the mo. * Vnto the Jewes I became as a Jewe, to wyne the Jewes. To them that were vnder the lawe, was I made as though I had been vnder the lawe. (when I was not vnder the lawe) to wyne them that were vnder the lawe. To them that were without lawe became I as though I had been without lawe when I (was not without lawe as perceyning to God, but vnder the lawe of Christe) to wyne them that were without lawe. To the weake became I as weake, to wyne the weake. In all thynges * I fashioned my selfe to all menne to saue at the leaste waye some. And this I dooe for the Gospelles sake, that I might haue my parte thereof.

Perceiue ye not, howe that they which runne in a course, runne all, but one receiveth the rewarde? So runne, that ye maye obtayne. Every manne that proueth masteris, abstayneth from all thynges. And they dooe it to obtayne a crowne that shall perishe: but wee to obtayne an * euerlastyng crowne. I therefore so runne, not as at an vncertayn thyng. So fyght I, not as one that beateth the ayre: but I tame my bodye, and byng it into subiection, leaste by anye meanes it come to passe, that when I haue preached to other, I my selfe shoulde bee a castawaye.

The x. Chapter.

Paul teacheth them with the ensamples of the olde Testamente and exhorteth them to a goodly conuersacion.

Brethren, I would not that ye shoulde be ignorant, how that our fathers were all vnder y cloude, and all passed through the sea, and wer all baptised vnder Moyses in the cloude and in the sea: and * did all eate of one spirituall meate and * did all dryncke of one maner spirituall dryncke. And they dranke of that spirituall rocke that folowed them, * which rocke was Christe. But in many of them had God no delite: For they were ouerthrowen in the wyldernes. These are ensamples to vs that wee shoulde not luste after euill thynges, as they lusted. And that ye shoulde not bee worshippers of ymages, as were some of them, accordyng as it is writen. * The people sat doune to eate and dryncke, and rose vp to playe. Nether let vs bee defiled with fornicacion as some of them wer defiled with fornicacion, & fell in one daie. * xxiij. thousand. Nether let vs tempte Christ, as some of them tempted, and wer destroyed of serpentes. Nether murmur ye, as some of them murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

All these thynges happened vnto them for ensamples, but they are written to putte vs in remembrance, whom the endes of the worlde are come vpon. Wherefore, let hym that thynketh he standeth, take hede, leaste he fall. There hath none other temptacion take you, but suche as foloweth y nature of manne. But God is faithfull * which shall not suffre you to bee tempted aboue your strength: but shall in the myddes of the temptation make a waye that ye maye bee able to beare it. Wherefore my deare beloued, flie from worshippynge of ymages.

Ispeake as vnto them which haue discretion, iudge ye what I saye. Is not the cuppe of blessing which wee blesse, partakynge of the bloodde of Christe? is not the brede which wee breake, partakynge of the bodye of Christe? because that wee (though we bee many) yet are one brede and one body, in as muche as wee all are

The firste Epistle

are partakers of one brede (and of one cuppe.) Be-holde Israell after the fleshe. Are not thei whiche eate of the sacrifice, partakers of the temple What saie I then? * that the ymage is any thyng? or that it whiche is offered to ymages, is any thyng? Naye, but this I saie: that the thyn-ges whiche the Gentiles offre, they offre to de-uelles, and not to God. I woulde not that ye should haue feloshippe with the deuilles. Ye can not drinke of the cuppe of the Lorde, and of the cuppe of deuilles. Ye cannot bee the partakers of the Lordes table, and of the table of the de-uelles. Ether dooe wee prouoke the Lorde? Are wee stronger then he? I maye dooe all thynges, but all thynges are not expedient. I maye dooe all thynges, but all thynges edefie not. * Let no mane seke that whiche is his owne: but let euery man seke that whiche belongeth to another. What soeuer is sold in the fleshe market, that eate, and aske no questyon for conscience sake. For * the earth is the Lordes, and all y therein is. If any of theim whiche beleue not, bid you to a feast, and ye bee disposed to goo, what soeuer is set before you, eate, askyng no question for conscience sake.
But and if any manne saie vnto you: this is offered vnto ymages, eate not of it for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience sake. The earth is the Lordes and all that therein is. Conscience I saie, not thynne, * but of the other. For why is my libertie iudged of another mannes conscience?
For if I take my parte with thankes, why am I euill spoken of, for that thyng wherefoze I geue thankes? * Whether therefore ye eate or drynke, or what soeuer ye dooe, dooe all to the praise of God. I see that ye geue none occasion of euill, nether to the Jewes, nor yet to the Gentyles, nether to the congregacion of God euen as I please all menne in all thynges, not seking myne owne profite, but y profite of many, that thei might bee saued. The. xi. Chapter.

The rebuketh them for the abuse and disorder that thei had about the sacrament of the body & bloodde of Christ & byngeth thei again to the first instruction

BE ye bee folowers of me, as I am y folower of Christ. I comende you brethren, y ye remember me in all thyn-ges, and kepe the ordinaunces, euen as I deliuered theim to you. But I would haue you to knowe that Christ is y hede of euery manne. And y manne is the womans hede. And God is Christs hede. Euery manne prayng or prophesying hauyng any thyng on his hede, nameth his hede. Euery woman that prayeth or prophesieth bare headed, dishonoureth her hede. For that is euen all one, as if she were shauen. If the woman bee not couered, let her also bee shoren. * If it bee shame for a woman to bee shoren or shauen, lette her couer her hede. A manne ought not to couer his hede for asmuche as he is the ymage and glorie of God. But the woman is the glorie of the manne. For * the manne is not of the woman: but the woman of the manne. Nether was the manne created for y womans sake: but the woman for the mannes sake. For this cause oughte the woman to haue power on her hede, for the angels sakes: Neuer-theless, nether is the manne without the womā nether the woman withoute the manne in the Lorde. For as the woman is of the manne, euen so is the manne: by the woman: but all of God: C

Judge in your selues, whethether it bee comly that a woman praye vnto God bare headed.
Dooeth not nature it self teache you, that it is a shame for a manne, if he haue long heere and a praple to a woman: if she haue long heere? For her heere is geuen her to couer her withall. If any manne luste to striue, wee haue no suche costume nether the congregacions of God. This I warne you of, and commend not, that ye come not together after a better maner, but after a wourle. For firste of all when ye come together in the congregacion, I heare that there is dissension among you: & I partely beleue it. For there must bee sectes among you, that thei whiche are perfect among you might bee knownen. * Whē ye come together therefore into one place, the Lordes supper cannot bee eaten. For euery man begynneth afore to eate his owne supper. And one is hungry, and another is drunken. Haue ye not houses to eate and to drynke in? Despise ye the congregacion of God, and shame theim that haue not? What shall I saie vnto you? shall I praise you? In this praise I you not. I

That whiche I deliuered vnto you I re-ceiued of the Lorde. For the Lorde Iesus same nighte, in whiche he was betrayed, toke brede: & when he had geuen thankes, he brake it and saied Take ye, and eate: this is my bodie, whiche is broken for you. This dooe ye in y remembraunce of me. After the same maner also toke he the cup, whē supper was dooen, sayng: This cup is the newe testament in my bloodde: This dooe as oft as ye drynke it, in remembraunce of me. For as often as ye shall eate this brede and drynke this cup: * ye shall shewe the Lordes deathe till he come: Wherefoze, whosoener, shall eate of this brede, or drynke of the cup of the Lorde vnworthely, shall bee guilty of the body and bloodde of the Lorde. * But let a manne examen hymself, & so let hym eate of the brede and drynke of the cup For he that eateth or drynketh vnworthely, ea-teth and drynketh his owne dāpnacion, because he maketh no difference of the Lordes body. For this cause many are weake and sicke among you, and many slepe. For if we had iudged our selues wee should not haue been iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lorde, wee are chastened, that wee should not bee dampned with the worlde.
Wherefoze my brethren when ye come together to eate, tary one for another. If any manne hon-ger, let hym eate at home, that ye come not together vnto condemnacion. I Other thynges will I set in order when I come.

The. xii. Chapter.

The diuersitye of the giftes of the holy ghoſte geuen to the conſorte and edifying of one another, as the members of a mannes bodye ſerue one another.

Concernyng spirituall thynges (brethren) I woulde not haue you ignoraunt. * Ye know that ye wer Gentiles, and wente yore wayes vnto domme ymages, euen as ye were led

led. Wherefore I declare vnto you, þat no manne speaking by the spirit of God, desieth Iesus. Al so no manne can saie that Iesus is the Lord but by the holy ghost. There are diuersities of giftes, yet but one spirit. And there are differences of administracions, and yet but one Lord. And there are diuerse maners of operations, and yet but one God, whiche woorketh all in all. * The gift of the spirit is geue to every manne, to edifie withall. For to one is geuen through the spirit the utteraunce of wisdom. To another is geuen the utteraunce of knowelage by the same spirit. To another is geuen faith by the same spirit. To another the giftes of healyng, by the same spirit. To another power to doo miracles. To another to prophesie: To another iudgement to discerne spirites. To another dyuers tongues. To another þat interpretacion of tongues: But these all woorketh euen the self same spirit, deuidyng to every manne a senerall gift, euen as he will. * For as the body is one, and hath many membes, and all þat membes of one body though thei be many, yet are but one body eue so is Christ. For by one spirit are we al baptyzed to make one body, whether wee bee Jewes or Gentiles, whether wee bee bonde or free, and haue * all drinke of one spirit. For þat body is not one mebre, but many. If the fote saie: I am not the hande. I am not the body: is he therefore not of the body? And if the eare saie, I am not the eye I am not of þat body: is he therefore not of the body? If all the body were an eye, where were then the eare? If all wer hearing: where were the smelling? But now hath God set the membes euery one senerally in the bodye as it hath pleased hym. If thei wer all one mebre where wer the body? Now are there many membes, yet but one body. And the eye cannot saie vnto the hande I haue no nede of thee. And again, the hedde can not saie to the fete: I haue no nede of you. Yea, rather a great deale those membes of the body whiche seme to bee moze feble, are necessarye.

And vpon those membes of the body whiche wee thynke lest honesty, put wee moze honestye on. And our vngodly partes haue moze beautie on. For oure honeste membes nede it not. But God hath so disposed the bodye, and hath geuen the moze honoure to that parte whiche lacked, lest there should bee any strife in the body: but þat the membes should indifferently care one for another. And if one mebre suffre, all suffre with hym. If one mebre bee had in honour, all mebres bee glad also. Ye are the body of Christ, & membes one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregacion, first * Apostles, secondely prophetes, thirdely teachers, then them þat doo miracles: after that, the giftes of healyng, helpers, gouerners, diuersitie of tongues. Are all Apostles? Are all Prophetes? Are all teachers? Are all dooers of miracles? Haue all the giftes of healyng? Dooe all speake w tongues? Dooe all interpret? Couet after the best giftes. And yet shew I vnto you a moze excellent waie.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The nature and condicions of loue.

Though I speake w the toungues of menne & of angels, and haue no loue: I am euen as sounding brasle, or as a tinklyng cimball. And though I could prophesy & vnderstand all secretes, & all knowlage: yet if I haue al faith * so þat I coulde moue mountaignes oute of their places and yet haue no loue, I am nothing. And though I bestowe all my goodes to fede þat poore and though I geue my body euen that I burned and yet haue no loue, it profiteth me nothing.

Loue suffereth long, and is courteous. Loue enueth not. Loue doth not frowardly, swellth not, dealeth not dishonestly * seeketh not her owne, is not prouoked to anger, thynketh not euill, reioyseth not in iniquite but reioyseth in the truth, suffereth all thinges, beleueth all thinges hopeth al thinges, endureth al thinges. Though that prophesying faile, either toungues cease, or knowlage vanishe awaye, yet loue falleth neuer awaye, for our knowlage is vnperfecte, and oure prophesying is vnperfecte. But when that whiche is perfecte, is come, then that whiche is vnperfecte, shal be dooen awaye. When I was a chylde, I spake as a chylde, I vnderstode as a chylde, I ymagined as a chylde. But as sone as I was a manne, I putte awaye childenes. Now wee se in a glasse, euen in a darcke speakyng: but then shall wee see face to face. Now I know vnperfectly: but then shall I knowe euen as I am known. Now abydeth faith, hope, and loue, euen these thre: but the chief of these is loue.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that the gifte of prophesie, interpretynge or preachyng, excelleth the gyfte of toungues and howe thei bothe oughte to bee used.

About for loue, & couet spirituall giftes: but moze chiefly that ye maie prophesy. For he þat speaketh with the tougue, speaketh not vnto me, but vnto God. For no man heareth hym. How be it in the spirit he speaketh the mysteries. But he þat prophesieth, speaketh vnto men for their edifyng, for their exhortaciō and for their conforste. He þat speaketh w the toungue profiteth himself: he þat prophesieth, edifieth the congregaciō. * I woulde that ye all spake with toungues: but rather þat ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesieth, then he that speaketh with toungues except he expounde it: þat the congregacion maye haue edifyng. Now brethren, if I come vnto you speakyng w toungues: what shall I profite you, except I speake to you, ether by reuelacion or by knowelage, or by prophesying, or by doctryne? Moreover, when thynge withoute life geue sounde (whether it bee a pyper or an harpe) excepte they make a distinction in the soundes, how shall it bee known what is pypped or harped? For if the trompe geue an vncertayne voyce, who shall prepare hymselfe to the warre? Euen so lykewyle when ye speake with toungues, except ye speake wordes þat haue significaciō, howe shall it bee vnderstande what is spokē? For ye shall but speake in þat air.

The firste Epistle

C Many kyndes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of theim are without spgnificacon. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shalbe vnto hym that speaketh, an aliente: and he that speaketh, shalbe an alient vnto me. Euen so ye (for asmuche as ye couet spirituall giftes) seke, that ye maie excell, vnto the edifying of the congregacion. Wherefore, lette hym that speaketh with tounge, praiſe, that he maie interprete also. For if I praye with tounge, my spirite praiſeth, but my vnderstandyng dooeth no good. What is it then? I will praiſe with the spirite, & will praye with vnderstandyng. I will syng to the spirite, & will syng with the vnderstandyng. For els, when thou blestest with the spirite, how shal he that occupieth the roume of the vnlarned, saye: Amen, at the geuyng of thanckes, seeyng he vnderstandeth not what I sayest? Thou verely geuest thanckes well, but the other is not edified. I thanke my God that I speake with tounques moze then ye all: Yet had I leuer in the congregacion to speake fīue woordes with my vnderstandyng to informacio of other, rather then tenne thousande woordes with I tounge.

Brethren, bee not ye chyldzen in wytte. How be it, as concernyng maliciousnes, bee chyldzen but in wytte bee perfecte. In the lawe it is writ ten* with sondre tounques, and with sondre lippes will I speake vnto this people, & yet for all that, will they not heare me, saith the Lorde. Wherefore tounques are for a sygne, not to thei that belue: but to theim that beleue not. Contrarywyse, prophesying serueth not for theim that beleue not: but for theim whiche beleue. If therefore, when all the congregacion is come together, and all speake with tounques, ther come in they that are vnlarned, or thei whiche beleue not: will not thei saie, that ye are out of your wittes? But and if all prophesie, and there come in one I beleueth not, or one vnlarned, he is rebuked of all menne, and is iudged of every manne, and so are the secretes of his hearte opened, and so falleth he doune on his face, and worshipping God, and saith that God is in you of a trueth. How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, every one of you hath a song, hath a doctrine hath a reuelacion, hath an interpretation.

Let all thynges bee dooen vnto edifying. If any manne speake with tounge, lette it bee by twoo or at the moſte by thre, and that by course and lette another interprete it. But if there bee no interpreter, lette hym kepe silence in the congregacion, and lette hym speake to hymself and to God. Lette I prophetes speake twoo, or thre and lette the other iudge. If any reuelacion bee made to other that sitteth by, let the firste holde his peace. For ye maye all prophesie one by one, that all maie learne, and that all maie haue comfort. And the spirites of the Prophetes are in I power of the Prophetes. For God is not cause of stryfe: but of peace, as I teach in all cōgregacions of the sainctes. Let your women kepe silence in the congregacions. For it is not permitted vnto them to speake: but to bee vnder obedience, as saith the lawe. If they will learne any thyng, lette theim aske their husbandes at home. For it is a shame for women to speake in I congregacion: Spryng the woord of God fro you came it vnto you onely? If any man thinke hymself to be a prophet, ether spiritual: let hym know, what thiges I write vnto you. For thei are the cōmaundementes of the Lorde. But and if any manne bee ignoraunte, let hym bee ignorant. Wherefore brethren, couet to prophesie, & for bid not to speake with tounques: Let all thynges bee dooen honestly and in order* (among you.)

The xv. Chapter.

The resurrection of the dedde.

Brethren, as pertainyng to the Gospel whiche I preached vnto you, whiche ye haue also accepted, and in the whiche ye continue, by the whiche also ye are saued: I dooe you to wyte, after what maner I preached vnto you, if ye kepe it, excepte ye haue beleued in vayne. For firste of all I deliuered vnto you, that whiche I receiued: how that Christe dyed for our synnes agreyng to the scriptures. And that he was buried, and that he arose again the thirde daye accordyng to the scriptures: and that he was sene of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of mo then fīue hundred brethren at once: of whiche many remayne vnto this daye, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to all the Apostles.

And laste of all he was sene of me, as of one that was bozne out of due tyme. For I am the leaste of the Apostles, whiche am not worthy to bee called an Apostle, because I persecuted the congregacion of God: But by the grace of God I am that I am. And his grace whiche is in me, was not in vaine: But I labored moze aboundantly then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God whiche is with me, therefore whether it were I, or they so wee preache, and so haue ye beleued. If Christe bee preached how that he arose from the dedde: how saie some among you that there is no resurrection of the dedde?

If there bee no rysyng agayne of the dedde then is Christe not risen agayne. If Christe bee not risen agayne then is our preachyng in vaine and your faith is also in vaine. Yea and wee are founde false witnessers of God. For wee haue testified of God, how that he rayled vp Christe: whom he rayled not vp, if it be so that the dedde ryle not agayne. For if the dedde ryle not again then is Christe not risen agayne. If it bee so that Christe rose not agayne, then is youre faith in vayne, and ye are yet in youre synnes. Therefore they whiche are fallen a slepe in Christe, are perished. If in this life onely wee beleue on Christe, then are wee of all menne moſte miserable. But now is Christe risen from the dedde, and become the firste frutes of theim that slepe. For by a manne came death, and by a manne came the resurrection of the dedde. For as by Adam all dye: euen so by Christe, shall all bee made alpyre, but every manne in his owne order.

The fyrste is Christe, then they that are Christes at his commyng. Then cometh the end pende, when he hath deliuered vp the kyngdome to God the father, when he hath putte doune all rule and auctoritee and power. For he muste raigne till he haue putte all his enemies vnder his fete. The laste enemye that shal be destroyed is death: For he hath putte all thynges vnder his fete. But when he saith all thynges are put vnder hym, it is manifeste that he is accepted, whiche he putte all thynges vnder hym. When all thynges are subdued vnto hym, the shall the soone also hymself be subiecte vnto hym, that putte all thynges vnder hym, that God maye bee all in al. Els what dooe thei, whiche are baptised ouer the dedde, if the dedde ryle not all? Why are they then baptised ouer them? Yea, and why stande wee alwaye then in ioperoye? By oure reioysing whiche I haue in Christe Jesu oure Lorde, I dye dayly.

¶ That I haue foughte with beastes at Ephesus after the maner of menne, what auanta- geth it me, if the dedde ryle not again: Let vs cate and dyncke, for to morowe wee shall dye. Wee not ye deccyued: euill woordes corrupte good maners. Awake truly oute of slepe, and synne not. For some haue not the knowlage of God: I speake this to youre shame. But some manne will saie: how aryle I dedde, with what bodie shall thei come? Thou fool, that whiche thou so wilst, is not quickened, except it die. And what so wilst thou? Thou so wilst not that body that shal be: but beate cozne as of wheate, or of some other, God geueth it a bodye at his pleasure, to euery seede his owne body.

¶ All fleshe is not one maner of fleshe: but there is one maner of fleshe of menne, another maner of fleshe of beastes, another of fildes, & another of birdes. There are also celestiaall bodyes, and there are bodyes terrestriall. But the glozy of the celestiaall is one, and the glozy of the terrestriall is another. Ther is one maner glozy of the sunne, and another glozy of the moone, and another glozy of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glozy. So is the resurreccion of the dedde. It is sowen in corrupcion, it ryleth again in incorpacion. It is sowen in dishonoure, it ryleth againe in honoure. It is sowen in weakenes, it ryleth agayne in power. It is sowen a naturall body, it ryleth again: a spirituall body. There is a naturall body, and there is a spirituall body: as it is also wrytten: the first mane Adam was made a liuyng soule, and the laste Adam was made a quickenyng spirite. Howbeit, that is not firste whiche is spirituall, but that whiche is naturall, and then that whiche is spirituall. The firste manne is of the earthe, earthy: the seconde manne is the Lord from hea- uen: (heauenly) As is the earthy, suche are they that are earthy. And as is the heauenly, suche are they that are heauenly. And as wee haue borne the ymage of the earthy, so shall wee beare the ymage of the heauenly.

¶ This I saie brethren that fleshe and bloode cannot inherite the kyngdome of God. Neither dooth corrupcion inherite incorpacion. Behold I shewe you a mistery. Wee shall not slepe: but

* Wee shall all be changed, and that in a momente, in the twinkelyng of an eye by the laste trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and I dedde shall ryle in corruptible, and wee shal be chaun- ged. For this corruptible muste putte on incor- rupcion and this mortall must put on immorta- lite. When this corruptible hath putte on incor- rupcion, and this mortall hath putte on ymmo- talite: then shal be brought to passe the sayng that is wrytten: * Deathe is swallowed vp in victo-ry. Deathe where is thy styng? Hell wher is thy victo-ry? The styng of deathe is sinne: and the strenght of synne is the lawe: But thanckes be vnto God whiche hath geuen vs victo-rye, through oure Lorde Iesus Christe. Therefore my deare brethren, be ye stedfaste and vnmou- ble, alwayes rpyche in the woorde of the Lorde, for as muche as ye knowe, how that your labour is not in vayne in the Lorde.

The xvi. Chapter.

¶ He putte them in remembrance of the gatheryng for I poore Christen at Jerusalem & concludeth his epistle with the salutations of certain louyng brethren

Concernyng the gatheryng for the saintes, as I haue ordeyned in the congregacions of Galacia, euen so dooe ye. Upon some Saboth daie let euery one of you put aside at home and laie vp whatso euer is mete, & there be no gathernges when I come. When I am come, whosoever ye shall allow by yore letters, thei will I sende, to byyng your liberalite vnto Hierusalem. And if it be mete I go also, thei shall go with me. I will come vn to you when I goo ouer to Macedonia. For I will go throughout Macedonia. With you per aduerture I will abide a while: or els tary all winter, that ye maie byyng me on the waie, whether soeuer I goo I will not see you now in my pas- sage: but I truste to abide a while with you, if God shall suffre me. I will tary at Ephesus, vn till the fiftenth daie. For a great doze and a fru- tefull is opened vnto me: and there are many ad- uertaries. ¶ Timothy come, see that he be withoute feare with you. For he woorketh the wo- rke of the Lorde, as I dooe: let no manne the- fore dispise hym: but coueigh hym forth in peace & he maie come vnto me. For I loke for hym to the brethren. To speake of brother Apollos: (I as- ceretie you that) I greatly desired hym, to come vn to you with brethren, but his minde was not at al to come at this tyme: howbeit he wil come, when he shall haue conuenient tyme. Watche ye, stande fast in the faith, quite you like menne, be strong. Let all your busines be dooen with loue.

¶ Brethren, ye knowe the house of Stephanas: (Fortunatus & Achaicus) how that thei are the first frutes of Achaia, and that thei haue apoin- ted themselves to minister vnto the saintes: I beseeche you that ye be obediende vnto suche and to all that helpe and laboure. I am glade of the comyng of Stephanas and Fortunatus and Achaicus: for that whiche was lackyng vnto me on your parte thei haue supplied: For they haue confortyd my spirite and yours. Loke ther- fore that ye knowe them that are suche.

The consolacion of God in trouble. The loue of Paull towarde the Cozinthians and his excuse that he came not vnto them.

P AUL an Apostle of Jesu Christe by the will of God, and brother Tymotheus. Vnto the congregacion of God, whiche is at Cozinthum, with all the saintes whiche are in all Achaia. * Grace bee with you, and peace from God our father and from the Lord Jesus Christe.

* Blessed bee God (the father of oure Lord Jesus Christ) whiche is the father of mercie, and the God of all conforzte, whiche conforzeth vs in all oure trybulacion, in so muche that wee are able to conforzte them whiche are in any maner of trouble, with the same conforzte, where with wee our selues are conforzted of God. For as the afflictions of Christe are plenteous in vs, euen so is our consolacion plenteous by Christe.

Whether wee bee troubled for your consolacion and healthe: or whether wee bee conforzted: it is for your confort and saluacion) whiche saluacio shewed her power, in that ye suffre the same afflictions whiche wee also suffre: or whether wee bee conforzted for your consolacion and saluacion: oure hope also is stedfast for you: in as muche as wee knowe, how that as ye are partakers of the afflictions, so shall ye bee partakers also of the consolacion. Wherefore, I woud not haue you ignorant of our trouble, whiche happened vnto vs in Asia. For wee were greued oute of measure, passing strenght: so greatly that wee dispaired euen of life. Also wee receiued an answer of death in our selues, that wee should not putte our truste in our selues: but in God whiche rayseth the dedde to life again, and whiche deliuered vs from so greete a death: and dooth deliuer. On whom wee truste that yet hereafter he will deliuer, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the meanes of many persones, thankes maye bee giuen of many on our behalfe, for the gyfte giuen vnto vs.

Act. xix. f. g.

i. Regu. ii. d.
 Deu. viii. d.

ii. Cor. xiii. a.

For our reioysing is this, euen the testimony of our conscience, that in synghenes (of heart) & godly puerues, & not in fleschely wysedome but by the grace of God, wee haue had oure conuersacion in y world, and mooste of all to you wardes. Wee wyte none other thynges vnto you, then that ye reade and also knowe. Yea, and I trust ye shall fynde vs vnto the ende, euen as ye haue found vs partly: for wee are your reioysing euen as ye are oures in the daie of y Lord Jesus.

* And in this confidence was I mynded first to haue come vnto you, that I mighte haue had one pleasure moze with you, and to passe by you into Macedonia, and to haue come agayne out of Macedonia vnto you, and to bee led forth of you towarde Jewrye. When I thus wyle was mynded: did I use lightenes? Or thynke I carnally those thynges whiche I thynke: that with me should bee yea, yea, and naye, naye. God is faithfull: For oure preachyng to you, was not yea and naye. For Godes soonne Jesus Christe whiche was preached among you by vs (eue by me and Siluanus & Tymotheus) was not yea and naye: but by hym it was yea: For all y promyses of God, by hym are yea: & are in hym. Amen, vnto y laude of God through vs. For it is God whiche stablisheth vs with you in Christe and standeth by vs, & hath anointed vs whiche hath also sealed vs, and hath giuen the earnest of the spirite in our heartes. * I call God for a record vnto my soule that for to fauoure you with all, I came not any moze vnto Cozynthum. * Not that wee bee Lordes ouer your faith: but are hel pers of your ioye. For by faith ye stande.

The ii. Chapter.

He sheweth the cause of his absence and exhorteth them to forgiue the manne that was fallen, and to receiue hym agayne with loue.

But I determined this in my self that I would not come agayne to you in heuines. For if I make you sorre, who is it that should make me glad, but the same whiche is made sorre by me? And I wrote the same vnto you, lest if I came vnto you, I should take heuines of them, of whome I oughte to reioyce. This confidence haue I towarde you all that my ioye is the ioye of you all. For out of greete affliction and anguysh of hearte, I wrote vnto you with many teares: not that ye should bee made sorre, but that ye mighte perceiue the loue whiche I haue, mooste specially vnto you.

If any manne hath caused sorowe, the same hath not made me sorre, but partly: lest I shoud greue you all. * It is sufficiente vnto the same manne, that he was rebuked of many. So that now contrary wyle, ye oughte rather to forgiue hym, and conforzte hym: lest that same persone should bee swallowed vp with ouer muche heuines. Wherefore I exhorzte you, y lone maye haue strenght ouer hym. For this cause verely did I write that I might knowe the pzoofe of you wher ye should bee obediende in all thynges. To whom ye forgiue any thyng, I forgiue also.

For if I forgaue any thyng to whō I forgaue it, for your sakes forgaue I it, in the sight of Christ his thoughtes are vnknewen vnto vs. I

¶ When I was come to Troada for Christes Gospelles sake (and a doore was opened vnto me of the Lorde) I had no rest in the spirite, because I founde not Tytus my brother, but tooke my leane of theim, and wente awaye into Macedonya. Thanckes bee vnto God, whiche alwayes geueth vs the victorie in Christe and openeth the fauer of his knowelage by vs in euery place. For wee are vnto God the swete sauoure of Christ among theim that are saued, and among theim whiche perishe. * To the one parte are wee the sauoure of deathe vnto deathe. And vnto the other parte are wee the sauoure of lyfe vnto life. And who is mete vnto these thynges? For wee are not as the moste parte are, whiche choppe and chaunge with the woorde of God but euen oute of puerlesse, and by the power of God, in the sighte of God, so speake wee in Christe. I

The. iii. Chapter.

The prayeth the preaching of the Gospell aboue the preaching of the same.

We begyn to prayse our selues again. Rede we as some other of Epistles of commendacion vnto you or letters of commendacion from you? Ye are our Epistle written in oure heartes, whiche is vnderstand and rede of all menne, for as muche as ye declare that ye are the Epistle of Christe, ministered by vs & written, not with ynke: but with the spirite of the liuyng God * not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the harte.

¶ Suche truste haue wee throughe Christe to Godwarde, not that wee are sufficiente of oure selues to thinke any thing, as for our selues: but if wee bee able vnto any thyng * the same cometh of God, whiche hath made vs able to * minister the newe testament, not of the letter, but of the spirite. For the letter killeth but the spirite geueth life.

¶ If the ministracion of deathe throughe the letters figured in stones was gloriouse, so that the children of Israell coude not beholde the face of Moyses, for the glorie of his countenance (whiche glorie is dooen awaye) why shall not the ministracion of the spirite bee muche more gloriouse? For if the ministring of comendacion be gloriouse: muche more dooeth the ministracion of righteousnes excede in glorie. ¶ For no doubt that whiche was there glorified, is not once glorified in respecte of this excedyng glorie. For if that whiche is destroyed was gloriouse, muche more that whiche remaineth, is gloriouse.

¶ Seeyng then that wee haue suche truste, wee vse greates boldenes and dooe not as Moyses whiche put a vaille ouer his face, that the chyldren of Israell shoulde not see for what purpose that scrued whiche is putte awaye. * but their myndes were blynded. For vntill this daye remaineth the same coueryng vntake awaye in the lecture of the olde testamente, whiche vaille shalbee putte awaye in Christ. But euen vnto this daye when Moyses is rede * the vaille hangeth before their eyes. Neuerthelesse * when they turne to the Lorde, the vaille shalbee taken awaye. The Lorde no doubt is a spirite. And where the spirite of the Lorde is there is libertie. But wee all behold in a mirrour the glorie of the Lorde with his face open and are chaunged vnto the same similitude, from glorie to glorie, euen as of the spirite of the Lorde.

The. iii. Chapter.

A true preacher is diligent; he corrupteth not the woorde of God, but seeketh the honoure of Christe, yea though it bee with the perill of his life.

Therefore, seeyng that wee haue suche an office, euen as God hath had mercy on vs, wee go not out of kynde: but haue caste from vs the clothes of vnhonesty, & walke not in craftines, neither haue we the woorde of God disceitfully, but open the trueth and repute oure selues to euery mannes conscience in the sighte of God.

¶ If oure Gospell bee yet hid, it is hid among theim that are losse, in whom * the God of this worlde hath blynded the myndes of theim whiche beleue not, lest the lighte of the Gospell of the glorie of Christe (whiche is the ymage of God) should shyne vnto theim.

¶ For wee preache not our selues, but Christe Iesus to bee the Lorde, and our selues youre seruautes, for Iesus sake. For it is God, that commaundeth the light to shyne out of darke, whiche hath shyned in oure heartes, for to geue the lighte of the knowelage of the glorie of God, in the face of Iesus Christe.

¶ But wee haue this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellencye of the power might bee of God and not oures. Wee are troubled on euery syde, yet are wee not without hope. Wee are in pouertie, but not utterly without some what. Wee suffre persecucion: but are not forsaken therein. Wee are caste doune: neuerthelesse wee perishe not. Wee alwayes beare aboute in the bodye, the dying of the Lord Iesus, that the life of Iesu might also appeare in our bodye.

¶ For wee whiche liue, are alwayes deliuered vnto deathe for Iesus sake, that the life also of Iesu might appeare in oure mortall fleshe. So then deathe woorketh in vs, but life in you.

¶ But seeyng that wee haue the same spirite of faith (accordyng as it is written: * I beleued & therefore haue I spoken.) Wee also beleue, and therefore speake. For wee knowe, that he whiche raised vp the Lord Iesus shal raise vp vs also by the meanes of Iesus, and shal sette vs with you. For all thynges dooe I for youre sakes * the plenteous grace by thankesgiving of many maye redounde to the prayse of God.

¶ Wherefore, wee are not weryed. But though our outwarde manne perishe, yet the inward man is renewed daye by daye. For our tribulacion whiche is momentany & light, prepared an excedyng and an eternall weight of glorie vnto vs, while we loke not on the thynges whiche are sene, but on the thynges whiche are not sene: For the thynges whiche are sene, are temporall but thynges whiche are not sene, are eternal.

FOR wee knowe that if our earthe mancion of this dwelling were destroyed, wee haue a buydyng of God, an habitation not made with handes, but eternall in heauen. * For therefore sighe wee desirynge to bee clothed with oure mansion whiche is from heauen: so yet, if y wee bee found clothed, and not naked. For wee that are in this tabernacle, sighe and are greued because wee woulde not bee vnclothed, but woulde bee clothed vpon, that mortalitee might bee swallowed vp of life. He that hath ordeyned vs for this thyng, is God: * whiche verie same hath geuen vnto vs the earnest of the spirite.

Therefore, wee are alwaie of good cheare, & knowe, that as long as wee are at home, in the body, wee are absent from God. For wee walke in faith, not after outward appareance: Nevertheless wee are of good conforte, and had leuer to bee absent from the body and to bee presente with God. Wherefore, whether wee bee at home or from home, wee endenour our selues to please hym. * For wee muste all appeare before the iudgemente seate of Christe, that euery manne maie receiue the woorkes of his body accordyng to that he hath dooen, whether it bee good or bad. * Seeyng then that wee knowe, how the Lorde is to bee feared, wee fare saye with menne. For wee are knowen well inough vnto God. I truste also that wee are knowen in your consciences. For wee praye not our selues again vnto you, but geue you an occasion to reioyce of vs, that ye maie haue somewhat against them whiche reioyce in the face, & not in y heart.

For if wee bee to seruente, to God are wee to seruente. Or if wee kepe measure, for your cause kepe wee measure. For the loue of Christe constraineth vs, because wee thus iudge that if one dyed for all, then were all dedde, and he died for all, that they whiche liue, should not hence forth liue vnto them selues, but vnto hym whiche dyed for them, and rose again. * Wherefore, henceforth knowe wee no manne after the fleshe. In somuche though wee haue knowen Christe after the fleshe, now yet hence forth knowe wee hym so no more. Therefore if any manne bee in Christ, he is a new creature. Olde thynges are passed awaye, beholde all thynges are * become newe. Nevertheless, all thynges are of God, whiche hath reconciled vs vnto hymself by Iesus Christe, and hath geuen to vs the office to preache y attonement. For * God was in Christ and made agremente betwene the worlde and hymself, & imputed not their synnes vnto them and hath committed to vs the preaching of the attonement. Now then are wee messengers in the roume of Christ, euen as though God did beseeche you through vs, So prae we you in Christes stede, that ye bee reconciled vnto God: * for he made hym to bee synne for vs, whiche knewe no synne, that wee by his meanes should be that righteousnesse, whiche before God is allowed.

The. vi. Chapter.

An exhortacion to receiue the worde of God with thankfulness and amendement of life. The diligence of Paul in the Gospel, and how he warneth them to eschewe the compaignie of the Heathen.

VE also as helpers exhorthe you that ye receiue not the grace of God in vain. For he saith: * I haue heard thee in a tyme accepted: and in the daie of saluacion, haue I suckered thee. Beholde now is y accepted tyme: behold now is y daie of saluacion. Let vs geue no occasion of euill, y in your office bee founde no fault: but in all thynges lette vs behaue oure selues * as the ministers of God.

In muche paciēce, in afflictions, in necessities, in anguysses, in stripes, in prisonementes, in stripes, in labours, in watchynges, in fastynges, in purenes, in knowelage, in lōg sufferynge, in humydenes, in the holy ghoſte, in loue vnfayned, in y woorde of truth, in the power of God, by the armour of righteousnes of the righte hande and on the lifte by honoure and dishonoure, by euill repute and good repute: as discouers, and yet true, and vnkowen as yet knowen: as dyng, & beholde, wee leue: as chaffened, and not kyled, as sootyng, and yet alwaye merce: as poore, and yet make many riche: as haupng nothyng, and yet possesying all thynges. * I

Oye Corinthyans, our mouth is open vnto you. Our herte is made large ye are in no strait in vs, but are in a strait in your owne boweles. I promise vnto you like reward, as vnto chylde. Set your selues at large, * and beare not y the yoke with the vnbeleuers. For what feloship hath righteousnes with vnrighthousnes? Or what compaignie hath light with darkenes? Or what concord hath Christe with Beliall? Either what part hath he that beleueth with an infidell? Or how agreeth y temple of God with ymages, for * ye are the temple of the liuyng God (as saied God) * I will dwell among them, and walke among them and will bee their God: & they shal bee my people. Wherefore * come oute from among them, and separate your selues fro them (saith the Lorde) & touche none vnclane thyng: so will I receiue you, and wil bee a father vnto you, and ye shal bee my sonnes & daughters, sayeth the Lorde almyghty.

The. vii. Chapter.

The exhorteth them to receiue the promises of God thankfully. The Corinthyans are commended for their obedience and loue toward Paul.

SYNG that wee haue suche promyses (dearely beloued) let vs cleanse our selues from all fylthynges of the fleshe and spirite and growe vp to full holynesse with the feare of God. Understande vs, wee haue hurte no manne: we haue corrupt no man: we haue defrauded no manne. I speake not this to condempne you: for I haue shewed you before, y ye are in our heartes to dye and liue with you: I am verie bolde ouer you: I reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled with confort comforte, and am excedyng ioyouse in all oure tribulacyon. For when we wer come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on euery syde. Outward was fighting, inward was fere. Neuertheles, God ꝑ comforteth ꝑ abiect, comforted vs by the comyng of Titus And not by hys comyng onely: but also by the consolacyon which we receiued of you: whē he tolde vs your desyre, your wepyng, your feruent mynde for me: so that I reioiced the more.

For though I made you soꝝ wryth a letter, I repente not: though I dyd repent. For I per-ceiue that the same Epistle made you soꝝ, though it were but for a season. But I now re-ioyce, not that ye were soꝝ, but that ye sorow-ed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godlye, so that in nothyng ye were hurte by vs. For godly sorowe causeth repentance vnto saluacion not to be repented of, contrary wyle, * worldly sorow causeth death. For beholde, what dysp-gence thys godlye sorowe that ye tooke, hath brought in you: yee, it caused you to clere your selues. It caused indignacyon, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused punishment. For in all thinges ye haue shewed your selues, that ye were clere in that matter. Wherefore though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for hys cause that was hurte: but that youre good mynde for vs myght apere amonge you in the syghte of God Therefore, we are comforted, because ye are comforted: yee, and excedyngly the more ioyed we, for ꝑ ioye that Titus had: because his spret was refreshed of you al. I am therfore not now ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you. For as all thynges whych we speke vnto you are true, euen so our boasting ꝑ I made vnto Titus, is found true. And his inward affectyon is more aboundant toward you, whē he remembere the obedyence of you al, howe wryth feare and tremblng ye receiued him. I reioyce that I maye be holde ouer you in all thynges.

The. viii. Chapter

We putteyth them in remembrance to helpe the poore sayntes at Jerusalem, accordyng as the Macedonians dyd Certify you brethren, of the grace of God, which was geue in the congre-gacions of Macedonia, howe that the aboundance of theyr reioysing is, that they are tried with much trybulacyon. And though they wer excedyng poore yet haue they geue excedyng richly and that wyllyngly. For to theyr powres, I beate the record: yee, and beyond theyr powres, they wer wyllyng of theyr owne accorde, and prayed vs wryth great instance, that we woulde receiue theyr benefite, and suffer them to be partakers wryth other * mynistryng to the sayntes. And this they did, not as we looked for: but gaue their owne selues sperte to the Lorde, and after vnto vs by the wyl of God: so that we could not but desyre Titus, to accomplishe the same beneuolence among you also, euen as he had begonne Nowe therfore, as ye are ryche in all parties in fapth: in word, in knowledge, in al feruētnes and in loue, whiche haue to vs, euen so, let that ye be plenteous in thys beneuolence also. This saie I, not commaundyng, but because offer-uentnes. I do allowe the vnfaynednes of youre loue toward other men. For ye know the libe-raltye of our Lord Iesus Chyft, that though he was * ryche yet for your sakes he became poore ꝑ he through his pouerter, might be made ryche And I geue counsell hereto: For this is expedyent for you, whych beganne not to do onely but also to wyl a yere ago: Nowe therfore, per-forme the thyng whych ye beganne to do: that as ther was in you a redynes to wyl, euen so ye may performe the dede * of that whych ye haue For * if there be fyrst a wyllyng mynde, it is accepted accordyng to that a man hath, and not ac-cordyng to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other be set at ease, and ye brought into combraunce: but that there be equalnes nowe at thys tyme: and that youre aboundaunce maye sucke theyr lacke, and that theyr aboundaunce maye supplie youre lacke: that there maye be equaltye, agreyng to that whych is wrytten: * He that had much, had not the more aboundaunce: and he that had a lytle, had neuertheles. Thanke be vnto God which put the same good mynde for you in the herte of Titus, which accepted the request: yee, rather he was so wel willing, that of his owne accorde he came vnto you.

We haue sente wryth hym the brother whose laude is in the Gospell throughout all the congregacions: and not that onely, but is also chosen of the congregacions, to be a seloe with vs in our iourney, concernyng thys beneuolence ꝑ is mynistryng by vs vnto the praise of the same Lorde and to steepe by youre prompte mynde.
For thys we eschew, ꝑ any man should rebuke vs in thys plenteous distribucion, * that is my nistryng by vs * (to the glory of the Lorde) and make pro-uision for honest thynges, not onely in syght of the Lorde, but also in the syghte of men.

We haue sent wryth them a brother of ours: whome we haue ofte tymes proued diligent in many thynges: but nowe much more diligent The greates confydence whiche I haue in you, hath caused me thys to do: partly for Titus sake, whych is wyfeloe & helper as concernyng you: partly because of other whych are our brethren, and the messengers of the congregacions, and the glory of Chyft. Wherefore, shewe ye vnto them the prouise of your loue, and of our * boastyng of you in the syght of the congregacions

The. ix. Chapter

In thys chapter doth he the same that he dyd in the chapter goyng before, that is, he moueth them to helpe the poore brethren at it is but superfluous for me to wryte vnto you: for I knowe the redynesse of your mynde, whereof I boaste my haue I sente these brethren, leaste our boſtynge whych I make of you, ſhould be in vayne, in this behalf, & y^e (as I haue ſayd) may prepare your ſelues: leaſt peradventure y^e ſhei of Macedonia come with me, and fynde y^e vnprepared, we (I wyll not ſay y^e) ſhould be aſhamed in this matter of boſtynge. Thakkeſ be vnto God, for his vnſpeakeable gift

The. x. Chapter.

He toucheth the falſe apoſtle, and defendeth hys authorytee and calling

I Paul my ſelfe beſech you by the meekenes and ſoftnes of Chyiſt, whych when I am preſent emonge you, am of no reputacyon: but am hold to ward you being abſent. I beſech you, that I nede not to be bold when I am preſent, wyth that ſame boldnes, wher wyth I am ſuppoſed to haue bene bold, agaynſt ſome, whyche repute vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the fleſhe, yet we do not warre fleſhye

Eph. vi. c

* For the weapons of oure warfare are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghty in God, to caſt doune ſtrong holdes, wher wyth we overthrow counſels and euery hye thyng that exalteth it ſelf agaynſt the knowledge of God, and byrnyng into captiuite al ymaginacion to the obedyence of Chyiſt, and are redy to take vengeance on al diſobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled. Loke y^e on thynges after ſo vitter a perauſice

If any man truſt in hym ſelf, that he is Chyiſt, let hym conſyder thys agayne of hym ſelfe that as he is Chyiſtes, even ſo are we Chyiſtes. For though I boalt my ſelfe ſomwhat moze of our authorytee (whyche the Lord hath geuen vs * to edifie, and not to deſtroy you) it ſhal not be to my ſhame, leſt I ſhuld ſeme as though I wold aboute to make you aſtrayed wyth letters. For the epyſtles (ſayth he) are ſore and ſtronger: but hys bodely preſence is weake, and hys ſpeache rude. Let hym that is ſuch thynke on thys wyſe that as we are in woordes by letters, whē we are abſent, ſuch are we in dedes, whē we are preſent

For we cannot fynde in our hertes to make our ſelues of ſo number of them, or to compare our ſelues to them, which praiſe the ſelues. Nevertheless, whyle they meaſure the ſelues, with them ſelues, and compare them ſelues with the ſelues, they vnderſtande naught. But we wyll not reioyce aboue meſure: but accordynge to the meaſure of the rule, whyche God hath dyſtributed vnto vs, a meaſure to reach euen vnto you. For we ſtretch not out our ſelues beyonde meaſure, as though we reached not vnto you. For euen to you alſo haue we come wyth the Goſpell of Chyiſt, and we boſt not our ſelues oute of meaſure of other mens labours. Yee, we hope it wyll come to paſſe that when poure ſayth is increaſed emong you we ſhal be magnified accordynge to our meaſure moze largely, and that I ſhal preach ſo Goſpel in thoſe regions which are beyonde you, and not to boſt of thoſe thynges, which by another mans meaſure are prepared already. But let him that reioyleth, reiole in the Lord. For he that prayſeth hym ſelfe, is not allowed, but he whome the Lord prayſeth.

The. xi. Chapter

Paul (vnder ſufferaunce) commendeth hym ſelfe, and defendeth hys authorytee agaynſt the falſe prophetes

Wilde to God, y^e could haue ſuffered me a lytle in my ſolpynnes: yee, y^e do alſo ſozbere me. For I am gelous ouer you wyth godly gelouſy. For I haue coupled you to one ma that y^e ſhould make your ſelues a chaſt vyrgin vnto Chyiſt. But I feare leſt it come to paſſe ſo as the ſerpent * beggled Eve thzough hys ſubtelty, euen ſo your wyrttes ſhould be corrupte fro the ſynglenes that y^e had towarde Chyiſt. For y^e ſe that cometh preach another Jeſus then hym whom we preached: or y^e ſe receyue another ſpyte then that which y^e haue receiued, ether another Goſpel ſo the y^e haue receiued, y^e myght ryght wel haue bene content. For I ſuppoſe that I was not behynd the cheſe apoſtles. But though I be rude in ſpeking, yet I am not ſo in knowledge. Howbeit emog you, we haue bene well knowne to the vttermoſte what we are in all thynges. Wyd I therein ſynne, becauſe I ſubmytted my ſelf, that y^e myght be exalted and becauſe I preached to you the Goſpell of God free. I robbed other cōgregacyons, & toke wages of them to do you ſeruyce. And when I was preſente wyth you, and had nede * I was chargeable to no man: for that whych was lacking vnto me, the brethren whych came from Macedonia, ſupplied, and in al thynges I kept my ſelfe ſo that I ſhoulde not be chargeable to any any man and so wyl I kepe my selfe.

C Of the truth of Chryste be in me, this reioy-syng shall not be taken from me in the regyons of Achaia. Wherefore? Because I loue you not?
God knoweth. Neuer thelesse, what I do, that wyl I do, to couthe a waye occasion frome the which desire occasion: that thei might be found lyke vnto vs, in that wherin they reioyse. For such false apostles are dysceitful workers, and fashyon them selues lyke vnto the Apostles of Chryst. And no marvail: for Satan him selfe is chaunged into the fashio of an angel of light Therefore is it no great thyng though bys my-nistres fashyon them selues, as though thei wer the mynisters of righteousnes: whose ende shal be accordyng to theyr dedes.

D I say agayn, least any man thynk that I am foolish: or els euen nowe take ye me as a foole that I also may boast my selfe a lytle. That I speake I speake it not after the Lorde: but as it were foolishly, in this matter of boastyng. Seyng that many reioyce after the flesh, I wyl re-ioyce also. For ye suffer fooles gladly, leing ye your selues are wyle. For ye suffer, yf a man bring you into bondage, yf a man deuoure, yf a man take, yf a man exhalte hym selfe, yf a man smyt you on the face. I speake as concernyng rebuke, as though we had ben weke. (in this behalfe)

E Howbeit, wherein soeuer anye man dare be bolde (I speake foolishly) I dare be bolde also
* They are Hebryes, euen so am I. They are Israelites, euen so am I. They are the sede of Abraha, euen so am I. They are the mynisters of chryst (I speake as a foole) I am more. In labours more abundaunte: I stryppes aboue measure.
In prysyn more plenteously: In death oft. Of the Jewes fyue times receiued I euery tyme. xl stryppes saue one. * Chryse was I beaten wyth roddes. * I was once stoned. * I suffered thysle hypocrisie. Nyght and day haue I bene in the depe sea. In iournieng oft: in parys of waters in parys of robbers: in iopardyes of myne owne nacyon: in iopardyes emonge the heathen: * in parys in the cytee: in parys in wildernes: in parys in the sea: in parys emonge false brythren: in laboure and trauayle: in watchynges often: in hunger and thysle: in fastynges of te: in cold & nakednes: beside the thynges which outwardly happed vnto me. I am combred day-ly, and do care for all congregacyons. * Who is weke and I am not weke: who is offended, and I burne not? If I must nedes boast, I will boast of the thynges that concerne myne infymities

The. xii. Chapter

Paul is taken vp into the thyrde heuen, and heareth wordes not to be spoken

A The God and father of our Lorde Jesus Chryste, whyche is blessed for euermore knoweth that I lye not.
* In the cytee of Damasco, the gouerner of the people vnder kyng Aretas layed watch in the cytee of Damascens, and woulde haue caught me: and at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket throughe the wall, and so sca-ped I his handes. Doubtles, it is not expedyent for me to boast, I wyl come to bysions and re-uelacions of the Lorde. I know a man in Chryst aboue fourtene yeres agoe (whether he were in the body, I cannot tell, or whether he were out of the body I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe he was taken vp into the thyrde heauen. And I knowe the same man (whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into paradys, and heard secret wordes whych no man can vtter.

Of thys man wyl I boast, but of my selfe wyl I not boast, excepte it be of myne infymities For though I would boast, I shal not be a foole for I would say the truth. Neuer thelesse, I spare you: lest any man shuld think of me aboue that which he seeth me to be, or that he hereth of me.
And least I shoulde be exalted out of measure throughe the excellency of the reuelacions: ther was geuen vnto me vnyquetyes throughe the flesh, euen the messenger of Satan to buffet me because I shoulde not be exalted out of measure For this thyng besoughte I the Lorde thysle that it myght departe frome me. And he sayed vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strengthe is made perfecte throughe wekenes.
Very gladly therfore wyl I reioyce of my weknes, that the strengthe of Chryst may dwell in me. Therefore, haue I delectacyon in infym-ities, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecucy-ons in anguyshes for Chrystes sake. For whe I am weake, then am I stronge.

I am become a foole in boastyng my selfe. Ye haue compelled me: for I oughte to haue bene commended of you. * For in nothyng was I inferior vnto the chiefe Apostles, though I be nothyng, yet the tokens of an Apostle were wrought emong you wyth al pacience, and signes and wonders, and mighty dedes. For what is it, wherin ye were inferior vnto other congregacions, except it be herein, that I was not chargeable vnto you. For geue me thys wrong beholde now the thyrde tyme I am redy to come vnto you, and yet wyl I not be chargeable vnto you. For I like not yours, but you. For the children ought not to lay by for the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the chyldren.

I wyl very gladly bestowe, and wyl be bestowed for your soules, though the more I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayn. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you, neuer thelesse, when I was crafty, I toke you with gyle. Did I pyll you by any of them, whome I sent vnto you: I despyred Titus, and wyth hym I sente a brother. Wyl Titus defraud you of any thyng walked we not in one spyte: walked we not in lyke steppes? Agayne, thyncke you that we excuse oure selues vnto you? We speake in Chryst in the syght of God: but we do al thynges (derely beloued) for your edifyng. For I feare, lest it come to passe, that yf I come, I shal not fynd you such as I woulde: and that I shal be founde vnto you such as ye woulde not. I feare lest ther be emog you debates, enuynges, wrath, stry-fes: backbytynge, whisperynge, swellynge,

The. xiii. Chapter

He promyseth to come vnto them, and he exhorteth them so to orde them selues that he may fynde them perfect and of one mynde.

In come I the thyrde tyme vnto you * in the mouth of. ii. oz. iii. wytnesses shal euery worde be stablished I told you befoze, and tell you befoze: and as I lated when I was present with you the second tyme, so write I now bepyng absent, to the which in times past haue sinned, and to al other that ye I come agayn, I wyll not spare, seying that ye seke experiece of Christ * which speketh in me: which emog you is not weke but is myghty in you. For though he was crucified in wekenes, yet lyueth he through the power of God And we (no dout) are weke in him: but we shal wyth hym: by the myghte of God amonge you, * Examen your selues, whether ye are in the faith oz not. Prove your owne selues. Know ye not your owne selues, how that Iesus Christ is in you: except ye be cast awaies, I trust ye shall know that we are not cast awaies. I desyre befoze God that ye do none euil, not that we shuld seme commendable: but that ye shoulde do that which is honest: and let vs be counted as castawayes. We can do nothyng agaynst the truth but for the truth. We are glad when we are weke and ye strong. Thys also we wythe for euen your perfectnes. Therefore wyte I theseltynge, bepyng absent least when I am presente, I shoulde vse sharpnes, accordyng to the power * which the Lord hath geuen me to edifye, & not to destroy. Finally brethren, fare ye wel, be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mynde, lyue in peace, & the God of loue & peace shalbe with you * Gete one another in an holy kisse. Al the sainctes salute you. The grace of oure Lorde Iesus Christ, and the loue of God, and the felowshippe of the holpe ghoost be wyth you all. Amen.

The Epistle of Saynt

Paule the Apostle to the Galathians

The fyrst chapter.

Paul rebuketh them, because they were fallen away from the Gospel, sheweth hys owne conuersacion, magnifyeth hys office and apostolyppe, & declareth hym self to be equal with the hie Apostles.

In an Apostle, not of men neither by mā: but by Iesus Christ and by God the father, whiche rayled him vp from death: and al the brethren which are wme vnto the congregacions of Galacia * Grace be with you, and a praece from God the father, and from our Lorde Iesus Christ, whiche gaue him selfe for our synnes to deliuer vs from thys present euil world accordyng to the wyll of God oure father, to whom be prayse for euer and euer. Amen.

I maruaile, that ye are so sone turned (from Christ which called you by grace) vnto another Gospel which is nothyng elles, but that there be some whiche trouble you, and * intend to peruert the Gospel of Christ. Neuertheles, though we our selues, oz an angell from heauen, prech any other Gospel vnto you, then that whiche we haue preached vnto you, let him be accursed. As we sayed befoze, so saye I now agayne, ye any man prech any other Gospel vnto you, the that ye haue receiued, let hym be accursed. Do I nowe perswade me, oz God? Other do I seke to please men? * For ye I had hether to studied to please men, I were not the seruaunt of Christ.

* I certify you brethren, that the Gospel whiche was preached of me, was not after the maner of mā. For I nether receiued it, nor learned of mā, but by the reuelacion of Iesus Christ. For ye haue heard of my conuersacion in time past, in the Jewes waye, howe that beyond measure, * I persecuted the congregacion of God, and spoiled it, and preuailed in the Jewes waye aboue many of my companions in myne ownenacion * bepyng a very feruente mayntayner of the tradycions of the elders.

But when it pleased God, whiche seperated me frome my mothers wombe, * and called me hereunto by hys grace, for to declare hys sonne by me, that I shoulde prech hym among the heathen: immediatly I communed not of the matter wyth * fleshe and bloude nether returned to Jerusalem, to them whiche were Apostles befoze me: but went my wayes vnto Arabia, and came agayne vnto Damasco. Then after thre yere, I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode wyth hym. x. dayes. Other of the Apostles sawe I none, save James the Lordes brother. The thynges therfore whiche I wyte vnto you: beholde befoze God I lye not.

* After that I came into the coastes of Syria and Cilicia, & was vnkowne as touchyng my person vnto the congregacions of Jewes whiche were in Christ. But thys they hearde only that he whiche persecuted vs in tyme past nowe preacheth the fayth, whiche befoze he destroyed. And they glorified God in me. Amen.

The. ii. Chapter

He wythstandeth Peter in the face, and proueth that the lawe and circumcyssion are not necessary to saluacion.

In fourtene yeres thereafter, I wet agayne to Jerusalem * with Barnabas, & toke Titus wyth me. I went vp also by reuelacion, and communed with them of the gospel which I preche among the Gentyles (but specially) wyth the whiche were counted chiefe, least I shoulde runne oz had runne in vayne. Also Tytus whiche was wyth me me, though he wer a Greke, yet was not cōpel-led to be circumcised: and that because of incommers beyng false bʒethʒen, whych came in pry-uily to spyte out our lyberty whych we haue in Chʒyst Iesu, that they myght bʒing vs into bō-dage. To whom we gaue no roldme, no not for the tyme (by way of subiectiō) because that the truth of the Gospel myght contynue wyth you

Of them whych seemed to be somewhat, what they wer in tyme passed it maketh no matter to me. * God loketh on the outward apereance of no man. Neuertheles they whiche seemed great added nothyng to me. But contrariwys, whē they sawe that the Gospel ouer the vncircumcysion was committed vnto me, as the Gospel ouer the cʒircumcysion was committed vnto Peter. For he that was myghty in Peter in the Apostleshipp ouer the cʒircumcysion, the same was myghty in me among the Gentyles. When thei percepued the grace that was geuen vnto me, then James, Cephas, and Iohn, whych seemed to be pillars, gaue to me & Barnabas the right handes of that felowship, that we should be Apostles among the heathen, and they in the cʒircucysion onely that they should remember & poze * Alberin also I was dyligent to do the same.

But when Peter was come to Antyoche, I withstode him openly, because he was worthy to be blamed. For yer that certayne came from James, he dyd eat wyth & Gentyles. But whē they were come, he wythdrew, and seperated hym selfe from them, fearng them whych wer of the cʒircumcysion. And the other Jewes disembled as wel as he: in so much that Barnabas also was bʒought into theyʒ symulacyon. But whan I saw that they went not the right way after the truth of the Gospel, I layed vnto Peter before them al: yf thou beyng a Jewe, lyuest after the maner of the Gentyles, and not as do the Jewes: why causeste thou the Gentyles to lyue as do the Jewes? For we whiche are * Je-wes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyles, knowe that a man * is not iustified by the deedes of the lawe, but by ffaith of Iesus Chʒyst And we haue belied on Iesus Chʒyst: that we myght be iustified by the fayth of Chʒyst, and not by the deedes of the lawe, because by the de-des of the lawe no fleshe shalbe iustified.

If whyle we seeke to be made ryghteous by Chʒyst, we our selues are found synners, is the Chʒyst the mynyster of synne? God forbidd. For yf I buyld agayn the thynges whych I destroyed, then make I my self a trespasser. For I (tho row the lawe) haue bene deade to the lawe that I myght lyue vnto Chʒyst. I am crucified with Chʒyst. Neuertheles I lyue: yet now not I, but Chʒyst lyueth in me. The lyfe whych I nowe lyue in the flesh, I lyue by the fayth of the sonne of God, * whych loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despyse not the grace of God. For * yf ryghteousnes come of the lawe, then Chʒyst is deade in vayne.

The.iii. Chapter

He rebuketh the vniuersall synners of the Galathians shewing the imperfection of the lawe, and declaring neuertheles that it was not geuen for nought

O ye foolyshe Galathians: who hath bewytched you, that ye should not beleue the truth? To whom Iesus Chʒist was describēd before the eyes and emong you crucified. Chʒys onely would Ierne of you, whether ye receiued the spʒyte by the de-des of the lawe or by the preachng of the fayth Are ye such foolys, that after ye haue begon in the spʒyte, ye ende in the flesh? So many thyn-ges ye haue suffered in vayne, yf it bee also in vayne. Whereouer, he that mynystreth to you the spʒyte, and worketh myracles among you, doth he it throughe the deedes of the lawe, or by preachng of the fayth? * Euen as Abraham beleued God, and it was ascribēd to hym for ryghteousnes. Ye knowe therfore, & they whych are of faith, the same are the chyldʒen of Abraham. For the scripture sayng afore hande, that God would iustify the heathen throughe fayth shewed before hand glad tidnges vnto Abraham, sayng: * In the shall all nacyns be blessed. So then, thei whych be of fayth, are blessed wyth faythfull Abraham. For as many as are of the deedes of the lawe, are subiect to the curse For it is wyrtten: * cursed be euery one that cōtynueth not in all thynges whych are wyrtten in the booke of the lawe to fulfyll them. that no man is iustified by the lawe in ffaith of God it is euident. * For the iust shall lyue by fayth.
The lawe is not of fayth: but the man that fulfilleth the thynges * (contayned in the lawe) shal lyue in them. Chʒyst hath deliuered vs from f curse of the lawe, in as muche as he was made accused for vs: For it is wyrtten: * cursed is euery one, that hangeth on tree, that the blyssynge of Abraham myghte come on the Gentyles tho-rowe Iesus Chʒyste, that we myghte receyue the promesse of the spʒyte throughe fayth.

Bʒethʒen, I speake after the maner of men.
Though it be but a mans testamente, yet yf it be allowed, no man despyseth it, or addeth anye thyng thereto. * To Abraham and hys seede were the promyses made. He sayeth not in thy seeds, as many: but in thy seede as of one, whych is Chʒyste. Chʒys I saye that the lawe whych beganne afterwarde, beyonde * foure hundred and thʒyete yeaʒes, doth not dysanull the testa-mente, that was confyrmēd afore of God vnto Chʒyst warde to make the promyse of none effect. * For yf the inherytaunce come of the lawe it cometh not nowe of promesse. But God ga-ue it vnto Abraham by promesse.

Wherefore then serueth the lawe? * It was added because of transgressyon (tʒ the seede came to whom the promes was made) & it was orde-ned * by angels in the hand of a mediator. A mediator is not a mediator of one, but God is one * Is the lawe then agaynst the promes of God God forbidd. For yf ther had bene a lawe geue whych coulde haue geuen lyfe: then no doubte ryghteousnes should come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded all thynges vnder synne, that the promes by the fayth of Iesus Chʒyste should be geuen vnto them that beleue. But before that fayth came, we were kept vnder the lawe

lawe and were put vnto the sayth whyche should afterwarde be declared. Wherefore I sayd was our scolemaster vnto Chyft, I we should be iustified by sayth. But after that sayth is come we are no longer vnder the scolemaster.

Roma. vii. a. For ye are all chyldren of God, because ye beleue in Chyft Iesu. For * al ye that are baptised haue put on Chyft. There is no Jewe, nether Gentyle: there is nether bonde nor free: there is nether man, nor woman. For ye are all * one in Chyft Iesu. If ye be Chyftes, the are ye Abrahams seede, and heyes accordyng to the promes

The. iiii. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that through Chyft we be deliuered from the lawe, and rebuketh the vnthankfulness of the Galathians.

And I say, that I heye (as long as he is a chyld) dyffereth not from a seruaunte, though he be Lord of al, but is vnder tutors & gouernours, vntill the tyme that the father hath apointed

Euen so we also, when we were chyldren, were in bondage vnder the ordynances of the world. But when the tyme was ful come, God * sent his sonne, made of a woman, and made bonde vnto the law, to redeme them whych wer bond vnto the law: that we (through eleccio) myght receyue the inheritaunce that belongeth to the naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes * God hath sent the spyte of his sonne into our hartes cryng Abba father. Wherefore now, thou art not a seruaunte: but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, thou art also an heye of god through Chyft

For withstanding, when ye knewe not God ye dyd serue vnto them * which by nature are no Goddes. But now after that ye haue knowne God (ye, rather are knowne of God) how is it that ye turne agayn vnto the weke & * beggerly ordynances, wherunto again ye desyre afresh to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes and monethes, and times, and yeres. I am in feare of you lest I haue bestowed in you labour in vayne.

Wherefore, I beseeche you be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurte me at all. Ye knowe howe through inpymytee of the flesh I preached the Gospell vnto you at the fyrste. And my temptacyon whyche was in the flesh ye dyspyled not, neyther abhorred: but receiued me as an angell of God: euen as Chyft Iesus.

What is then your selcypte? for I beare you record yf it had ben possible ye would haue plucked out your owne eyes, and haue geue them to me. And I therfore become your enemy, because I tel you the truth. They are gelouse ouer you amysse. Yee, they intend to exclude you, that ye shoulde be feruente to them warde. It is good alwayes to be feruente in a good thyng, and not onely when I am presente wyth you.

My litle chyldren, of whom I traueil in byrd again, vntill Chyft be fashioned in you I wold I were wyth you now, and could chaunge my voyce: for I stand in a doubt of you. Tel me: ye that desyre to be vnder the lawe, do ye not here of the law? For it is wyrtten, that Abraham had two sonnes: the one by a bonde mayde: the other by a free woman. Yee, he whyche was borne of the bondwoman, was borne after the fleshe: but he which was of the frewoman, was borne by promes. Whyche thynges are spoken by an allegory. For these are two testamentes the one from the mount Syna, which gendreth vnto bondage, whych is Ager. For mount Syna is Ager in Arabia, and boudreth vpon the cytee, whyche is now called Ierusalem, and is in bondage wyth her chyldren.

But Ierusalem, which is aboue, is free: which is the mother of vs all. For it is wyrtten * Reioyce thou baren, y bearest no chyldren: bryake forth and crye, thou that trauestest not. For the desolate hath many mo chyldren, the she which hath an husband. Wherefore we are after Isaac the chyldren of promes. But as then he I was borne after the fleshe, persecuted hym that was borne after the spyte, euen so is it now. Neuer theles, what sayth the scripture * put away the bond woman and her sonne. For the sone of the bond woman shall not be heye wyth the sonne of the free woman. So then brythren we are not chyldren of the bonde woman, but of the free.

The. v. Chapter.

Paul sheweth that we are to be free from the lawe, and to be free from the bondage of the flesh, and to be free from the bondage of the lawe.

And fast therfore in the lyberte wher wyth Chyft hath made vs free, & wrap not your selues agayn in * the pocke of bondage.

Beholde, I Paul say vnto you yf ye be cyscumcysed, Chyft shall profyte you nothyng at all. I testyfy agayne to enerye man whyche is cyscumcysed, that he is bounde to kepe the whole law. Chyft is become but in vayne vnto you. As manye of you as are iustified by the lawe are fallen fro grace. We looke for, and hooue in the spyte to be iustified through sayth * For in Iesu Chyft nether is cyscumcysed on anye thyng worth, ne ther yet vncyscumcysed but sayth * which wolketh by loue. Ye dyd runne well: who was a let vnto you, that ye shoulde not beleue the truth? (consent vnto noman) Euen the counsell whyche ca me not of hym that calleth you. * A lytle leuen dothe leuen the whole lomme of dowe.

I haue truste towarde you in the Loyde, that ye shalbe none other wyse mynded. But he that troubleth you, shall beare his iudgement whatsoeuer he be. Wherefore, yf I yet preache cyscumcysed, why do I then suffer persecucion? Then is the slaunde of the crosse sealed. I wold to God thei wer seperated fro you which trouble you. Wherefore ye were called vnto lyberte: onely * let not your lyberte be an occasyon vnto the fleshe: but by loue * (of the spyte) serue one another. For all the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, whyche is this: * Thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. Yf ye byte and deuour one another: take heed lest ye be lykewyse consumed one of another.

I say walke in the spyte, and fulfyll not the lust of the flesh. For the fleshe lusteth contrarye to the spyte, and * the spyte contrarye to the flesh

The Epistle of Saynt

Paule the Apostle to the Ephesians

The fyrst chapter.

The eternalltyng ordynance and election of God in saynyng of all men, through Christ Jesus hys sonne, we are ordyned unto good workes. The domynyon of Christ

These are contrarie one to the other, so that ye cannot do whatsoeuer ye would, but and if ye be led of the spryte, then are ye not vnder the lawe. The dedes of the fleshe are manifest, which are these: aduoutry, fornicacion, vnclennes, wantonnes, worshipping of ymages, witchcraft, hatred variaunce, zeale, wyathe, strife, sedicions, sectes, enuyng murther, dyonkenness, glotony, & such like: of the which I tel you before, as I haue told you in times past, that thei which comit suche thynges shal not be inheritous of the kyngdom of God. Contrarely, the frute of the spryte is, loue ioye, peace, long sufferinge, gentilnes, goodnes, faithfulness, mekeness, temperaunce. * Agaynst such ther is no lawe. Thei truly that ar Chrystes, haue crucified the flesh wyth the affections and lustes. * If we liue in the spryte, let vs walke in the spryte. Let vs not be despyous of vayne glory, prouokynge one another, enuyng one another. The. vi. Chapter

He exhorteth them to brotherly loue, and one to beare wyth another. In the ende he warneth them to be ware of cōsumycyōn

Brethren, yf a man also be taken in anye fault ye which ar spiritual, helpe to a med him in the spryte of mekeness: considerynge thy self, lest thou also be tempted * Bere ye one anothers burthen, & so fulfil the lawe of Christ. For if a man seme to hym selfe that he is somewhat when in dede he is nothyng, the same deceueth his owne minde. Let euery man proue his owne worke, and then shal he haue reioysynge onely in his owne selfe, and not in another. For * euerye manne shal beare hys owne burthen.

* Let him that is taught in the word, mynyster vnto him that teacheth hym in al good thynges. Be not deceued, god is not mocked. For what soeuer a mā soweth, that shal he also reape. For he that soweth in the flesh, shal of the flesh reape corrupcion. But he that soweth in the spryte, shal of the spryte reape lyfe euerlastyng. * Let vs not be wery of wel doyng. For when the tyme is come we shal reape wythout verines. Whyle we haue therfore tyme, let vs do good vnto al men, and specially vnto them which are of the house hold of fayth. * Ye se how large a letter I haue written vnto you with myne owne hande. As many as desire withoutward a perauce to please carnally, the same constrain you to be crucified onely lest thei should suffer persecucion for the crosse of Christ. For thei the selues which are circūcised, kepe not the lawe, but desire to haue you circūcised, & thei might reioyce in your flesh

God forbyd that I shoulde reioyce, but in the crosse of oure Lord Jesus Christe, whereby the world is crucified vnto me, & I vnto the world. For * in Christ Jesus nether cōsumycyōn: away leth any thyng at all, nor vncircūcisiō but a newe creature. And as many as walke accordyng to this rule, peace be on them and mercye & vpon Israel, that pertayneth to God. From henceforth, let no man put me to busynes. * For I beare in my bodye the markes of the Lord Jesus. Brethren the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be wyth poure spryte. Amen.

To the Ephesians.

Col. lxx.

¶ He exhorteth them vnto mekenesse, to laye asyde the olde conuersacion of greedy lustes, and to walke in a newe lyfe.

downe vpon your wrath, nether geue place vnto the backbiter. * Let hym that stole, steale no more: but let hym rather labour with his handes the thing whiche is good, that he may geue vnto hym that nedeth. ¶

Let no fylthy comunicacyon procede oute of youre mouth: but that which is good to edifye with all as ofte as nede is: that it may minister grace vnto the hearers. And geue not ye the holpe spere of God * by whom ye are sealed vnto the daye of redempcyon. Let all bytternesse and fearnes, and wrath, and roryng, & cursed speaking, be put awaye from you, with all malicyousnes. Be ye courteous one to another, merciful, forgyunge one another: euen as God forgyues sake hath forgyuen you.

The v. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them vnto loue, warneth them to beware of all vnclennes. He teacheth howe women shoulde obey theire husbannes, and howe louyngly men oughe to entreate theire wyues.

BE ye * therfore folowers of God as chylde, and walke ye in loue: euen as * Chyfte loued vs, and gaue hym selfe for vs an offering and a sacrifice of a swete sauoure to God. * As for fornicacyon and all vnclennes, or couetousnesse: let it not be once named amonge you, as it becommeth sayntes, or fylthynges, or foolyshe talking, or testyng, which are not comlye: but rather geuyng of thanks. For thus ye knowe that * no wyormonger, ether vnclane persone or couetous person, (which is a worshypper of ymages) hath any enberytance in the kyngdome of Chyft and of God.

* Let no man deceyue you with vayne wordes. For because of suche thynges commeth the wrath of God, vpon y chylde of disobedience. Be not ye therfore companyons of the. Ye wer somtyme darkenes, but nowe are ye lyght in y Lord. * Walke as chylde of lyght. (For y frute of the spere consysteth in all goodnes, & ryghteousnes and truely.) ¶ Searchyng what is acceptable vnto y Lorde. And haue no felowship with the vnfrutefull workes of darkenes: but rather rebuke the. For it is shame euen to name those thynges which are done of them in secrete but all thynges, when they are broughte forth by the lyght, are manifest. For whatsoeuer is manifest, that same is lyght. Wherefore he sayeth: awake thou that sleepest, and stand vp from death, and Chyft shall geue the lyght.

¶ Take hede therfore howe ye walke circumspectly: not as vnwyle, but as wyle men: redempyng the tyme, because the dayes are euell. Wherefore, bee ye not vnwyle, but vnderstande what the wyll of the Lorde is, and bee not dronke wyth wyne, wherein is excelle: but bee fylled wyth the spere, speakyng vnto youre selues * in psalmes and hymnes, and spirytual songes, syngyng and makyng melodye to the Lorde in youre hertes, geuyng thanks alwayes for all thynges, vnto God y father, in the name of oure Lorde Iesus Chyft submyttyng your selues one to another in the feare of God. ¶

Tit. 2e

Therfore (whiche am a prysoner of y Lordes) exhorthe you, * that ye walke worthy of the vocacyon where wyth ye are called, wyth all lowlynesse and mekenesse, wyth humblenes of mynde, forbearing one another thowow loue, and be diligent to kepe y vnitye of the spere thowowe y bonde of peace, beynge one bodye, and one spere, euen as ye are called in one hope of your calling. One Lorde, one saythe, one baptyme, one God, and father of all, whiche is aboue all and thowowe all, and in you all. ¶

* Vnto euery one of vs is geuen grace, accordyng to the measure of the gyfte of Chyfte. Wherefore he sayeth: when he went vpon an hye, he led captiue captiue, and gaue gyftes vnto men. That he ascended: what meaneth it? but that he also descended first into flowest partes of y erth: * he y descended, is euen y same also y ascended vp, aboue al heuens, to fulfyll al thynges.

And the verue same made * some Apostles, some Prophetes, some Euangelystes, some Shepherdes & teachers: to the edifyng of the saynes, to the worke and ministracyon, euen to the edifyng of the body of Chyfte, tyll we all come to the vnitye of saythe: & knowlage of the sonne of God, vnto a perfecte manne, vnto the measure of the full perfecte age of Chyfte. ¶

That we henceforth shoulde be nomore chylde, * waueryng and carped aboute wyth euery wynde of doctryne, by the wplynesse of meene, thowowe craftynes, whereby they laye a wayte for vs to deceyue vs. But lette vs folowe the truth in loue, and in all thynges growe in hym, * whiche is the head, euen Chyfte in whome yf al the body be coupled & knyt together thowowe oute euery ioynte wherwith one ministrith to another (accordyng to the operacyon as euery parte hath his measure) he encreaseth the body, vnto the edifyng of it selfe thowowe loue.

¶ This I say therfore, and testifye thowowe the Lorde, that ye hence forth walke not, as * other Getyls walke, in vanyte of theyr mynde whyle they are blinded in theyr vnderstanding: beynge farre from a godly lyfe, by the meanes of ignoraunce that is in them, and because of the byndnes of theyr hertes: which beynge past repentaunce, haue geuen themselves ouer vnto wantonnes, to worke all maner of vnclennes, euen with greynesse. But ye haue not so learned Chyft. Yf so be that ye haue heard of hym, and haue bene taughte in hym, as the truely is in Iesu: (as concernyng y conuersacion in tyme past) to lay fro you the olde man, whiche is corrupte, accordyng to y deceauable lustes. ¶

* To be renewed also in the spere of youre mynde, and * to put on that newe man, whiche after God is shapen in ryghteousnesse and true holynesse.

Wherefore, * put awaye lyng, and speake euery man truely vnto his neyghboure, for as muche as we are members one of another. * Be angrye, and synne not: lette not the sunne go

The Epystie

E ye women, submit your selues vnto your owne husbannes, as vnto the Lorde. For the husbanne is the wyues heade, euen as Christ is the heade of the congregacion, and the same is he that ministrerth saluacion vnto the bodye. Therfore, as the congregacion is in subieccion to Christ, lyke wise let the wyues also be in subieccion to theyr husbannes in all thynges. Ye husbannes, loue your wyues, euen as Christ also loued the congregacion, and gaue hym selfe for it, to sanctifye it, and clenched it in the fountayn of water thowhe þ word, to make it vnto hym selfe a gloriouse congregacion, without spot or wrinkle, or any suche thyng: but that it shuld be holy, and without blame. So ought men to loue theyr wyues, as theyr owne bodies. He that loueth his wyfe, loueth hym selfe. For no man euer yet hated his owne fleche: but nurysheth and cherissheth it, euen as þ Lorde doth the congregacion. For we are members of his body, of his fleche, and of his bones.

* For this cause shall a man leaue father and mother, and shall be ioyned vnto his wyfe, & of two shall be made one fleche. This is a great secrete, but I speake of Christ and of the congregacion. Neuerthelesse, do ye so, that euery one loue his wyfe euen as hym selfe, and let þ wyfe reuerence her husbanne.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ Holwe chyliden shulde behaue themselves toward theyr parentes, seruauntes toward theyr maysters. An exhortacion to the spirytual battayle.

A * Hylde, obey you fathers & mothers in the Lorde: for þ is ryght. ¶ Honour thy father and mother, (the same is þ fyrst comaundement in the promes) þ thou maist prosper, & lyue long on earth. Ye fathers moue not your chyliden to wrath: * but brynge them vp thowhe the doctryne & informacion of the Lorde. Ye seruauntes, obeye them þ are your bodely maysters, with feare and trembling, euen with the synghenes of your herte as vnto Christ: not doyng seruyce vnto the eye, as they that go aboute to please men: but as þ seruauntes of Christ, doyng the wyl of God from the hert with good wyl, seruyng the Lorde and not men knowyng this, that whatsoeuer good thyng any man doeth, the same shall he receyue agayn of God, whether he be bonde or fre. And ye maysters, do euen þ same thynges vnto them puttyng away threatenynges. Knowyng, that your master also is in heauen, * nether is there any respect of persone with hym.

* Finally my brethren, be strong thowhe the Lorde and thowhe the power of his might. Put on al þ armour of God, that ye may stand against the assautes of þ deuyl. For we wrestle not against bloude & fleche: but agaynst rule, agaynst power, agaynst worldely rulers, euen gouerners of the darkenesse of this worlde, agaynst spirytual craftines in heauenly thynges. Therfore, take vnto you þ whole armour of God, that ye may be able to resiste in the euell daye, and stande perfecte in all thynges.

¶ Stande therfore, * and your loynes gird with þ truth, haupng on the brest plate of righteounes, and haupng shooes on your fete, that ye maye bee prepared for the Gospell of peace: Aboue al, take to you the thyld of faith wherwyt ye maye quench all the fyre darteres of þ wycked. And take the helmet of saluacion, and the swerde of the spiryte, whiche is the worde of God. ¶ * And praye alwayes with all maner of prayer and supplicacion in the spiryte: and watche thereunto with all instance and supplicacion for all sayntes and for me, & that utteraunce may be geuen vnto me that I may open my mouth frely to utter þ secretes of my Gospel (wherof I am a messenger in bondes) þ therin I maye speake frely, as I oughte to speake. But that ye may also know what condicion I am in, and what I do. Tychicus þ dere brother and faythful minyster in the Lorde, shall shewe you al thynges, whom I haue sent vnto you for the same purpose, þ ye might knowe what case we stande in, and that he myght comforte your hertes. Peace be vnto the brethren & loue with fayth, from God the father & from the Lord Jesus Christ. Grace be with all them which loue our Lorde Jesus Christ sincerely. Amen.

maye be pure, and suche as offende no man vntyll the daye of Chyſte: beyng fylled with the frute of ryghte onlines, whiche commeth by Ieſus Chyiſt vnto þ gloꝝy and prayſe of God. ¶

I woulde ye ſhoulde vnderſtande (bꝛethꝛen) that the thynges whiche happened vnto me, chaunced vnto the greaſe furtheraunce of the Goſpell: So that my bandes in Chyſt, are manifeſte thozowoute all the indgemente halle, and in all other places: In ſo muche that many of the bꝛethꝛen in the Lorde beyng encouraged thozowe my bandes, dare moꝝe boldly ſpeake the woꝝde without feare. Some preach Chyiſt of enuye and ſtryfe, and ſome of Good wyll. The one parte preach Chyiſt of ſtryfe and not ſyncerely, ſuppoſyng to adde moꝝe aduerſytie to my bandes. Agayne the other parte preach of loue becauſe they knowe þ I am let to defend the Goſpell. What then? So that Chyiſt be preached any maner of waye, whether it be by occaſyon, oꝝ of true meanyng, I am glad therof, yee and wyll be glad. For I know, that thys ſhal chaunce to my ſaluacion, * thozowe your prayer and mynſtringe of the ſpyrite of Ieſus Chyiſt accordyng to my expectacion, & hope that in nothyng I ſhal be aſhamed: but that w all boldeneſſe, (as alwayes euen ſo nowe alſo) Chyiſt ſhal be magnified in my body, whether it be thozow lyfe, oꝝ thozow death. For Chyiſt is to me lyfe, and death is to me auantage. ¶ If it chaunce me to lyue in the fleſhe, that thing is to me frutefull for the woꝝke, and what I ſhal choſe I wote not. For I am coſtrayned of thoſe two thynges. * I deſyre to be looſed, and to be with Chyiſt whiche is muche and farre better. Neuertheles, to abyde in þ fleſhe is moꝝe needfull for you. And this am I ſuer of, that I ſhal abyde & contynue wyth you all, for your furtheraunce and ioye of your faith, þ your reioyſyng maye be the moꝝe aboundaunte thozowe Ieſus Chyiſt in me, by my comyng to you agayne.

¶ Only let your conuerſacion be, * as it becommeth the Goſpell of Chyiſt: that whether I come and ſe you, oꝝ els be abſent, I maye yet heare of your condicion, that ye continue in one ſpyrite, and in one ſoule, labouryng as we doo, to mayntayne the ſaythe of the Goſpell, and in nothyng fearyng your aduerſaries, whiche is to them a cauſe of perdyſon, but to you of ſaluacion, and that of God: for vnto you it is geuen for Chyiſte that not onely ye ſhoulde beleue on hym: but alſo that ye ſhoulde ſuffe for hys ſake, hauyng euen ſuche a ſpyghte, as ye ſawe in me, and nowe heare of me.

If there bee therfore any conſolacion in Chyiſt, yf ther be any cofoꝝt of loue yf ther be any felowſhip of þ ſpyrite, yf there be any coſpaſſion & mercy: fulfyll ye my ioy, þ ye be lyke minded, hauyng one loue beyng of one accorde, & of one minde, þ nothyng be done thozowe ſtryfe, oꝝ of vayne gloꝝy but in mekenes of mynde, let euery man eſteeme ano ther better then hym ſelfe. * Loke not ye enery man on hys owne thynges, but euery man on þ thynges that are other mens.

¶ Let the ſame mynde be in you which was in Chyiſt Ieſu: whiche when he was in þ ſhape of God, thought it not robbery to be equall w God: Neuertheleſſe he made hymſelfe of no reputacion, takyng on hym the ſhape of a ſeruaunte, and * became lyke vnto menne, & was founde in hys apparell as a man. He humbled hymſelfe, and became obedient vnto death, eue the death of the croſſe. Wherefore, god alſo hath exalted hym on hye, & geuen hym a name which is aboue all names: that in * the name of Ieſus * euery knee ſhuld bowe, both of thynges in hea uen and thynges in earth and thynges vnder þ earth, and that all tonges ſhuld confeſſe, þ Ieſus Chyiſt is the * Lorde, vnto þ prayſe of god the father. ¶ Wherefore, (my deſely beloved) as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not when I was preſent only, but nowe muche moꝝe in myne abſence: euen ſo woꝝke oute your owne ſaluacion with feare & tremblyng. * For it is God which woꝝketh in you, both the wyl and alſo the dede euen of good wyll.

¶ Do all thynges wythout murmuring, and dyſputyng, that * ye maye bee ſuche as no man can complayne on: and vſayned ſonnes of God without rebuke, in the myddes of a croked and peruerſenacion: among whom ſe that ye ſhyn as lyghtes in the woꝝlde, holdyng faſt þ woꝝde of lyfe, that I may * reioyce in the day of Chyiſt howe that I haue not runne in vayne, neyther haue laboured in vayne.

¶ Yee, and thoughte I be offered vp vpon the C offeryng and a ſacrifice of youre ſaythe: I reioyce and reioyce wyth you all. For the ſame cauſe alſo doo ye reioyce, and reioyce wyth me.

I truſt in the Lorde Ieſus, for to * ſende Timothy ſhortly vnto you, * that I alſo may be of good comfoꝝte, when I knowe what caſe ye ſtande in. For I haue no man þ is ſo lyke mynde to me, whych w ſo pure affectyon wyll care for your matters. For al other ſeke theyꝝ owne and not þ thynges whiche are Ieſus Chyiſtes. Ye knowe þ profe of hym, howe that as a ſonne wyth the father, ſo hath he wyth me beſtowed his ſeruyce in the Goſpell. hym therfore I hope to ſende, aſſone as I knowe howe it wyll go w me. I truſte in the Lorde, that I alſo my ſelfe ſhall come ſhortly.

¶ But I ſuppoſed it neceſſarye to ſende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companyon in labour and felowe ſouldyer, your Apoſtle whiche alſo mynſtreth vnto me at neede. For he longed after you all, and was full of heuynelle, becauſe that ye had hearde ſaye, that he had ben ſycke. And no doute he was ſycke in ſo much þ he was ny vnto death. But God had mercy on hym: and not on hym only but on me alſo, leſt I ſhoulde haue ſozow vpon ſozow. I ſet hym therfore the moꝝe dilygently: þ when ye ſe him, ye may reioiſe again and þ I may be þ leſſe ſozowfull. Receyue hym therfore in the Lorde with Oreouer, (b)rethren reioyce in y^e Lorde. It greueth me not to wyte one thyng often to you. For to you it is a sure thyng. Beware of dogges, beware of euell workers. Beware of dissencion. * For we are circumcysion, whiche serue God^d in the spyrete, and reioyce in Christ Iesu, and haue no confydence in y^e flesch: though I myght also reioyce in the flesch. Yet any other man thynketh that he hath wherof he myght trust in the flesch. I haue more, beyng circumcysed the eyght day of the kyndred of Israel, of the trybe of Ben Jamin * an Ebzue borne of the Ebzues^s as concernyng the lawe, a Pharise: as concernyng feruentnesse, I perlecated by congregacyon as touchyng the ryghteousnesse which is in the lawe, I was vnbekable.

* But the thynges that wer vauntage vnto me, those I counted losse for Christes sake. Yee I thynke all thynges but losse for excellencye of y^e knowlage of Christe Iesu my Lorde. For whome I haue counted all thynges losse, & doo iudge them but vyle, that I may wyne Christ and be founde in hym not hauyng myne owne ryghteousnes of the lawe: but y^e whiche is thow the fayth of Christ: euen the ryghteousnes which cometh of God thowowe fayth: y^e I maye know hym & the vertue of his resurreccion, and feloushypp of his passyons, whyle I am comfortable vnto hym (death) yf by any meanes I might attain vnto the resurreccyon of y^e dead.

¶ Not that I haue attained vnto it alreedy, or y^e I am alreedy perfect: but I folow, yf that I may comprehend y^e, wherin I am comprehended of Christ Iesu. Brethren, I count not my selfe y^e I haue gotte it as yet, but this one thyng I say I forget those thynges which are behynde, & endeavour my selfe vnto those thynges which are before, and (accozdyng to y^e marke appoynted) I preasse to the reward of y^e hye calling of god thowowe Christ Iesu. Let vs therfore as many as be perfect, be thus wyle mynded, and yf ye be otherwyle mynded, God shall open the same also vnto you. Neuertheles vnto that whiche we haue attayned vnto, let vs procede by one rule, that we maye be of one accorde.

* Brethren, be folowers together of me, and looke on them whiche walke euen so, as ye haue vs for an ensample. For many walke (of whome I haue tolde you oftene and nowe tell you wepyng) that they are the enemyes of the crosse of Christe, * whose ende is dampnacyon whose God is theyr bellye and gloze to theyr shame, whiche are worldly mynded. But onre conuersacyon is in heauen from whence we loke for the saueour, euen the Lorde Iesus Christe which shall chaunge our vyle bodye, y^e he may make it lyke vnto hym glorious bodye accozdyng to the workyng wherby he is able also to subdue all thynges vnto hymselfe. ¶

The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ We saluteth certayns of them, & exhorteth them to be of honest conuersacyon, and thanketh them because of the promysyn, that they made for hym beyng in pryson.

Herfore my b)rethre (dearly beloved and longed for) my soy and crowne so conynue in y^e Lorde ye beloved. I pray Euodias, and besech Syntiches, y^e they be of one accorde in the Lorde. Yea, and I beseeche the faythful yoke fellows, helpe the women whiche laboured wyth me in the Gospell, and with Clement also, and with other my labourer fellows * whose names are in the boke of lyfe. ¶ Reioyce in the Lorde alway & agayn I say reioyce. Let your softnes be knowen vnto all men: The Lorde is euen at hande. Be carefull for nothyng: but in all praye and supplicacyon let your peticyons be manifest vnto God with geuyng of thanks. And the peace of God (whiche passeth al vnderstandyng) kepe youre hertes and myndes thowowe Christe Iesu. ¶

¶ Furthermore, brethren, whatsoeuer thynges are true, whatsoeuer thynges are honest, whatsoeuer thynges are iuste, whatsoeuer thynges are pure, whatsoeuer thynges are conuenient, whatsoeuer thynges are of honest report: if ther be any vertue, yf there be any prayse (of leaues) those same haue ye in your mynde, whiche ye haue both learned and receyued, heard also and sene in me: those thynges doo, and the God of peace shalbe with you. I reioyce in the Lorde greatly, that nowe at the laste your care is reupped agayne for me, in that wherein ye were also careful, but yelacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessity. For I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am, * therwyth to be contente. I knowe howe to be lowe, and I knowe howe to excede. Every where & in all thynges I am instructed, both to be full and to be hungry both to haue plenty and to suffer nede I can do all thynges thowowe Christ whiche strengtheneth me. Not withstandyng ye haue well done that ye bare parte wth me in my tribulacyon.

¶ Ye of Philyppos knowe also that in the begynnyng of the Gospell, when I departed from Macedonia, no congregacyon bare parte with me, as concernyng geuyng and receyuyng, but ye onlye. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sent once and after ward agayn vnto my necessity: not that I desyre gyftes but I desyre abouidaunt frute on your parte. Neuertheles I receyued all, and haue plenty. I was euen fylled after that I receyued of Epaphroditus the thynges whiche were sent from you, an odoure of a sweete smel a sacrifice accepted and pleasant to God. My God shall supplye all youre nede thowowe hym glorious ryche by Iesu Christ vnto God and onre father bee prayse for evermore. Amen. Salute all the sayntes in Christe Iesu Jesu. The brethren which are w me, grete you. All s santes salute you, most of all they which are of the Emperours houtholde. The grace of our Lorde Jesu Chryst be with you all. Amen.

The Epistle of saynt

Paule the Apostle vnto the Colossians.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ He geneth thanks vnto God for theyr faythe loue and hope, prayeth for theyr encrease & sheweth how we are the kyngdom of God obtayned by Chryst which is the heade of the congregacyō

¶ And an Apostle of Jesu chryst by the wyll of God, & brother Timotheus.

To the sayntes whiche are at Collosa & brethren s beleue in chryst. * Grace be vnto you and peace frō God our father and from s Lord Jesu Chryst.

¶ We geue thanks to God the father of our lord Jesu chryst * alwaies for you in our pray- ers. For we haue heard of your fayth in Chryst Jesu, and of the loue whiche ye bare to all sayn- tes, for the hopes sake which is layd vp in store for you in heuen, of which hope, ye heard before by the true worde of the Gospell, which is come vnto you: euen as it is into s world, & it is frute full- (and groweth,) as it is also among you from the day in the whiche ye heard of it, and had ex- perience in the grace of God thowow the truth as ye learned of * Epaphra our dere felo we ser- uant, which is for you a faythful minystrer of Chryste which also declared vnto vs your loue whiche ye haue in the sprete.

¶ For thys cause we also euer sence the day we heard of it, haue not ceased to pray for you and to desyre, that ye myght be fulfyllled w the knowlage of hys wyll, in all wysedome and spirytual vnderstandyng, that ye might walke worthy of the Lorde, that in al thynges ye may please * beyng fruteful in all good workes, and encreasyng in the knowlage of God: strenghted wyth all myght, thowowe his glayous power, vnto al pacience and longe sufferyng wyth ioy fulnes, I geuyng thanks vnto s father which made vs mete to be partakers of s enheritaunce of sayntes in lyght.

¶ Whiche hath lynered vs from the power of darckenesse, and hath translated vs into the kyngdō of hys dere sonne * by whome we haue redempcyō thowow his blood, euen the forgeue- nes of synnes: whych is s ymage of the inuisy- ble God fyrst begottē of all creatures. * For by hym were all thynges created, s are in heauen: and that are in earthe visyble & inuisyble, whe- ther they be maiestye or lordeshyppe, ether rule or power. All thynges wer created by hym and for hym, and he is before all thynges, & by hym all thynges haue theyr beyng.

¶ And * he is the head of the bodye, euen of the congregacyon: he is the begynnyng and: fyrste begotten of the dead, s in all thynges he myght haue the preeminēce. For it pleased the father, s in hym shoulde all fulnes dwell, and by hym to * reconcyle all thynges vnto hym selfe, & to set at peace by hym thowowe s bloude of his crosse both thynges in heauen and thynges in earth.

¶ And you * whyche were somtyme farre of and enemyes, because youre myndes wer set in euell workes hath he now yet reconcyled in the bodye of his fleshe thowow death, to make you holpe, and vnblameable, and without faute in his owne syghte, yf ye contynne grounded, and stablyshed in the fayth, and be not moued away frome the hope of the Gospell, whereof ye haue heard, howe that it is preached among all crea- tures which are vnder heauen, wherof I Paule am made a minister. Nowe ioye I * in my suf- ferynges: for you, and fulfyl that whiche is be- hynde of the passyons of Chryst in my fleshe, for hys bodys sake, whych is in the congregacy- on, wherof I am made a minister, accordyng to the ordynaunce of God, whych ordynaunce was geuen me vnto you warde, to fulfyll the word of God, that * mistery which hath ben hid sence s worlde began, and sence the begynnyng of generacyons: but now is opened to his sain- tes, to whome God wolde make knownen what the glayous ryches of this mistery is among s Gentyles, whiche ryches is Chryste in you, the hope of glay, whom we preache, warnyng all men, and teachyng all men in all wysedome, to make all men perfecte in Chryst Jesu. Wherin I also laboure and streyue euen as far forth as his strength worketh in me myghtely.

The. ii. Chapter.

¶ What grete care Paule toke for all congregacyons. He ex- horteth them to be stedfast in Chryst, to beware of false teachers and worldly wysdom, and describeth the false prophetes.

¶ I wolde s ye knewe howe greate care that I haue for you and for them that ar at Laodicia and for as many as haue not sene my persone in s flesh that theyr hertes myghte bee comforted when they are knyt together in loue, and in al ryches of full vnderstādyng, for to knowe s mysterye of God the father and of Chryst, in whome are hyd all the treasures of wysdom & knowlage. * This I saye, lest any man shulde begyle you with entisyng wordes. For though I be absēt in the fleshe, yet am I with you in the sprete, soy eng and beholdyng youre order, and youre sted- fast fayth in Chryst. As ye haue therfore recey- ued Chryst Jesu the Lorde, euen so walke ye in hym, so that ye be rooted and buylte in hym, & stablyshed thowowe faythe, as ye haue learned: and therein bee plenteous with geuyng thanks

¶ Beware, lest any mā spoyle you thowow philosophye and dysceyptefull vanytpe, after the tradicyon of men, & after the ordynaunces of the worde, and not after Chryst. For in hym dwelleth dwelleth all the fulnes of the godhead boldely, and ye are complet in hym: which is the head of all rule and power, by whome also ye are * cꝝ- cumcised w̄ circumcisio which is done without handes, for as muche as ye haue out of the syn- full bodye of the fleshe thozowe circumcisyon that is in Chꝝste, in that * ye are sharped wꝝth hym thozow baptyme, in whome ye are also rꝝ- sen agayne thozow faith, ȳ is wroughte by the operacyon of God, which raised him frō death.

* And ye when ye were dead thozowe synne and thozow the vncꝝcumcisyon of your fleshe hath he quykened with hym, and hath forgeue vs all our trespasses, and hath put out the hande wꝝtyng that was agaynst vs, contay- ned in the lawe wꝝtten, and that hath he taken out of the waye, & hath fastened it to his crosse, and hath * spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly and hath tryum- phed ouer them in his owne persone.

Let no man therfore trouble your conscyence aboute meate and dꝝynke oꝝ for a pece of an ho- ly day, oꝝ of the newe mone, oꝝ of the Sabboth daies, * which ar shadowes of thynges to come but the bodye is in Chꝝste. Let no man make you shoote at a wꝝonge marke by the humble- nes and holynes of aungels, in f̄thynges which he neuer sawe, beyng causeles pꝝft vp wꝝth his fleshye mynde, and holdeth not the heade, wher of all the bodye by ioyntes and couples recey- ueth noꝝ pꝝment and is knyt together, and en- creaseth wꝝth the encreasyng that commeth of God. Wherfore yf ye be deade wꝝth Chꝝste from the * oꝝdynaunces of the worlde, why as thoughe ye yet lyued in the worlde, are ye led wꝝth tradicyons? Touche not, taste not, han- dell not: whiche all pꝝp̄ the thozowe the verpe abuse, after the commaundementes and doctri- nes of men. Whiche thynges out wardlye haue the simyltude of the wꝝldome by superstycy- on and humblenes of mynde, and by hurting of the body, and in that they do the fleshe no woꝝ- thyp vnto the nede therof.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ We putte them in remembraunce of the spirytual resurrection, to lay asyde all maner of corrupte liuyng, to be fruteful in al godlynes and vertue, and sheweth all degrees theyꝝ dꝝtye.

If ye bee then rꝝsen agayne wꝝth Chꝝst seke those thynges whyche are aboue, wher Chꝝst lytteth * on the rꝝght hande of God. Set your affectyon on heuenly thynges, and not on earthlye thynges. For ye are deade, and poure lyfe is hyd wꝝth Chꝝst in God. When so- euer Chꝝst (which is our lyfe) shall shewe hym selfe, then shall ye also appere wꝝth hym in glo- ry. * Mortifye therfore your earthy mēbers: fornicacyon, vncleannes, vnnatural lust, euil cō- cupiscence, and couetousnes, which is woꝝthyp- pyng of ydols: for which thinges sake ȳ wꝝrath of God vseth to come on the disobedyente chꝝl- dꝝen * among whome ye walked somtime, whē ye lyued in them.

But now put ye also a way frō you all suche thynges: wꝝrath, fearnes, maliciousnes, cursed speakyng fylthy communicacion out of poure mouth. Lye not one to another, seynge that ye haue put of the olde man wꝝth hys woꝝkes, and haue * put on the newe mā whiche is renued in- to the knowlage and ymage of hym that made hym, * where is nether Gent yll noꝝ Jewe, cꝝ- cumcisyon noꝝ vncircumcisyon, Barbarous, oꝝ Sythian, bond oꝝ fre but Chꝝst is al in al thynges. * Therfore as electe of God, holy and be- loued put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humble- nes of mynde, mekenes, long sufferyng for bea- ryng one another, and forgeuyng one another if any haue a quarel agaynst another: as Chꝝst forgaue you, euen so do ye. Aboue all these thin- ges put on * loue which is the bonde of perfect- nes. And the peace of God rule in your hertesto the whiche peace ye are called in one body. And se that ye be thankful. Let the woꝝde of Chꝝst dwell in you plenteously wꝝth all wꝝldome.

Teach and exhorte your owne selues * in Psal- mes and himnes, and spirytual songes synging wꝝth grace in your hertes to the Lorde. And * what soeuer ye do (in woꝝde oꝝ dede) doo all in the name of the Lorde Jesu, geuyng thanks to God the father by hym. ¶

* Ye wyues, submytte poure selues vnto poure owne husbendes, as it is comelye in the Lorde: Ye husbendes, loue your wyues and be not bitter vnto them. * Ye chꝝldꝝen, obey your fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the Lorde. Ye fathers, pꝝ- uoke not your chꝝldꝝen * (to anger,) lest they be of a desperate mynde. * Ye seruauntes be obedyē vnto them that are poure bodily masters in all thynges: not wꝝth eye serupce as men pleasers but in singlenes of hert fearing God. And what soeuer ye do, do it hertelye, as thoughe ye dyd it to the Lorde, and not vnto men: knowyng, that of the Lorde ye shall receyue the reward of inhe- rytaunce, for ye serue the Lorde Chꝝst. But he ȳ doth synne, shall receyue for his synne. * Ney- ther is there any respect of persons * (with God.)

The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ We exhorte them to be seruent in prayer, to walke wꝝsely vnto them ȳ as not yet come to ȳ true knowlage of Chꝝst: & salueth them. ¶ Masters do vnto poure seruauntes ȳ whiche is iuste and equal knowyng that ye also haue a master in heauen.

* Continue in prayer, and watch in the same wꝝth thanks geuyng, pꝝayng also for vs, * that God maye open vnto vs the doꝝe of vterauce, that we may speake the mystery of Chꝝst (wherfore I am also in bondes) that I maye vter it, as it becommeth me to speake. * Walke wꝝsely toward them ȳ are without, & lose no oportunte. Let your spech be alwayes wel sauored and powdꝝed wꝝ salt, that ye may know, how ye ought to answer euery man.

Of all my busyness shall ye be certifyed by Titicus, the beloued bꝝother & faythfull my- nyster & felowe seruaunt in the Lorde, whom I haue sente vnto you for the same purpose ȳ he myght knowe what ye doo and that he myght comforte poure hertes wꝝth one Onesimus a faythfull and beloued bꝝother: whiche is one of you you. They shall shew you of all thinges, which are adoyng here. * Aristarcus my prison fellow saluteth you, and: Marcus Barnabas sytters sonne touchyng whome, ye receyued comaundementes. * He come vnto you, receyue hym: and Jesus whiche is called Justus, which are of the circumcisiō. These only are my worke felowes vnto the kingdom of God which haue ben vnto my consolacyon. * Epaphras the seruaunte of Christ. (which is one of you) saluteth you, & alwaies laboureth feruently for you in prayers, & ye may stande perfect and full, in all the wyll of God. For I beare hym record, that he hath a feruent mynd for you and them that are of Laodi-cia and them that are of hierapolis. Dere Lucas the physician greeteth you, & * Demas. Salute the brethren which are of Laodicia, and salute Nymphas, and y congregacyon, which is in his house. And whē the Eppistle is red of you make that it be red also in the congregacyon of the Laodicyans: and that ye lykewyle rede the Eppistle of Laodicia. And saye to Archippus: take hede to the offyce y thou hast receyued in y Lorde that thou fulfyllit. The salutacyon by y hand of me Paul: remēbre my bondes the grace (of our Lorde Jesu Christ) be with you. Amen.

The fyrste Epistle of S. Paule the Apostle vnto the Thessalonians.

The fyrst Chapter.

He thanketh God for them that they are so stedfast in faith & good workes, & receyue the Gospel with such earnestnes.

Paul and Syluanus and Ty-mothe. Vnto the congrega-cyon of y Thessalonians, in god the father, and in the Lord Jesus Christe.

* Grace bee vnto you, and peace frome God oure father, and fro y Lord Jesus Christe

We geue God thanks: & alwayes for you all, makynge mencyon of you in oure prayers without ceasyng, and call you to remēbraunce because of the worke of your fayth, and labour in * lone, and because ye haue continued in the hope of oure Lorde Jesus Christe, in y syghte of God oure father. * We knowe brethren, (beloued of God) howe that ye are electe. For oure Gospel came not vnto you by * worde on-lye, but also by power, and by the holy ghoſte, and by muche certayntye, as * ye knowe, after what maner we behaued our selues among you for youre sakes. * And ye became folowers of vs and of the Lorde, receyuyng the worde wyth muche affliccyon wyth ioye of the holye ghoſte: so that ye were an ensample to all that beleue in Macedonia & Achaia. For from you sounded out the worde of the Lord, not in Macedonia and in Achaia onely: but youre faythe also whyche ye haue vnto God, spred her selfe abrode in all quarters, so that it nedeth not vs to speake any thyng at all. For they theselues shew of you what maner of entryng in, we had vnto you & how ye turned to God fro ymages, for to serue the liuyng and true God, and for to looke for yps sonne * from heauen, whome he rapſed fro death: Euen Jesus, whiche deliuereth vs from y the wrath to come.

The .ii. Chapter.

He putteth them in mynde of the godly conuerſacyon that he led among them (when he preached the Gospel vnto them) thanketh God that they receyue his worde so fructfully: and excuſeth his absence.

Re ye youre selues (* brethren) knowe of oure entraunce in vnto you, howe that it was not in vayne but euen after that we had suffered before, and were * shamefully entreted at Philippos (as ye knowe) then were we holde in our God, to speake vnto you the Gos-pell of God, in * much stryung. For our exhor-tacyon was not to bypnyge you to erreure, nor yet to vncleannes nether was it wyth gyle: but as we were allowed of God, y the Gospel shuld be commytted vnto vs: euen so we speake, not as they that * please men, but God tryeth oure hertes. Nether led we our conuerſacyon at any tyme wyth flatterynge wordes, as ye knowe: nether by occasyon of couetousnes. * God is recorde: nether sought we prayſe of men nether of you, nor yet of any other, when we myght haue bene in auctorytie, as y Apostles of Christ, but we were tender among you, euen as a nourſe cherisheth her chyldren, so were we affectioned toward you, oure good wyll was to haue delte vnto you, not y Gospel of God onely: but also our owne soules because ye we dere vnto vs.

* Ye remēbre brethren our labour, and tra-uayle. * For we laboured day & nyght because we woulde not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you the Gospel of God. Ye are wytnesses, & so is God, howe holpy and in-stely & vnblymeably we behaued oure selues among you that beleued as ye knowe, how that we bare suche affeccyon vnto every one of you, as a father doth vnto his chyldren, exhortyng cofortyng, and besechyng you, that ye woulde walke worthy of God, whiche hath called you vnto his kyngdome and glorie.

For this cause thanke we God also wyth oute ceasyng, because that when ye receyued of vs the worde (wherwith ye learned to know God) ye receyued it not as the woorde of man: but euen as it was in dede, the woorde of God, which worketh also in you that beleue.

For ye brethren became folowers of the congregacyons of God: whyche in Jewrye are in Christe Jesu: for ye haue suffred lyke thynges of youre kynsmen, as we oure selues haue suffered of the Jewes. Whyche as they kylled the Lorde Jesus, and they owne Prophetes, euen so haue they persecuted vs, and God they Rom. xxi. c. synnes alway. For the wrath of God is come on them, even to the uttermoste. For as muche brethren as we are kept from you for a season, as concernynge the bodely presence (but not in the herte) we enforced the more to se you personally with great desyre. And therfore we wold haue come vnto you I Paul ones and agayne: 1. Cor. i. c. but Satan wythstode vs: for what is our hope of ioye or crowne of reioysynge? and. viii. d. are nat ye yet in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his comynge? yes, ye are our glory and ioye.

Wherfore sence we could no leger for beare, we tought it good to remaine Athens alone, and sent Timothe our brother and minister of God & the helper forth of oure labour in þ Gospel of Christ, to stablysh you, & to comfort you concernynge our faith, that no man shulde be moued in these afflictions. For ye your selues knowe, that we are euen appoynted therunto. For when we were with you, we tolde you before, that we shulde suffre tribulacyon, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. For this cause when I coude no lenger forbeare, I sent that I might haue knowlage of your faith, lest by some meanes the tempter had tempted you, and lest our labour had ben bestowed in vayne.

But now lately, when Timothe came from you vnto vs, and declared to vs youre faythe and youre loue, and howe that ye haue good remembraunce of vs alwayes, desyrynge to se vs, as we also desyre to se you: Therfore brethren we receyued consolacyon by you, in all our aduersyte and necessity, throughe your faith. For nowe are we al yue yf ye stande stedfaste in the Lord. For what thanks can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer all the ioye, that we ioye for your sakes before oure God: prayynge nyght & daye excedyngly, that we myghte se you presently, and myghte fulfyll the thynges whiche are lackyng vnto your fayth.

God hymselfe oure father, and our Lord Jesus Christ shall guyde oure iourney vnto you: the Lord also shal encrease you and make you flowe ouer in loue one toward another and towarde all men, euen as we do toward you that we maye make youre hartes stable and vnblymeable, in holynesse before God oure father, at the comynge of oure Lord Jesus Christ with all saynctes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth them to stedfastnesse, to kepe them selues from synne and vncleynly commynge, to loue one another reioysynge ydelnes, and speaketh of the resurrection.

Furthermore, we beseech you (brethren) and exhorthe you by the Lord Jesus, that ye encrease more and more: euen as ye haue receiued of vs, howe ye ought to walke and please God. For ye knowe what commaundementes we gaue you by our Lord Jesus Christ. For this is the wyl of God: euen youre holynesse, that ye should abstayne from fornicacion, & that every one of you shuld knowe howe to kepe his vessel in holynesse and honoure, and not in the luste of concupiscence: as do the heathen whiche knowe not God, that no man oppresse and defraude his brother in bargainynge: because that the Lord is the auenger of all such thynges, as we tolde you before, and testified. For God hath not called vs vnto cleynes but vnto holynesse. For he therfore that despyseth despyseth not man, but God which hath sent his holy sprete among you.

¶ But as touchynge brotherlye loue, ye nedede not, that I wyte vnto you. For ye are taught of God to loue one another. Yet & that thyng verely ye do vnto all the brethren whiche are in al Macedonia. We beseech you brethren, that ye encrease more and more, & that ye study to be quiet, & to medle with your owne busynesse and to worke wyth your owne handes, as we comaunded you that ye maye behaue youre selues honestly toward them that are wythout: & that nothyng be lackyng vnto you.

¶ I wolde not brethren that ye shulde be ignorant concerning them whiche are fallen asleepe, that ye sorowe not as other doo, whyche haue no hope. For yf we beleue, þ Jesus dyed, and rose agayn, euen so the also whiche slepe by Jesus, wyll God byng agayn with hym. For this say we vnto you in the worde of the Lord that we whiche shall lyue, and shall remain in the comynge of the Lord, shal not come per they whiche slepe. For the Lord hymself shal descend from heauen with a shoute and the voyce of the Archangel and trompe of God. And þ dead in Christ shal aryse fyrst: then we whiche shall lyue (eue we whiche shal remain) shalbe caught vp wyth theim also in the cloudes, to mete the Lord in the ayer. And so shall we euer be wyth the Lord. Therfore, comfort youre selues one another with these wordes.

The. v. Chapter.

¶ He enfourmeth them of the daye of dome, and comynge of the Lord, exhorteth them to watche: and to regard suche as preache Gods worde among them.

Finally, of the tymes and seasons (brethren) it is no neede that I wyte vnto you: for ye your selues knowe perfectly, that the daye of the Lord shal come euen as a thefe in the nyght. For whiche they shal say, peace & all thynges are safe, then shal sudden destruction come vpon them (as so rowe cometh vpon a woman traualynge with chylde) & they shal not escape. But ye brethren are not in darkenes, þ that daye shulde come on you as a thefe. Ye are all chyldren of lycht and the chyldren of the daye. We are not of the nyght nether of darkenes.

¶ Therfore lette vs not slepe as doo other: but let vs watche, and be sober. For they that slepe, slepe in the nyghte, and they þe drunken are drunken in the nyght. But let vs which are of the day, be sober, & armed wth the best plate of fayth & loue, and wth hope of saluacyon for an helmet. For god hath not appoynted vs to prouoke wrath vnto our selues, but to obtaine saluacyon by by the name of our Lord Iesu Christ * whiche dyed for vs: that whether we wake or slepe, we shulde lyue together wyth hym.

¶ Therfore, comforte your selues together and edifye every one another, even as ye do. ¶ We beseeche you brethren, that ye knowe the * whiche labour amōge you & haue the ouerspyght of you in the Lord, and geue you exhortacion, that ye haue them in hye reputacyon thoroowe loue, for there workes sake, and be at peace wyth them.

¶ We desyre you (brethren) warne them that are unruly, comforte the feble mynded, lyfte vp the weake, be pacient towarde all men. * Se ye none recompence euel for euel vnto any mā: but euer folowe that whiche is good, both amōge your selues, & to al men. * Reioyce euer. * Praye continually. In all thynges geue thanks. For this is the wyl of God thoroowe Christ Iesu towarde you. Quēche not the spret. * Despyse not prophesynges. Examen all thynges, kepe that whiche is good. Abstayne from all euell apperance. The verbe God of peace sanctifye you thoroowe out. And I praye God that youre hole sprete, and soule and body, maye be preserved: so that in nothyng ye maye be blamed in the commynge of our Lord Iesus Christ.

* Faithful is he which called you, which wyl also do it. Brethren, praye for vs. * Greete al þ brethren wyth an holpe kyss. I charge you in the Lord, that this Epistle be rede vnto the holpe brethren. * The grace of the Lord Iesus Christ be wyth you. Amen.

¶ The secōde Epistle of saynct Paule the Apostle to the Thessalonians.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

¶ We thanketh God for thynges sayth and loue, and prayeth for the encrease of the same.

Paul and Syluanus and Timotheus. Vnto the congregacyon of the Thessalonians in God our father, and in the Lord Iesus Christ. * Grace be vnto you and peace from God our father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ.

We are bounde to * thanke God alwayes for you brethren (as it is mete) because þ your faith groweth excedyngly, & every one of you swymeth in loue towarde another betwene your selues, so that we oure selues boaste of you in the congregacions of God, ouer your pacience and faith in al poure persecucions and trybulacions, that ye suffre, whiche is a token of the ryghteous iudgement of God, that ye are counted worthy of the kyngdō of God, for whiche ye also suffre. It is verely a ryghteous thinge wyth God that he recōpence tribulacion to them þ trouble you: & to you which are troubled, rest wyth vs, when the Lord Iesus shal shewe hym selfe fro heauen wyth þ Angels of his power, wyth flaming fyre whiche shal rendre vengeance vnto them that knowe not God, * and that obeye not the Gospel of our Lord Iesus Christ, * whiche shal be punyshed wyth everlastyng damnacyō, from þ presence of the Lord, and from the glozy of his power, * when he shal come to be glorified in his sayntes, & to become maruelous in all them that beleue: because our testimonye that we had to you, was belened euen the same day. * Therfore, also we praye alwayes for you, þ our God wyl make you worthy of this calling and full fyll all delectacyon of goodnes and the workes of faith, wyth power: that the name of our Lord Iesus Christ maye be glorified by you, and ye by hym accordyng to the grace of our God, and of the Lord Iesus Christ.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ We sheweth them, that the daye of the Lord shal not come tyl the departyng from the sayth come fyrst, and therfore he exhorteth them not to be dysceayued but to stande stedfast in the thynges that he hath taught them.

We beseech you (brethren) by the commynge of our Lord Iesu Christ, & in that we shal assemble vnto him that ye be not sodenly moued from youre mynde, nor be troubled, neyther by sprete, neyther by wordes, nor yet by letter, which shuld seme to come fro vs, as though the daye of Christ were at hande. Let no man deceaue you by any meanes, for the Lord shal not come except ther come * a departyng fyrst, and that þ synfull man be opened, the sonne of perdyccion, whiche is an aduersarye: & is exalted aboue all, that is called God, or that is worshipped: so that he doth syt * in the temple of God, boastyng hym selfe to be God.

Remember ye not, that whē I was yet wyth you, I tolde you these thynges: And now ye knowe what withholdeth: euen that he myght be vttered at this tyme. * For þ mystery of þ iniquitye doth already worke: tyl he which nowe onely letteth, be taken oute of the waye. And then shal that wycked be vttered, * whom the Lord shal consume wyth the sprete of his mouth, and shal destrope wyth the apperance of his commynge: ¶ euen hym whole commynge is after the workyng of Satan, wyth all lyenge power * sygnes and wonders and with al deceauablenes of vnryghteousnesse, amōge them that perishe: because they receaued not the loue of the truth, that they myght be saued. * And therfore God shal sende them stronge delusion, that they shulde beleue lyes: that all they myght be damned: which beleued not the truth: but had pleasure in vnryghteousnes.

But we are bounde to geue thanks alwaye to God for you (brethren beloued of the Lord) for because that God hath from the begynnynge chosen you to saluacyon, thoroowe sanctifyenge of the sprete, and thoroowe beleuyng of þ truethe, wherunto he called you by oure Gospel to obtayne the glozye of our Lord Iesu Christ.

Lozde Iesu Chyſt hym ſelfe, and God and oure father (whych hath loued vs, and hath geue vs euerlaſtyng conſolacyon, and good hope thow we grace) conſorte your hertes and ſtablyſhe you in all good ſapenge and doyng.

The .iii. Chapter.

He deſpyeth them to praye for hym, that the Goſpel maye proſpere, and geueth the warninge to reſpoue the poel, & if they wyl not labour with theſe daies, & they ſhall not eate.

Athermore, brethren praye ye for vs, * the worde of God maye haue paſſage, and be gloryfied, as it is alſo with you, and we may be deliuered from vnreaſonable & fromwarde men. For all men haue not fayth: but the Lozde is faythfull, whych ſhall ſtablyſhe you, & preferue you fro euell. We haue conſydence thow we the Lozde to your warde, that ye both do, & wyl do the thynges whych we commaunde you. And the Lozde gypde poure hertes to the loue of God and to the pacient waytyng for Chyſt.

We requyre you brethren by the name of oure Lozde Iesu Chyſt * ye withdraue poure ſelues from euery brother, & behaue hym ſelfe in ordynatly, and not after the inſtitutio, whych he receaued of vs. For ye poure ſelues knowe, howe ye oughte to folowe vs. For we behaue not our ſelues in ordynatly amonge you. Reſpether toke we bread of any man for nought: but wrought with labour & ſweate nyght & daye because we wolde not be chargeable to anye of you: not but if we had aucthoryte: but to make oure ſelues an enſample vnto you to folowe vs.

For when we were wyth you, theſe we warned you of, that if any wolde not worke, the ſame ſhulde not eate.

For we haue hearde ſaye, that there are ſome whiche walke amonge you in ordynatly, workinge at not all, but beyng buſy bodies. Theſe that are ſuche, we commaunde and exhorte, by oure Lozde Iesu Chyſt, that they worke wyth quyetnes, & eate they owne breade: * Brethren be not ye werpe in well doyng.

Obey not our ſapenge: ſende vs worde of hym by a letter: and haue no company wyth hym, that he may be aſhamed: And count hym not as an enemy but warne hym as a brother.

The verye Lozde of peace geue you peace alwayes, by al meanes. The Lozde be wyth you al. The ſalutacyon of me Paule wyth myne owne hande. Theſe is the token in all Epyſtles. So I wyryte. * The grace of oure Lozde Iesus Chyſte be wyth you all. Amen.

The fyfste Epistle of Saynet Paule vnto Tymothe.

The fyfth Chapter.

He exhorteſt Tymothe to waite vpon hym oſpce: namely, to ſe if nothyng be taught but Gods word. He ſheweth alſo wherfore the lawe is good, & telleth if Chyſte Iesus came in to the worlde to ſaue ſynners.

Aul an Apoſtle of Iesus Chyſte by the commiſſio of God our ſauoure and Lozde Iesus Chyſte, * which is our hope. Vnto Tymothe bys natural ſonne in the fayth.

* Grace, mercy, and peace fro God our father, and from the Lozde Iesus Chyſt our Lozde.

As I beſought the to abyde ſtill at Epheſus (when I departed into * Macedonia) eue ſo do, that thou commaunde ſome, that they folowe no ſtraunge doctryne, neyther geue hede * to fables and endles genealogyes, whych brede doubtſes moze then Godly edyfyng whych is by faythe: for the ende of the commaundemente is * loue oute of a pure harte, and of a good conſcience, and of fayth vnſpained: from the whych thynges, becauſe ſome haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne tangelyng, becauſe they wolde be doctours of ſlawe & yet vnderſtad not what they ſpeake, neyther wherof they aſſume.

We knowe, that the lawe is good, if a man vſe it lawfully: knowyng theſe, * howe the lawe is not geuen vnto a ryghteous man, but vnto the vnyghteous and dyſobediente, to the vngodly and to ſynners, to vnholp and vncleane: to murderers of fathers, & murderers of mothers, to manſlayers, to * whozemongers: to them that deſpyle them ſelues with mankynde: to manſelars: to lyars: to perſured, and if ther be any other thyng that is contrary to the whole ſome doctryne, accorpyng to the Goſpell of the glory of the bleſſed God, whych Goſpell is comyted vnto me.

And I thanke Chyſt Iesus our Lozde, whych hath made me ſtrong: for he counted me true, & put me in oſpce, where as befoze I was a blaſphemer, * and a perſecuter, and a tyrant. But yet I obtayned mercy, becauſe I dyd it ignorantly thow we vnbefe. Neuertheles, if grace of our Lozde was excedyng aboundaunt wyth fayth and loue, which is in Chyſt Iesu.

This is a true ſapenge (and by all meanes worthy to be receaued of vs) that Chyſt Iesus came into the worlde, to ſaue ſynners, of whome I am chefe. Notwithſtandynge for this cauſe ob- tayne I mercy, that Iesus Chyſt ſhulde fyſte ſhewe on me all longe pacyence, to declare an enſample vnto the whych ſhulde beleue on hym vnto eternall lyfe. So then vnto God, kyng euerlaſtyng, immortal, * inuifible, wyle onely, be honoure and prayſe for euer and euer. Amen.

This commaundemente comypt I vnto the ſonne Tymotheus accorpyng to the prophesy, which in tyme paſt were prophelyed of the, if thou in them ſhuldeſt fyght a good fyght, hauyng fayth & good conſcience: which ſome haue put awaye from them, and as cōcernyng fayth haue made hypocryſack. Of whoſe nombre is * Hy- meneus and * Alexander, whome I haue deli- uered vnto Sathan, that they maye learne not to blaſpheme.

The .ii. Chapter.

He exhorteſt to praye for all men. He wyl not haue men to be ouer coſtly appareled, nor to teache in the congregacion, but to be in ſcylence, and to obeye theyr huſbandes.

Exhorte therfore, that aboue al thynges, prayers, ſupplacacions, interceſſions, and geuyng of thankes be hadde for all men: * for kynges, and for and for all that are in authoritie that we may lyne a quete & peaceable lyfe, wth all Godlynes and honestie. For it is good and accepted in the syght of God our saviour, which wyl haue all me to be saued, and to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth. For there is * one God, and one mediatour, betwene God and man, euen the man Christ Iesus, which gaue hym selfe a ransome for all men, & it shulde be testyfyed at hys tyme, * wherunto I am ordayned a preacher & an Apostle. I tel the truth in Christ and lye not: heynge the teacher of the Gentyles wth fayth and veritie. R

W I wyl therfore that the men * praye euerye where, lyfing v^o pure hādes wthout wrath, or doubtyng. Lyke wyl also the women, that they araye them selues in comlye apparell wth shamefastnes and dyscrete behauioure, not v^o brydded heare, ether golde or pearles, or costly araye: but as becūmeth women, & p^ofesse godlynesse thozowe good workes. * Let the womā learne in sylence wth al subiectiō. But I suffre not a woman to teache, nether to vsurpe authoryte ouer the man: but to be in sc^olce. For Adā was fyrste fourmed, & the Eue. Adam also was not deceaued, but the womā was deceaued, and was subdued to the transgression. Not wthstanding thozowe bearyng of chyldren she shalbe saued, yf they contynue in fayth and loue, and holynes, wth dyscrecyon.

The. iiii. Chapter.

What maner of man a byshoppe or preast ought to be. The properties also requyred in a deacon or mynister.

A Byshop is a true sayenge: yf a man desyre the offyce of a Byshoppe, he desyreth an honeste worke. A Byshop therfore must be blameles, the husbāde of one wyfe, dysp^ogent, sober, dyscrete, a keper of hospytalite: apte to teache: not geuē to ouer much wyne, no fyghter, not greedy of fylthy lucre: but gentell, abhoryng fyghtyng, abhoryng conetousnes, one that ruleth well hys owne house, one that hath chyldren in subiection wth al reuerence. For yf a man can not rule hys owne house, howe shal he care for the congregaciō of God? He maye not be a yōge scoler, lest he swel and fall into the iudgemente of the euell speaker. He must also haue a good repute of them which are wthout, lest he fall into rebuke, and snare of the euell speaker.

L yke wyl must the mynisters be * honeste not double tonged, not geuen vnto muche wyne nether greedy of fylthy lucre: but holdyng & mysterpe of the fayth wth a pure consyence. And let them fyrst be proued, & then let the mynister so, that no man be able to reprove them.

Euen so must their wyues be honest, not euell speakers: but sober and faythfull in al thynges. Let the deacons be the husbādes of one wyfe, and suche as rule theyr chyldren well, and theyr owne householdes. For * they that mynister wel get them selues a good degre & great lyberty in the fayth, whych is in Christ Iesu.

These thynges wyte I vnto the trustyng to come shortly vnto the: but and yf I tarpe longe that then thou mayst yet haue knowledge, how thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in the house of God, whych is the congregacion of the lyuynge God, the pylle & grounde of truthe. And wthout doubte great is that mystery of Godlynes: * God was shewed in the flesh, was iustifyed in the sp^orite, was sene amonge the aungels, was preached vnto the Gentyles, was beleued on in the worlde, and receaued v^o in glozpe.

The. iii. Chapter.

The prophesie of the latter dayes, and exhorteth Timothee to be dysp^ogent in readynge of the holye scripture.

The sp^orite speaketh evidently, that * in the latter tymes some shall * departe from the fayth, & shall geue hede vnto sp^orites of erreure, and deuelyp the doctrynes of the whych speake false thozowe p^ocrispe, & haue theyr consyence marked wth an hoot p^oon, for byddynge to marie, and commaunding to abstayne frō meates: whych God hath created to be receaued wth geuyng thankes, of them whych beleue, & knowe the trueth. For * all the creatures of God are good, and no thyng to be refused, yf it be receaued wth thankes geuyng. For it is sanctified by the worde of God and prayer. Yf thou put the b^othren in remembraunce of these thynges thou shalt be a good mynister of Iesu Christ: whych hast bene noryshed v^o in the wordes of the saythe and of good doctryne, whych thou halte contynuallye folowed. But * cast awaye vngodlye and olde wyues fables.

Exercyse thy selfe rather vnto godlynes. For * bodely exercise profyteth lytell: but godlynes is profytable vnto al thynges, as a thyng whiche hath the promyses of the lyfe that is nowe, and of the lyfe to come. Thys is a sure sayenge, and by all meanes worthy to be allowed. For therfore we both labour and suffre rebuke, because we haue a stedfast hope in the lyuynge God, whych is the saueoure of all men, specyallye of those that beleue. Such thynges commaunde & teache. * Let no man despyse thy youthe: but be vnto them that beleue, an ensample, in word, in conuersaciō, in loue, in sp^orite, in faith, in purenes.

Tyll I come, geue attendaunce to readynge, to exhortacion, to doctryne. Despyse not y^ogylte that is in the, which was geuen the thozowe prophesye, wth the layeng * on of handes by Paul the choroite of presthode. These thynges exercise, & geue thy selfe vnto them, & it maye be sene howe thou profyttest in all thynges. Take hede vnto thy selfe, and vnto learnyng, & continue therin. For yf thou shalt so do, thou shalt saue thy selfe, and them that heare the.

The. v. Chapter.

Rebuke not an elder, rygorously: but exhorthe hym as a father: the yonger men, as b^othren: the elder women, as mothers: the yonger as sisters, wth al purenes. Honour wyddowes, whych are true wyddowes. Yf any wyddowes haue chyldren or newewes, let the leaue fyrst to rule theyr owne houses

The. vi. Chapter.

The deute of seruantes toward theyr masters. Agaynst such as are not satisfied wth the worde of God. Agaynst cohetousnes. A good lesson for rych men.

A Et as many * seruantes as are vnder the pocke, counte theyr masters worthy of all honoure, that the name of God & hys doctryne be not euell spoken of. Se that they whych haue beleuynge masters, despyse them not because they are brethē: vnt rather do seruyce, for as muche as they are beleuynge & beloued & partakers of the benefyte.

These thynges teache & exhorde. * Yf any mā folowe other doctrine, and enclyne not vnto the wholsome wordes of our Lorde Iesu Chyfte, & to the doctryne whych is accordeynge to godly-nes, he is puffed vp, and knoweth nothyng: but wasteth hys byaynes about questions * & stryfe of wordes, wherof sprynge enuye, stryfe, ralyges, euell surmysynges, bayne dysputacyon of men that haue corrupte myndes, and that * are robbed of the trueth: whiche thynke, that lucre is godlynes. Fro them that are suche separate thy selfe. Godlynes is great ryches, * yf a mā be co-tent wth that he hath. * For we broughte nothyng into the worlde, neyther maye we carpe any thyng out.

But when we haue foode and raymente we must therwith be content. They that wilbe rich fall into temptacyon & snares (of the deuell) and into manye foolyshe & nopsome lustes, whiche drawe men into perdicio, & destruction. For couetousnes of money is the rote of al euil: whiche whyle some lusted after they erred from þ sayth and tangled them selues wth many sorowes.
 But thou man of God, sipe suche thynges. Fo-lowe ryghteousnes, godlynes, sayth, loue, pacyence, meakenes. Fyght the good fyght of sayth.
 Laye hande on eternal lyfe, whereunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good professyon before many wytnesses.

I geue the charge in þ syght of God, * whiche quykkeneth al thynges, and before Iesu Chyfte (whiche vnder Pontus Pilate witnessed a good wytnessynge) that thou kepe the commaunde-ment, and be wythout spotte and vnrebukeable vntyl the appearing of our Lorde Iesus Chyft
 * whych appearynge (in his tyme) he shall spewe, that is blessed and myghty onely, kyng of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes, whiche onely hath immortalte, and dwelleth in the lyght that no man can attayne: * whom no man hath sene, nether can se, vnto whom be honoure and rule euer lastynge. Amen.

Charge them which are rych in thys worlde that they be not hve minded, nor * trust in vncertayne ryches, but in the lyuyng God (whiche geueth vs aboundantlye all thynges to enioye the) that they do good workes: that they be rea-dye to geue and glad to dystribute: layenge by in stoor for them selues a good foundacyon a-gaynst the tyme to come, that they maye obtaine eternall lyfe.

Timothe, saue that whiche is geuen the to kepe, and auoyde vngodly vanities of voyces and opposycions of scyence, falslye so called:
 whych scyence whyle some professed they erred as concernynge the sayth.

Grace be with the.

Amen.

The

The seconde Epistle

of the Apostle sayncte Paule vnto Timothee.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paul exhorteth Timothee to steadfastnes and pacyente in persecucion, and to continue in the doctrine that he had taught hym. A commendacyon of Onesiphorus.

Paul an Apostle of Iesus Christ by the wyll of God, accordynge to the promes of lyfe, whych is in Christe Jesu. To Tymothee hys beloued sonne. Grace, mercy, and peace, fro God the father, & from Iesu Christ our Lorde.

I thanke God, *whom I serue from myne elders wpth pure consyence, & wpthout any creasyng I make mencion of the in my prayers night and daye, desyring to se the, myndfull of thy tea-res: so that I am fylled wpth ioye, whē I call to remembraunce the vnsayned fayth that is in y, whych dwelt fyrst in thy graundemother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice: & I am assured that it dwelleth in the also.

Wherfore I warne the that thou stire vp the gyst of God which is in the, *by the putting on of my handes. *For God hath not geuen to vs y spete of feare: but of power, and of loue, and of sobrenes. *Be not thou therfore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nether be ashamed of me *whych am hys prisoner: but suffre thou aduersyte w the Gospel, accordynge to the power of God, whych *saued vs, & called vs wpth an holy callng, not accordng to our dedes, but accor-dyng to hys owne purpose & grace: which was geue vs thowwe Christ Iesu (before the world begane) but is now declared openly by the appearynge of our sauoure Iesu Christ, *whiche hath put a way death, & hath broughte lyfe and immortalte vnto lpghte thowwe the Gospel:
*wherunto I am appoynted a preacher & Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentyles: for the which cause I also suffre these thynge: Neuerthelesse, I am not ashamed. For I knowe and am sure, that he (in whome I haue put my truste) is able to kepe that which I haue comytted to his kepyng agaynst that daye.

*Se that y haue the ensample of the holsome wordes, which y hast hearde of me with fayth & loue that is in Christe Iesu. That good thynge whych was comytted to thy keepynge, holde fast thowwe the holpe goost, which dwelleth in vs.
This y knowest, howe y all they whiche are in Asia, be turned frome: of which sorte are Phigelus & Herimogenes. The Lord geue mercy vnto the housholde of Onesiphorus for he ofte refreshed me, * & was not ashamed of my chapne: but when he was at Rome, he sought me out verye diligently, & founde me. The Lorde graunt vnto hym that he may fynd mercy with the Lord at y day. And in how many thynges he ministered vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

The ii. Chapter.

Paul as in the fyrst Chapter, to here he exhorteth hym to be constant in trouble, to suffre many, and to abyde faste in the holsome doctrine of our Lorde Iesus Christ.

Don therfore my sonne, be stronge in the grace (that is thowwe Christ Jesu) and in the thynge that thou hast herde of me by many wytnesses. The same comyttte thou *to saythfull men, whych shalbe apte to teache other also. Thou therfore suffre afflictions as a good souldyer of Iesus Christ. No man that warreth, entangleth hym selfe wpth worldly busyness, and that because he maye please hym whych hath chosen hym to be a souldyer. And though he a man stryue for a mastery, yet is he not crowned, except he stryue lawfully. *The husbandman that laboureth, muste fyrste receaue of the frutes. Consyder what I saye. The Lorde geue the vnderstandynge in al thynges. I

Remembre that Iesus Christ * of the seide of Dauid, rose agayne from deathe accordynge to my Gospel, wherin I suffre trouble as an euell doer, euen vnto bondes. But the worde of God was not bounde. Therfore * I suffre al thynge for the electes sakes, that they myghte also ob-tayne the saluacyon, whiche is in Christe Iesu, wpth eternal glory. It is a true sayenge * for yf we be deade wpth hym, we shall also lyue wpth hym. * Yf we be pacyente, we shall also raygne wpth hym. * Yf we denye hym, he also shall de-nye vs. Yf we beleue not, * yet abyde he sayth-full. He cannot denye hym selfe. Of these thyn-ges put them in remembraunce, and testifie before the Lord, that they folowe no contencions wordes: whych are to no profyte, but to the peruertynge of the hearers.

Study to shewe thy selfe laudable vnto God, & a workeman y nedeth not to be ashamed of strybutynge the worde of trued iustly. * As for vngostly vanytes of voyces, passe thou ouer the.
For they wyll encrease vnto greater vngodly-nes, & theyr wordes shal fret euen as doethe the dyscase of a cancre: of whose nombze is * hyme-neus and Philetus, whych (as concernynge the trued) haue erred, sayenge: that the resurreccion is past already, and do destroye the faythe of some. But the sure ground of God standeth styll and hath this seale: * the Lord knoweth them y are his. And let every mā that calleth on y name of Christ, depart from iniquyte. Not wpythstandyng * in a great house are not onely vessels of golde, and of syluer, but also of wood & of earthe some for honoure, and some vnto dishonoure.
Yf a man therfore poure hym selfe from suche men, he shalbe a vessel sanctified vnto honoure, mete for the vles of the Lorde, and prepared vnto all good workes.

Lustes of youth auoyde, but folow ryghteouf-nes, fayth, loue and peace, with them that cal on the Lorde with a pure herte. * Foolyshe and vn-learned questyons put from the, knowynge, that they do but gedze stryfe. The seruaunt of y Lorde muste not stryue: but be gentle vnto all men * apte to teache, and one that can suffre the euell wpth meakenes, & can * infozme the that resyste kers, dysobedient to fathers and mothers, vn-thankfull, vngodly, vnkynde, trecebreakers, falle accusars, ryatours, fcarce, despylers of the whych are good, traytours, heady, dysmynded,

For of thes forte are they * which entre into houses, and bypunge vnto bondage women lade with synne, which women are led wryth dyuers lustes euer learynge, and neuer able to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth.

C * As Iannes and Iambres wythstode Moses, euen so do these also resyste the trueth: men they are of corrupte myndes, and lewde as concernyng the fayth: but they shal preuayle no le-gger. For theyr madnes shal be vttered vnto all men euen as theyr was, but thou haste sene the experyence of my doctryne, fashyon of lyuynge, purpose, fayth, longe sufferynge, loue, pacyence, persecucions, and affliccyons whiche happened vnto me at Antioche, at Iconiu, and at Lystra: whych persecucyons I suffred paciently. And fro them all the Lorde deliuered me. Yee, * all they that wyl lyue godlye in Christe Jesu, shal suffre persecucion. But the euil men and dyscea-uers shal were worse and worse, whyle they dy-sceaue and are dysceauned them selues.

But continue thou in the thinges which thou hast learned, whych also were commytted vnto the, knowynge of whom thou hast learned them and for as much also as * of a chylde, thou haste known the holy scriptures, whiche are able to make the learned vnto saluacyon thorowe the fayth whych is in Christe Jesu. All scripture geuen by inspyracio of God, is profytable to teach to imptroue, to amende, and to instruct in ryghteousnes, that the man of God maye be perfect and prepared vnto all good workes.

The .iiii. Chapter.

The exhorteth Timothe to be scruent in the worde and to suffre aduersite, maketh mencion of hys owne deathe, and byddeth Timothe come vnto hym.

Testifye therfore befoze God, and be-foze the Lorde Jesu Christ, which shall iudge the quicke & dead at his appea-rynge in his kingdom, preachethou the word, be scruent in season, and oute of season.
Imppone, rebuke, exhorre, wryth all longe suf-ferynge and doctryne. For the tyme wyl come, when they shall not suffer wholsome doctryne: but after theyr owne lustes shall they (whose ea-res ythe) get the an heare of teachers, and shall wrythdawe theyr eares from the trueth, & shall be turned vnto fables. But watche thou, in all thynges: suffre affliccyons, do the worke tho-rowly of an Euangeliste, fulfyll thyne offyce wi-to the vtmost. (1. Cor. xii. e)

For I am nowe readye to be offered, and the tyme of my departyng is at hande. I haue fought a good fyght, I haue fulfyllled my course. I haue kept the fayth. From hence forth there is layde vpon me * a crowne of ryghteousnes, which the Lorde (that is a ryghteous iudge) shall geue me at the day: not to me onely, but vnto all them also that loue hys commynge. Do thy dyligence that thou mayest come shortly vnto me.

For Demas hath forsaken me, and loneth this present world, and is departed vnto Thessalonica: Crescens is gone to Galacia, Titus vnto Dalmacia. Onely Lucas is wryth me.
Take Marke, and bypunge hym with the, for he is profytable vnto me for the minystracyon. And Tichyrus haue I sent to Ephesus. The clocke I left at Troada with Carpus (when thou commest) bypunge with the, and the booke, but specially the parchement. Alexander the coper smith dyd me muche euell: the Lorde rewarde hym accord-yng to his dedes, of whom be thou ware also.
For he hath greatly wythstande our wordes.

At my fyrste answerynge: no man assysted me, but al forsoke me. I praye God, that it may not be layde to theyr charges: For wythstan-dyng the Lorde assysted me, and strenghted me, that by me the preachynge shoulde be fulfyllled to the vtmost, and that all the Gentyles shoulde heare. And I was deliuered out of the mouth of the Lyon. And the Lorde shall deliuer me from all euell doyng, and shal kepe me vnto his hea-uenly kyngdome: To whome be prayse for euer and euer. Amen. I

Salute Prisca and Aquila, and the hous-holde of Onesiphorus: Crastus abode at Corinthum. * Tryphimus haue I left at Miletum sycke. Do thy dyligence, that thou mayest come befoze wynter. Eubolus greeteth the, and so doth Prudens & Linus: Claudia, and al the brythren.
The Lorde Jesus Christe be wryth thy spete.
Grace be wryth you. Amen.

Paul vnto Titus.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paul exhorteth Titus to ordeyne prelates of byshoppes in every cytie, and declareth what maner of men they ought to be that are cholen to that offyce, and chargeth Titus to rebuke suche as wythstande the Gospell.

Rule the seruaunte of God, and Apostle of Jesu Christe, accord-yng to the faythe of Goddes beganne: but hath opened his worde at the tyme appoynted thowwe preachyng, which is comyt ted vnto me, accordyng to the commaundemēt of God oure saueour. To * Titus hys naturall sonne after the common fayth.

* Grace, mercy, and praece, fro God the father, and from the Lorde Jesu Christ our sauyoure.

B For this cause left I the in Creta, & thou shuldest * ordayne elders in euery cytie, as I had appoynted the. If any be blamelesse, the husbād of one wyfe, hauyng faythfull chyldren, whyche are not laundred of ryote, neyther are dysobedy ent. * For a bylhopc must be blamelesse, as the stewarde of god: not stubborne, not angrye, not geuen to muche wyne, no fyghter, not geuen to filthly lucre: but a keeper of hospitalitie, one that louethe goodnesse (prudente) sobre, ryghteous, godly, temperate, and suche as cleueth vnto the true worde of doctryne, that he maye be able all so to exhorthe by wholsome learnyng and to im proue them that saue agaynst it:

E For there are many vnruly and talkers of vanity & dysceauers of myndes, specialllye they that are of the cyrcucysson, whose mothes must be stopped, * whiche peruert whole houses, tea chynge thinges which they ought not, because of fylthy lucre. One of the selues (euen a Prophete of theyr owne) sayde: The Cretians are alwayes lyars, cuell beastes, slowe belyers. This wytnes is true, wherfore rebuke thou them sharply that they may be found in f fayth, not takynge hede to Jewes fables and comaundementes of men & turne awaye the trueth. * Vnto the pure, are all thynges pure: but vnto the that are despyled and vnbelypynge, is nothing pure: but euen f mynd and conscience of the is despyled. They contesse f they knowe God: but wpyth the dedes they deny him, seinge they are abhominable and dysobedy ent, and vnaypte vnto euery good worke.

The.ii. Chapter.

He telleth hym howe he shall teache all degrees to behaue them selues.

B Ut speake thou the thinges whych be come wholsome learning, that the el der men be sober, sage, discrete, solide in the fayth, in loue, in pacience: & el der * women lyke wyfe, that they be in suche rap ment as becommeth holynes, not beyng false ac cusars not geuen to muche wyne, but that they teach honest thinges, to make the younge wemen sobre mynded, to loue theyr husbantes, to loue theyr chyldren, to be discrete, chaste, huswifelye, good, obedyent vnto theyr husbantes, that the worde of God be not euell spoken of. Ponge men lykewyse exhorthe, that they be sobre mynded.

In al thinges shewe thy selfe an ensample of good workes in the doctrine, with honesty, gra uitie, and wpyth the wholsome worde which can not be rebuked: that he which withstandeth, may be ashamed, hauyng no euell thyng to saue of you. * Exhorthe seruautes, to be obedyent vnto theyr owne masters, & to please them in al thyng es, not answerynge agayne, neyther to be ppe acts, but that they shewe all good faythfulness that they maye do worshippe to the doctryne of God oure saueour in all thynges. * For the grace of God, that bypnyeth saluacyon vnto al men, hath appeared & teacheth vs that we shuld deny vngodlynes and * worldly lustes, and that we shulde lyue soberly, and ryghteously, & god ly in thys present worlde, lokeynge for that bles sed hope and appearyng of the glozy of f great God, and of our sauyoure Jesu Christe, whyche * gaue hym selfe for vs, to redeme vs fro all vn ryghteousnes, and * to pouрге vs a peculiar peo ple vnto hym selfe, & feruently geuen vnto good workes. These thynges speake, and exhorthe, & rebuke wpythall seruentes of comaundyng. * Se that noman despyse the.

The.iii. Chapter.

The obedyence to suche as be in auctorite. He war neth Titus to beware of foolyshe and vnproffitable questions.

Arne them * that they submitte the selues to rule and power: that they obeye the offycers: that they be rea dy vnto euery good worke: & they speake euell of no man: that they be no fyghters, but gentle, shewynge all mekenes vnto all men. For we oure selues were also so tyme foolyshe, dysobedyent, deceaued, scrupnge dyuerse lustes & voluptuousnes, liuing in malici ousnes & enuye, ful of hate, hatyng one another.

But after that the kyndnes and loue of oure saueour God to manwarde appeared, * not by f dedes of righteousnes which we wrought: but accordyng to his mercy he saued vs * by the founfayne of the newe byrthe, and renuyng of the holy goost, whych he shed on vs aboundat ly, thowwe Jesu Christ our saueour, that we iustified * by hys grace, shoulde be made helyes accordyng to the hope of eternall lyfe. * This is a true sapenge.

Of these thynges I wpyll that thou certifye, & that they whych beleue in God, myght be dpy gnt to go furwarde in good workes. For these thynges are good and proffitable vnto men, * fo lythe questyons, and genealogyes, & brawlyng thowwe strynges about the lawe, auoyde: for they are vnproffitable and superfluous. A man that is an auctoz of sectes, after * f fyst and the seconde admonycyon auoyde: knowynge, that he (that is suche) is peruerted and synneth euen damned by hym selfe.

When I shall sende Artemas vnto the or Ti chycus be dyligent, to come to me vnto Richo polis: For I haue determynd there to wynter. Wpyng zenas the lawyer and Appollos on their iorneye dplygentlye, that nothyng be lackyng vnto them. And let oures also learne to excel in good workes, as fareforth as nede requy reth, that they be not vnfrutefull.

All that are wpyth me, salute the.

The Epistle

The Epistle of Saynct Paule vnto Philemon.

The Epistle of Saynct Paule the Apostle vnto the Hebrues.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ He reioyseth to heare of the fayth and loue of Philemon whom he despyeth to forgeue his seruant Onesimus, and longynge to receaue hym agayne.

Paule prisoner of Iesu Christe and brother Timothe. Vnto Philemon the beloued, and oure helper, and to the beloued Appia, & to Archippus our felowe souldyer & to the congregation that is of thy house.

1. Cor. 1. a.
11. Cor. 1. a.
Gala. 1. a.

* Grace be vnto you and peace, fro God oure father, and from the Lord Iesus Christ. I thanke my God, makynge mencyon alwayes of þin my prayers, when I heare of thy loue and fayth, which thou hast toward þe Lord Iesu & toward all saynctes, so þe felowshipp of thy fayth is frutefull in þe knowledge of euery good (wo)rk which is in you toward Iesus Christe. For we haue great ioye and consolacion in thy loue: because that by the (brother) the saynctes hertes are comforted.

Col. 1. b.

¶ Wherefore, though I might be bolde in Christ to comaunde the þe whych was thy deute to do yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, even olde Paule, & now a prisoner of Iesu Christ. I beseeche þe for my sonne, Onesimus whom I haue begotten in my bondes, (whych in tyme passed was to þe vnprofytable but now profytable both to þe and to me) whome I haue sente home agayn. Thou therfore receaue hym, þis is to saye myne owne bowels, whome I shuld saye haue retayned w me, þin thy steade he might haue ministred vnto me in þe bondes of þe Gospell. Neuertheles, wout thy mynd wold I do nothing, þe good which þe doest, shuld be not be as it were of necessity, but wyllynge.

¶ For hapely he therfore departed for a season, þe thou shuldest receaue him for euer, not now as a seruant: but aboue a seruante, euen a brother beloued, specially to me, but howe much more vnto the, both in þe fleshe, & also in the Lord. If thou count me therfore a felowe, receaue him as my selfe. If he haue done the any hurt, or oweth the oughte, þe laye to my charge. (I Paule haue wyrtten it wth myne owne hande) I wylle recompence it. So that I do not saye to the, howe that thou owest vnto me euen thyne owne selfe also. Enuf brother, let me enioye the in þe Lord. Comforte my bowels in þe Lord. Trustynge in thyne obedyence: I wrote vnto the, knowynge, that þe wylt also do more then I say: Moreouer prepare me lodgynge, for I truste that thou wolt the helpe of poure prayers, I shalbe geuen vnto you. Ther salute the, Epaphras my felowe prisoner in Christ Iesu, Marcus, Aristarcus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be with your sprete. Amen.

The fyrste Chapter.

¶ How God dealt longynge with them of the olde tyme, in sendynge them by prophetes, but much more mercye hath he shewed vs in that he sent vs by his owne sonne. Of the most excellent glory of Iesu Christe, whych is in all thynges is lyke to his father.

God in tyme past dyuerly & many wayes spake vnto þe fathers by prophetes: but in these laste dayes he hath spoken vnto vs by his owne sonne, whome he hath made heyre of all thynges, & by whome also he made þe world.

* Whiche (sonne) beynge the byrghtnes of his glory, and the very ymage of his substance rulyng all thynges wth the worde of his power, hath by his owne person poured oure synnes, and spytte on the ryght hand of the maiesty on hye: beynge so much more excellent then the aungels, as he hath by inherytaunce obtayned a more excellent name then they.

¶ For vnto which of the aungels sayde he at any tyme. * Thou arte my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the: And agayne, * I wyl be thy father, and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne, when he byngeth in the fyrst begotten sonne into the world, he sayth: * And let all þe aungels of God worshyppe him. And vnto the aungels he sayth: * He maketh his aungels spretes, and bys mynistres a flamme of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth: * Thy seat (O God) shalbe for euer & euer. The scepter of thy kingdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghteousnes, & hated iniquity. Wherefore, God, enuf thy God hath anoynted the wth the oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes. * And thou Lord in the begynnynge hast layd the foundacion of the earth, and the heauens are the workes of thy handes. They shall perishe, but thou endureste, and they all shall waxe olde also as doth a garmente, and as a vesture shalt thou chaunge them, & they shalbe chaunged. But thou art eue the same & thy yeres shal not fayle.

¶ Vnto which of þe aungels said he at any tyme: * Sitt on my ryght hande, tyll I make thyne enemyes thy footstole: Are they not all mynnystrynges spretes, & are sent to mynnyster, for they take whych shalbe heyres of saluacion.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteth vs to be obedyent vnto the newe lawe which Christ hath geuen vs and not to be offended at the infirmitie and lowe degree of Christ, because it was necessarye that for our sakes he shulde take such an humble state vpon hym that he myght be lyke vnto his brethren.

Wherefore we ought to geue the more earnest hede to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, leaste at any tyme we perishe. For yf the word whych was spokē by aungels was stedfast. And euery trasgressyō & dysobedience receaued a iuste a iuste recompence of rewarde, howe shall we escape, yf we dyspyle so great a saluacion, which at the fyrst beganne to be preached of the Lord hym selfe, and was comfyrmed vnto vs warde by them that hearde it: * God bearyng witness thereto, both with signes and wonders also and wyth dyuers myracles, and gyftes of the holye ghost, accordyng to hys owne wil.

For vnto the Angels hath he not subdued the worlde to come, wherof we speake, but one in a certayne place wytnessed, sayinge: * What is man: that thou arte myndful of hym: Or the sonne of man, that thou dyspyleste hym: Thou madest him a lytle lower then the Angels, thou hast crowned hym wyth honour and gloze: and hast set him aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast put all thynges in subiection vnder hys fete. In that he put all thynges vnder hym he left nothyng that is not put vnder hym. Neuertheles, we se not yet all thynges subdued vnto hym, but hym that was made lesse then the Angels, we se that it was Iesus whych is crowned wyth gloze and honour for the sufferynge of death, that by the grace of God, shulde tast of death for all men.

For it became hym, for whom are all thynges and by whome are all thynges (after that he had brought many sonnes to gloze) that he shulde make the Lord of theyr saluacion perfecte thoro we afflictions. For both he that sanctifyeth and they which are sanctified, are al of one. For which causes sake he is not ashamed to cal them brethren, sayinge: I wyll declare thy name vnto my brethren: * in the middes of thy congregacyon wil I prayse the. And agayne: I wyll put my trust in hym. And agayne, beholde, heare am I and the chyldren whom God hath geuen me.

For as much then as the chyldren are partakers of the fleshe and bloude, he also hym selfe lyke wyse toke parte wyth them that (thoro we death) he myghte expel hym that had lordship ouer death, that is to say the Deuel, and that he myghte deliuer them, whych the thoro we feare of death were al theyr lyfe tyme subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the Angels: but the seide of Abraham taketh he on him. Wherefore in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, that he myghte be merciful, and a faythful hye preeste in thynges concerninge God, for to pouрге þ peoples synnes. For in that it fortuneth hym selfe to be tempted, he is able to sucker the also that are tempted.

The.iii. Chapter.

The requyryth vs to be obedyente vnto the woꝛde of Chryste, whych is moze worth then the ceremonial lawe of Moyses. The punishment of such as will nede harden theyr hertes.

Wherefore holy brethren, partakers of the celestyal calling consydeꝛ the ambassadour and hye preast of oure professyon Chyrlt Iesus, howe that he is faythful vnto him that put hi in the offyce, euen as was Moyses in al hys house. For loke howe much honour (he that hath buylded a house) hath moze then the house it selfe, so such honour he is counted worthy of moze then Moyses. For euery house is buylded of some ma

But he that ordayned al thynges is God. And Moyses verely was faythful in al hys house as a mynyster, to beare wytnes of those thynges which were to be spoken after ward. But chryst as a sonne, hath rule ouer þ house, whose house are we, yf we holde fast the confidence and the reioysynge of that hoꝛpe, vnto the ende.

Wherefore as the holy ghost sayth: to daye yf ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes, as in the prouokynge, in the daye of temptacion in the wilderness, where your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes: forty yere. Wherefore I was greued with that generation, and sayd: They do alwaye erre in theyr hertes: they verely haue not knowe my wayes, so that I sware in my wrath: they shall not entre into my rest: Take hede brethren, lest at any tyme there be in anye of you a frowarde herte subiecte vnto vnbelefe, y he shulde departe fro the luyng God: but exhort ye one another dayly, while it is called to daye, lest any of you be harde herted thoro we the disceatfulness of synne. We are made partakers of Chyrlt, yf we kepe sure vnto the ende, the begynnyng of the substance: so longe as it is sayde: to daye yf ye wyll heare hys voyce, harden not your hertes, as in the prouokynge, for some when they heard, did prouoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moyses. But wyth whom was he dyspled, forty yeres? Was he not dyspleased with them that had synned, whose carcases were ouer thoro we in the deserte? To whome sware he that they shulde not enter into hys reaste, but vnto them that were not obedyent? And we se, y they coude not entre in, because of vnbelefe.

The.iiii. Chapter

The Sabbath or rest of Chyrlt: punishment of vnbelefe, the nature of the woꝛde of God

Let vs feare therfore, lest anye of you (for sayynge the promes of entryng into his rest) shuld seme at any tyme to haue bene disapoynted. For vnto vs it is declared, as well as vnto the. But it profyted not them, that they hearde the woꝛde: because they whych hearde it, coupled it not wyth fayth. For we which haue beleued, do entre into hys rest, as he sayde: Euen as I haue sworn in my wrath they shal not entre into my rest. And that spake he verely longe after that the workes were made: and the foundations of the world layd. For he spake in a certayne place of the. vii. day, on this wyse: * And God did rest the. vii. daye from all hys workes. And in this place agayne: They shall not entre into my rest.

Seinge therfore it foloweth: that some must entre therinto, and they (to whom it was fyrste preached) entred not therein for vnbelefe sake, he appointed a certayne day after so a long tyme sayinge in Dauid (as it is reherfed,) this daye yf ye wyll heare his voyce, harden not your hertes. For yf Iosua had geuen the rest, the wolde be not afterwarde haue spoken of another day. There remayneth therfore yet a rest to the people of God. For he that is entred into hys rest hath sealed from all hys owne workes, as God dyd from hys.

C Let vs studie therfore to entre into that rest lest anye man fall after the same example of vnbelefe. For the word of God is quicke, & myghty in operaciō, and sharper then any two edged sword: and entreth thorough, euen vnto the deuydynge asunder of the soule and the spret, and poyntes and the mary: & is a discerner of thoughtes and of the intentes of the hert, nether is ther any creature that is not manifest in the syghte of hym: But al thynges are naked and open vnto the eyes of whome we speake.

Seinge then, that we haue a greate hygh priest whych is entred into heauen (euen Iesus the sonne of God) lette vs holde the professyon of hope. For we haue not an hygh priest whych cannot haue compassion on our infirmities but was in all poyntes tempted, lyke as we are, but yet without synne. Let vs therfore go boldly vnto the seate of grace, that we may obtayne mercy, and fynde grace to helpe in time of nede.

The. v. Chapter.

Christ is our hye priest, and seat of grace, and moore excellent then the hye priestes of the olde lawe.

Euerie hye priest that is taken from amonge men, is ordeyned for men, in thynges pertaynyng to God: to offer gyftes and sacrificies for synne, whych he can haue compassyon on the ignorant, and on the that erre out of the way forasmuch as he him selfe is compassed with infirmities. And for the same infirmities sake he is bounde to offer for synnes, as well for hym selfe, as for the people. And no man taketh honour vnto hym self: but he that is called of God as was Aaron.

Euen so Christ also glorified not hym selfe to be made the hye priest: but he that sayde vnto hym: thou arte my sonne, thys daye haue I begotten the, glorified hym: As he sayth also in another place: thou arte a priest for euer after the order of Melchisedec. Whiche in the dayes of hys fleshe, when he had offered vp prayers & supplicacions, with strong crying and teares vnto hym that was able to saue hym from death and was heard because of his reuerence, though he were the sonne of God, yet learned he obedience, by these thynges whych he suffred: and he beinge perfecte, was the cause of eternall saluacion vnto al them that obeyed him: & is called of God an hye priest, after the order of Melchisedec.

Wherof we wold speake many thynges but they are hearde to be uttered: leinge ye are dull of hearinge. For when as concerning the time ye ought to be teachers, yet haue ye nede agayne that we teache you the fyrste principles of the word of God: and are become such as haue nede of milke, and not of stronge meate, for euery man that is fed with milke, is unexpert in the worde of righteousnes, for he is but a babe.

But stronge meate belongeth to them that are perfecte, euen those, whych by reason of vices haue theyr wyttes excersised to discerne both the good and euil.

The. vi. Chapter.

He goeth forth with the thinge that he beganne in the latter end of the. v. chapter, and exhorteth them not to faunte, but to be steadfast & patient, for so much as God is sure in his promise.

Therfore, leauing the doctrine: that pertayneth to the begynnynge of christen men, let vs go forth vnto the perfeccion, not layinge agayne the foundaciō of repentance from deade workes and of fayth toward God: of baptysinges, of doctrine, and of layinge on of handes, and of resurreccion from death, and of eternall Iudgement. And so wil we do. If God permitte. For it cannot be that they whych were once lighted, & haue tasted of the heauenly gyfte and were become partakers of the holy Ghoste and haue tasted of the good worde of God, and the powre of the worlde to come: If they fall away, and as concernynge them selues crucifye the sonne of God afreshe, and make a mocke of hym that they shulde be renued agayne by repentance.

For the earth whych drynket in the rayne that cometh ofte vpon it, and bryngeth forth herbes mete for them & drele it, receaueth blessing of God. But that ground which beareth thornes and bryers: is reprobued, and nye vnto cursynge: whose end is to be burned. Neuertheless deare frendes we truste to se better of you, and thynges whych accompanye saluacion, though we thus speake. For God is not vngrateous: that he shulde forget your worke and laboure that procede of loue, which loue ye shewe in hys name, whych haue mynystred vnto the sapntes and yet mynystre. Per, and we desyre: that euery one of you shewe the same diligence, to the full stablyshynge of hope, euen vnto the end that ye saynt not: but be folowers of them, whych thorow fayth & patience receaue the inheritaunce of the promise.

For when God made promise to Abraham because he had no greater to sweare by: he sweare by hym selfe, sayinge: Surely I will blesse thee and multiplye thee in dede. And so after that he had tarped pacientely, he entoyed the promise. For men verely sweare by hym that is greater then them selues, & an oth to confyrme the thyng, is to them an end of all stryfe. So God wyllynge very abundantly to shewe vnto the hepers of promise, the stableness of hys counsel added an oth that by two immutable thynges, in whych it was impossible that God shulde lye, we myghte haue a stronge consolacion: whych he thereto haue ferd: for to hold fast the hope that is set before vs, which hope we hold as an ancre of the soule both sure and steadfast, whych hope also entreth in, into those thynges whych are within the vayle, where the forerunner is for vs: entred, euen Iesus, that is made an hye priest for euer after the order of Melchisedec.

The. vii. Chapter.

He compareth the priesthood of Christ vnto Melchisedec: but to be farre moore excellent.

Thys

His Melchisedech kyng of ^{Salē} (whiche beinge preest of the moost hye God) met Abraham as he returned agayne fro the slaughter of the kynges, and blessed hym (to whom also Abraham gaue tythes of all thynges) fyrst is called by interpretation, kyng of ryghteousnesse: after that kyng of Salem (that is to saye: kyng of peace) without father, without mother, without kynne, and hath neyther begynnyng of dayes nor yet ende of lyfe: but is likened vnto the sonne of God and continueth a preest for euer. Consydre what a man this was, vnto whome also the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. And verely those chyldren of Leui, whiche receyue the offyce of the preestes, haue a commaundemente to take (accordeynge to the lawe) tythes of the people, that is to saye, of their brethren: yea though they sponge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whose kyndred is not counted amonge them, receyued tythes of Abraham, & blessed him that had the promysse. And no man denyeth, but that he which is lesse, receyue the blessing of him which is greater. And here men that dyer receyue tythes. But there he receyue tythes, of whom it is wytnessed that he lyueth. And to saye the truthe, Leui hym self also which vseth to receyue tythes, payed tythes to Abraham. For he was yet in the loynes of his father, when Melchisedech met Abraham.

* Nowe therfore perfection came by the preasthode of the Leuytes (for vnder that preasthode the people receyued the lawe) what nedeth it forthermore, that an other preast shulde ryse to be called after the ordre of Melchisedech, and not after the ordre of Aaron? For yf the preasthode be translated, then of necessity muste the lawe be translated also.

For he of whom these thynges are spoken pertaineth vnto an other tribe, of whō neuer man serued at the aultare. For it is euident that our Lord sponge of the trybe of Iuda, of whiche trybe spake Moses not bynge concernyng preasthode. And it is yet a moze euident thyng, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech, there arys another preest, which is not made after the lawe of the carnal commaundement, but after the power of the endlesse lyfe. (For, after this maner doth he testifie: thou art a preest for euer, after the ordre of Melchisedech) Then the commaundement that went afore: is disannulled bycause of weakenesse & vnproftablenesse. For the lawe brought nothyng to perfection: but was an introduction to a better hope, by the whiche we drawe nye vnto God: And therfore is it a better hope, bycause the thyng was not done without an oth. For those preestes were made withoute an oth, but this preast with an oth, by hym that sayde vnto hym. * The Lord swaie, and will not repent: Thou arte a preast for euer after the ordre of Melchisedech. And for that cause was Iesus a stablysher of a better testament.

And amonge them manye were made preestes, bycause they were not suffred to endure by the reason of death. But this man (because he endureth euer) hath an everlastyng preasthode. Therfore, he is able also euer to saue them to y vttermost, that come vnto God by hym: seinge he euer lyueth: to make intercessyon for vs.

For such an hye preest it became vs to haue which is holpe, harmelesse, vndefyled, separated fro synners, made hyer then heauen. Whiche nedeth not dayly (as ponder hye preestes) to offere by sacrifice, fyrst for his owne synnes, and then for y peoples synnes. For that dyd he once when he offred up hym selfe. * For y lawe maketh me preestes: whiche haue infirmitie: but the worde of the oth that came syns the lawe, maketh the sonne a preast, which is perfect for euer more.

The viii. Chapter:

The offyce of chyrp is moze worth then the preastes offyce of the olde lawe: which was vnperfect, and therfore abrogate.

If the thynges which we haue spokē this is the myght: that we haue such an hye preest as sitteth on the right hande of the seate of his maiestye in heauen, and is a minstre of holy thynges, & of the true tabernacle, whiche God pyghe and not man. For euery hye preest is ordeyned to offere gyftes and sacrifices: wherfore it is of necessity, that this man haue somewhat also to offere. For he were not a preest, yf he were on the earth where are preestes, that accordeynge to the lawe offere gyftes which serue vnto the example, and shadowe of heauenly thynges: euen as the answer of God was gyuen vnto Moses, when he was about to synag the tabernacle. * Take hede (sayde he) that thou make all thynges accordeynge to the patron whiche is shewed to the in the mount.

But nowe hath he obtayned a preasthode so moche the moze excellent, as he is the mediator of a better Testamente, whiche was confirmed in better promysse. For if the fyrst testament had ben such, y no fault could haue ben found in it; then shuld no place haue ben sought for the seconde. For in rebukynge them, he sayeth vnto the: * Beholde the dayes come (sayth the Lord) and I wyll synag the vpon the house of Israel, and vpon the house of Iuda, a newe testament, not lyke the testament that I made with they fathers in that daye, when I toke them by the handes, to leade them out of the lande of Egypt. For they continued not in my testament, and I regarded them not, sayth the Lord.

For this is the testament that I wyll make with the house of Israel: After those dayes (sayeth the Lord) I wyll put my lawes in their mindes and in they hertes I wyll wyte them and I wyll be they God, and they shalbe my people. And they shal not teache euery man his neyghbour, and euery man his brother, saying: know the Lord: for they shal knowe me, from y least vnto the moost of them: For I wyll be merciful ouer they vnryghteousnesse and they synnes & they iniquities wyll I thynke vpon no more. In that he sayeth a newe Testamente, he hathe woyn out the olde. For that whiche is woyn out and wexed olde, is readye to vanysh awaye.

The .ix. Chapter.

The profete and wordyness of the olde testament and howe farre the newe excolleth it.

Exod. xxi. b

The olde testament then had verelye ordynaunces, & scrupynge of God and wordly holynes. For there was afore tabernacle made, where in was the lyghte, and the table, & the breadd, which is called holy. But with in the second wayle was there a tabernacle which is called holiest of al, which had the golden censer and the Arke of the Testament overlappede rounde aboute with golde, wherein was the golden pot with Manna, and Aaron's rodd, that spronge, and the tables of the Testament. Over the Arke were the Cherubyns of glozy shadowinge the seate of grace. Of which thynges we cannot now speake pertycularly.

* Ex. xxi. b Leup. xxi. a
* Exo. xl. c

When these thynges were thus ordeined, the preestes wente alwayes into the fyrste tabernacle, whych executed the scrupce of the holy thynges. But into the seconde went the hye preeste alone once every peare: not wythoute bloude, which he offered for hym selfe, and for the ignoraunces of the people. Wherwith the holy gost this signified, the way of holpe thynges was not yet opened, whyle as yet the fyrste tabernacle was standing, which was a similitude for the time then presente, in which were offered gistes and sacryfices, that coulde not make the mynster perfecte as partaynyng to the conspynce, wyth onely meates and drynckes, and dyuers washynge and iustifynges of the flesch, which were ordeyned untill the tyme of refozmacyon. But Christ being an hye preest of good thynges to come: came by a greater & more perfecte tabernacle, not made wyth handes, that is to saye, not of thys buyldyng, nether by the blood of goates, and calves, but by hys owne blood he entred in once into the holy place, and founde eternall redempcyon.

For of the bloude of Oxen and of Goates & the ashes of a ponge cowe: when it was sprynkled, purifyeth the uncleane, as touchyng the purifyng of the fleshe, so we much more shal the bloude of Christ wyche thowowe the eternall sprete offered hym selfe wythoute spot to God purge your conspyence from dead woorkes, for to serue the lyvynge God.

And for thys cause is he the medyatoure of the newe Testament, that thowowde death which chaunced, for the redempcyon of those transgressours that were under the fyrste Testament they whych are called, myghte recave the promise of eternall inherytaunce. For where as is a Testament, there must also of necessity be the death of hym that maketh the Testament. For the Testament taketh auctorite wher men are dead for it is yet of no value, as long as he that maketh the Testament is a lyve, for which cause also nether the first Testament was ordeyned without blood. For when Moses had declared al the commandement to al the people accordyng to the lawe he toke the blood of calves & of goates: wch water and purple wol, and ysope, and sprynkled both the booke and all the people, sayng: This is the bloude of the Testament which God hath appointed unto you: Moreover, he sprynkled the tabernacle with bloude also, and all the mynsteringe vessels. And almost all thynges are by the lawe purged with bloude, and wythoute sheddyng of bloude is no remysion.

It is nede then that the similitudes of heauenly thynges be purifyed with sacche thynges, but that the heauenly thynges them selues be purifyed with better sacryfices then are those.

For Christ is not entred into the holy places that are made with handes (whych are symilitudes of true thynges) but is entred into very heauen for to appeare now in the syght of God for us not to offre hym selfe often as the hye preest entreth into the holy place, every yere with straunge bloude, for then must he have often suffred synne the worlde beganne. But now in the ende of the worlde hath he appeared once, to putte synne to flight by the offryng of hym selfe.

And as it is appoynted unto all men, that they shal ones dye, and then cometh the iudgement: even so was Christ ones offered, to take awaye the synnes of many, and unto them that loke for hym, shal he appeare agayne without synne unto saluacyon.

The .x. Chapter.

The olde lawe had no power to cleane awaye synne, but Christ dyed it with offryng his body once for all. An exhortation to receyve this goodnesse of God thankfully with patience and stedfast sayth.

Of the lawe (haupng the shadow of good thynges to come, and not the verbe fallow of the thynges them selues) can neuer with those sacryfices which they offre, yere by yere continually make the commers thereunto perfecte. For wolde not then those sacryfices have ceased to have bene offered, bycause that the offerers once purged shoulde have had nomore cōsistence of synnes? Neuerthelesse, in those sacryfices, is there mencyon made of synnes every yere. For the bloude of oxen and of goates can not take awaye synnes.

Wherfore, when he cometh into the worlde he sayeth: Sacrifice and offryng thou woldest not have: but a body hast thou ordeyned me. Burntoffrynges also for synne hast thou not allowed. Then sayd I: lo, I am here. In the begynnyng of the booke it is writte of me that I shoulde do thy wyl, O God. A houe, when he sayeth: sacrifice and offryng, & burnt sacrifices and synne offrynges thou woldest not have, nether haste thou allowed them (whiche yet are offered by the law,) then sayd he: lo, I am here to do thy wyl, O God: he taketh awaye the fyrste to stablysh the latter, by the which wyl we are made holpe, even by the offryng of the body of Iesu Christ once for all.

And every preest is redy dayly mynistryng and offryng often tymes one maner of oblation, whych can neuer take awaye synnes. But this man after he hath offered one sacryfice for synnes, is set downe for ever on the ryght hand of God, and from hence forth he tarreth tyll he see fores be made bys fote stole. For with one offering hath he made perfect for ever, the that are sanctified. The holy Ghost him selfe also beareth vs recorde, even whē he tolde before. This is the testament that I wyl make vnto them: after those dayes (sayeth the Lord) I wyl put my lawes in theyr hertes, and in theyr myndes wyl I wyte them, and their synnes and iniquities wyl I remēber nomore. And where remission of these thinges is, ther is nomore offering for synne. Seyng therfore brethren, that by the meanes of the bloude of Iesu we haue lyberty to entre into þ holy place, by the newe & lyving way whiche he hath prepared for vs, throughe the vayle (that is to saye by his fleshe) And seeinge also that we haue an hye priest which is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs drawe nye with a true hert in sure fayth, spynckled in our hertes and the euil conscience put away and washed in oure bodys with pure water, let vs kepe the professyon of our hope, wythoute waueying (for he is saythfull that promised) and let vs consyder one another, to the intente that we maye prouoke vnto loue, and to good workes not forsakyng the felowshyppe that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhort one another, & so muche the more because yēse that the daye draweth nye.

* For yf we synne wylfully after þ we haue receaued the knowlege of þ truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearful looking for Iudgement, and violent fyre, which shal deuour the aduersaries. He that despyseth Moses law, dyeth wythout mercy * vnder two or thre wytnesses, how much soer (suppose ye) shall he be punyshed whych treadeth vnder fote the sonne of God: and counteth the bloude of the Testament, where wyth he was sanctified, as an unholye thyng, and doth dyshonoure to the spyrte of grace. For we knowe him þ hath sayd

* It belongeth vnto me to take vengeance: I wyl recompence sayeth the Lord: And agayne, the Lord shal Iudge his people. It is a fearful thing to fall into the handes of the liuyng God

Call to remembraunce the dayes that are passed, in the which after ye had receaued lyght ye endured a greatesygh of aduersities, partly whyle alme wondred and gased at you for the shame and tribulacion that was done vnto you partly, whyle ye became companions of them which so passed their time. For ye became partakers also of the afflictions which happened thowme my bondes, & toke in worth the spoylyng of your goodes, and that with gladnes, knowinge in your selues, howe that ye haue in heauē a better and an endurynge substance. Cast not awaye therfore your confidence, whych hath a greates recompence of rewarde. For ye haue receiued of pacence: that after ye haue done þ wyl of God, ye myght receaue the promys. For yet a verye lytell whyle, and he that shal come wyl come and wyl not tary. But the iust shal lyue by fayth, And yf he wythdrawe hym selfe, my soule shal haue no pleasure in him. It is not we þ wythdrawe our selues vnto dānacion, but we partayne vnto fayth, to þ winning of the soule.

The xi. Chapter.

What fayth is, and a commendacion of the same. The hebreys shal be like of the sayctes in olde tyme.

Fayth is a sure confidence of thynges which are hoped for, and a certayn tye of thynges whych are not sene. For by it þ elders obtained a good reposte. Thowwe sayth we vnderstande, þ the world was ordeined by the word of God, and that thynges whych are sene, were made of thynges whych were not sene. By fayth Abel offred vnto God a more plentiful sacrifice then Cayn: by whych he obtained wytnes that he was ryghteous, God testifyinge of his gyftes: by whych also he beyng deade, yet speaketh.

By fayth was Enoch translated, that he shulde not se death: neyther was he founde, for god hadde taken him awaye. For afore he was take away, he obtained a good report, that he pleased God: but wythout fayth it can not be þ anye man shulde please hym. For he that cometh to God, muste belue that God is, & that he is a rewarde of them that seke hym.

By fayth: Noe beyng warned of God, eschued the thynges whych were as yet not sene, & prepared the Arke to þ sayyng of his household thowwe the whych Arke, he condemned the worlde, and became heire of the ryghteousnes whych is accordynge to fayth.

By fayth Abraham, when he was called, obeyed, to go out into a place, whych he shulde afterwarde receaue to inheritaunce: & he wente out, not knowynge whether he shulde go.

By fayth he remoued into the lande of promys, as into a straunge countre, when he hadde dwelt in tabernacles: and so dyd Isaac and Iacob heires wyth hym of the same promys. For he looked for a ctye haunyng a foundacyō, whose buylde and maker is God.

* Thowwe sayth Sara also receaued strengthe to conceaue and be wyth chylde, and was deliuered of a chylde when she was paste age, because she iudged hym saythfull whych had promysed.

And therfore sprange therof one (euen of one which was as good as dead) * so many in multitude as are the starres in the skye, & as þ sand the whych is by the see thowwe innumerable.

These all dyed accordynge to fayth, when they had not receaued the promys: but saw them as farre of, and beleued them, and saluted them, & confessed, that they were straungers and pylgryms on þ earth. For they þ saye such thinges declare, that they seke a countre. Also yf they had ben myndful of the countre, fro whēce they came oute, they had leasure to haue returned agayne: but now they desyre a better (that is to saye) a heauenlye. Wherefore God hym selfe is not ashamed to be called theyr god for he hath prepared for them a ctye.

By fayth Abraham offered by Isaac, whē he was proued, & he offered him beyng his only begottē sonne, in whō he had receaued þ promys

* By sayth Jacob when he was a dyng, blessed both the sonnes of Joseph, & bowed him selfe toward the toppe of hys scepter.

* By sayth Joseph when he dyed, remembred the departyng of the chyliden of Israel, & gaue cōmaundement of hys bones. * By sayth Moses when he was bozne was hys thre mone thes of his father and mother because they saw that he was a proper childe: neyther feared they the kynges commaundemente.

* By sayth Moses when he was greute, refused to be called p̄sonne of Pharaos daughter & chose rather to suffer aduersyte with the people of God, then to enioye p̄ pleasures of spūne for a sealon, and esteemed the rebuke of Chypte greater ryches then p̄ treasures of Egypt. For he had respecte vnto the rewarde.

* By sayth he forsoke Egypte and feared not the fearnes of the kyng. For he endured euē as though he had sene hi which is inuysible.

* Thozowe sayth he obeyned the passeouer and the effusion of bloude, lest he that destroyed the fyrste bozne, shuld tutehe them.

* By sayth they passed thozowe the red see as by dyelande: whyche when the Egyptians had de assayed to do: they were drownd. * By sayth p̄ wallis of Jericho fel downe after they were compassed aboute seuen dayes.

* By sayth the harlot Raab peryshed not wpyth them that were dyslobedpent, whē she had receaued the lypes to lodgynge peacably.

And what shall I moare saye: for the tyme wpl be to wyzte for me to tell of Gedon of Ba- rach, and of Sampson and of Jephthae, & of David also. And Samuell, & of the prophetes. Which thozow sayth subdued kyngedomes brought ryghteousnes: obtayned the promyses stopped the mouthes of Lōs: quēched the vyolence of fyre: escaped the edge of the swearde oute of weakenes, were made strōg wared va- lyant in fyghte: turned to fyghte the armys of the alpantes. The women receaued they deade rayled to lyfe agayne.

Other were racked, and wolde not be deli- uered, that they myght enheret a better resurrec- cyon. Agayne, other were tryed w mockynges & scoldynges, moze ouer wpyth bondes & p̄son- nēt: were stoned, where betwen a sander, were tempted, were slayne with swearde, walked vp and downe in shepe skynnes & gootes, skynnes beinge destitute, troubled and vexed: which mē the world was not worty of, they wandred in wyldernes: and in mountaynes, and in denes & caues of the earthe. And these al thozowe sayth obtayned good reporte, I and receaued not the promyse, because God hadde promysed a better chynge for vs, that they wpythout vs shuld not be made perfecte.

An exhortacon to be p̄repente and stedfaste in trouble and aduersyte: vpon hope of euerlastyng rewarde & com- mentacon of the newe testament aboue the olde.

Therfore, let vs also (seyng that we are compassed wpyth so great a mul- tytude of wytnelles) * laye awaye all that p̄fecth downe, & the spūne that hangeth so fast on, let vs runne wpyth pacience vnto the battel that is set before vs, tokyng vnto Iesus the captayne, and syn- ther of al our faith, which (for the ioye p̄ was set before hym) abode the Crosse: and dyspyled the shame, and is set downe * on the righte hande of the throne of God. Consider therfore, how that he endured suche speakyng agaynst him of syn- ners lest ye shulde be weryed and faynte in your mides. For ye haue not yet resisted vnto bloud stremyng agaynst spūne. And haue forgottē p̄ ex- hortaciō, which speaketh vnto you as vnto chil- den: my sonne despyse not the chastenyng of p̄ Lorde, neyther faynte when thou arte rebuked of him: for whom the Lorde loueth hym he cha- steneth: p̄e, he scourgeth euery sonne p̄ he recea- ueth. If ye endure chastenyng, God offreth him selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sone is he whō the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vn- der correccyon (whereof all are partakers) then are ye basterdes, & not sones. Therfor seyng we haue had fathers of our flesh which corrected vs & we gaue thē reuerēce: shal we nowe not much rather be in subieccyō vnto the father of sp̄ytes and lyfe? And they verely for a few dayes, nur- tered vs after theyr owne pleasure: but he nurte- reth vs for our p̄ofyte, to p̄ intent that he may mynyster of hys holynes vnto vs. No maner chastelyng for the present tyme seemeth to be ioyous, but greuous: neuertheles afterward, it byngeth the quyet frute of ryghteousnes vnto them whych are exercysed therein.

* Stretch forth therfore the handes whych were let downe, and the weakē knees: and se p̄ ye haue straght stepes vnto youre fete, lest any haltyng turne you out of the wape: ye lette it rather be healed. Followe peace wpyth all men and holynes: wpythoute the which no man shall se the Lorde. And loke that no mā be destitute of the grate of God: lest any roote of bytternes spryng vnto trouble, and therby many be de- filed: that ther be no fornicator, or vnclane per- sone, as Esau * whych for one mease of meate solde his byrthryght. For ye knowe howe that afterward when he wolde by enheritaunce haue obtayned blessing, he was put by. For he foude no place of repentance, though * he soughte it wpyth teares.

For ye are not come vnto the * mount that is touched, and vnto burnyng fyre, nor vnto storme, and darknes, and tempestes of wether, and sounde of a trompe, and the voyce of wo- des: which * voyce, they (that heard it) wpyshed awaye, that the communicacyon shulde not be spoken to them. For they could not abyde that whych was commaunded.

* If a beast touche the mountayne, it shall be stoned, or thrust thozow with a dart: so ter- rible was the fyghte whych appeared. Moses sayde sayde I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Sion, and to the cytye of the lyuing God, the celestial Ierusalem: and to an innumerable spght of aungels, and vnto the congregacyon of the fyrste borne sonnes, which are written in heauen, and to god the iudge of all, and to the spretes of iust and perfect men, and to Iesus the mediator of the newe testament, and to the * spynkylng of bloud that speketh better then the bloude of Abel.

Se that ye despyse not hym, that speaketh. For if they escaped not, which refused him that spake on earth: muche more shall we not escape, yf we turne a waye from hym that speaketh fro heauen: whose voyce then shoke the earth, and nowe hath declared sayeng: yet once more wyll I shake, not the earth onely, but also heauen.

The. xiii. Chapter.

De exhorteth vs vnto loue, to hospitallite, to thynke by pon suche as he in aduersyte: to mapntayne wedlocke: to a- uoyde couetousnesse, to make muche of them that preache Gods worde, to beware of straunge lernynge, to be con- tent to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankfyll vnto God and obedynte vnto suche as he in auctorite.

Et brotherlye loue contynue. * Be not forgetfull to lodge straungers. For therby haue dyuers mē² lodged aungels vnwares. Remembre the that are in bondes, euen as though ye were bound wth þ your selues: Be myndefull of them which are in aduersyte, as ye which are yet in the body. Wedlocke is to be had i honour amonge all men, and the bed vndespiled. As for whose keepers and aduouterers God shal iudge them. Let youre conuersacion be wythout couetousnes and becontente wyth suche thinges as ye haue all ready: For he hath sayd: I wyl not fayle the, nether forsake the, so þ we may boldly say: the Lord is my helper: and I wyl not feare what mā may do vnto me. Remembre the which haue the ouer spght of you, which haue spoken vnto you þ word of god. Whole sayth se þ ye so low and consyder the ende of theyr conuersaciō.

Jesus Christ yesterdays and to daye, and the same continueth for euer. * Be not carped aboute wyth dyuers and straunge lernynge. For it is a good thing that the heret be stablyshed wyth grace, and not wyth meates: whych haue not profyted them that haue had theyr payme in them. We haue an aulter, wherof they maye not eate, whych serue in the tabernacle. * For the bodies of those bestes whose bloude is brought into the holy place by the hye preaste to pouрге synne, are burnt withoute the tentes. Wherefore Iesus also to sanctifye þ people with hye owne bloude, suffred * wythoute the gate. Let vs go forth therfore vnto hym: oute of the tentes, and suffre rebuke wyth hym. For heare haue we no contynuyng cytye: but we seke one to come. By him therfore do we offre sacryfice of laude alwayes to God: that is to say the fruit of those lyppes which confesse his name. To do good & to dystribute, forget not, for * with such sacryfices God is pleased. * Obeie them þ haue ouerspght of you, and submyt your selues vnto them, for they watche for your soules, euen as they that must geue accōptes: that they may do it wyth ioye, and not wyth greife. For that is an vnprofytable thyng for you. Praye for vs. For we trust we haue a good conscience among all men: and desyre to lyue honestly. But I desyre you the moare, that ye so do, that I may be restored to you the soner.

The God of peace that brought agayne from death oure Lord Iesus * the great sheperde of the shepe, thozow þ bloud of þ euerlastyng Testament, make you perfecte in all good worches to do bys wyll, & byynge to passe that the thing whych ye do, maye be plesaunte in bys syghte thozowe Iesus Christ, To whome be prayse for euer whyle the worlde endureth. Amen.

I beseech you brethren, suffre the worde of exhortaciō, for we haue wyrtten vnto you in few wordes. Ye knowe our brother Tymothe, that he is at libertie: with whome (yf he come shortly) I wil se you. Salute the that haue the ouer spght of you, and al the sayntes. They of Italy salute you. Grace be wythall Amen.

Yf any of you lacke wyledome, let hym aske of hym that geneth it euen God, whych geneth to all men indifferently, & casteth no man in the teth, and it shal be geuen hym. But let him aske in fayth, and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke a waue of the see, whych is tost of the wyndes, and carped wyth vyolence. The.ii.Chapter.

It is forbidden to have any respects of persons, and no favour of any kind to be shown to any man, woman, or child, in the court of law, where no dead are.

Metethere, esteeme not the sayth of oure Lorde Iesus Christ the Lorde of glorie^t wth the res-pecte of persons.

Now if there come into your company a man wearing a golden ring, clothed in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in rags, and ye have a respect to him that weareth the gaye clothing, and saye vnto him Syt thou here in a good place: and saye vnto the poore: Stande thou there, or syt here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parcial in your selues, and have indulged after euell thoughts?

Werken my deare beloved breathren. Hath not God chosen the poore of thys worlde, such as are ryche in fayth, and hepers of the kynge-dome, which he promised to them that loue him But ye haue dyspyled the poore. Do not ryche men execute tyrannie vpon you, & draue you before þe iudgemēt seates. Do not they speak euil of þe good name whych is called vpon ouer you.

¶ If ye fulfyll the royall lawe, accordynge to the scripture. ⁊ (Thou shalt loue thyne neygh-boure as thy selfe) ye do wel. But yf ye regarde one person moze then another, ye commyt synne and are rebuked of the lawe, as transgressours.
Whosoener shall kepe the whole lawe, ⁊ and yet fayle in one poynte, he is gyltye of all.

For he that sayde: Thou shalt not commyt aduotrye: sayde also: thou shalt not kyll. Though thou do none aduotrye, yet yf thou kyl, thou art become a transgressour of the lawe.

So ſpeake ye, and ſo do, as they that ſhal be iudged by the lawe of libertie. For he ſhal haue iudgement without merce: that ſeeth no merce, and merce reioyleth againſt iudgement.

What anayleth it my breathzen, though a

Can sayth saue him? Yf a brother or a syster be

But some man will say: thou hast a sayth, D and I haue deades: shewe me thy sayth by thy de des. Beleuest thou y there is one God? Thou doest well. The deuels also beleue and tremble.

But wylte thou vnderſtande, (O thou bay-

The. iii. Chapter.

¶ What good and suell cometh thereofe the tongue. The duty of such as be learned. The difference betwixt the wisdom of the Gospel, and the wisdom of the world.

Brethren * be not euery mā a ma ster, knowynge howe that we shall receaue the greater dampnaciō: for in many thynges we synne all.

¶ If a man synne not in worde,
the

the same is a perfect man, and able also to tame all the body. Beholde, we put byttes into y horses mouthes, that they maye obeye vs, and we turne aboute all the bodye of them. Behold also the hyppes, whyche though they be so greate, and are dyuen of fearle wyndes, yet are they turned about wyth a very smal helme whyther soeuer the violence of the gouerner wyll. Euen so the tongue is a lytle mebbe also, and boasterh great thynges.

B Beholde, howe greate a thyng a lytle fyre kyndleth, and the tongue is fyre, euen a world of wyckednes. So is the tongue sette among oure membres, that it defyleth the whole bodye, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set afyre euen of hell.

All the natures of beastes, and of byrdes, and of serpentis, and thynges of the see are meked and tamed of the nature of mā. But the tongue can noman tame. It is an vnryle euell, full of deadly popson. Therwyth blesse we God the father, and therwyth curse we men, * whyche are made after the ymage and sympletyude of God. Out of one mouth procede th blessing and cursyng. My brethren, these thynges oughte not so to be. Doth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water and bytter also? Can the fygge tree (my brethren) beare olyue berpes: ether a vyne beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salte water and frethe also. If any man be wysle and endued with knowlage among you, let hym shewe his workes out of good conuersacion with mekenes of wysedome.

D But yf ye haue bytter enuyng and stryfe in your harte, reioyce not: nether be lyars agaynst the truthe: For suche wysedome descendeth not from aboue: but is earthy, naturall, and deuelyshe. For where enuyng and stryfe is, there is vnstabilenes, and al maner of euell workes. But the wysedome that is from aboue, is fyfte pure, then peasable, gentle, and easye to be entreated, full of merce and good frutes, wythoute iudgyng, wythout simulacion: yee, and the frute of ryghteousnesse is sowen in peace, of them that mayntayne peace.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Warre and fyghtyng cometh of volupuousnes. The frendshyp of the world is enemye before God. An exhortacion to flye slaundre and the vanyte of this lyfe.

From whence cometh warre, and fyghtyng among you? come they not here hence: euē of your lustes, that fyght in your membres? Ye lust, & haue not. Ye enuy and haue indignacyon, & can not obtayne. Ye fyght & warre, Ye haue not because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not, because ye aske amysse: euē to consume it vpon your lustes. Ye aduoutrers, and wemen that breake matrimony: know ye not how that * the frendshyp of the world, is enemye wyth God: whosoever therfore wyl be a frende of the world, is made the enemye of God. Eytter do ye thynke that the scrpyture sayeth in vayne. The spyte that dwelleth in vs, lasteth euen contrary to enuy: but geueth more grace, * (wherfore he sayeth, God resisteth the proude, but geueth grace vnto the lowly.)

* Submitte youre selues therfore to God, B but resist the deuell, and he wyll flye from you. Drawe nye to God, and he wyll drawe nye to you. Cense your handes ye synners, and poure your hertes ye waueryng mynded. Suffre afflictions: and mourne, & wepe. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your ioye to heupnes. * Humble your selues in the syght of the Lorde, and he shall lyfte you vp. Backbite not one another, brethren. He that backbiteth his brother, and he that iudgeth his brother, backbiteth the lawe, and iudgeth the lawe. But and yf thou iudge the lawe, thou arte not an obletuer of the lawe: but a iudge. There is one lawe geuer * (and iudge) whyche is able to saue and to destroye. * What art thou that iudgeth another? Go to nowe ye that say: * to day and to morowe let vs go into suche a cytie and contynue there a yere, and buye and sell, and wyne: and yet can not ye tell, what shall happen on the morowe. For what thyng is youre lyfe? It is euen a vapoure, that appeareth for a lytle tyme: and then he vanysheth awaye. For that ye ought to saye: * If the Lorde wyll, and yf we lyue, let vs do this or that. But nowe ye reioyse in your boastinges. All suche reioysyng is euell. Therfore * to hym that knoweth howe to do good, & doth it not, to hym it is synne.

The. v. Chapter.

He threateneth the wicked ryche men, exhorteth vnto pacyence: to beware of swearyng. One to knowlage his fautes to another, one to praye for another, and one to laboure to byng another to the truthe.

Go to nowe ye ryche men, wepe and howle on your wretchednes that shall come vpon you. Your ryches are corrupte, your garmentes are motheate. Your gold and syluer is cankered, and the ruste of them shall be a witness vnto you, and shall eat your fleshe as it were fyre.

Ye haue heaped treasure together * (euen wyth to your selues) in your laste dayes. Beholde, * the hye of labourers whyche haue reaped downe your felde (whyche hye is of you kept backe by fraude) cryeth, and the cryes of them whyche haue reaped, are entred into the eares of the Lord Sabaoth. Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the earthe, and bene wanton. Ye haue noyshed your hertes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and kylled the iuste: and he hath not resisted you. * Be pacyente therfore brethren vnto the comyng of the Lorde. Beholde, the husbnde man waiteth for the precyous frute of the earth and hath longe pacyence thereupon, vntyll he receaue the earlye and the later rayne. Be ye also Apostle.

The fyrst Chapter.

It sheweth that thowhe the abundant mercy of God we are begotten agayne to a lyuely hope: and howe sayth must be tryed, howe the saluacion in Christe is no newes, but a thyng prophesied of olde. He exhorteth them to a godly conuersacion, for so muche as they are now boine a newe by the worde of God.

death) to an enheritaunce immortall and undefyled, and that perissheth not, reserved in heauen thowhe sayth unto saluacion, whych is prepared already to be shewed in the laste tyme in the whiche ye reioyse, though nowe for a season (ye folde temptacions, & the tryall of your sayth beyng muche moze precyous then golde that perceayng the ende of your sayth, euen the salua-cion of your soules.

Of which saluacion hane * the prophetes enquyred and searched, whiche prophesied of the grace that shuld come vnto you, searchyng whē in them) shoulde signifye, whych spyrte testified before, the passyngs that shoulde happen vnto Christe, and the glorie that shoulde folow after, vnto whiche prophetes it was also declared, & also pacient therfore, and sette youre hertes, for the commyng of the LORDE draweth nye.

Grudge not one agaynst another brethren, least ye bee damned. Beholde, the iudge standeth before the doore. Take (my brethren) the Prophetes for an ensample of sufferynge aduersyte, and of pacience, whiche spake in the name of the Lorde. Beholde, * we counte them happye whiche endure. Ye haue hearde of the pacience of Job, and haue knowen what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very pytyfull and mercyfull.

C But aboue all thynges my brethren * we are not, neyther by heauen, neyther by earthe, neyther any other othe. Let your yee, be yee, and your name name: least ye fall into ypcocrisie. If any of you bee vexed, let hym praye, if any of you be merse, let hym synge Psalmes. If any be dyspleased among you, let hym call for the elders of the congregacyon, and let them praye ouer hym, * anoynte hym with oyle in the name of the Lorde, and the prayer of sayth shal saue the spoke, and the Lorde shal rayse hym vp: and if he haue commytted synnes they shalbe forgo-uen hym.

D Knowlage pour fautes one to another and praye one for another, that ye maye be healed. For the feruent prayer of a ryghteous man fyrmyties euen as we are, and he prayed in hys prayer that it myghte not rayne: * and it ray-ned not on the earthe by the space of thre yeres and the heauen gaue rayne, and the earthe of S. James.

of Christ: but as he whiche called you his holpe, euen so be ye holy also in all maner of conuersation, because it is wyrtten: * Be ye holpe, for I am holy.

And yf so be that ye call on the father, whych without respecte of person iudgeth * accordyng to euery mans worke, se that ye passe the tyme of your pylgrymage in feare. * For as much as ye knowe, howe that ye wer not redeemed with corruptible thynges (as syluer and gold) from your vayne conuersation, whych ye receaved by the tradicion of the fathers: but * with the precyous bloude of Christe, as of a lambe vndefyled, and without spot whych was ordeyned before hand euen before the world was made: but was declared in the laste tymes * for your sakes, whych by his meanes do beleue on God, that rayled hym by from death, * glorified hym, that ye myght haue fayth and hope toward God, eue ye whiche haue purifyed your soules thorow the spyte, in obeyng the truthe wyth brotherlye loue vnsayned, se that ye loue one another wyth a pure hert feruently: for ye are bozne a newe, not of mortal seed, but of immortall, by the word of God, which lyueth and lasteth for euer.

* For all fleshe is grasse, and all the glorie of man is as the floure of grasse. The grasse wyddereth, and the floure falleth away, but the word of the Lorde endureth euer. * And thys is the worde whych by the Gospell was preached vnto you.

The.ii. Chapter.

He exhorteth men to laye asyde all vyce, to abstayne fro fleschly lustes, and obeye worldly rulers. Some seruantes should behaue them selues toward their masters. He exhorteth to suffre after the ensample of Christ.

Wherfore laye asyde all malprouenes and all gyle, and fawnednesse, & enuy and all backbytng: * and as newe bozne babes, desyre ye that milke (not of the bodie but of the soule) whych is wythout dysceate: that ye maye growe thereby, * (vnto saluacion) Yf so bee that ye haue tasted, howe gracious the Lorde is, to whome ye come, as vnto a lyupng stone, dysfallowed of men, but chosen of God and precyous: and ye as lyupng stones are made a spirytual house & holy presthode for to offer vpspyritual sacryfices acceptable to God by Iesus Christe. Wherfore it is contayned also in the scripture: * beholde I put in Syon a stone to be layd in the chiefe corner, electe and precyous, and he that beleueth on him shal not be confounded. Vnto you therfore whiche beleue he is precyous: but vnto them whiche beleue not * the stone whych the buylders refused, the same is begon to be the heade of the corner, & a stone that men stomble at, and a rocke wherat they be offended whych stomble at the worde, & beleue not that wheron they wer set. But ye are a chosen generacion, a royall * presthode, * an holye nacion, a people whych are wonne: that ye should shewe the vertues of hym, that called you out of darknes into his maruelous light: whiche in tyme past wer not a people, but are nowe the people of God: whiche somtyme had not obtayned mercy, but now haue obtayned mercy.

* Dearly beloued, I beseeche you as straungers and pylgryms, abstayne * fro fleschly lustes which fyght against your soule, and se that ye haue honest conuersacion among the Gentyles, that wher as they backbite you as euell doers * they maye se poure good workes, and prayse God in the daye of visytacon.

* Submyt your selues therfore vnto all manner ordynance of man, for the Lordes sake, wher it be vnto the kyng, as vnto the chiefe head: other vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sent of hym, for the punishment of euell doers, but for the laude of them that do well. For so is the wil of God, that with wel doyng ye maye stoppe the mouthes of folishe and ignoraunt men as fre, & not as haupng the lybertie for a clocke of malprouyness, but euen as the seruantes of God. * Honour all men: Lone brotherly felowshyppe. Feare God, honour the kyng.

* Seruantes obey your masters wyth feare not only yf they be good and curteous: but also though they be froward. * For it is thanke worthe, yf a man for conscience toward God endure grete, and suffer wronge vnderferved. For what prayse is it, yf wher ye be buffered for your fautes, ye take it pacyently? But yf when ye do well ye suffer wrong and take it pacyently, then is there thanke wyth God.

For herunto verely wer ye called: for Christ also suffered for vs * leauyng vs an ensample yf ye should folow his steppes, whych dyd no synne nether was there gyle found in hym: whiche when he was reupled, reupled not agayne: when he suffered, he threatened not, but commytted the vengeance to hym that iudgeth righteouslye * whiche hym owne selfe bare oure synnes in his body on the tree, that we beyng deliuered from synne, shuld lyue vnto righteousnes. By whose stryppes ye were healed. For ye wer as shepe goyng astraye: but are nowe turned vnto the shepherde and byshop of your soules.

The.iii. Chapter.

Some wyues ought to ordre the selues toward their husbendes and in their apparell. The deuote of men toward their wyues. He exhorteth al men to vnite and loue and pacyently to suffre trouble. Of baptyme.

Like wyse * ye wyues bee in subiecty on to your husbendes, that euen the whych obey not your worde, maye wythout the worde be wonne, by the conuersacion of the wyues, whyle they beholde your chaste conuersacion coupled wyth feare. Whose apparel shal not be outward with brydded heare, and hangynge on of golde ether in puttyng on of gorgyous apparell: but let the hyd manne whych is in the hert be wythout all corrupcion, so that the spyte be at rest and quyet: whiche spyte is before God a thyng muche set by. For after thys maner in the olde tyme dyd the holpe women, whych trusted in God, tyer them selues, and were obedyent vnto their husbendes, euen as Sara obeyed Abraham, and called hym Lorde: whose daughters ye are ers be not hyndered. In conclusyon, be ye all of one mynde, of one hearte, loue as brethren, be pytyfull, be curteous, (mcke) not rendyng euell dayes, let hym refrayne hys tongue from euell & hys lippes that they speake no gyle. Let hym eschue euell, and do good: let hym like peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lorde are ouer the ryghteous, and hys eares (are open) vnto theyr prayers. Agayn: the face of the Lorde is ouer them that do euell.

ed for synnes, the iuste for the vniuste, to buyng vs to God, and was kylled, as pertaynyng to the fleshe: but was quickened in the spyte. In whyche spyte he also went and preached vnto spytes that wer in prison, whyche somtyme had

The. iiii. Chapter.

C He exhorteth men to cease from synne, and no man to suffre as an euell doer, but as Christen men.

A If as much then as Christ hath suffered for vs in the fleshe, arme ye your selues lyke wyle wyth the same mynd for he whyche suffereth in the fleshe, ceaseth from synne that he henceforward shuld liue (as much tyme as remayneth in the fleshe) not after the lustes of men, but after the wyl of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spent the tyme that is past of the life, after the wyl of the * Gentyls, walkyng in wantonnes, lustes, in excelsse of wyues, in excelsse of eatyng, in excelsse of drynkynge (in dronkennes) and in abhomynable ydolatry.

And it semeth to them an inconuenient thyng that ye runne not also wyth them vnto the same excelsse of ryote, and therfore speake they euell of you, whych shall geue accomptes to hym that is ready to iudge quicke and dead. For vnto this purpose verely was the Gospell preached also vnto the dead, that they should be iudged like other men in the fleshe, but shuld lyue before God in the spyte. The ende of all thynges is at hand.

Be ye therfore sobre, & watcy vnto prayer But aboue all thynges haue feruent loue amog your selues. For loue shall couer the multitude of synnes. * Wepe herberous one to another,
* wythout grudgyng. As euery man hath recei-ued the gyft, euell to mynister the same one to another, as good mynisters of manyfold grace of God. Yf any man speake, let him talke as yf wor-des of God. * Yf any man mynister, let hym do it as of the abylytie, which God mynistreth vnto to hym. That God in all thynges may be gloryfied thowhe Iesus Christ, I to who be prayse and domynyon for euer and euer. Amen.

Dearelye beloved, maruayle not that ye are proued by fyre (whyche thyng is to trye you) as thoughe some straunge thyng happened vnto you: but reioyse, in as much as ye are partakers of Christes passyon: that when hys glorye ap-peareth, ye maye be merue and glad. * Yf ye bee rayled vpo for the name of Christ happy are ye: For the glory and the spyte of God resteth vpo you. On theyr parte he is euell spoken of, but on your parte he is gloryfied.

Be that none of you bee punyshed as a mur-therer, or as a thefe, or an euell doer, or as a bu-sibody in other mens matters. Yf any man suffre as a Christen man, let hym not be ashamed: but let hym gloryfy God on his behalfe: For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begynne at the house of God. Yf it fyrste begyn at vs, what shall the ende be of them whyche beleue not the Gospell of God? And yf the ryghteous scarcely be saued: where shal the vngodly and the synner appeare? Wherfore, let them that are troubled accordyng to the wyl of God commytte theyr soules to hym wyth wel doyng, as vnto a fayth-full creatoure.

The. v. Chapter.

C A speccall exhortacion for all byshoppes and piores.
He exhorteth younge persones to submyt them selues to the elders, and euery one to loue another.

Elders whyche are among you, I ex-horte whyche am also an elder, and a wytnes of the afflictions of Christe and also a partaker of the glory that shalbe opened. * Feede ye Christes flocke, as much as lyeth in you, takyng the ouer-syght of them, not as compelled therto, but wyl-lynglye: (after a godly sorte) not for the desyre of filthy lucre: but of a good mynd, not as though ye were lordes ouer the parishes: but * that ye be an ensample to the flocke (as that with good wyl) And when the chiefe shepherde shall appeare, ye shall receaue * an incorruptible crowne of glory

To hym be glozy and dominion for ever, and ever Amen.

By Sylluanus a faythfull brother vnto you (as I suppose) haue I writte briefly, exhortyng and testifyng, howe that thys is the true grace of God, wherin ye stande. The congregacion of them whych at Babylon are companions of your election, saluteth you, and so doeth Marcus my sonne.

The second Epistle of of Saynt Peter the Apostle.

The fyrst Chapter.

For as much as the power of God hath geuen vs all thynges partaynyng vnto life: he exhorteth vs to make our calling knowne by good workes and frutes of faith. He maketh mencion of his owne death.

Vpon Peter a seruaunte, and an Apostle of Iesus Christe, to them whych haue obtained lyke precious fayth wth vs thorowe the ryghteousnes of our God and sauyoure Iesus Christ.

*Grace bee vnto you, and peace bee multiplied thorowe the knowlage of God and of Iesus our Lorde. Accordyng as bys godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges pertyayne vnto lyfe and godlynes, thorowe the knowlage of him that hath called vs by glorie, & vertue, by the whych are geuen vnto vs excellent and moste great promyses, that by the meanes therof ye myght be partakers of the Godly nature, yf ye flye the corrupcyon of worldly luste.

And hereunto geue all diligence in your fayth minister vertue: in vertue knowlage: in knowlage temperaunce: in temperaunce patience: in patience godlynes: in godlynes brotherly kindnes in brotherly kindnes loue. For yf these thynges be among you, and be plenteous, they wyl make you that ye neyther shalbe ydle nor vnfrutefull in the knowlage of our Lord Iesus Christ. But he that lacketh these thynges, is blinde and gropeth for the waye with his hand, & hath forgot-ten, that he was purged from his old synnes.

Wherfore brethren, geue the more diligence, for to make your callinge and eleccyon sure, (by good workes,) For yf ye do suche thynges, ye shal neuer fall. Pee, and by thys meanes an entryng in shalbe mynistrer vnto you a boundant lyfe into the everlastyng kyngdom of our Lorde and sauyoure Iesus Christ.

Wherfore, I wyl not be negligent to putte you alwayes in remembraunce of such thynges though ye knowe them your selues, and be stablyshed in the present truthe. Notwithstanding I thynke it mete (as long as I am in this tabernacle) to steepe you vp, by puttynge you in remembraunce, for as muche as I am sure, that shortly I must put of thys my tabernacle, & euen as our Lord Iesus Christ shewed me. I wyl euer also geue my dyligence, that ye maye haue wherwyt to steepe vpon the remembraunce of these thynges after my departyng.

*For we haue not folowed deceatfull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and comyng of our Lord Iesus Christ, but wth our eyes we sawe bys maiestie: euen then verely whē he receaued of God the father honour and glorie and when there came such a voyce to hym from the excellent glorie. *Thys is my dere beloved sonne, in whome I haue deelyte. Thys voyce we hearde come from heauen, when we were wth hym in the holy mount.

We haue also a ryght sure word of prophēcy, wherunto yf ye take hede, as vnto a light that shyneth in a darcke place, ye do well, vntill the daye dawne, and the daye starre aryse in your hertes. So that ye fyrst knowe thys: that no prophēcy in the scripture hath any priuate interpretation. For the scripture came neuer by the wyl of man: but holy men of God spake, as they were moued by the holy goste.

The ii. Chapter.

The prophēcy of false teachers and the wyl theyr punishment.

There were false Prophetes also amonge the people, euen as there shalbe false teachers amonge you: whych pryncypally shal byng in damnable sectes (euen denyng the Lord that hath boughte them) and byng vpon them selues swyfte damnacion and many shal folow theyr damnable wayes, by whome the waye of truthe shalbe euell spoken of, and thorowe conetousnes shal thei withfained wordes make marchaundyse of you, whose iudgement is nowe not farre of, and theyr damnacion slepeth not.

For yf God spared not the angels that sinned but cast them doune into hell, & deliuered them into chaynes of darkenes (to bee punished) to be kept vnto iudgement: neyther spared the olde woꝛlde, but saued * Doe the ryghte preacher of ryghte oules, and broughte in the floude vpon the woꝛlde of the vngodly, and turned the cyties of Sodom and Gomoz into ashes: ouerthrewe them, dampned them, and made on them an example vnto those that after shoulde lyue vngodly: And iuste * Lot vexed wth the vnclely conuersacion of the wicked, deliuered he. For he beyng ryghteous, and dwelling amonge the inseyne and hearynge, vexed hys ryghteous soule from daye to daye wth theyr vnlawfull dedes. * The Lorde knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temptacions, and to reserue the vniuste vnto the daye of iudgemente for to be punished: but cheselye them that walke after the fleshe in the lust of vncleynesse, and despyse authoritye. Presumptuous are they, and stubborne, whyche feare not to speake euell of them that excell in woꝛthypp. When the angels whyche are greater bothe in power and myghte, receaue not of the Lorde raylyng iudgement agaynst them selues. But these as brute beastes, naturallie brought forth to be taken and destroyed, spake euell of the thynges that they vnderstande not, and shall peryshe in theyr owne destruction, and receaue the rewarde of vnyghteousnes.

They counte it pleasure to lyue delypoulyse for a season. Spottes they are and fylthynges: whyche lyue at pleasure in theyr owne decauabable wayes, feastyng and scoꝛnyng you: haung theys ful of aduoutye, and that cannot cease fro synne: beglyng vnstable soules. heartes they haue exteꝛpiled wth robberye. They are curled chyldzen whyche haue forsaken the ryght waye, and are gone astraye folowng the wape of Balaam the sonne of Bosoꝛ whyche loued the rewarde of vnyghteousnes: but was rebuked of hys iniquyte. The same and domme beast speaking wth mannes voyce, forbad the madnes of the prophete.

* These are welles wythoute water: cloudes that are carryed wth a tempeste, to whome the myst of darknes is reserued for euer. For when they haue spoken the great swellng woꝛdes of vanitee, they entyse theowylustres in the voluptuousnes of the fleshe, them that were cleane escaped: cutt the that now lyue in erreour: whyle they promes them lyberte, where as they them selues are the bonde seruauntes of corrupcion:

* For of whom a man is overcome, vnto flame is he broughte in bondage. * For yf they (after they haue escaped from the fylthynges of y woꝛld theow the knowlage of the Lorde and the sauoure Jesu Christ) are yet tangled agayn therein, and overcome * then is the latter ende woꝛse wth them then the begynnyng. For it had ben better for them, not to haue knowen the way of ryghteousnes, then after they haue knowen it, to turne from the holpe commaundemente that was geuen vnto them. But thesame is happened vnto them that is vsed to bee spoken by the true pꝛouerbe: * The doggue is turned to hys owne vomit agayne, and the sow that was washed is turned agayne to her wallowng in the myre.

The .iii. Chapter.

Of the daye of the Lorde, whose longe taryng is saluacion.

This is the seconde epistle that I now wyte vnto you dearly beloued, wherewith I steere vpon your sincere mynd, by puttyng you in remembraunce, that ye maye be myndfull of the woꝛdes (whyche were tolde befoze of the holy prophetes) and also the comaundement of vs which be Apostles of the Lorde and sauoure.

* Chysfyrst vnderstand, that ther shal come in the laste dayes, mockers (in decaetfulnesse) whych wyl walke after theyr owne lustes, and saye: Where is the promes of hys commyng? For sence the fathers dyed, al thynges continue in thesame estate wherin they wer at the begynnyng. For thys they knowe not (and that wylfully) howe that the heauens a great whyle ago were, and the earthe oute of the water appeared by theow the water, by the woꝛde of God: by the which thynges the woꝛld that then was, perished beyng ouerrunnen with water. * But the heauens & earth whyche are now, be kept by hys woꝛde in store, and reserued vnto fyre, agaynst the daye of iudgement and perdyccion of vngodlye men. Dearelye beloued, be not ignorant of thys one thyng, howe that * one daye is wyth the Lorde as a thousande yere, and a thousande yere as one daye. The Lorde that hathe promysed, is not slacke, as some men counte slackenes: but is payente to vs warde: for as muche as he would haue no man losse, but wyl receaue all men to repentaunce.

Neuerthelesse * the daye of the Lorde wil come as a thefe in the nyght, in the whych day, the heauens shal passe away in maner as a tempest, & the elementes shal melt wth heat: the earth also & the woꝛkes that are therein, shal burne. Repynge then that all these thynges shal peryshe, what maner persons ought ye to be in holy conuersacion, and godlynes: lokyng for, & hastnyng vnto the commyng of the daye of God, by whiche the heauens shal peryshe wth fyre, and the elementes shal melte wth heate. * Neuerthelesse we (accorpyng to hys promys) looke for a newe heauen and a newe earthe, wherein dwelleth ryghteousnes.

Wherfore dearelye beloued, seyng that ye loke for such thynges, be diligente that ye maye be founde of hym in peace, wythout spotte & vndefyled. And suppose that the longe sufferyng of the Lorde is saluacion, euen as our dearelye beloued brother Paule also (accorpyng to the wyl some geuen vnto hym) hath wyrtten vnto you, pee, almoste in euery epistle, speaking of suche thynges: amonge whyche are manye thynges herde to bee vnderstande, whyche they that are vnlearned and vnstable, peruerse, as they do also the other scryptures vnto theyr owne destruction

The firste Epistle of saunte Ihon the Apostle.

The firste Chapter.

Thus wittenesse of the euertlastyng woorde of God.
The bloodde of Christ is the purgacion from synne No manne is without synne.

In which was from the begynnyng, which we haue hearde, which wee haue sene w our eyes, which wee haue looked vpon, and oure handes haue handeled of the woorde of life. And the life appeared, and wee haue sene and heare wittenes, and shewe vnto you * eternall life which was with the father, and appeared vnto vs. That which wee haue sene and hearde, declare vnto you, that ye also maye haue fellowship with vs, that oure fellowship maye bee with the father, and his soonne Iesus Christe. And this write wee vnto you, that (ye maye receyue, and that) your loye maye bee full.

And this is the thynges which wee haue heard of hym and declare vnto you, that God is lighte, and in hym is no darkenes at all. If wee saie that we haue fellowship with hym, and walke in darkenes, we lie: and dooe not the truth. But and we walke in light euen as he is in light, the haue wee fellowship with hym, and the bloodde of Iesus Christ his soonne cleaseth vs fro all synne. * If we saie y wee haue no synne, wee deceiue our selues, & the truth is not in vs: * If we knowe our synnes, he is faithfull, & iust, to forgiue vs our synnes, and to clenise vs from all vnrigh teousnes. If we saie wee haue not synned, wee make hym a lyar, and his woorde is not in vs.

The. ii. Chapter.

Christ is our aduocate. Of true loue, and how it is reled.

Little chyldren these thynges write I vnto you, that ye synne not. And if any manne synne, wee haue an aduocate with the father, Iesus Christe the righteous: and he it is that obtaineth grace for our synnes, not for our synnes onely, but also for the synnes of the worlde. * And herby wee are sure that wee knowe hym if wee kepe his commaundementes: * He that saith I knowe hym, & kepeth not his commaundementes is a lyer, and the verite is not in hym. But whoso kepeth his woorde, in hym is the loue of God perfecte in dedde, hereby knowe wee that wee are in hym. He that saith: he bydeth in hym ought to walke euen as he walked. *

Brethren, I write no newe commaundement vnto you: but that olde comaundement, which ye haue had from the begynnyng. The old commaundement is y woorde which ye haue heard from the begynnyng. Again, a newe commaundement I write vnto you, y is true in hym and the same is true also in you: for the darkenesse is passe, and the true lighte now shineth. * He that saith, how that he is in the light, and yet hateth his brother, is in darkenesse euen vntill this time. He that loueth his brother, abydeth in the lighte and there in no occasion of euill in hym. He that hateth his brother is in darkenesse: and walketh in darkenesse: and cannot tell whether he goeth, because that darkenes hath blynded his eyes.

Babes I write vnto you, how that your synnes are forgiuen you: for his names sake. I write vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the begynnyng; I write vnto you young menne, howe that ye haue overcome the wycked. I write vnto you litle chyldren, howe that ye haue knowen the father I haue wrytten vnto you fathers, how that ye haue knowe hym that is from the begynnyng. I haue wrytten vnto you young menne, how that ye are strong, and the woorde of God abydeth in you, and ye haue overcome the wycked. See that ye loue not the world, neither the thynges that are in the world. If any manne loue, the world, the loue of the father is not in hym. For all that is in the worlde, (as the luste of the flesh, and the luste of the eyes and the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father: but of the worlde. And the worlde passeth awayne, and the luste thereof: but he that fulfilleth the will of God abydeth for euer. *

Little chyldren, it is the laste tyme, and as ye haue heard, how that Antechrist shall come, eue now are there many begon to bee Antechristes already: wherby wee knowe, that it is the last tyme. * They wente out from vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had been of vs, they would no doubt, haue contynued with vs. But that is myghte appare, that they were not of vs. Reuerthelesse, ye haue an oyntemente of hym that is holy, and ye knowe all thynges. * I haue not wrytten vnto you, as though ye knewe not the trueth: but as though ye knewe it (and knowe also) that no lye cometh of trueth. Who is a lyer but he that denieth that Iesus is Christe: the same is Antechriste, that denieth the father and the soone, whosoever denieth the soonne, the same hath not the father. (He that knowelageth the soonne, hath the father also.) Let therfore abyde in you that same which ye heard from the begynnyng. If that which ye hearde from the begynnyng shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the soonne & in the father. And this is the promise that he hath promised vs: euen eternall life.

These thynges haue I wrytten vnto, con. tynnyng theim that deceiue you. And the annoyntynge which ye haue receiued of hym that dwelleth in you. And ye nede not, that any man teache you: but as the annoyntynge teacheth you of all thynges, and it is true, and noly, and as it hath taught, euen so byde therein. And now habes abide in hym: that whē he shall appeare we maye bee bold, & not to bee made ashamed of hym at his

at his commyng. If ye knowe that he is righteous, knowe also that every one whiche dooeth righteousnes, is bozne of hym.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The synagoge lone of God towarde vs, and howe wee again ought to loue one another.

Luke. xx. f.
* Ihon. i. b.

Behold, what lone the father hath shewed on vs, that wee should becal-led (and bee in deede) the * soonnes of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Derely beloued, now are wee the soon-nes of God and yet it dooeth not appeare, what wee shal bee. But wee knowe that when it shal appere: wee shal bee like hym. For wee shal see hym as he is. And every manne þ hath this hope in hym, purgeth hymself, even as he also is pure.
Whosoever committeth synne, committeth vnrighteousnes also, and synne is vnrightheousnes.
And ye knowe that he appeared, to take awaye our synnes, and in hym is no sinne. As many as byde in hym synne not, but whosoever synneth hath not sene hym, nether knoweth hym.

Gene. iii. a.
Ihon. viii. f.

Babes, let no manne disceine you, he þ dooth righteousnes is righteous: even as he is righteous. He that committeth synne, is of the deuell: for the deuell synneth cense the begynnyng. For this purpose appered the soone of God, to loue the woorkes of þ deuell. Whosoever is bozne of God, synneth not: for his seede remaineth in him & he cannot synne, because he is bozne of God. In this are the chyldzen of God knowen, & the chyl-dzen of þ deuell, whosoever doth not righteousnes is not of God, nether he þ loueth not his brother.

Gene. iii. b

For this is the tidynge, that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye should loue one another not as Cain whiche was of þ wicked, and slewe his brother. And wherefore slewe he hym? Because his owne woorkes wer euill and his brothers good. * Maruail not my brethren though the worlde hate you. Wee knowe, þ we are translated fro death to life, because wee loued þ brethren. * He that loueth not his brother, abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother, is a mansleer. And ye knowe that no mansleer, hath eter-nall life abyding in hym. Hereby perceiue wee loue, because he gaue his life for vs: & wee ought to geue our liues for þ brethren. But whoso hath this worlde good and * seeth his brother haue nede, and shutteth vp his compassion from hym how dwelleth þ loue of God in hym? My babes let vs not loue in woord nether in tounge: but in deede and in verite. Hereby wee knowe, that wee are of the verite and can quiet our heartes before hym. For if our hearte condempne vs, God is greater then our hearte, and knoweth al thynges.

soeuer wee aske wee receiue of hym, because we keepe his commaundementes, and dooe those thynges whiche are pleasaunte in his sight. And this is his commaundemente, that wee beleue on the name of his soonne Iesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue commaundemente. And he þ kepeth his commaundementes, dwelleth in hym and he in hym, & derby knowe wee þ he abydeth in vs euen by the spirite whiche he hath geue vs

The. iiii. Chapter.

Difference of spirites and how the spirite of God maye bee knowen from the spirite of erreure. Of the loue of God, and our neighbours.

Derely beloued * beleue not every spi-rite: but proue the spirites, whether they are of God or not, * for manye falle prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Hereby shal ye knowe the spirite of God. Every spirite that confesseth that Iesus Christe is come in fleshe, is of God. And every spirite that confesseth not þ Iesus Christe is come in the fleshe is not of God. And thys is that spirite of Antichriste, of whome ye haue harde howe that he shoulde come: and euen now alredy is he in the worlde. Litle chyldzen, ye are of God and haue ouercome theim: for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. Thei are of the worlde, therefore speake they of the worlde and the worlde heareth theim. Wee are of God.
He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe wee the spirite of veritie and the spirite of erreure.

Derely beloued * let vs loue one another: for loue cometh of God. And euery one that loueth is bozne of God, and knoweth God. He that lo-ueth not knoweth not God: for * God is loue.
In this appeareth the loue of God, to vs warde: because that * God sente his onely begotten soonne into the worlde, that wee myghte lye through hym. Herein is loue, not that wee loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his soonne to bee the agremente for our synnes.

Derely beloued, if God so loued vs, we ought also to loue one another. * Roma hath sene God at any tyme. If wee loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfecte in vs. Hereby knowe wee that wee dwell in hym, and he in vs because he hath geuen vs of his spirite. And wee haue sene, and dooe testifie, that the father sente the soonne to bee the sauour of the worlde. Whosoeuer confesseth that Iesus is þ soonne of God in hym dwelleth God, and he in God. And wee haue knowen and beleued þ loue that God hath to vs. God is loue, and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in hym.

Herein is the loue perfecte in vs, þ wee should haue trust in the daye of iudgemente: for as he is euen so are wee in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath paynfulnes. He that feareth, is not perfecte in loue. Wee loue hym: for he loued vs first. If a manne saie I loue God, and yet hate his brother he is a lyar. For how can he that loueth not his brother whom he hath sene, loue God whom he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue wee of hym: that he whiche loueth God, shoulde loue his brother also.

The. v. Chapter.

To loue God, is to kepe his commaundementes.
Faith overcometh the worlde. Euery synge life is in the soonne of God. Of sinne vnto death

A whosoever beleueth that Iesus is Christe is bozne of God. And euery one þ loueth hym whiche begat, loueth hym

hym also whiche was bee gotten of hym. * By this wee knowe, & wee loue the chyldren of God when wee loue God and kepe his commaundementes. For this is the loue of God; & wee kepe his commaundementes, & his commaundementes are not greuous. * For all that is borne of God, ouercommeth the world. And this is the victorie that ouercommeth the worlde, euen our faith. Who is it that ouercommeth the worlde, but he whiche beleueth, & Iesus is the sonne of God: This Iesus Christ is he that came by water and bloodde, not by water onely: but by water and bloodde. And it is the spirite that beareth witness, because the spirite is trueth. (For there are three whiche beare recorde in heauen, the father, the worde, and the holy ghost. And these three are one.) And three whiche beare recorde (in earth) the spirite, and water and bloodde: and these three are one. If we receiue the witness of menne & witness of God is greater. * For this is & witness of God (that is greatest) whiche he testified of his sonne. He that beleueth on the sonne of God hath the witness in hymself: & he that beleueth not God hath made hym a liar because he beleued not the recorde that God gaue of his sonne. And this is the recorde, how that God hath geuen vnto vs eternal life, & this life is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath life and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not life. These thynges haue I wyrtten vnto you & beleue on the name of the sonne of God, that ye maye knowe how that ye haue eternall life, and that ye maye beleue on the name of the sonne of God. And this is the trust that wee haue in hym that if we aske any thyng accordyng to his wil he heareth vs. And if we knowe that he heareth vs whatsoeuer wee aske wee knowe & wee haue the petitions, & wee desire of him. If any manne see his brother synne a synne not vnto death, let hym aske, & he shall geue hym life for them that synne not vnto death. There is a synne vnto death for whiche sake I not & a manne should praye. All vnrightheousnes is synne, & there is a synne not vnto death. We knowe & whosoever is borne of God, synneth not, but he & is begotten of God, kepeth hymself and & wicked toucheth hym not. We knowe & wee are of God, and the world is altogether set on wickednes. Wee knowe that & sonne of God is come, & hath geuen vs a minde to knowe hym whiche is true: and we are in hym that is true: throughe his sonne Iesu Christe. This same is verie God, and eternall life. Blesse kepe your selues from ymagis. Amen.

The second Epistle

of sainte Ihon.

He writeth to a certayne Ladye, reioyseth that her chyldre walke in the trueth, exhorteth them to loue warneth them to beware of suche deceiuers as deny that Iesus Christ came in the fleshe, prayeth thei to continue in the doctryne of Christ, and to haue no thyng to doo with them & byng not this learning.

The elder to & electe Lady and her chyldren, whom I loue in the trueth: and not I onely, but also all that haue knowen the trueth, for the truethes sake whiche dwelleth in vs, and shalbe in vs for euer

With vs shalbe grace, mercy, and peace, from God the father, and from & Iorde Iesus Christ the sonne of the father, in trueth and loue. I reioyced greatly that I founde of the chyldren walkyng in trueth, as wee haue receiued a commaundement of the father. And now beseech I the Lady, not as though I wrote a newe commaundement vnto thee, but that same whiche we haue heard fro the begynnyng & we & should loue one another. And this is the loue, that we should walke after his commaundementes.

This commaundement is (that as ye haue hearde from the begynnyng) ye should walke in it. For many deceiuers are entred into the world whiche confesse not that Iesus Christ is come in the fleshe. This is a deceiuer and an Antichriste. Take on your selues that wee lose not that wee haue wrought: but that wee maye haue a full reward. Whosoever transgresseth and bydet not in the doctryne of Christ, hath not God. He that endureth in the doctryne of Christ, hath both & father & the sonne. If there come any vnto you and byng not this learning, hym receiue not to house: neither bid hym god speede. For he that bideth hym god speede, is partaker of his euill dedes. (Beholde, I haue told you before, that ye should not be ashamed in the daye of the Lorde.) I had many thynges to wyte vnto you, neuerthelesse I would not wyte with paper pyncke but I trust to come vnto you, and speake with you mouth to mouth, that our ioye maye be full: the sonnes of the electe sister grete thee. Amen.

The thirde Epistle

of sainte Ihon.

He is glad of Gaius, that he walketh in the trueth, exhorteth hym to bee louyng vnto the poore Christen in their persecution, sheweth & bakind dealing of Diotrephes, and the good report of Demetrius.

He elder vnto & beloued Gaius whom I loue in the trueth. Beloued, I wishe in all thynges & thou prosperedst, and faredst well, euen as thy soule prospereth. For I reioyced greatly: when the brethren came, and testified of the truth that is in thee, how thou walkest in the trueth. I haue no greater ioye, then for to heare how that my sonnes walke in veritie. Beloued thou dooest faithfully, whatsoeuer thou dooest to the brethren, and to strangers, whiche beare witness of thy loue before & congregacyon. Whiche brethren if thou byng forwarde of their iorneye (after a godly sorte) thou shalt doo well, because that for his names sake they wente forth, and tooke nothing of the Gentiles. Wee therefore oughte to receiue suche that we might bee helpers to the trueth. I wrote vnto the congregacion: but Diotrephes whyche loueth to haue the prebeminence among thei receiuet not. Wherefore if I come I wyll declare his dedes whyche he dooth, iestyng on vs with malicious wordes, neither is there with contente: Not onely he hymself receiuet not the brethren: but also he forbiddeth them that

The Reuelacion

That woulde, and thrusteth them out of the congregation. Beloued, foloe not that whiche is euill, but that whiche is good. He that dooth wel is of God but he that dooth euill seeth not God. Demetrius hath good reporte, of all menne and of the trouth it self, yea, and wee oure selues also beare recorde, and ye knowe, that our recorde is true. I had many thynges to wyte: but I wyll not with yncke and penne wyte vnto thee. I truste I shall shortly see thee and wee shall speake mouthe to mouthe. Peace bee vnto thee. The louers salute thee. Greete the louers by name.

The Epistle of saint

Jude.

The rebuketh suche as beeing blinded with their owne lustes, resist the trouth. He exhorteth us to edifie one another, to praye in the holy ghoost, to continue in loue, to loke for the comyng of the Lorde.

Iudas the seruaunt of Jesus Christ the brother of James. To them whiche are called and sanctified in God the father, and preserued in Jesu Christe. Mercie vnto you & peace and loue be multiplied. Beloued, when I gaue all diligence to wyte vnto you of the comen saluacion, it was nedefull for me to wyte vnto you to exhorde you, that ye should continually labour in the faith, whiche was once geuen vnto saintes: For there are certain vngodly menne craftily crept in, of whiche it was written afore tyme vnto suche iudgemente. Thei turne the grace of our God vnto wantonnes, & deny God (whiche is the onely Lorde) and our Lorde Jesus Christ.

My mynde is therfore to put you in remembrance: for as muche as ye once know this, how that the Lorde (after that he had deliuered the people out of Egypte) destroyed them whiche afterwarde belened not. The angels also whiche kepte not their firste estate, but lefte their owne habitation, he hath reserued in euerlastyng chaines vnder darchenes vnto the iudgement of the greate daye, & euen as Sodome and Gomorre, & the citees aboute them (whiche in like maner defyled themselves with fornicacyon, and folowed straunge fleshe) are set forth for an example, and suffre the pain of eternall fire. Likewise, these be yng discerued by dreames, defile the flesh, dispise rulers & speake euill of them & are in aucthorite.

¶ Pet Michaell the archangell when he strone agaynst the deuell, and disputed about the body of Moses, durst not geue raplyng sentence but sayed: the Lorde rebuke thee. But these spake euill of those thynges whiche thei knowe not and what thynges thei know naturally (as beastes whiche are woute reason) in those thynges they corrupte themselves. Woe vnto them, for they haue folowed the waye of Cayn, and are utterly geuen to the erreure of Balam for lucre & sake and perperhe in y treason of Coze. These are spottes whiche of your kyndenes feaste together w out feare, lining in welle, and after their owne pleasure. Cloudes they are wythout water carryed aboute of wyndes, trees wythout frute at gathering tyme wythered, twayne dedde, and plucked vp by the rootes. They are the ragyng waues of the sea, somyng oute their owne shame. They are wanderyng sterres, to whom is reserued the myste of darchenes for euer.

¶ Enoch the seuenthe from Adam prophced before of suche, sayng. * Beholde, the Lorde shall come wyth thousandes of saintes, to gene iudgemente agaynst all menne, and to rebuke all & are vngodly among them of all they vngodly deedes, whiche they haue vngodly comyted, and of all they cruell speakynges, whiche vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst hym.

These are murmurers, cōplayners, walkyng after they owne lustes, whose mouthe speake proude thynges. They haue menne in greate reuerence because of aduantage. But ye beloued remembre the woordes whiche were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lorde Jesu Christe, how that they tolde you * that there shoulde be begynners at y last tyme, whiche shoulde walke after their owne vngodly lustes. These are makers of sectes fleshy, haunyng no spirite.

But ye deuely beloued, edyfyfye youre selues in your moste holy faith, praisyng in the holy ghoost and kepe your selues in the loue of God, lokyng for the mercy of our Lorde Jesus Christe, vnto eternall life. And haue compassion on some, separatyng them, and other saue with feare, pulling them out of the fire: (and haue compassion on the other) and hate the fylthye vesture of the fleshe. Vnto hym that is able to kepe you fre from synne, and to presente you faultlesse before the presence of his glozy with ioye. (at the comyng of our Lorde Jesus Christe) to God our saviour (through Jesu Christe our Lorde) whiche onely is wyse, be glozy, mayesty, dominio, and power (before all worldes) now and euer. Amen.

sainte Ihon the deuine.

The firste Chapter.

Happie is he that heareth the woorde of God and keepeth it. He wyrteth to the seven congregacions in Asia, seeth seven candelltykes, and in the middes of them: one like vnto the soonne of manne.

The reuelacion of Jesus Christe whiche God gaue vnto hym, for to shewe vnto his seruantes thynges whiche must shortly come to passe: And when he had sente, he shewed by his angell vnto his seruante Ihon whiche bare recorde of the woorde of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ and of al thynges that he sawe. Happie is he that readeth, and they that heare the woordes of the prophecye, and kepe those thynges whiche are wyrtten therein. For the tyme is at hande.

Ihon to the seven congregacions in Asia Grace bee vnto you and peace, fro hym whiche is and whiche was, & whiche is to come & from the seven Seuen spirittes whiche are befoze his throne, and from Iesus Christ, whiche is a faithfull witness and firste begotten of the dedde: and Lorde ouer the kynges of the earth. Vnto hym that * loued vs and washed vs from our synnes in his owne bloodde, and made vs kynges and prestes vnto God his father, bee glorie and dominion for euermore. Amen. * Beholde, he cometh with cloudes, and all eyes shall see hym, and they also whiche pearled hym. And all kinredes of the earth shall waille. * (ouer hym) Euen so: Amen I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng and the endyng saith the Lorde almyghtie, whiche is and whiche was, and whiche is to come.

I Ihon your brother: and compaignio in tribulacion, and in the kyngdome of pacience in Iesu Christe, was in the isle that is called Pathmos: for the woorde of God, and for the witnessyng of Iesu Christ: I was in the spirite on a Sondag and herde behynde me a greete voyce as it had been of a trompe, sayng I am Alpha & Omega the first and the last. That thou seest, write in a booke, & send it vnto the seuen congregacions whiche are in Asia, vnto Ephesus, & vnto Smyrna, & vnto Pergamos, & vnto Thyatira, and vnto Sardis, & vnto Philadelpia & vnto Laodicia.

And I turned backe to see the voyce that spake vnto me. And when I was turned: I sawe seuen golden candelstiches, and in the myddes of the candelstiches, one like vnto the sonne of manne, clothed with a linnen garmente doune to the fete and girded aboute the pappes with a golden girdle. His hedde: and his heares were whyte, as whyte wolfe, and as snowe and his eyes were as a flame of fire: and his feete like vnto brasse, as though they were in a fornaice, and his voice as the soude of many waters. And he had in his right hande seuen starres. And out of his mouth went a sharpe two edged swerde. * And his face shone euen as the sonne in his strength. And when I sawe hym, I fell at his feete euen as dedde. And he laied his right hand vpon me sayng vnto me feare not. * I am the first and the last, and I am aliue, and was dedde. And beholde, * I am aliue for euermore and haue the keyes of hell & of deeth. Write therefore the thynges whiche thou hast seene, and the thynges whiche are, and the thynges whiche must be fulfilled hereafter: the mystery of the seuen starres whiche thou sawest in my right hande, and the seuen golden candelstiches. The seuen starres are the messengers of the seuen congregacions. And the seuen candelstiches whiche thou sawest, are the seuen congregacions.

The ii. Chapter.

The exhorteth foure congregacions to amende, and sheweth the rewarde of hym that ouercommeth.

Vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Ephesus wrote: these thynges saith he, that holdeth the seuen starres in his right hand and he walketh in the myddes of the seuen golden candelstiches, I knowe thy woorkes, and thy laboures, and thy pacience, & how thou cannest not forbear the them whiche are euill: and hast examined them whiche saye they are Apostles, and are not: and hast founde them lyars, and hast suffered. And hast pacience: and for my names sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted. Neuerthelesse I haue som what agaynst thee, because thou hast lefte thy firste loue. Remember therefore from whence thou arte fallen repente, and dooe the firste woorkes. Or els I will come vnto thee shortly, and will remoue thy candelsticke oute of his place, excepte thou repent. But this thou hast because thou hatest the deedes of the Nicolaitans, whiche deedes I also hate. Lette hym that hath eares, heare what the spirite saith vnto the congregacions. To hym that ouercommeth, will I geue to eate of the * tree of life, whiche is in the myddes of the Paradise of God.

And vnto the angell of the congregacion of Smyrna wrote: These thynges saith he that is firste and laste, whiche was dedde, and is aliue. I knowe thy woorkes and tribulacion and povertie, but thou arte riche. And I knowe the blasphemy of them, whiche call them selues Jewes and are not: but are the congregacion of Sathas. Feare none of those thynges, whiche thou shalt suffer. Beholde, the deuell shall cast some of you in prison, to tempt you, and ye shall haue tribulacion tenne daies. Bee faithfull vnto the deeth and I will geue thee a crowne of life. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite saith to the congregacion. He that ouercommeth shall not bee hurte of the seconde deeth.

And to the messenger of the congregacion in Pergamos wrote. This saith he, whiche hath the sharpe swerde with two edges. I knowe thy woorkes, and where thou dwellest, euen where Sathas seate is, and thou kepest my name, and hast not denied my saith. And in my dayes Antipas was a faithfull witness of myne, whiche was slain among you, where Sathan dwelleth. But I haue a fewe thynges agaynst thee: because thou hast there them that mayntayne the doctryne of Balaam: whiche taught in Balak to put occasion of synne before the children of Israel, that they should eate of meate dedicate vnto ydolles, and commit fornicaciō. Euen so hast thou them that mayntayne the doctryne of the Nicolaitans, whiche thynges I hate.

But bee conuerted, or els I will come vnto thee shortly, & wil fight against them with the sword of my mouth. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the spirite sayeth vnto the congregacions to hym that ouercommeth, will I geue to eate of the manna that is hid, and will geue hym a whyte stone, and in the stone a newe name wyrtten, whiche no manne knoweth, sayng he that receiveth it. And vnto the messenger of the congregacion of Thyatira wrote. This saith the sonne of God, whiche hath eyes lyke vnto a flamme of fyre, & his fete are lyke brasse: I knowe thy woorkes and thy loue, service, and faith and thy pacience, and thy deedes, whiche are mo at the laste then at the fyrste: Notwithstandyng, I haue a fewe thynges agaynst thee, because thou sufferest the woman Jezabell, whiche called her self a prophetesse, to teach & to deceiue my seruantes to make theim commit fornicacion, and to eate meates offered by vnto idoles. And I gaue her space to repente of her fornicacion, and she repented not. Beholde, I will caste her into a bed, and theim that commit fornicacion with her, into greete aduersite, excepte thei turne from their deedes. And I will kill her children with death.

Re. xviii. b And all the congregacions shall knowe that I am he whiche searcheth the raynes and heartes. And I will geue vnto euerye, one of you accor- dyng vnto his woordes.

Psalm. li. b Unto you I saie, and vnto other of theim of Chaitra, as many as haue not this learnynge and whiche haue not knowen þe deepenes of Sathan (as thei saie) I wil putte vpon you none o- ther burthen, but that whiche ye haue already. Holde faste till I come, and whosoener ouercom- meth and kepeth my woordes vnto the ende to hym will I geue power ouer nacions, * and he shall rule theim with a rodde of yron: and as the vesselles of a potter, shall thei bee broken to shen- uers. Euen as I receiued of my father, so will I geue hym the moynynge starre. Lette hym that hath eares, heare what the spirite saith to the congregacions.

The. iii. Chapter.

The instructeth and enfourmeth the Angelles of the congregacions, declaryng also the rewarde of hym that ouercommeth.

i. Thes. v. a
ii. Pet. iii. c I wryte vnto the messenger of the congregacion that is at Sardis this saith he that hath the seven spi- rites of God and the seven starres. I knowe thy woordes, thou haste a name that thou liuest, and thou arte dedde. Bee awake, and strengthe the thynges whiche remain that are ready to die. For I haue not founde thy woordes perfecte befoze * (my) God. Remembre therefore, how thou haste receiued and hearde, and holde faste, and repent. * If thou shalte not wathe, I will come on thee as a thefe, and thou shalt not knowe what houre I will come vpon thee. Thou haste a fewe names in Sardis, whiche haue not defiled their garmentes, and they shall walke with me in white, for they are wor- thy. He that ouercommeth, shalbee thus clothed in whyte arape, and I will not putte out his na- me out of the booke of life, and I will confesse his name befoze my father, and befoze his angelles. Lette hym that hath eares, heare, what the spi- rite saith vnto the congregacions.

Esa. xlii. f
Iob. xii. e And wryte vnto the angell of the congrega- tion of Philadelphia: this saith he that is holy and true, whiche hath the keye of Dauid: * whiche openeth and no manne shutteth, and shutteth and no manne openeth. I knowe thy woordes. Beholde, I haue sette befoze thee an open doze, and no manne can shutte it, for thou haste a litle strength, and haste kepte my saynges: and hast not denied my name. Beholde, I make theim of the congregacion of Sathan, whiche call theim selues Jewes, and are not, but dooelye: Behold I will make them that thei shall come, and wor- ship befoze thy sete: and shall knowe that I haue loued thee. Because thou hast kept the woordes of my pacience, therefore I will kepe thee from the houre of temptacion, whiche will come vpon all the worlde, to tempte theim that dwelle vpon all the earthe.

Beholde, I come shortly. Hold that whiche thou hast, that no manne take a waie thy croune hym that ouercommeth: will I make a pylle in the temple of my God, and he shall goo nomore oute. And I will wryte vpon hym, the name of my God, and the name of the citee of my God, newe Hierusalem: whiche cometh doune oute of heauen from my God: and I will wryte vpon hym my newe name. Lette hym that hath eares, heare: what the spirite saith vnto the congrega- tions. And vnto the messenger of the congrega- tion whiche is in Laodicia, wryte: This saith (Amen) the faithfull and true witness, the begyn- nyng of the creatures of God. I knowe thy wo- kes, that thou art nether colde nor hote.

I would thou were coulde or hote. So then because thou arte betwene bothe, & nether coulde not hote, I will spewe thee out of my mouth, because thou saiest: I am riche and encreased w goodes, and haue nede of nothyng, and knowest not, how thou arte wretched and miserable, and pore, and blynde, and naked. I counsaill thee to buye of me golde tried in the fyre, that thou mai- ste bee ryche: and whyte raymente, that thou mayste bee * clothed: that thy fylthye nakednes dooe not appeare, and annoynte thine eyes with iye salve þ thou mayste se. * As many as I loue, I rebuke, and chasten. Bee feruente therefore, & repent. Behold, I stande at the doze and knocke. If any manne heare my voice, and open the doze I will come into hym, and will suppe with hym and he with me. To hym that ouercommeth wil I graunte to sit with me in my seate, euen as I ouer came, and haue sitted with my father in his seate. Lette hym that hath eares: heare, what þe spirite saith vnto the congregacions.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The seeth heauen open, and the seate, and one sittynge vpon it and foure and twenty seates aboute it with foure and twenty elders sittynge vpon theim, and foure beakes prayng God daye and nyghte.

After this I looked, & beholde, a doze was open in heauē, and the first voice whiche I hearde, was as it were of a tropet talkynge with me: whiche saied come vp hether: & I will shewe the thynges whiche must bee fulfilled hereafter. And immediatly I was in the spirite: and behold, a seate was set in heauen, and one sat on þe seate. And he that sat was to loke vpon, like vnto a Jasper stone, and a Sardain stone. And there was a rayne bove a bounte þe seate in light like to an Emeralde. And about the seate wer foure & twenty seates. And vpon the seates foure & twenty elders sittynge, clo- thed in white raiment, & had on their heddes crow- nes of gold. And out of þe seates proceded light- tenynges, and thonderynge, and voyces, & ther wer seven lampes of fire, burnynge befoze þe seate whiche are þe seven spirites of God. And afore þe seate there was a sea of glasse, like vnto Chri- stall and in the middes of the seate, and rounde a bounte the seate wer foure beastes full of eyes be- fore and behynde. And the first beast was like a lion a lpon, and the second beast lyke a calfe, and the thyrde beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was lyke a flying Eagle. And the.iiii. beasts had ech one of them. vi. wynges about him and they wer full of eyes wythin. And they had no rest day nether night sayng * Holy, holy, holy Lord God almighty, which was, and is, and is to come. And when those beasts gaue gloze and honour and thanks to hym that sat on the seat, (which lyueth for ever and ever) the. xliiij. elders fel doune befoze hym that sat on þe trone and worshipped hym that liueth for ever. And cast their crownes befoze the trone sayng: thou art worthy O Lord. (our God) to receiue gloze, & honour, & power, for thou hast created all thynges, & for thy willes sake thei ar, & wer created

The. v. Chapter.

Deserth the lambe opening the boke, and therfore the four beasts, the. xliiij. elders, and the angels praise the lambe and doo hym worshippe

And I sawe in the ryghte hande of him that sat on the trone, a booke wyrtten wythin and on the bakside, sealed with seven seales. And I sawe a strong Angel, which preched wyth a loude voice: Who is worthy to open the boke, and to lose the seales thereof. And no man in heauen nor in earth nether vnder the earth, was able to open the boke nether to loke thereon. And I wept much, because no man was founde worthy to open and to rede the boke, nether to loke thereon. And one of the elders sayed vnto me wepe not: Behold, a lpon of the trybe of Iuda, the roote of Dauid, hath optayned to open the booke, and to lose the seven seales thereof. And I behelde, and loo, in the myddes of the seate, and of the four beasts, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had bene killed, haupng seven hornes, and seven eyes, which are the seven sprytes of God sent in to al the world. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryghte hand of hym that sat vpon the seat. And when he had take the boke the. iiii. beasts and. xliiij. elders fel doune befoze þe lambe, haupng (euery one of them) harpes and golden byalles full of odours, whiche are the prayers of Sayntes, and they songe a newe songe, sayng: thou art worthy to take the booke, and to open the seales thereof: for thou wast killed, and hast redemed vs by thy bloude out of al kynredes, and tonges, and people, and nacyons, and hast made vs vnto our God, kynges, and preastes, and we shall reygne on the earth. And I behelde, and I hearde the voyce of many angels aboute the trone, and about the beast and the elders, and I hearde thousande thousandes, sayng, wyth a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe that was kylled to receyue power, and ryches, and wysedome and strenght, and honoure, and gloze, and blessing. And al the creatures which are in heauen, and on the earth, and vnder the earth, and in the sea, and all that are in theym, heard I sayng: blessing, honoure, gloze, and power be vnto hym that sitteth vpon the seat and vnto the lambe for evermore. And the four beasts sayed. Amen. And the. xliiij. elders fell vpon thei faces, and worshipped hym that lyueth for evermore.

The. vi. Chapter.

The lambe openeth fyve seales, and many thynges folow the opening thereof

And I saw, when the lambe opened one of the seales, and I heard one of the four beasts say: as it were the noyse of thonder: come and se and I sawe. And behold, ther was a whit horse: and he that sat on hym had a bowe and a croune was geue vnto hym, and he went forth conquereng and for to overcome. And when he had opened the second seale, I heard the seconde beast say: come and se. And there went out another horse that was redde, and power was geuen to hym that sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, & that thei should kylle one another. * And ther was geuen vnto hym a great sword

And when he had opened the thyrde seale I hearde the thyrde beast say come and se. And I beheld, and lo, a blacke horse: and he that sat on hym had a payre of balaunces in his hand. And I heard a voyce in the myddes of the four beasts, say: a mesure of wheat for a peny, and thre mesures of barley for a peny, and ople and wyne se thou hurte not. And when he had opened the fourth seale, I heard the voyce of the fourth beast say come and se: and I lokyd, And beholde a pale horse and hys name that sat on hym was death, and hel folowed after him, and power was geue vnto them ouer the fourth part of the earth to kyl with sword and with hunger, and wyth death, that cometh of vermen of the earth.

And whē he had opened the fyfte seale, I saw vnder the altare the soules of them that were kylled for the word of God, and for the testimony which thei had, and they cryed with a loude voyce, sayng: howe long tariest thou Lord, holy and true, to iudge and to aduenge our bloud on them that dwel on the earth: And long whil garments were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayed vnto them, that they should reast yet for a lytle season vntill the number of their felowes, and brethren, and of them that shoulde be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

And I beheld, when he had opened the sixte seale: and lo, there was a great earthquake and the sonne was as blacke as a sackcloth made of heere. And the mone waxed al, euē as blond and the sterres of heauen fel vnto the earth, euē as a fygge tree casteth from her vntymely fygges, when she is shaken of a myghtie wynde. And heauen vanyshed a waye, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountaynes and isles, were moued oute of their places: And the kynges of the earth, and the great men, and the rych men, and the chef captaynes, and the myghty men, and euery bondman, and euery frema, byd them selues in denes, and in rockes of the bylles: * and sayed to the bylles and rockes: fall on vs and hyde vs frome the piasence of hym that sitteth on the seat, and frome the wrath of the labe: for the grete daye of hys wrath is come, and who is able to endure?

The. vii. Chapter.

He seeth the seruantes of God sealed in the foreheades out of all nacjons and people, whyche thowght they suffer trouble, yet the lambe feedeth them, ledeeth them, to the fountaines of liuyng water, and god shall wype awaye all teares from theyr eyes.

And after that, I sawe four angels stand on ffour corners of the erth holdyng the four wyndes of fferth that the winde should not blowe on the erth, nether on the sea, nether on any tre. And I sawe another angel ascend from the rylyng of the sunne, whych had the seale of the lyuyng God, and he cryed wyth a loud voyce to the four angels (to whom power was geuen to hurte the earthe and the sea) sayynge: hurte not the erth, neyther the sea, neyther the trees, tyll we haue sealed the seruantes of our God in ther fore heades.

And I herd the number of them whych were sealed, and ther wer sealed an. C. and. xliiii. Of all the trybes of the chyldren of Israel. Of the trybe of Iuda were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ruben were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Gad were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Aser were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Neptalym were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Manasses were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Symeon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Leuy were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Isacar were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Zabulon were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Joseph were sealed. xii. Of the trybe of Ben Jamin were sealed. xii.

After thys I behelde, and lo a greute multitude (whyche no man coulde number) of all nacjons and people, and tounge, stode before the seat, and before the lambe, clothed wyth longe whyt garmentes, and palmes in theyr handes and cryed wyth a loude voyce sayng: saluacyon be ascribed to hym that sytteth vpon the seat of our God and vnto the lambe. And all the angels stode in the compase of the seate, and of the elders and of the four beastes, and fel before the seat on theyr faces, and worshypped God sayng: Amen. Blessyng and glozy and wysedom and thankes, & honour, and power, and myght be vnto our God for evermore. Amen.

And one of the elders answered, sayng vnto me, what are these whyche are arayed in longe white garmentes, and whence came they? And I sayed vnto hym: Lozde thou wotest. And he sayed to me: these are they, whych came oute of great tribulacion, and made theyr garmentes latge, and made them whyte by the bloude of the lambe: therfore are they in the pcesence of the seat of God, and serue hym daye and nyght in hys temple, and he that sytteth in the seate wyll dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, nether thyrst, nether shal the sonne lyght on them, nether any heat. For the lambe whych is in the myddes of the seat shal fede them, and shal leade theym, vnto fountaynes of lyuyng water, and God shal wype awaye all teares from theyr eyes.

The. viii. Chapter

The. vii. seale is opened, ther is silence in heauen, the four angels blowe theyr trompettes, and great plagues folow vpon the erth,

And whē he had opened the. vii. seale ther was silence in heuen about the space of halfe an hour. And I sawe vii. angels standynge before God, and to them wer geuen trompettes. And another angel came and stode before the aulter, haryng a golden senser, and much of odours was geuen vnto hym, that he shoulde offer of the prayes of all sayntes vpon the golden aulter whyche was before the seat. And the smoke of the odours which came of the prayes of al sayntes, ascended vpon before God out of the angels hand. And the angel toke the censer, and fylled it with fyre of the aulter, and cast it into the erth, and voices wer made, and thondynges and lyghtenynge, and earthquakes.

And the seven angels whyche had the seven trompettes, prepared themselves to blowe. The fyrst angell blew, and there was made hayle and fyre, which wer myngled wyth blond, and thei wer cast into the erth: and the thyrde part of the erth was set on fyre, & the thyrde part of trees was burnt, and all grene grasse was bynt. And the second angel blew: and as it wer a great mountayne burnyng wyth fyre was cast into the sea and the thyrde part of the sea turned to blowe and the thyrde part of the creatures whych had lyfe dyed, and the thyrde part of shippes wer destroyed. And the thirde angel blew, and ther fel a great starre from heauen, burnyng as it wer a lampe, and it fell into the thyrde part of the ryuers, and into the fountaines of waters and the name of the sterre is called wormwod. And the thirde part was turned to wormwod. And many me died of the waters, because they wer made bitter. And the iiij. angel blew, and the thyrde part of the sunne was smitten, & the thirde parte of the mone, and the thyrde part of the sterres: so that the thirde part of them was darkened. And the day was smitten, that the thyrde parte of it should not shyne and lykwise the nyght. And I beheld and herd an angel flyng through the myddes of heauen, sayng wyth a loud voyce: Wo, wo, to the inhabytors of the erthe, because of the voices to com of the trope of the angels, which were yet to blowe.

The. ix. Chapter

The fyfte and syfte angell blowe theyr trompettes the sterre falleth from heauen, the locustes come out of the smoke. The fyfte two is past, the foure angels that were bounde are loosed, and the thyrde part of men is kylled.

And the fyfte angell blew and I sawe a starre fall frome heauen vnto the erth. And to hym was geuen the keye of the botomles pit, and the smoke of the pyt arose as the smoke of a great furnace. And the sunne and the ayre wer darkened by the reasō of the smoke of the pyt. And ther came out of the smoke locustes vpon the erth, and vnto them was geuen power, as the scorpions of the erth haue power. And it was commaunded them that they shuld not hurt the grasse of the erth nether any grene thyng, neyther any tree: but onely those men whyche haue not the seale in theyr foreheades. And to them was commaunded, that they shuld not kyll them, but that they shoulde be vexed. v monethes, and theyr payne was as the payne that that commeth of a scorpion when he hath stong a man* And in those dayes shall men seke death and shall not fynde it, and shall desyre to dye, and death shall fle from them.

And the symplitude of the locustes was like vnto hozles prepared vnto battel, and on their heades wer as it wer crounes, lyke vnto golde, and theyr faces were as it had bene the faces of men. And thei had heer as the heere of women.
And theyr teeth wer as the teeth of lyons. And they had habbergyons, as it wer habbergyons of yron. And the sound of theyr winges, was as the sound of charettes, whē many hozles runne together to battayle. And they had tayles lyke vnto scozpyons, and ther wer spynge in theyr tayles. And theyr power was to hurt men spue monethes. And thei had a kyng ouer the whiche is the angell of the botomeles pyt, whose name in the Hebrue tong is Abaddon, but in the Greke tong, Apollion, that is to say: a destroyer. One wo is past, and behold two woes com yet after this. And the syxte angel blewe, and I hearde a voyce from the four coznors of the golden aulter, whych is befoze God, sayng to the syxt angel which had the trompe: Lese the four angels which are bound in the great ryuer Euphrates And the foure angels wer losed: whych wer prepared for an hour, for a daye, for a moneth, and for a yere, for to slaye the. iiii. parte of the men And the number of hozsmē of ware wer. xx. A tymes. x. A. And I heard the number of them: and thus I sawe the hozles in a vpsyon, and the that sat on them, haupng fyrie habbergyons of a facinct colour, and byrmiston, and the heades of the hozles were as the heades of lyons. And out of their mouthes wēt forth fyre and smoke and byrmiston. And of these thre was the thyrde part of men killed: that is to say, of fyre, smoke and byrmiston: whych proceded out of the mou-thes of the: For theyr power was in their mou-thes and in theyr tayles, for theyr tayles were lyke vnto serpentis, and had heades, and with them thei did hurt: And the remnaunt of the mē which wer not killed by these plages, repented not of the dedes of theyr handes that they shuld not worshype deuils, and ymages of gold and syluer, and brasse, & stone, and of wood, whych nether can se, nether here, nether go. Also thei repēted not of their murther, & of their sorcery, nether of their fornicacyon, nether of theyr thefte

The. x. Chapter.

The angel hath the booke open, he sheweth ther shalbe nomore tyme, he geueth the boke vnto Ihon, whych eateth it vp.

And I sawe another myghty angel come doune fro heauē clothed with a cloude, and the rainbow vpon his heed. And his face as it wer sunne and his feet as it wer pylers of fire and he had in his hand a litle boke open, and he put his ryght foote vpon the sea, and his lyfte foote on the earth. And cryed wyth a loud voyce as when a lyon roareth. And when he had cryed, seuen thonders spake theyr voyces. And when the seuen thonders had spoken theyr voyces:

I was aboute to wyte: And I hearde a voyce fro heauen, sayng vnto me, seale vp those thynges whiche the seuen thonders spake, and write theim not. And the angell whiche I sawe stond vpon the sea, and vpon the earth, lyft vp his had to heauē, and swore by hym, that liueth for euermore whiche created heauen, and the thynges therin are: (And of earth: and the thynges that therein are) and the sea, and the thynges whiche therein are:
that there shoulde bee no longer tyme but in the dayes of the voyce of the seuenth angell, whē he shall begynne to blowe, even the minisrte of God shal bee finished, as he preached by his seruauntes the prophetes. And the voyce whych I heard from heauen, spake vnto me agayn, and said: * goo and take the litle boke whiche is open in the hande of the angell whych standeth vpon the sea, and vpon the earth. And I wente vnto the angell and sayed to hym: geue me the litle boke and he sayed vnto me: take it, and eate it vp, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shal bee in thy mouthe as swete as honny. * And I toke the litle boke out of his hande and eate it vp, and it was in my mouth as swete as honny: and as sone as I had eaten it, my belly was bytter. And he sayed vnto me: * I must prophesy again among people, & naciōs & tounge, & to many kynges.

The. xi. Chapter.

The temple is measured. The seconde woo is past.

And then was geuen me a rede like vnto a rod, & it was sayed vnto me.
Rise & meate the tēple of God, and the aulter and them & worshyp ther in, and the quier whiche is within the temple, cast out & meate it not, for it is geue vnto the Gentiles, & the holy citee shall thei treade vnder fote. xlii. monethes. And I wyll geue power vnto my twoo witnesses, and they shal prophesy a thousande twoo hundred & sytty dayes clothed in sacke cloth. These are two oline trees & twoo candelstikes, standyng befoze the God of the earth. And if any manne wyl hurte them, fyre shall procede out of theyr mouthes, and consume theyr enemyes. And yf any man wyl hurt them thys wyse muste he be kyllid. These haue power to shut heauen, that it rayn not in sy dayes of theyr prophesying: and haue power ouer waters to turne them to bloude, & to smyte the erth wyth all maner of plages, as often as they wyl

And when they haue synysed theyr testimony, the beast that came out of the botomeles pyt, shal make warre agaynst them, and shal ouercome them, and kyl them. And theyr bodies shal lye in the stretes of the great cytee, whych spirytualy is called zodom and Egypt, wher our lord was crucified. And they of the people and kyn-reds, and tonges, and they of the nacyons, shal se theyr bodies thre dayes and a halfe, and shal not suffer their bodies to be put in graues. And they that dwell vpon the erth, shal reioyse ouer them and be glad, and shal sende gyftes one to a nother, for these two prophetes vexed the that dwelte on the earthe. And after thre dayes and an halfe, the spyrte of lyfe from God entred into them. And they stode vp vpon theyr feete, and great feare came vpon them whych sawe them And they heard a great voyce from heauen, sayng vnto them: Come vp hether. And they ascended vnto heauen in a cloud, and they enmyes sawe them. And the same hour was ther a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the cite fell, and in the earthquake wer slayne names of men seuen thousande, and the remnaunt wer feared, and gaue glozpe to the God of heauen. The second woo is past, and beholde the thyrde wo wyll come anone.

D And the vii. angel blew, and ther wer made great voyces in heauen, sayng: the kingdomes of thys worlde are our Lordes, and hys Chyrstes, and he shall repgne for evermore. (Amen) And the xiiii. elders, which sit befoze God on their seates, fel vpon theyr faces, and worshipped God sayng: We geue the thankes O Lord God almyghty: whych art and wast, and arte to come, for thou hast receued thy great myght and hast reygned. And the nacjons wer angry and thy wrath is com, and the time of the dead that they shoulde be iudged and that thou shouldest geue reward vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and sainctes, and to them that feare thy name smal and great and shuldest destroy them whych destroy the erth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and ther wer sene in hys temple, the Arke of his testamente, and ther folowed lyghtenynge, and voyces, and thondrynge, and earthquake, and muche hayle.

The. xii. Chappter

The seventh angel bloweth hys trompet. There appereth in heauen a woman clothed wth the sunne, as Michaell fygtheth wth the dragon, whych persecuteth the woman

A And ther apere a grete wonder in heauen: A woman clothed wth the sunne and the mone vnder her feete and vpon her heade a croune of xii. sterres. And she was wth chylde, & cryed trauayllyng in byrth, and payned readye to be deliuered. And ther appered another wonder in heauen, for behold, a great redde dragon hauing. vii. heades and tenne hornes and seuen crounes vpon hys heddes: and his tayle dree the thyrde part of the sterres. (of heauen) and caste the to the earth. And the dragō stode befoze the woman whych was redy to be deliuered: for to deuour her chylde as sone as it wer borne. And she brought forth a manchylde, whych shoulde rule all nacjons with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to hys seate. And the woman fledde into wylernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, that they shoulde feede her there a thousand, two hundred and lx. dayes. And there was a great battayle in heauen, Michaell and hys angels fought wth the dragon, and the dragō fought and hys angels and preuailed not, nether was theyr place found any more in heauen. And the grete dragon, the olde serpente, called the deuell and Sathanas, was cast oute. Whych deſeaueth all the worlde. And he was cast into the earth and hys angels wer cast out also. (wth hym) And I heard a loud voyce, sayng: in heauen is now made saluacyon and strength and the kyngdom of our God, & the power of his Chyrst. For (the accuser of our brethre) is caste doune whych accused them befoze (our) God day and nyght. And they ouercam hym by the bloud of the lambe, and by the word of theyr testimony, and they loued not theyr lyues vnto the death. Therfoze reioyce heuens, and ye that dwell in them. Wo to the inhabiteres of the erth and of the sea: for the deuell is come doune vnto you whych hath grete wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a shorte tyme.

D And when the dragon sawe that he was cast vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, which brought forth the mā chylde. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a grete Eggle, that she myght flye into the wylernes into her place wher she is noryshed for a time, tymes, and, half a time, from the presence of the serpent. And the dragō cast out of hys mouth water after the woman as it had ben a riuer, because she shuld haue bene caughte of the floude. And the earth helped the woman, and the erth opened her mouth and swallowed vp the ryuer, whych the dragon caste out of hys mouth. And the dragon was wraethe wth the woman, & went, and made warre wth the remnaunt of her seede, whych kept the commandementes of God, and haue the testymony of Iesus Chyrst. And he stode on the sea sand

The. xiii. Chapter.

A beast ryseth out of the sea wth seuen heades and tenne hornes. Another beast cometh out of the earth wth two hornes.

A And I sawe a beaste ryse out of the sea, hauing seuen heddes, and tenne hornes, and vpon hys hornes tenne crounes, and vpon hys hedde, the name of blasphemie. And the beaste whiche I sawe, was lyke a catte of the mountaigne, and his fete were as the fete of a beare, and hys mouthe as the mouth of lyon. And the dragon gaue hym hys power and his seate, & great aucthorite: & I sawe one of his heddes as it wer wounded to deathe, and hys dedly wounde was healed. And all the worlde woudered at the beaste and they worshipped the dragon, whych gaue power vnto the beaste, and they worshipped the beaste, sayng: who is lyke vnto the beaste: who is able to warre wth hym? And there was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake grete thynge and blasphemies, and power was geue vnto hym, to dooe. xlii. monethes. And he opened hys mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God, to blasphemie his name and hys tabernacle, and theim that dwelte in heauen. And it was geuen vnto hym to make warre wth the sainctes, and to ouercome them. And power was geuen him ouer all kynred, and people, and tounge and nacjon and all ydwelt vpon the earth worshipped hym whose names are not wyrtten in the boke of life of the lambe, whiche was killed from the begynnyng of the world. If any māne haue an eare let hym heare. he that leadeth into captiuitee shal goo into captiuitee: he that killeth wth a swerde must bee killed wth a swerde. Here is the patience, and the faythe of the saynctes.

And I behelde another beaste comyng vp out out of the earth, and had two hornes like a labe and he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd all that the fyrste beaste coulde do in hys pience, and he caused the earth, and them whych dwelt therein, to worshyp the fyrst beaste whose dedely wound was healed. And he did great wonders so that he made fyre come doune from heauen in the syght of men. And deceiued them þat dwelt on the erth, by the meanes of those signes which he had power to do in the syght of the beaste sayng to them that dwelt on the earth: that they should make an ymage vnto the beaste, whych had the wounde of the swerde, and dyd lyue.

And he had power to geue a spryte vnto the ymage of the beaste and that the ymage of the beaste should speake, and should cause that as many as would not worshyp the ymage of the beaste, should be kylled. And he made al both smal and great, ryche and poore, fre and bonde, to receiue a marke in theyr ryght handes or in theyr foreheades. And that no man myghte by or sell, saue he that had the mark or the name of the beaste, other the number of hys name. Here is wysdom. Let hym that hath wyt, counte the number of the beaste. For it is the number of a man, and hys number is fyre hundred. lx. and fyre.

The lambe standeth vpon the mount syon, and the vndefiled congregacion wyth hym. The aungell exhorteth to the feare of god, and telleth of the fall of Babylon

And I looked, and lo, a lambe stode on þe mount syon, & wyth hym an hundred and thre and fortie thousande haung hys name and hys fathers names written in theyr foreheades. And I hearde a voyce frome heauen, as the sounde of manye waters, & as the voyce of a great thonder. And I heard the voyce of harpers harpyng wyth theyr harpes. And they songe as it wer a newe songe, befoze the seat, and befoze the four beastes, and þe elders, and no man coulde learne the songe, but the hundred and. xliii. W. whych were redeemed from the earth. These are they, whych wer not defiled with weme, for they are wyrgins. These folow the lambe whithersouer he goeth. These were redeemed from men, bepng fyrst frutes vnto God and to the lambe, and in theyr mouthes was found no gyle. For they are wythout spot befoze the trone of God. And I saw another angel flye in the middes of heuen haung the euerlastyng Gospell, to preache vnto them that spt and dwell on the earth: and to all nacjons, kin redde, and tounge, and people, sayng with a loude voyce: * Feare God, and geue honour vnto hym, for the houre of hys iudgemente is come, and worshyp hym that made heauen and earth the sea, and fountaynes of water. And there folowed another angel sayng: * Babylon is fallen, is fallen that greute cytee, for she made all nacjons drynke of the wyne of her fornicacion. And the thyrd aungell folowed them sayng, with a loud voyce: Pf any man worshyp the beaste and hys ymage, and receiue his warke in his forehead, or in hys hande, the same shall drynke the wyne of the wrath of God, which is poured in the cuppe of hys wrath. And he shal be punyshed in fyre and byrmytoure, befoze the holy angels, and befoze the lambe. And the smooke of theyr torment ascendet by evermore. And they haue no rest day nor nyght, whych worshyppe the beaste and hys ymage, and whosoever receyuethe the prync of his name. Her is the pacience of sayntes. Here are they that kepe the commandementes and the sayth of Iesu. And I hearde a voyce from heauen sayng vnto me, writ. Blesed are the dead, whych hereafter dye in the lord euen so sayth the spryt: that they rest from their laboures, but theyr workes folowe them.

And I looked, and beholde, a whyte cloude and vpon the cloude one settynge lyke vnto the sonne of man, haunge on hys heade a golden croune, and in his hand a sharpe sickle. And another aungell came out of the temple, cryng with a loude voyce to hym that sat on the cloude: * Thruste in thy sickle and reape, for the tyme is come to reape: for the corne of the earth is ripe. And he that sat on the cloude thruste in hys sickle on the earth and the earthe was reaped.

And another Angel came out of the temple, whych is in heauen, haung also a sharpe sickle. And another aungell came oute frome the auter whych had powre ouer fyre, and cryed wyth a loud voyce to hym that had the sharpe sickle, and saied thrust in thy sharpe sickle, and gather the clusters of the erth, for her grapes are ripe. And the angel thrust in his sharpe sickle on the earth and cut doune the grapes of the vineyard of the earth: and cast them into the greute wynefat of the wrath of God, and the wynefat was trodden wythout the cytee, and bloude came oute of the fat, euen vnto the horse bridles, by the space of a thousande, and fyre hundred furlonges.

He seeth seven angels, haung seven vialles full of wrath

And I sawe another signe in heauen great and meruelous, seuē angels, haung the seven laste plagues, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God. And I sawe as it wer a glassie sea, mingled with fyre, and them that had gotten victorie of the beaste, and hys ymage and of the number of hys name, stand on the glassie sea, haunge the harpes of God and the lange þ song of Moyses the seruaunt of God, and the song of the lambe sayng: Great and meruelous ar thy workes: Lord God almyghty: iust and true ar thy wayes, thou kyng of sayntes. Who shal not feare thee, Lord, & glorify thy name: For thou onely arte holy & al Gentyles shal come and worshyp befoze the for thy iudgementes ar made manifest. And after that I looked, and beholde the temple of the tabernacle of testimony was open in heauen, and the seven angels came out of the temple which had the seven plagues, clothed in pure and byrmyt linnen, and haung theyr breastes girded wyth golde girdels. And one of þ four beastes gaue vnto the seven angels seven goldē vialles full of the wrath of God, whych lyeerh for evermore. And the temple was full of the smoke

The. xvi. Chapter.

The angels powze out thyr vialles full of wrath

And I heard a grete voyce oute of the temple sayng to the seven angels: go your wayes, powze oute your vialles of wrath vpon the earth. And the fyrst angel went and powzed out his viall vpon the earth, and there fel a noysome, and a soze botch vpon the men which had the marke of the beast and vpon them whych worshypped his ymage

And the second angel shed out his vial vpon the sea, and it turned as it wer into the bloud of a dead man: & every lyving thing dyed in the see

B And the thyrde angel shed out his vial vpon the ryuers and fountaynes of waters, & thei turned bloude. And I hearde an angell say: Lozbe, whych arte and wast, thou arte righteous and holpe, because thou hast geuen such iudgements, for they shed out of the bloude of saynctes, and Prophtes, and therefore haste thou geuen them bloude to dypncke: for they are worthye. And I heard another saye: euen so Lord God al mightie, true and righteous at thy iudgements

And the fourth angel powzed oute his viall on the sunne, and power was geue vnto him to vexe men with heat of fire, and the me raged in great heate, and spake euell of the name of God whiche hath power ouer those plagues, and they repented not of their euell dedes, to geue him glory. And the. v. angel powzed out his vial vpon the seat of the beast, and hys kyngdome waxed darke, and thei gawe thei tonges for sorowe and blasphemed the god of heuē for sorow and pain of their sozes, & repented not of their dedes

C And the. vi. angel powzed out his vial vpon the great riuer Euphrates, and the water dried vp, that the wayes of the kinges of the east shuld be prepared. And I sawe ther vncleane spytes like froges com out of the mouth of the dragon and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet. For thei are the spytes of deuils workyng myracles to go out vnto the kynges of the earths of the whole world to gather them to the battayl of that great day

D And the. vii. angel powzed out hys vial into the ayre. And ther came a grete voyce out of heuen frome the seat, sayng: it is done. And there folowed voyces, thondrynges, and lyghtnynges and ther was a great earthquake, such as was not sence men were vpon the earth, so myghtye an earthquake, and so great. And the great cytee was deuided into thre partes, and the cities of all nacions fel. And great Babbilon came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto her the cuppe of the wine of the fearfulness of his wrath. Every yle also fled away, and the mountaines were not found. And ther fel a great haille (as it had bene talentes) out of heauen vpon the men & the me blasphemed God: because of the plague of the hayle, for it was grete, & the plague of it, soze.

The. xvii. Chapter.

He describeth the woman sittyng vpon the beast wyth ten hornes

And ther came one of the angels whych had the seven vialles: and talked with me, sayng vnto me: come, I wyll shew vnto the, the iudgement of the great whoze that sitteth vpon many waters, wyth whom haue comytted fornicacyon the kinges of the earth, and the inhabyters of the earth, are dronke wyth the wyne of her fornicacyon. And the spyte carped me a waye into the wyldernes. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a roole colozed beast, full of names of blasphemy, whych had seven heades and ten hornes. And the woman was araied in purple and roole colour, and decked wyth golde, pzyous stone, and pearles, and had a cuppe of golde in her hand, ful of abhomynacions, and filthyness of her fornicacion. And in her forehead was a name wyrtten, a mystry, great Babilon the mother of whoredome and abhomynacions of the earth. And I sawe the woman dronken wyth the bloude of saynctes, and wyth the bloude of the wytnesses of Iesu. And when I sawe her I wondzed wyth a grete maruayle.

And the angel sayed vnto me: wherfore maruelest thou? I wyll shewe the the mystrye of the woman, and of the beast that beareth her, whych hath seven heades and ten hornes. The beast that thou seest, was, and is not, and shall ascende oute of the botomeles pyt, and shall go into perdytyon, and they shal dwell on the earth shal wonder (whose names are not wyrtten in the booke of lyfe from the begynnyng of the world) whē they behold the beast that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath wysedome.

The seven heades are seven mountaynes, on which the woman sitteth, thei are also seven kinges. fyue are fallen, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he cometh, he muste contynue a short space. And the beast that was and is not is euen the eyghte, and is one of the seven, and shall go into destruccyon. And the. x. hornes whych thou sawest are tenne kinges, whych haue receyued no kyngdome as yet, but shal receue power as kynges at one hour with the beast. These haue one mynde, and shal geue thei power and strength vnto the beast. These shal fyght wyth the lambe, and the lambe shal ouercome them. For he is Lord of Lordes, and kyng of kynges, and they that are one hys side are called, and chosen, and saythful. And he sayed vnto me: the waters whych thou sawest, wher the whoze sitteth, are people and flocke, and nacions, and tonges. And the ten hornes, whych thou sawest vpon the beaste, are they that shal hate the whoze, and shal make her desolate and naked, and shal cate her fleshe, and burne her wyth fyre.

The. viii. Chapter.

The louers of the worlde are sorre for the fall of Babylon, but they that be of God haue cause to reioyce for her destruction.

And after that, I sawe another Angell come fro heauen, hauing great power, and the earth was lychtened with his byghthe. And he cryed myghtelv w a stronge voyce, sayng: * Greate Babylon is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitacon of dyuels, and the holde of all foule spretes, and a cage of al vncleane and hateful byddes, for all nacyns haue dronken of þe wyne of the wyath of her fornicacyon. And the kynges of the earthe haue comytted fornicacyon wyth her, and the marchautes of the earth are wexed ryche of þe aboundaunce of her pleasures.

And I hearde another voyce from heauen saye, come a waye frome her my people, that ye be not pertakers of her synnes, and þe ye receyue not of her plages. For her synnes are gone vp to heauen, and God hath remembred her wpykednes. Reward her euen as she rewarded you and geue her double accozdyng to her workes. And pour in double to her in þe same cup which she fylled vnto you. And as much as she glorified her selfe & lyueth wantonly, somuch powze ye in: for her punishment & sorowe, for she sayd in her selfe: * I syt beyng a quene, and am no wydowe, and shall se no sorowe. Therefore shall her plages come in one day, death, and sorowe, and hunger, & she shall be bzent with fyre: for stronge is the Lorde God whych she shall iudge her. And the kynges of the earth shall bewepe her & wail her, whiche haue comytted fornicacyon w her and haue lyued wantonly wyth her, when they shall se the smoke of her burnyng, & shall stande a farre of, for feare of her punishment, sayng

* Alas Alas, that greate ctye Babylon, that myghty ctye: for at one houre is thy Judgemēt come. And þe marchautes of þe earth shall wepe and waille in them selues, for no man wyll bye theyr ware any moze, the ware of golde and syluer, and pzeuous stones, nether of pearle, & raires, and purple, and scarlet, and all thyne wode and all maner vessels of puerp, & all maner vessels of most pzeuous wode, & of brasse, and yron, & of synamon, and odours, and opntemētes, and frankensence, and wyne, & oyle: and fyne flour, and wheat, beastes, and shepe, & horses and charets, and bodyes, and soules of men.

And the apples þe soule lusteth after, are departed from the. And all thynges which were depynte: and had in pzece, are departed from the and thou shalt fynde them nomoze. The marchautes of these thynges whych were wexed ryche, shall stande a farre of from her, for feare of the punishment of her, weapyng and waylyng and sayng.

* Alas, Alas, that greate ctye: þe was clothed in raynes and purple, and scarlette, and decked with golde, and pzeuous stones, and pearles: for at .i. hour so great ryches be come to naught.

And every wypp governour, and all they that occupied wyppes, and wyppmen whiche worke in the see, stode a farre of, and cryed, when they sawe the smoke of her burnyng, sayng: what ctye is lyke vnto this greate ctye: and they caste duste on theyr heades, and cryed wepyng and waylyng & sayde: * Alas, Alas, that greate ctye, wherin were made ryche al that had wyppes in the see, by the reason of her costynes, for at one houre is she made desolate. Reioyce ouer her thou heauen, and ye holy Apostels and Prophetes: for God hath geuen your Judgemente on her. And a myghtye angell toke vp a stone lyke a great mylstone, & caste it into the see, sayng: wyth suche vyolence shall that greate ctye Babylon be caste, and shall be founde nomoze.

And the voyce of harpers, & musycions, and of wyppers, and trompeters shall be herde nomoze in the: and no crafterman, of whatsoeuer crafter he be shall be found eny moze in the. And þe sound of a myll shall be herde nomoze in the, & the sound of the bydegrome and of the byde, shall be herde nomoze in the, for thy marchautes were þe greate men of the earthe. And wyth thyne inchauntement wer deceiued all nacyns: and in her was founde the bloude of the Prophetes, and of the sayntes, and of all þe wer slayn vpon the earth.

The. xix. Chapter.

Prayse is geuen vnto God for iudgyng the wydowe, and for auengyng the bloude of his seruantes. The angell wyll not be wyllyng. The foules and byddes are called to the slaughter.

And after that I herd a greate voyce of much people in heauen sayng: Alleluya. Saluacyon, & gloze, and honour, and power be ascribed to þe Lorde our God, for trewe and ryghteous are his iudgements, for he hath iudged the great wydowe whiche dyd corrupte the earthe w her fornicacyon, and hath auenged the bloude of his seruantes of her hande. And agayne they sayde: Alleluya. And smoke rose vp for euermore. And the .xxiii. elders, and the .iiii. beastes fell doune & wozshypped God & late on the seate, sayng: Amen, Alleluya. And a voyce came out of the seate sayng: prayse our Lord God, all ye that are his seruantes and ye that feare hym both small and greate.

And I herd the voyce of much people euen as the voyce of many waters, and as the voyce of stronge thundrynges sayng: Alleluya, for the Lord our God omnipotent raigneth. Let vs be glad and reioyce, & geue honour to hym, for the maryage of the lambe is come, and hys wyfe made her selfe ready. And to her was graunted that she shulde be arayed with pure and goodly raynes. For the raynes is the ryghtewesnes of sayntes. And he sayd vnto me, wyte, happy are they whych are called vnto the supper of þe lambes maryage: And he sayde vnto me: these are þe true sayntes of God. And I fel at his fete to wozshypp hym. and on hys heade were manye crownes, and he had a name wyrtte, that no man knewe but he hym self. * And he was clothed wth a vesture dypte in bloude, & his name is called the worde of God. And the warryars whiche were in heauen, folowed hym vpon whyte horses, clothed wth whyte and pure raynes, and oute of hys mouth went a sharpe swordged swerde that w it he shulde smyte the heathen. And he shall rule them with a rod of yron, and he trode the wyne fat of fearlnes & wrath of almyghty God.

Esay. llii. c.

And hath on his vesture and on hys thygh a name wyrtten: Kyng of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes. And I sawe an aungel stand in y sunne and he cryed wth a loude voyce, sayng: to all the foules that flye by the myddes of heauen: come and gather your selues together vnto the supper of the great God, that ye may eate flesh of kynges, and the fleshe of the hye captaynes, and the fleshe of myghty men, and the fleshe of horses, and of them that syt on them, & the fleshe of all free men and bonde men and of small and greate. And I sawe the beaste, and the kynges of the earth, and theyr warrlers gathered together to make batel against hym y sat on y horse and agaynst his souldyars. And y beast was taken, & w hym y false prophete y wrought myra-cles befoze hym, wth whiche he deceyued them that receyued the beastes marke, and them that worshypped hys ymage. These both were cast quycke into a pond of fyre burnyng wth bym stone: and the remnaunte were slayne wth the swearde of hym that sat vpon the horse, which swearde proceeded out of his mouth, and all the foules were fulfylled wth theyr fleshe.

The. xx. Chapter.

The dragon is bounde for a. vii. yeres. The deade aryse, and receyue iudgemente.

And I sawe an aungel come downe fro heauen, haupng the keye of y bottomlesse pyt, and a great chayn in his hand And he take the dragon y olde serpent which is the deuyl and Satan, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: & cast hym into a bottomlesse pyt and he shut hym vp, and set a seale on hym that he shuld deceyue the people nomoze, tyll y thousand yeres wer fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed for a lytle season. And I sawe seates, and they sat vpon them, & iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe the soules of the that wrre beheaded for the wytnes of Iesu, & for the worde of God: & whiche had not worshypped the beaste nether hys ymage nether had taken his marke vpon theyr forhedes, or in theyr handes: and they lyued, & raygned wth Chyrist
a. vii. yere: but the other of the deade men lyued not agayne, vntyll the thousande yere were fynished: This is that fyrste resurrectyon. Blessed & holy is he, that hath parte in the fyrste resurrectyon. For on suche shall the seconde death haue no power, but they shalbe the Priestes of God and of Chyrist, and shal raygne wth hym a thousande yere. * And when the. vii. yeres are expyred, Satan shalbe lowled oute of hys pylson, and shall goo oute to dysceyue the people, whiche are in the foure quarters of y earth Gog and Magog, to gather theim together to battell, whose nombze is as the sande of the see and they went in the playne of the earth: & com-passed the tentes of the sayntes about, and the beloued cytye. And fyre came doune from God out of heauen, & deuoured them: & the deuyl y dis-ceyued them, was cast into a lake of fyre & bym stone, wher the beaste & the false prophetes shal be tormented daye and nyght for euermoze.

And I sawe a great whyte seate, & hym y sat on it, from whose face fled away both the earth and heauen and theyr place was nomoze found And I sawe the dead, both great & small stand befoze God. And the boke was opened, and another boke was opened, whiche is the boke of lyfe, and the deade wer iudged of thole thynges whyche were wyrtten in the boke accordyng to theyr dedes, & the see gaue vp the dead which wer in her, and death, and hell deliuered vp the dead, whyche were in them: and they were iudged euerye man accordyng to hys dedes. And death and hell were caste into the lake of fyre.
This is the seconde death. And whosoever was not found wyrtten in the boke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The. xxi. Chapter.

In this chapter is described the newe and spiritual Ierusal.

And I sawe a newe heauen & a newe earth. For the fyrst heauen: and the fyrst earth were vanyshed awaye, and ther was nomoze see. * And I John sawe the holy cytie, newe Jerusale come doune from God out of heauen prepared as a byrde garnysed for her husbnde.
And I hearde a greate voyce out of heauen saiyng, beholde the tabernacle of God is wthyme and he wyll dwell wth them. And they shalbe his people, and God hymself shalbe wth them and be theyr God. * And God shall wypte awaye all teares from theyr eyes.

And ther shalbe nomoze death, ne ther sorow nether cryng, ne ther walth ther be eny moze pain, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that late vpon y seate, sayde: * Beholde, I make al thin-ges newe. * And he sayde vnto me: wypte, for these wordes are saythfull and true.

And he sayd vnto me: it is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng & the ende I wyll geue to hym that is a thyriste, of the well of the water of lyfe, free. He y ouercommeth shal enheret all thynges, and I wyll be hys God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbe-leuyng, and y abhomynable, and murderers, and whoymongers, & sorcerers, and ydolaters, and all yers shal haue theyr parte in the lake, which burneth wth fyre and bymstone, which is the seconde death.

And there came vnto me one of þe seven anngels which had the seven vyalles full of the seuen laste plagues: and talked wyth me saynge, come hyther, I wyll shewe the the byrde, the lambes wyfe. And he carped me awaye in the spere to a great and an hye mountayne, and he shewed me the great cytie holy Ierusalem, descendynge out of heauen from God: hauing the byrghnes of God. And her byrghnyng was lyke vnto a stone most precyous, euen lyke a Iasper cleare as Crystall: and had walles greate and hye, and had. xii. gates and at the gates. xii. angels: and names wyrtten, which are the names of þe xii. trybes of Israel: on the East parte. iii. gates, and on the Northpart. iii. gates, and to-wardes þe South. iii. gates, and from þe west. iii. gates, & the wal of þe cytie had. xii. foundacions: & in the the. xii. names of þe lambes. xii. Apostles.

And he that talked with me, had a golde rede to measure the cytie withall and þe gates therof and þe wall therof. And the cytie was buylt. iiii. square, and þe length was as large as þe bredth, and he measured the cytye with the. golden rede xii. furlonges, and þe length and the bredth, and the heygth of it, were equall. And he measured the wal therof: an. Cxliiii. cubytes: the measure þe Aungell had, was after the measure that man vseth. And the buyldyng, of þe wall of it was Iasper. And the cytie was pure golde: lyke vnto clere glasse, and the foundacions of the walle of the cytie were garnysed wyth all maner of precyous stones. The fyrst foundacion was Iaspis, the seconde Saphyre, the thyrde a Calcedony, the fourth an Emeralde, the fyfte Sardonix, the syxt Sardoos, the seuenth Chry-solyte, the eyghte Berall, the. ix. a Tomas, the tenth a Crisolopzalos, the eleueth a Jacynthe, the twelue an Amatyst. The twelue gates were twelue pearles, euerye gate was of one pearle, and the strete of þe cytie was pure golde as tho-rowe byrghnyng glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the Lorde God almyghty and the lambe are the temple of it. * And the cytie hath no nede of the sunne, nether of the mone to lygh-ten it. For the byrghnes of God dyd lyghte it, and the lambe was the lyght of it. And the people whiche are saued shall walke in the lyght of it. And the kynge of þe earth shall byrghne theyr gloze. (And honoure) vnto it. * And the gates of it are not shutte by daye. For there shall be no nyght there. (and into it shall they byrghne the gloze and ho-noure of the nacyns.) And there shall entre into it: none vncleane thyng, nether what soeuer wo-keth abhominacyon or maketh lyes: but they onelye whiche are wyrtten in the lambes boke of lyfe.

The xxii Chapter.

The ryuer of the water of lyfe, the frutesfulnes and lyghte of the cytie of God. The Lorde geueth euery his seruauntes warnyng of thynges to come the angel wyll not be woorthyped. To the worde of God may nothyng be added, nor intyphed.

And he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, cleare as Crystall: procedynge oute of the seate of God, and the lambe.
In the myddes of the strete of it, & of ether syde at the ryuer, was ther wode of lyfe: which bare twelue maner of frutes: and gaue frute euerye monethe: and the leues of the woode serued to heale the people wythall. And there shall be no-more curse, but the seate of God and the lambe shall be in it: and his seruauntes shall serue hym.

And they shall se his face, and bys name shall be in theyr forheddes. * And there shall be no night there, and they nede no candle, nether lyghte of the sunne: for the Lorde God geueth them lyght and they shall raygne for evermore.

And he sayde vnto me: these saynges are saythful and true. And the Lorde God of þe ho-lye Propheces sent bys Aungell to shewe vnto his seruauntes, the thynges which must shortly be fulfilled. Beholde, I come shortly. * Hap þe þe kepeth the saying of the prophece of this boke. I am Iohn, whiche sawe these thynges and herd the. And when I had herde & sene
* I fell downe to woorthyp befoze the seate of the aungell, which shewed me these thynges. And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy fe-lowe, seruaunt of thy brethren the Propheces, & of them which kepe þe saynges of (the prophece of) this boke. But woorthyp God.

And he sayd vnto me: seale not the saynges of the prophece of this boke. For the time is at hande. He that doeth euell, let hym do euell styl and he which is fylthy, let hym be fylthy styl: & he þe is ryghteous, let hym be more ryghteous, and he that is holy, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come shortly, and my rewarde is w me, to geue euery man accordyng as bys dedes shall be. I am Alpha & Omega, the begynnyng and the ende: the fyrst and the laste. Blessed are they that do his comaundemetes, that theyr power maye be in the tree of lyfe, and maye entre in thowowe the gates into the cytie. * For without shall be dogges and inchauntes, and whor mongers, and murderers, and ydolaters and whosoever loueth or maketh leasynge.

I Iesus sent myne aungell, to testifye vnto you these thynges in the congregacions. I am the roote and the generacyon of Dauid, and the byrghne moornyng starre. And the spere and the byrde saye: come. And let hym that heareth, say also come. * And let hym that is a thyrst: come And let whosoever wyl, take of þe water of lyfe fre. I testifye vnto euery man that heareth the wordes of the prophece of this boke: * yf any man shall adde vnto these thynges, God shall adde vnto hym þe plagues that are wyrtte in this boke. And yf any man shall minyche of the wodes of the boke of this prophece, God shall take awaye bys parte oute of the boke of lyfe, & out of the holy cytie, and from the thynges whiche are wyrtten in this boke. He whiche testify-eth these thynges sayth: be it. I come quye-kely. Amen. Euen so come Lorde Iesu.

The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be with you all. Amen.

E The yere hath. xii. monethes. lii. weekes, and one daye:
And it hath in all, the hundred and lxi. dayes and fyve houres.

A Prologue or p̄face made by the moost reuerende father in God, Thomas Archbyschop of Cantorbury Metropolitan and primate of Englande.

Of two sondre sortes of peo ple, it semeth moche necessarie þ̄ some thyng be sayde in the entree of this booke by the waye of a p̄face or prologue, wherby hereafter, it maye be both þ̄ better accepted of them which hitherto coulde not well beare it: and also the better v̄sed of them, which heretofore haue mysused it. For truly some there are that be to slowe, and nede the spurre: some other seme to quicke, and nede more of the bypdeil. Some loose theyr game by shorte shopyng, some by ouer shopyng. Some walke to moch on the lefte hande, some to muche on the ryghte. In the former sorte be all they that refuse to reade, or to heare redde the scripture in the vulgare tonge, moche worse they that also let or discourage the other from the reacyng or hearyng thereof. In the latter sorte be they, whiche by theyr inordynate reacyng, vnderstete speakyng, contentyous, disputyng, or otherwyle, by theyr licencious luyng, flaunder and bynder the worde of God, mooste of all other, wherof they wolde seme to be greatest furtherers. These two sortes albeith they be most far vylke the one to the other, yet they both deserue in effect lyke reproche. Neyther can I well tell whither of them I maye iudge the more offender, him that doth obstynately refuse so godly & goodly knowledge: or hym that so vngodly & so vngoodly doth abuse the same. And as touchyng the former, I wolde maruayle muche þ̄ any man shulde be so mad, as to refuse in darkenes, lyght: in honger, foode: in colde, fyre: for the word of God is lyght.  Lucerna pedibus meis, verbum tuum. IODE, Non in solo pane uiuit homo, sed in omni uerbo dei.*

Iper, Iguem ueni mittere in terram et quid uolo nisi ut ardeat? I wolde meruayle (I saye at this) sawe that I consyder howe muche custome and v̄sage maye doo. So that yf there were a people as some wyte, de Cymariis, whiche neuer sawe the Sunne, by reason that they be sytuated farre towarde the North poole, and be enclosed and ouershadowed wth hye mountaynes: it is credyble and lyke ynough, that yf by the power and wyll of God, the mountaynes shoulde synke downe and geue place, that the lyghte of the Sunne myght haue entraunce to them: at the fyrste, some of them wolde be offended therewith. And the olde p̄ouerbe affermeth, that after tyllage of cozne was fyrste founde: many delpted more to fynde of malte and acornes, wherwith they had bene accustomed, then to eate bread made of good cozne. Suche is the nature of custome, that it causeth vs to beare all thynges well and easelye, wherewith we haue bene accustomed, and to be offended with all thynges there vnto contrary. And therfore, I can well thynke them worthy pardon, whiche at the comynge abrode of scripture doutted and drew backe. But suche as wyll persyste still in theyr wyllfulnesse, I must nedes iudge not onely foolyshe, frowarde and obstinate: but also peupyshe, peruerse and indurate. And yet, yf the matter shulde be tryed by custome, we myght also allege custome for the reacyng of the scripture in the vulgare tonge, and p̄scribe the more auntyent custome. For it is not muche aboue one hundred yere ago, sence scripture hath not bene accustomed to be redde in the vulgare tonge within this realme, and many hundred yeres before that, it was translated and redde in the Saxones tonge, whych at that tyme was oure mothers tonge, wherof there remaine yet dyuerse coppes founde lately in olde abbeyes, of such antique maners of wytyng and speakyng, that fewe men now ben able to reade and vnderstand the. And when this langage wared olde and out of comen v̄sage, bycause folke shulde not lacke the frute of reacyng, it was agayne translated into þ̄ newer langage. Wherof yet also many coppes remaine and be dayly founde. But nowe to let passe custome, & to weye as wyse men euer shulde, the thyng in his owne nature. Let vs here discusse, what it auayleth scripture to be had and redde of the laie and vulgare people: And for this questyon I entend here to saye nothyng: but that was spoken and wyrtten by the noble doctoure and moost morall diuynne sapiente John Chrysostome, in his thyrde sermon de Lazaro, albeith, I wyll be some thyng shorter, and gather the matter into fewe wordes and lesse roume the he doth there: because I wolde not be teduous. He exhorteth there his audyence, that euerye man shulde reade by hym selfe at home in the meane dayes and tyme, betwene sermon and sermon: to the entente they myght both more profoundly fyre in theyr myndes and memoires that he had sayd be fore vpon suche textes, wherupon he had already preached and also that they myght haue theyr myndes the more reade and better prepared to receyue and parteyue that whiche he shulde saye from thensforth in his sermones, vpon suche textes, as he had not yet declared & preached vpon: therfore sayeth he there: My comen vsage is to geue you warnynge before, what matter I intende after to entreate vpon, that you pour selues in the meane dayes may take the booke in hande, reade, wepe and perceyue the summe and effecte of the matter: and marke what hath bene declared, and what remaineth yet to be declared: so that therby your mynde maye be the moze furnyshed, to heare the rest, that shalbe sayde. And that I exhortte you (sayth he) and euer haue, & wyl exhortte you, that you (not only here in church) geue eare to that, that is sayde by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in your houses, ye applye your selues frome tyme to tyme to the reaydng of holpe scryptures: whyche thyng also I trauer lynne to beate into the eares of them that be my samplers, and wryth whome I haue pryuate acquayntaunce and conuersacyon. Let no man make excule and saye: (sayth he) I am busyed aboute matters of the comen welth, I beare this offyce or that, I am a craftesman, I muste applye myne occupacyon, I haue a wyfe, my chyldren muste be fedde, my household muste I prouyde for. Briefly I am a man of the worlde, it is not for me to reade & scryptures, that belongeth to them & haue bydden the worlde fare wel: which lyue in solitarynes and contemplacyon, and haue bene brought vp, and continually nospilled in learninge & religyon. To this answerynge: what sayest thou man (sayeth he) is it not for the to studie and to reade the scrypture: because thou arte encombred & dysctracte with cares and busynesse? So moch the moze it is behouefull for the to haue defence of scryptures: howe moch thou art the moze dysstressed in worldly daungers. They that bene fre and farre from trouble and extremityng of worldely thynges, lyue in sauegarde and tranquyltpe, and in the calme or within a sure haven. Thou arte in the myddest of the see of worldely wyckednesse, and therfore thou nedest the moze of ghostly succoure and conforste: they lyt farre frome the strokes of battayle, and farre out of gunne shote, and therfore they be but seldome wounded: thou standest in the fore frounte of the hoost, and kyst to thyne enemyes, muste nedes take now and then many strokes, and be greuouly wounded. And therfore thou hast moze nede to haue thy remedees and medecynes at hande. Thy wyfe prouoketh the to anger, thy chyldre geueth the occasyon to take sorow & pensyuenesse, thyne enemyes lye in wayte for the, thy frende (as thou takest hym) somtyme enuyeth the: thy neygbboure mysreporteth & or prycketh quarels agaynst the, thy mate or partener vndermyneyth & thy lord iudge, or iustice threteneth the pouertie is payneful vnto the, the losse of thy deare & welbeloued causeth the to moorne. Dyd speryte exalteth the, aduersyte byngeth the low. Briefly, so dysuerse & so manyfold occasions of cares, tribulacyons & tēptacyons besette the and besege the rounde about. Where canst thou haue armour or fortresse agaynst thine assautes? Where canst thou haue salues for thy sores, but of holy scrypture? Thy flesh must nedes be prone & subiect to fleshy lustes, which dayly walketh & arte conuersant amonge women, seest they be wytes set forth to the eye, hearest they nyle & wanton wordes, smellest their balme, ciuet & muske, with many other lyke prouocacions & stirrings, except thou hast in a redynes wherwith to suppress & auoide them which can not elles where be had, but onely out of the holy scryptures. Let vs reade and seke all remedyes & we can, and all shalbe lytle ynough. Howe shall we then do, yf we suffre and take dayly woundes, & when we haue done, wyl lyt styll and serch for no medecynes? Doest thou not marke, & consyder howe the smyth, mason, or carpenter, or any other handy craftesman, what neade so euer he be in, what other thyng he make, he wyl not sell, nor lape to pledge the toles of his occupacyon, for then howe shuld he worke his feate or get his liuyng therby? Of lyke mynde and affeccion ought we to be towardes holpe scrypture, for as mallets, hammers, sawes, chesylles, axes, and hatchettes be the toles of theyr occupacyon: So be the bookes of the prophetes, and apostels and all holy wrytte inspired by the holy ghoste the instrumentes of our saluacyon. Therfore let vs not stycke to byp and prouyde vs & byble, that is to saye, the bookes of holpe scrypture. And let vs thynke that to be a better Jewell in our house then eyther golde or syluer. For lyke as theues bene lothe to assaute an house, where they knowe to be good armour & artyllary, so where so euer these holpe and ghostly bookes bene occupped, there nether the deuyl, nor none of his aungelles dare come nere. And they that occuppe them bene in moche sauegarde, and haue a greate consolacyon, and bene & readyer vnto all goodnesse, the slower to all euell: and yf they haue done any thyng amysse, anone euen by the syght of the bookes theyr consciences ben admonysed, & they waken sorow and ashamed of the facte. Beraduenture they wyl saye vnto me: howe & yf we vnderstand not that we reade, that is contened in the bookes. What then? Suppose, thou vnderstande not the depe and profounde misteries of scryptures, yet can it not be, but that much frute and holynes must come and growe vnto the by the reaydng: for it cannot be that thou shuldest be ignorant in all thynges a lyke. For the holy ghost hath so ordered and attempted the scryptures, that in them as well publycanes, fyshers, and shepherdes maye fynde theyr edyfycacyon, as greate doctours theyr erudicyon: for those bookes were not made to bayne gloze, lyke as were the wrytinges of the gentle phylosophers and rethoricians, to the entente the makers makers shoulde be had in admiracyon for the pze hys scriples and obscure maner and wyptynge, whercof nothyng can be vnderstande without a master or an expostoure. But the Apostels and prophetes wrote thes bookes so, that they speccall entent and purpose myght be vnderstande and perceaued of euery reader, whiche was nothyng but the edifycacyon of amende-ment of the lyfe of them that readeth or heareth it. Who is it, that redyng or hearyng reade in the gospel. Blessed are they that bene meke. Blessed are they that bene merciful. Blessed are they that be of cleane herte: & suche other lyke places, can perceiue nothyng excepte he haue a master to teache hym what it meaneth: Lykewyse, the sygnes and myracles with all other histories of the doynges of Chyste or his Apostels, who is there, of so symple wpt, and capacytie, but he maye be able to perceiue and vnderstande them: These be but excuses and cloyes for the rayne, and keueringes of theyr owne ydell slouthfulnes: I can not vnderstand it. What maruaile? Howe shuldest thou vnderstande, yf thou wylt not reade, nor loke vpon it: take the bookes into thyne handes, reade the hole story, and that thou vnderstandest kepe it well in memoire: that thou vnderstandest not, reade it agayne, & agayne: yf thou can ne-ther so come by it, counsaile wpth some other that is better learned. Go to thy curate and preacher, shewe thy selfe to be desyrous to knowe and learne. And I doubt not but God seying wth diligence and redynesse (yf no man elles teache þ) wyl hym selfe vouchsaue wpth hys holy sperte to illumynate the, and to open vnto the that whiche was locked from the.

Remember the Eunuchof Candace queene of Ethiopie, whiche albeit he was a man of a wyld and barbarous countrie, and one occupied with worldly cares and busynesses, yet redyng in his charet, he was readyng the scripture. Nowe consyder, yf this man passyng in his iorney, was so dilygent as to reade the scripture, what thyngest thou of lyke was he woulde to do syttinge at home? Agayne he that letteth not to reade, albeit he dyd not vnderstande, what dyd he then, rowdest thou: after that when he had learned and had gotten vnderstandyng: For that thou mayst well knowe that he vnderstode not what he reade: herken what Philyp there sayeth vnto hym. Vnderstandest thou what thou reade? And he nothyng ashamed to confesse hys ignorance, answereth: Howe shulde I vnderstande hauyng no body to shewe me the waye: Lo when he lacked one to shewe hym the waye and to expounde to hym the scriptures, yet dyd he reade: & therfore God the rather prouided for hym a guyde of the waye that taughte hym to vnderstande it. God perceiued hys willpunge and towarde mynde: and therfore he sent hym a teacher by & by. Therfore let no man be neglygent about hys owne health and saluacyon: though he thou haue not Philyppe alwayes when thou woldest, the holy ghost, whiche then moued and styred vp Philyp, wyl be ready and not fayle the yf thou do thy dilygence accordyngly: All thes thynges ben wyrtten vnto vs for our edifica- cyon and amendenient, whiche be bozne towardes the latter ende of the worlde. The reading of scriptures is a greate & stronge bulwarke or fortreasse agaynst synne: the ignorance of þ same is the greater cunne and destruccyon of them that wyl not knowe it. That is the thyng that byngeth in heresye, that is it, that causeth all corrupte and peruerse luyng: yf is it, that byngeth all thynges out of good order. Hytherto all that I haue sayde I haue taken and ga-thered out of the foresayde sermon of this holy doctoure saynte John Chrysostome. Nowe yf I shoulde in lyke maner bynge furth, what the selfe same Doctoure speaketh in other places and what other doctours and wyrters saye, concernyng the same purpose, I myght seme to pou to wyte another Byble, rather then to make a preface to the Byble. Therfore in fewe wordes to comprehend the largenesse & vtilyte of the scripture, howe it contyneth fruteful instructyon and erudicyon for euery man, yf any thyng be necessarye to be learned: of the ho-ly scripture we maye learne it. Yf falsheed shall be reproued, thereof we maye gather wher- withall. Yf any thyng be to be corrected and amended, yf there nede any exhortacyon or con- solacyon of the scripture we maye well learne. In the scriptures be the fatte pastures of the soule, therein is no denyngmeate, no vnholysome thyng, they be the very dayntye & pure fedpyng. He that is ignoraunte, shall fynde there what he shoulde learne. He that is a per-uerse synner, shall there fynde his damnacyon to make hym to tremble for feare. He that la- boureth to serue God shall fynde there his gloire, and the promissyons of eternal lyfe, exhor-tyng hym more dilygently to labour. Herein maye prynces learne how to gouerne theyr sub-iectes. Subiectes obediēce, lone and drede to theyr prynces. Husbendes, howe they shoulde be- haue them vnto theyr wyues: how to educate theyr chyldren & seruautes. And contrary the wyues, chyldren, & seruautes maye knowe theyr dute, to theyr husbendes, parentes, & ma-sters. Here maye all maner of persons, men, women, yonge, olde, learned, vnlearned, ryche poore, prestes, laymen, lordes, ladyes, offycers, tenautes, and meane men, virgyns, wyues, wydowes, lawers, marchautes, artifcers, husbandomen, & all maner of persones of what estate or condicyon so euer they be, maye in this booke learne all thynges what they oughte to beleue, what they ought to do, and what they shoulde not do, aswell concernyng almyghtye

God is also cōcernyng them selues & all other. Briefly to the readyng of the scripture none can be enemye, but that epyther be so speke, that they loue not to heare of any medecyne: or els that be so ignoraunt, that they knowe not scripture to be the moost helthful medecyne. Therfore as touchyng this former parte, I wyl here conclude and take it as a conclusion: sufficiently determyne and appoynte, that it is conuenient and good, the scripture to be red of all sortes and kyndes of people and in the vulgar tonge wythout further allegations or probations for the same, whyche shall not nede, syns that this one place of Ihon Chrysostome is ynough & sufficient to perswade al them that be not frowardly & peruerfly set in theyr owne wylfull opinion, specially now that the kynges hyghnes be ynge supreme heade next vnder Chryste, of this church of Englande hath approued wyth his royal assent the setting forth hereof, whiche onely to all true and obedient subiectes ought to be a sufficient reason, for the allowance of the same, without farther delaye, reclamacion, or resystaunce, although there were no preface nor other reason here in expessed. Therfore now to come to the seconde and latter parte of my purpose, here is nothyng so good in this worlde but it may be abused, and turned from frutefull and holsome, to hurtfull and noysome. What is there aboue, better then the sunne, the moone, the starres? Yet was there that toke occasion by y great beawtye and vertue of them to dishonoure God, and to defyle them selves with ydolatrie, geuyng the honoure of the lyuynge God and creatoure of all thynges, to such thynges as he had created.

What is there here beneth, better than fyre, water, meates, drinkes, metalles of golde, syluer, yron and stile? Yet we se dayly great harme and muche myschefe, done by every one of these, as well for lacke of wysedome & prouidence of them that suffer euill, as by the malice of them that worketh the euill. Thus to them that be euill of them selues every thyng setteth forwarde and increaseth theyr euill, be it of his owne nature a thyng neuer so good lyke as contrarily, to them that studieth and endeuoreth them selues to goodnes, every thyng preuayleth them, and proufyeth vnto good: be it of his owne nature a thyng neuer so bad.
As saynct Paule sayd. His qui diligunt deum, omnia cooperantur in bonum, euen as out of most venymouse wormes is made triacle, the moost soueraygne medecyne for the preseruacion of mans helth in tyme of daunger.

Wherfore I wolde aduise you all, that come to the readyng of hearyng of this booke, whiche is the worde of God, the mooste precious Juell, and moost holy relyque, that remaineth vpon earth, that ye byyng wyth you the feare of God, and that ye do it wyth all due reuerence, and vse your knowlege therof, not to bayneglozy of triuolouse disputation: but to the honour of God, encrease of vertue, and edificacion both of your selues and other. And to the entente that my wordes maye be the moze regarded, I wyl vse in this parte the auctoryte of saynct Gregorie Nazianzene, lyke as in the other I dyd of S.
Ihon Chrysostome. It appeareth that in his tyme there were some (as I feare me, there bene also now at these dayes a greate nombze) whiche were ydel bablers, and talkers of the scripture out of reason, & al good order, and wythout any increase of vertue, or example of good lyuynge: to them he wyrteth al his fyrst booke, de theologia. Wherfore I shall briefly gather the hole effecte, and recyte it here vnto you. There ben some (sayeth he) whose not onely eares and tonges, but also theyr fyftes ben whetted and ready bent all to contention & vnprofi-table disputation, whom I wolde wyshe as they ben vehement & earnest to reason the matter with tonge: so they were also redy and practyse to do good dedes. But for asmoche as they subuertynge the order of all godlynesse, haue respecte onely to this thyng, howe they maye bynde and lose subtile questions, so that now every market place, every alehouse & tauerne every feasthouse: briefly every companye of men, every assemblye of women is fylled with suche talke. Whens the matter is so (sayth he) and that our sayth and holy relygyon of Chryst begynneth to waxe nothyng els, but as it were a sophistrye or a talkynge crafte, I can no lesse do but saye some thyng ther vnto. It is not fyte (sayth he) for every man to dispute the hygh questions of diuinite, nether is it to be done at all tymes: nether in every audience must we discusse every doubte, but we must knowe whan, to whom, & howe farre we ought to enter into suche matters. If yste it is not for every man: but it is for suche as be of exacte & exquisite iudgementes, and suche as haue spent theyr tyme befoze in study and contemplayon and suche as befoze haue clensted themselves as well in soule, as bodye: or at the leaste, ende-uored them selves to be made cleane. For it is daungerous (sayeth he) for the vncleane to touche that thyng, that is mooste cleane: lyke as the sore eye taketh harme by lokyng vpon the sunne. Secundarelye, not at all tymes, but whan we be reposed, and at reste from all outwarde dregges and trouble, and when that our headdes ben not encombred with other worldelye and wanderynge ymaginations: as yf a man shulde myngle balme and dyte together. For he that shal iudge and determyne suche matters and doubtes of scriptures, must take his tyme, when he maye applye his wyttes thereunto, that he maye thereby the better se, and dyscerne what is trueth.

Thyrdly

To the reader.

Thyrdly where, and in what audience. There and amonge those that bene studious to learne: and not amonge such as haue pleasure to trespasse with such matters, as wyth other thynges of pastyme, which repute for theyr chiefe delicacies, the disputation of hygh questions, to shewe theyr wyttes, lernynge and eloquence in reasonyng of hygh matters. Fourthly, it is to be consydered how farre to wade in such matters of difficultie. No further (sayth he) but as every mans owne capacitye wyl serue hym: and agayne no further the the weaknesse or intelligence of the other audience maye beare. For lyke as to great noyse hurteth the eare, to much meate hurteth the mannes body, heauy burthens hurte the bearers of them, to much rayne doth moze hurte then good to the ground: bryefely, in all thynges to much is noyous: euen so weake wittes and weake consciences maye sone be oppressed with ouer hard questions. I saye not this to dissuade men from the knowledge of God, & readyng or studyng of the scripture. For I saye: & it is as necessary for the lyfe of mans soule, as for the body to breath. And yf it were possible so to lyue, I wold thynke it good for a mā to spend all his lyfe in that, & to do none other thyng. I commend the lawe which byddeth to medytate and study the scriptures alwayes, both night and daye: and sermons and preachynges to be made both moynyng, noone and euentide. And God to be lauded and blessed in all tymes, to bedwarde, from bed, in our iourneies, and all our other workes: I forbidd not to reade, but I forbidd to reason. Neyther forbidd I to reason so farre as is good and godlye. But I allowe not that is done out of season, and out of measure and good ordre. A mā maye eat to much of honye be it neuer so swete, & there is tyme for every thyng, and that thyng that is good is not good, yf it be vngodly done. Euen as a floure in wynter is out of season, and as a womans apparel becommeth not a mā: neyther contraryly, the mans the womā, neyther is weppynge conuenient at a bydale: neyther laughynge at a buriall. Howe yf we can obserue and kepe that is comely and tymely, in all other thynges, shall not we the rather do the same in the holy scriptures? Let vs not runne forth as it were wylde horses, that can suffre neyther bydle in their mouthes, nor sytter on theyr backes. Let vs kepe vs in our boundes, and neyther let vs go to farre on thone syde, lest we retourne into Egypte, neyther to farre ouer the other, lest ye be carped awaye to Babylō. Let vs not synge & songe of our Lorde in a straunge lande, that is to saye: let vs not dispute the worde of God at all aduentures, as well where it is not to be reasoned, as where it is: and as well in the eares of them that be not fyt therfore, as of the that be. Yf we can in no wyse forbear, but that we must nedes dispute, let vs forbear thus much at the leest, to do it out of tyme, and place conuenient: And let vs entreate of those thynges which be holy, holpy: and vpon those thynges that be mysticall, mysticall: and not to vtter the deuyne mysterijs in the eares vnworthy to heare them, but let vs knowe what is comely as well in our sylence and talkyng, as in our garmentes wearyng, in our fedyng, in our gesture, in our goynges, in all our other behauyng. This contention and debate about scriptures and doubtles thereof (specyally why such as pretende to be the fauourers and studentes thereof, cannot agre wythin the selues) doth moost hurte to oure selues, and to the fortheryng of the cause and quarelles that we wolde haue forthered aboue al other thynges. And we in this (sayeth he) be not vnylike to the that beyng mad, set theyr owne houses on fyre, & that slay theyr owne chyldre, or beat their owne parentes. I maruaile much (sayth he) to recount wherof cometh all this despyre of vayne gloze, wherof cometh al thys tongeytche, that we haue so much despyte to talke and clatter. And wherein is our communicatiō: Not in the comendations of vertuous and good dedes of hospitalite, of loue betwene christian brother & brother, of loue betwene mā and wyfe, of virgynyte and chastyte, and of almesse toward the poore. Not in Psalmes and godly songes, not in lamentynge for our synnes, not in repressyng & affectyons of the body, not in prayers to God. We talke of scripture, but in the meane tyme we subdue not our flesch by fastynge, wakyng, & weppynge, we make not this lyfe a meditation of death, we do not stryue to be lordes ouer our appetites & affectyons. We go not about to pul downe our proude and hygh myndes, to abate our fumyshe and rascalous stomackes, to restrayne our lustes and bodely delectations, our vndiscrete sorowes, our lasciuious myrth, our moody nate lokynge, our insatiable hearyng of vanities, our speakyng without measure, our inconuenient thoughtes, & bryefely to reforme our lyfe and maners: but al our holynesse consisteth in talkyng. And we pardon eche other fro al good luyng, so that we may stycke fast togyther in argumentatiō, as though ther were no mo wayes to beuē but thys alone, the waye of speculation and knowledge (as they take it) but in verue dede, it is rather the waye of superfluous contention and sophistication. Hytherto haue I recyted the mynde of Gregorie Nazianzene: in that booke which I spake of before. The same autho: sayth also in an other place, that the learyng of a Christen man ought to begyn of the feare of God to ende in matters of hye speculation: and not contraryly to begynne wyth speculacion, and to and to ende in feare. If or speculation (sayeth he) other hye connyng & knowledge, yf it be not stayed with the bydle of feare to offende God is daungerous, and ynough to tumble a man headlyng downe the hyll. Therfore sayeth he: the feare of God must be the fyrst begynnyng, & as it were an A. B. C. or an introduction to all them y^e shall entre into y^e verye true and moost frutefull knowledge of holy scrpytures. Where as is the feare of God, there is (sayeth he) the keepyng of the comaundementes: and where as is the keepyng of the commaundementes, there is the clensyng of the fleshe: which fleshe is a cloude before the soules eye, and suffereth it not purely to se the beame of y^e heauenly lyght. Where as is the clensyng of the fleshe, there is the illumination of the holy goost, y^e ende of all our desyres and the very lyght wherby the veritie of scrpytures is sene & perceyued. This is the mind and almoost the wordes of Gregorie Nazianzene doctoure of the Greke church, of whome Saynt Jerome sayth: that vnto his tyme, the Latyn church had no wyrtter hable to be compared, and to make an euen match with hym. Therfore to conclude this latter part, every man that commeth to the readynge of this holy booke, ought to byng with hym fyrst and foremost this feare of almyghty God, and then next a fyrme & a stable purpose to reforme his owne selfe accordyng ther vnto, and so to continue, procede and prospere from tyme to tyme, shewyng hym selfe to be a sobre and frutefull hearer and learner: which yf he do, he shall proue at the length well hable to teache, though not with his mouth, yet with his lyuyng and good example; whych is sure the moost lyuely, and effecteous fourme and manner of teachyng. He that otherwyle intermedleth with this booke, let hym be assured, that ones he shall make accompte therfore: when he shall haue sayd to hym as it is wyrtten in the prophete Dauid. Peccatori dicit Deus, etc. Vnto the vngodlye sayde God: why dost thou preache my lawes, and takest my testament in thy mouth? Where as thou hatest to be reformed, and hast ben partaker wyth aduouterers. Thou hast let thy mouth speake wyckednesse, and wyth thy tonge thou hast set forth disceyte. Thou sattest and spakest agaynst thy brother, and hast sclaudered thyne owne mothers sonne. These thynges hast thou done and I helde my tonge, and thou thoughtest (wyckedlye) that I am euen suche a one as thy selfe. But I wyl proue the, and set before the the thynges that thou hast done. Consydre this y^e that forget God, lest I plucke you awaye, and ther be none to deluyer you. Whoso offreth me thanks and prayse, he honoureth me: and to hym that ordreth his conuersacion ryght: wyl I shewe the saluacion of God.
